THE ACORN

OF 1941

Annual Publication of the Student Body of Jefferson High School, Roanoke, Virginia

DEDICATION

*W*ITH pride and affection The Acorn Staff dedicates this the 1941 Annual to one who has helped to make the name of Jefferson known and respected throughout the state, to a teacher who has upheld the high standards of his profession, to a man who is a sportsman in the true sense of the word, to a fine, well-loved gentleman,

A BAD DAY to get planes off. But with guidance from experienced crews, there is little danger, if you do your work well. It's like a team, and the job is to get all the planes in the air quickly and safely.

Your time is almost here. Strong hands wheel your ship into place. The officer on the bridge keeps the ship headed into the wind. The officer of the deck waves you forward and into position. You are guided by the skillful handling crew at the O. D.'s direction. His striped baton points horizontally over the bow. You roar down the deck. There is danger of going over the edge, but there are two long, yellow lines painted on the deck to give you your bearings. You are flying over the water before you know it.

The school is an aircraft carrier. The job is to get the students off, and a certain amount of discipline is required, as is cooperation and teamwork. There are efficient bridge officers to guide the ship and to keep its purposes and aims in view, and experienced officers to direct the taking-off of the planes.

Not all grim science and iron discipline is this business of taking-off from an aircraft carrier. It is something that, like this business of going to school, affords a real thrill after a while.

To the faculty and students of Jefferson who have cooperated so splendidly in making this a successful school year, I am sincerely grateful.

May I offer congratulations to Jefferson's graduates, and my sincere wishes for their happiness in the living of full, useful lives during the important years in which they now enter.

Sincerely,

John D. Pilditch

ALONE! The thrill of solo flight cannot be over-estimated. The flying cadet takes off alone and circles a few times. He is now a flyer, but he is by no means capable of actual duty. The most intensified work is yet to come. On him a good deal of the attention of the training field is turned. He must learn to handle his ship well. He must learn its, and his own, capabilities and limitations. When he has learned to feel absolutely at home in the air, there are many tasks still to be mastered. He has come to be looked upon as a pilot who is not yet the finished product, but who now actually has a future ahead. He is the most significant man at the training field. He is slightly looked up to by those students who have not yet begun their solo work.

The senior is one of the most important men at his training station, too. At times he may think of himself as being pretty good. He sometimes thinks that when he has graduated he will become a finished product, able to utilize his knowledge to meet all sorts of situations. The solo is only beginning for the senior, too. He must assimilate the experience he gained in past years of high school. In other words, he must rise above his past training, for the real learning for actual duty is yet to come.

FLYING AT LAST! The first flight of a student pilot in company with his instructor, is indeed, a thrill. He is allowed to put the plane through simple maneuvers with the instructor ready to take over and help him out. He will not fly alone for a long while yet. He is secure from the threat of danger while his instructor is with him, and yet he is flying!—actually flying! He is not on his own. He will not be severely blamed for his mistakes, for the long road of real instruction lies ahead of him after he has learned to fly by himself.

The high school junior is, perhaps, the most secure, safe, and self-satisfied man in the school. He is quite safe from the threat of impending graduation. The years stretch before him in a happy sequence of activities, athletics, elections, spring concerts, costume plays, and dances—these are the things of which he has just come to be a part. He is really enjoying going to high school. The backbone of the school, on whose zest for participating in a rounded school program depends the fate of many an activity of his school, he likes his flying. On the whole, a happy time and a full program with better hopes for the future are the elements of the Junior Flight.

BEFORE the student pilot is able to fly, it is necessary that he understand the fundamentals of flight, and master fully its technical intricacies. It is in GROUND SCHOOL that he learns these.

In Ground School the student pilot sits in a classroom, more like English or math than like flying school. Here he studies the theory of flight. He also studies the airplane itself. He helps with other student pilots to remove the cowlings and study the motor.

Here he acquires much knowledge which at the time seems quite pointless and unnecessary. He is made to do things which are for his own and others' safety; but sometimes he does not realize their value.

