ANNUAL PUBLICATION OF THE STUDENT BODY OF
Jefferson Senior High School
ROANOKE, VIRGINIA

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

*Standing, waiting, little wooden soldier boy,
Armed and trusting, waiting for your moving orders,
Soon you'll set out to start your great adventurings,
Seeking thrills that always lie beyond new borders!*

*Shoulders squared, eyes held straight in front of you,
Mind alert, to hear your leader's last command,
Dreaming, wondering what fate has in store for you,
You'll fight bravely in your little no-man's land!*

*You and I are one, you wooden soldier boy,
Standing, waiting, before the gates of destiny—
I know I face battle old as life itself!
Am I ready to court defeat or victory?*

*Inspire me with your courage and your fortitude,
Square my shoulders to hold the burdens they must bear!*

I, like you, am going forth to battle now, Wooden Soldier. Who can tell me where?

DEDICATION

“That our Jefferson boys who have died may know we have not forgotten . . .”

*How can we reach across the gap of life—
Across the bridge of time to grasp your hand?
Without our knowing battle or the strife,
How can we reach you in your far-off land
To sit again and talk of things we knew
And loved in those bright, happy, cloudless years
When only fishes swam and robins flew,
And laughter graced the world instead of tears?
How can we reach you through the endless storm
Save by the hope that we may set man free—
Building a new life from this shattered form
That you could not endure your son to see?
We speak to you through dreams and hopes unfilled,
And hear you answer, “This is yours to build.”*

SCHOOL

The Little Wooden Soldier has reached a great epoch in his military career. His training is completed and it is now time for him to leave Camp Jefferson. These are his last moments here. In the bustle of preparation, he has yet a few minutes to look around him and recall the things he is leaving.

Over there is headquarters—how many times he had been summoned there. There he has had one of his most awe-inspiring experiences—that of meeting his superior officers. There, too, under their expert guidance he became initiated into the mysteries of K. P., and the interior of the guardhouse. But once he learned that officers were temperamental beings and developed kid gloved hands to accommodate them, he found they didn't actually eat wooden soldiers.

Headquarters was not the only thing he is leaving—there is much more to Camp Jefferson than just that. There is the atmosphere that surrounds it—his good times and his hard work. Then, too, certain features of the camp that have inspired or educated him, he must now leave behind.

Inspirations

There were many things at Camp Jefferson which inspired new thoughts in the mind of the Little Wooden Soldier—thoughts which were deeper than any he had had before. He found that there was a learning which went a little deeper than the surface irrigation he had experienced so far.

For instance, there was the music of the choir. Listening to it taught him many things, which, although they were never spoken, were the more real to him for being silent. Every Little Wooden Soldier owes a debt to the choir at Camp Jeff.