The Jefferson student in his initial year, the sophomore year, feels, at times, much the same way. "Why learn that? Why that way? We want to fly." The spirit of dangerous adventure, the desire to try the interesting and thrilling, creates in us all an impatience in the fundamental work which we find so necessary later. The high school sophomore learns groundwork. He learns how to go to high school and, like the student aviator, he enjoys it. Enjoy it we must, and enjoy it we do, but we do not lose sight of the fact that it is groundwork, and will be of greater value than we sometimes realize.

THREE short-winged combat planes rush to the attack in a concise and beautiful formation, which, in spite of its artistic effect and thrilling appearance, is, indeed, very functional and practical. In any military organization there is an advantage in each unit's having its place.

Formations in training are extremely important. They teach the student pilot many invaluable things, chief among which is to control his plane perfectly. They teach him to take orders unquestionably and, most important, the necessity of cooperation and teamwork if anything is to be accomplished.

In high school activities the participants learn some of the same things student pilots learn in formation flying. They learn precision of control—that is, to recognize and exercise their capabilities to the best advantage. They learn that cooperation is invaluable. They learn the beauty and thrill of an organized effort. And they are impressed with the fact that, like a formation, an organized effort is much more formidable.

Formation flying is hard, and to participate in it is a challenge to the separate flying ability of each. It is a test of our ability to really utilize our talents and energies for a definite purpose.

Formations, like school activities, are not for certain types, but for all. There are formations flown by all ships from the speedy attack planes of the aircraft carrier to the huge patrol bombers.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT AT JEFFERSON

Student Council

STUDENT Government work for this year will long be remembered for the variety of its activity. Two orientation programs have been sponsored in order to acquaint all new students with the school clubs, regulations, the building, and Student Government itself. Following the organization of the classes, George Hughes, Tom Thornton, and Miss Edith Moore were sent as delegates to the Southern Student Government Association Convention at Tulsa, Oklahoma. The Pep Club was reorganized and swelled its membership to 500. This group sponsored pep rallies over the radio and parades before football games, besides boosting school activities. Gala plans were presented on the annual Old Grads'

Day. These included a mammoth parade, broadcasts, booths downtown, and the first alumni dance. The Christmas dance proved to be one of the most enjoyable activities of the fall semester.

Following the holidays came a clean-up campaign which led to revision of the lunch system rules and allowing students to go to the lawn after finishing their lunch. The City Student Government Association held three meetings, all at Jefferson, one in the fall and two in the spring. Other projects included revision of the Point System, enforcement of the locker monitor system, movie day rules, regulation of fire drills, traffic on the stairs, and the election of officers. Successful plans were formulated by which offenders of Student Government rules are tried in committee meetings.

Climaxing a successful year, delegates were sent to the Virginia State Student Government Association convention at Alexandria on May 1 and 2. Officially representing the school were Paul Long, Martha Patterson, Jean Pugh and Harvey Smallwood.

HONOR SOCIETY

THE National Honor Society is composed of that group of students who are consistent in upholding standards of achievement throughout the year. The requirements are that the person be either a junior or a senior, that he have an average of G on credit subjects, that he secure at least three activity points. The last requirement is observed so it cannot be said that the members are a lot of bookworms and all that the word implies. Although members are diligent in school work, they also possess the old school spirit and loyalty, and prove it before they become members.

This year the membership reached fifty-one and surprisingly enough—or, maybe it isn't a surprise, the girls outnumber the boys! Maybe the boys are much more active on a baseball diamond or football gridiron!

Dr. J. Manning Potts gave an interesting address on the club's assembly program. He was introduced by the president, Susanne Edmunds, who told the purposes of the organization. These purposes are fourfold: to create an enthusiasm for scholarship, to promote worthy leadership, to stimulate a desire to render service, and to encourage the development of character in pupils of Jefferson. The following are the officers: President, Susanne Edmunds; vice president, Lee Williams; secretary, Maury Strauss, and treasurer, Ruth Hancock. These led the club in trying to fulfill these purposes.

GIRLS' CLUB

THE sixtieth birthday of the Girl Reserves Club has been the cause of celebration this year for our Jefferson Chapter, and the president, Nancy Scruggs, has made it a year to be remembered.

Football hops, sponsoring of the annual conference of Girl Reserves, radio programs, inaugurated supper meetings, collecting of baskets for the needy—all these have been only a part of their program while they "Follow the Glean."

SPEECH DEPARTMENT

ACCORDING to accepted tradition and the magazines, the stage beckons every high school student. Such information must be correct, for speech, stage craft and play production appear on a large number of our schedule cards.

Yet, in our case, it is understandable, because our speech department, possessing an enviable reputation, is never content to rest on its laurels.

In the past session, it has given the beautiful Christmas assembly, the comedy of "Seven Sisters," sent a tip-top performance to Charlottesville, and directed the senior play—all with great success.

READING LINES

JUNIOR CLASSICAL LEAGUE

THE members of the Junior Classical League believe the civilizations of Greece and Rome help us to understand our modern world and so keep alive the torch of ancient civilizations.

In accordance with this program, Anne Bailey, president, has presented to the League several outstanding programs. But despite the very intellectual impression given, it, too, has a lighter side. This year a Christmas party was given.

In addition to other activities, it also sponsors the Latin newspaper, "The Roanoke Roman." It had reason to be very proud of it because this paper won first place rating at both the C. S. P. A. in New York and the S. I. P. A. in Lexington, Va.

"The L' Echo de Roanoke" staff, who are Marilyn Mitchell, Mary Carolyn Turner, Mrs. Fallwell, Adviser, Jean Dot Roller, Andre' Fallwell, Editor, Marie Fallwell, Robert Feild, and Marion Jeffries

REGARDLESS of whether we are enrolled in one of the French classes, we are each and every one proud of our French Department. It is very active in school affairs, its assembly being one that the students anticipate with pleasure. This year it was an original play by those two anti-Hitlerites, Marion Jeffries and André Fallwell. It was concerned with the rise and fall of Hitler.

As usual, it was well represented in the French Tournament conducted at Salem, and carried off high honors.

On the social side we have the Fleur-de-Lys, under the leadership of President Jean Dot Roller, Vice President Margaret Bloodworth, Secretary Marion Jeffries and Treasurer Joe Holmes. A French party was given at the home of Jane Smith.

Monograms may be won by points on activities in the club or on the paper, "L'Echo de Roanoke." The latter is now in its seventh year and its birthday was celebrated by winning the cup at the S. I. P. A. and first place award at the C. S. P. A.

JEFFERSONIAN LITERARY SOCIETY

THE Jeffersonian Literary Society—an imposing name in honor of a great literary man—hopes that it has lived up to its name this session. Its purpose has been to arouse interest in debating and speaking, to create good fellowship, and to aid in worthy school activities.

While Jefferson liked his fiddle, so do the boys, their entertainment. There has been the annual barn dance when all dressed up appropriately and enjoyed themselves accordingly; a hike, after which the customary foot lotions were in demand; a hay ride, no doubt a reaction from the first two, and the new features of a banquet and a literary contest. The presidents have been Ernest Dixon and Harry Cohn.

THE Martha Washington Literary Society offers an opportunity to every girl to participate once a week in programs conceived and executed by its members. Whatever creative abilities have been aroused by the journalism or English classes may be exercised in the programs of the Martha Washington.

Its assembly of the year was a Mickey Finn of the footlights—a real success. "Mr. Ghost Goes to Town," an original play given by the group, offered amusement to the entire student body. The other feature of the assembly, in contrast with the first, was the installation of new officers.

A basket ball game, M. W. L. S. vs. Faculty, was fostered, ending in the faculty's favor to the tune of 17-1. There are just too many good players in the faculty that know their basket ball! In the spring, a radio program was given which was another original drama. The two leaders have been Elizabeth Olivier and Mary Louise Nelson.

JUNIOR HI-Y

THE Junior Hi-Y has as its purpose the creating and maintaining of better Christian standards of living throughout the school and community. It accomplishes this purpose through its four planks—clean speech, clean living, clean athletics and clean scholarship.

Supper meetings are held every Tuesday evening at the local Y. M. C. A., and just to make sure of the quality and digestibility, the suppers at the meetings this year have been supervised by the mothers of several of the members. The programs of these meetings have consisted of talks and discussions by several of Roanoke's leading citizens—citizens who are able, by long experience, to guide and point the march through life by their signposts, the four planks.

The first main activity of the Junior Hi-Y this year was a joint meeting of the Junior and Senior Hi-Y's. Other activities have been the underprivileged boys' banquet, truth conference, Ladies' Night, Mothers' Night, Fathers' Night, a hay ride and the sending of delegates to the district Hi-Y conference, which was held at Salem, Va.

That's a long list, but a good time has been had "by all" at "each and every one." For example, on the hay ride to Camp Johnson, we recall an evening of fun. There we played basket ball, baseball, ate a "genuine home-cooked" meal and enjoyed story-telling and group singing. Visualize the group enjoying each of these activities, and you have a picture of this wholesome, friendly club.

SENIOR HI-Y

CLEAN living, clean speech, clean sportsmanship and clean scholarship—high ideals, these, but they are the aims of the Senior Hi-Y. Just attend one of the supper meetings to observe good fellowship and healthy ambitions! We may feel sure that so long as these ideals are held up today, we need not fear that the country is a doomed one.

The supper meetings are interesting ones, and have been highlighted by the presence and good speeches of several guest speakers. Supper meetings are evidently good things, for, in spite of the heated discussions, no members get mad while the "inner man" is being fed.

Besides benefiting from the programs, members have enjoyed many interesting events as the district conference, the hay ride, the truth conference, an outing at Camp Johnson, Babies' Night, Fathers' Night, and the Alumni Banquet.

Probably the most important and interesting task this year was the delivery of the Christmas baskets. This was a great responsibility, yet it was taken in earnestness and carried out in an able and efficient way.

In the fall the leaders were: President, Josh Vaughan; vice president, Bill Spencer; secretary, Charles Hunter; treasurer, Roy Elliott; corresponding secretary, Harry Elliott. The spring officers, in the same order, were Dudley Jackson, Bill Butler, Russell Armentrout, Lewis Long, and Raymond Heck.

THE CHOIR

THE School Choir, under the guidance of Mr. Robert M. Griffey, has once more completed a successful season. It has endeavored to fulfill its role in bringing to Jefferson's Student Body the type of music that is inspiring and enjoyable, and to give its group the opportunity to improve in tone and quality. It has participated in a series of the school's assembly programs, and in several community ones when requested.

The maroon and white satin robes have been seen at a number of civic functions. Choir members have performed at various churches numerous times, at banquets, at fraternal organizations and even in a down-town department store, singing Christmas carols to lighten the hearts of tired Christmas shoppers. At Jefferson, the Christmas assembly wouldn't be complete without the background of "Ave Maria" and other sacred songs.

The name represents a real group of musicians. They went to Radford for the music festival where Pat Maddox, alto soloist, Ralph Coverston, bass soloist, the largest choir and the small girls' group won superior ratings. These went on to Richmond to compete in the national festival.

The other six entries won excellent ratings. Those with this honor are Betsy Thomas and Helen Wimmer, soprano soloists; Campbell Bunting, tenor; Billy Rutrough, bass; the small choir and the large girls' chorus.

LITERARY TEAM

THE Literary team is Jefferson's group of talented and lucky people who compete with other schools for glory—not athletic! Spelling, reading, debating and public speaking are their weapons. The desire to bring back good game in the way of honors for Jefferson is assuredly one of their objectives.

CHEER LEADERS

Athletic glory is sought after also and, when that line starts to weaken, the cheer leaders step up, and with a "hep-hep," straighten it again.

STAGE CREW

Also important are our "angels with dirty faces"—the stage crew.

COMMERCIAL DEPARTMENT

IN the Commercial Department are trained the future secretaries, accountants, and business executives who hope to secure positions in the very near future. In Jefferson each and every department is dependent in a large way upon the typists of this department. Our publications would never be published except for their untiring efforts and willing aid.

Organized a few years ago and grown to a considerable size, the Commercial Club is a formidable one. The officers are as follows: President, Evelyn Koegal; vice president, Neister Williams; secretary, Virginia Lambert; treasurer and reporter, Mary Wiley. This club strives to develop its members more thoroughly in business knowledge and social life. Its meetings are of great interest. At these, often, guest speakers have been presented. The social event of the year was the skating party. On this occasion all were pleased to watch a few of the teachers unbend and join into the spirit of the party.

BAND

THE band was unusually active this year. It played at all the home football games and organized several letter-forming drills between halves. These drew appreciative applause from the excited crowds as did the fancy, high-stepping drum-majoring of the girls. Incidentally, its most popular number was "In the Grove With Annie Laurie."

The band practiced five times weekly and students were given unit credit for their work during the spring term. The top floor was often entertained as strains leaked through the ventilators.

It attended the State Music Festival at Radford, where several soloists played. The soloists were Johnny Creger, Stuart Warren, Billy Warren and Joe Staton.

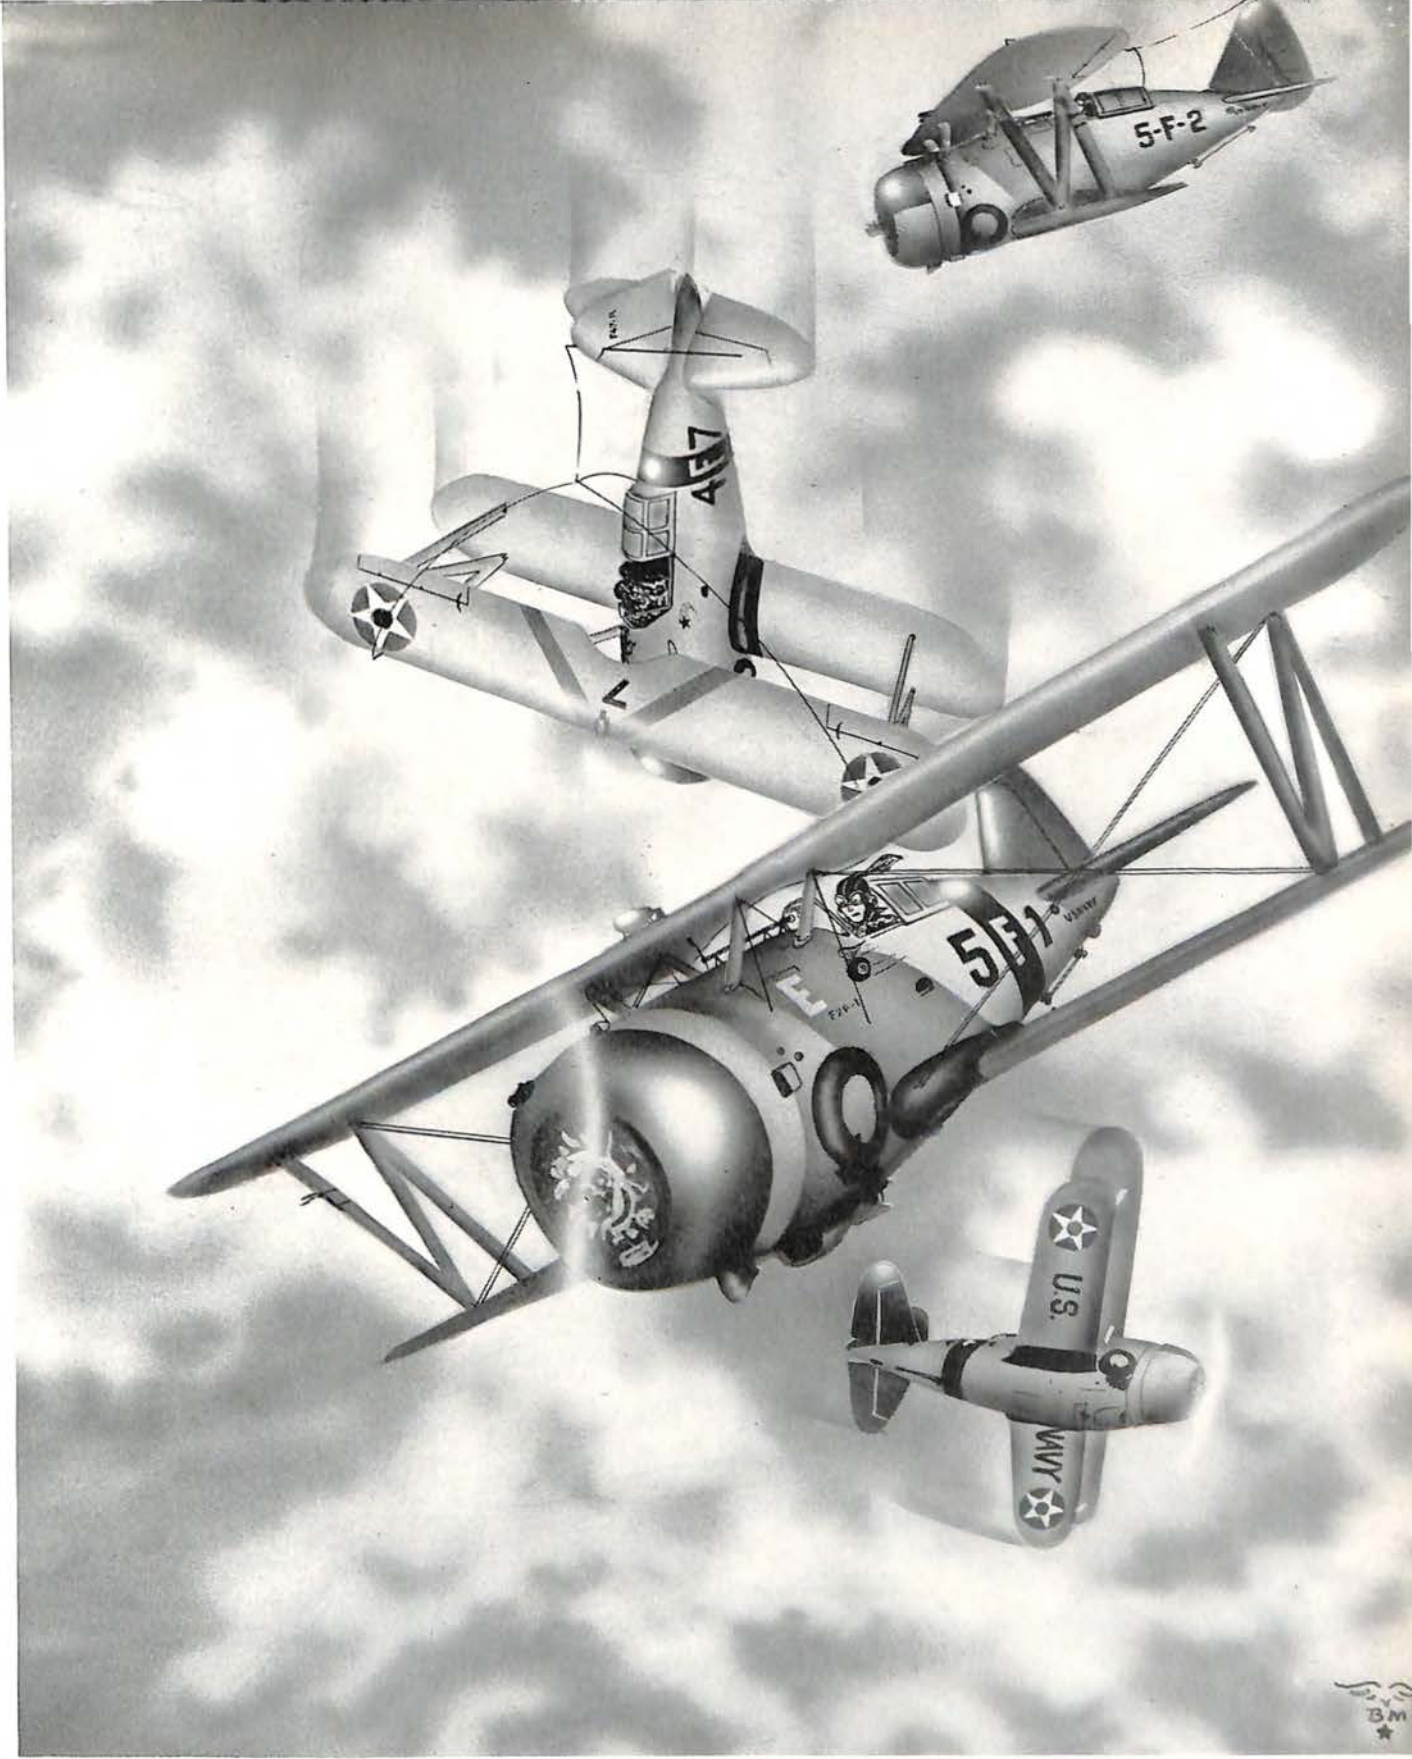

WISH! ZOOM! He's cross-wired in your sights. Let him have it! Watch out, there he goes into a dive. Don't hold the trigger too long. Only a few seconds of ammunition left!

We're getting some awfully good pictures here of enemy planes with these camera guns. Of course, it's all in fun, but the rivalry is just as keen as if it were real combat. And the way we talk about it the rest of the time you'd think it was real serious war.

Nothing stands out more in the memory than the rivalry between our school and others on the athletic field. Nothing stirs the school spirit more within us than to see our team victorious. No defeat in an algebra class makes us feel as deeply our common woe as does a sound thrashing on the football field.

It is youth's tendency to make business out of play; to put long hours of work into something which in the end gives us nothing more than a feeling of self-satisfaction; and the pleasure of having worked for something and attained it.

Play it is, but no matter what part we take in it, there are certain characteristics it instills in us which will play a major part in our development later. Just like the flying cadets, we are training for actual battle.

FOOTBALL

PROSPECTS for the football squad in the early part of the season were not exceptional. Returning from last year's strong squad were but four starters. However, in only a few weeks, Coaches Moorman and Bryant presented a team that soundly trounced its early opponents.

IN THE BACKFIELD

Throughout the entire season Harry Walton was the spark plug of the Magician attack. A triple threat, Walton's kicking, passing and running was often the margin between victory and defeat. Clay Bear and Reg Weaver, also triple threats whose speed and elusive running was invaluable, were exceptional backfield men. C. O. Paugh also proved a capable reserve and threat to any team. The drive of André Fallwell, as the season progressed, became a factor with which our opponents had to contend. The blocking backs, the fellows who led the way, were Leon Briggs and Jack McClure. These boys distinguished themselves not only on the offensive but more so on the defensive.

IN THE LINE

The outstanding offensive figure in the Jefferson line was Captain Johnny Cassell, whose pass receiving brought more than one touchdown for the Magicians. And, strangely enough, outstanding on defense was David Smythe, who played the other end position. Bobs McConaghy and Jack Coulter were an invincible pair who played the tackle positions. These two could always be counted on to play an exceptional game. At the guard positions were Clyde Hairfield, whose hard-fighting spirit was an inspiration to his team mates, and Alex McClure, dynamite blocker. Orié Martin and Carlton Brown alternated at the center position. Both were exceptional.

As able reserves the Magicians had Penn Vaughan and Dudley Jackson at tackles. Sam Bohon and James Butts received much service at the guard positions.

WHAT TO EXPECT

Although the 1940 season was a very successful one, the prospects for next year are even brighter. There will be but one addition to the schedule in the form of Wilson High, of Portsmouth. Back again will be Danville, Maury Hi and Granby Hi from Norfolk, Marshall Hi and Thomas Jefferson Hi of Richmond, Petersburg, Salem and Lynchburg. Returning to star for Jefferson once more will be eight lettermen and those coming up from Junior Varsity and "B" team. With an experienced team, playing teams that we have played before, truly we can look forward to a most successful season.

BASKET BALL

THE Jefferson High Basket Ball Team of 1941 is one of which we can justly be proud. The team not only won the district championship but also annexed the state title, an honor we have not received since 1935.

At the beginning of the season our prospects were excellent. With five lettermen returning, Captain Watt Ellett, Bill Flint, Lewis Long, Harry Elliott and Harry Walton, and with the able addition of Jimmy Akers, the squad was truly an experienced one. Under the careful coaching of A. D. "Hunk" Hurt, the team was able to gain early victories over George Washington of Danville, Lewis High of Salem, Lane High of Charlottesville, and Glass High of Lynchburg. The squad, during these encounters, showed excellent teamwork combined with the "will to win"! However, following these were a second defeat of Andrew Lewis High and George Washington High, which clinched the district championship for the Magicians. Next came a shocking defeat at the hands of Glass High, which, although it did not affect the championship, did mar an almost perfect season.

One of the most exciting encounters of the season was the state semi-final play-off against John Marshall of Richmond. Although the Magicians led most of the way, we were able to win only by a small margin. Particularly exceptional in this game were the ball-hawking of Akers, the passing of Flint and the careful shooting of Captain Ellett.

Next came the final play-off to determine a state champion against Maury High of Norfolk. All the stalwarts performed creditably with Long, Akers and Flint still outstanding. The Norfolk boys played excellent ball but were not up to the standard set by the Magicians.

Among the many things that led to the success of our team must be classified the fine relief work of Billy Atkinson, Jack Petticrew, Nick Munger and Jack Burnett.

Front row: J. Akers, B. Flint, W. Ellett, L. Long, H. Elliott. Back row: H. Walton, B. Atkinson, N. Munger, J. Burnett, J. Petticrew, Coach Hurt

COACH S. I. Craft has brought our track team through another season. This year, as before, the squad has won many glorious victories.

Throughout the entire season many have shown themselves to be exceptional. Outstanding was Captain Alvin Smith, who completed his fourth year with the Magicians this season. In each of those four years, Smith has proven himself to be one of the best milers and half-milers in the South. For the past two years, Dick West, and this season, Marvin Fairchild, have also run these events with much success. Probably the most versatile man on the squad was Harry Walton, who ran the half and also competed in the broad jump and high jump.

In the "440" event, Sammy Rea, Perk Hazlegrove, and Bobs McConaghy led the way with Rea and Dan Holt also competing in the "220" and "100." However, André Fallwell and John Riddick, in the low hurdles, and Riddick and Walter Thomasson jumping the higher timber also proved a great blessing to Coach Craft as the season progressed. In the high jump, Thomasson and Walton were outstanding, while Walton and Holt led the broad jumpers. In this past season, Daryl Webb has ranked himself among the best pole vaulters in the state.

In the weight class, the Magicians were sadly lacking. However, Don Brown, in the javelin and discus events, McConaghy with discus and Staples Engleby with the shot, gained some points.

INDOOR TRACK

THIS year Jefferson had, probably, the most successful indoor track season in the history of the school. Although the sport is comparatively new to the Magician trackmen, a great many boys turned out for practice and, during the following month, the material shaped up into a threatening team.

The Craftsmen lost by a narrow margin to the all-powerful "Tar Heel" freshmen of U. N. C.

The following week, on February 22, the team polished their shoes and again took the maroon and white to U. N. C. for the Southern Conference games, the "derby" of Southern trackmen. Although they didn't win, they placed second in a field of twelve topnotch high and prep schools, of which Thomas Jefferson, of Richmond, emerged victor.

HAMPERED by a late start, the baseball team, nevertheless, was a successful venture. With only six returning lettermen, Coach "Dick" Bryant whipped an excellent team into shape in only a few weeks.

The team, as a whole, was a balanced outfit and worked well together. Earl Price, southpaw hurler, and Jack Coulter were an experienced battery, returning from last season. Lewis Brua, new this year, served as the other pitcher. The infielders, Billy Flint, hard-hitting first sacker, Clay Bear and Wilson Balthis, experienced key-stone combination, and Eldridge Mills on third base, were all veterans, with the exception of Mills. In the outfield were Captain John Cassell, returning hard-hitter, who played first base in the preceding season, with Reg Weaver and David Repass, both sluggers of exceptional ability.

GIRLS' SPORTS

BADMINTON

Bird's-eye view of a badminton game. Harriet Preas did return the bird, while Glenn Philbrook smiles an approving O. K. Juanita Reed expects the next shot while her partner, Sue Jones, stands by.

BASKET BALL

It's good for two points as Juanita Reed shoots one past Joyce Jones. Edna Richardson stands ready to recover the ball while Rosemary Sheaff dashes in from the back court. That's Stiffey in the middle of things, with feet showing.

PING-PONG

Marcia Isbell seems to be taking care of this play, while Dot Wright stands ready to put one away, too.
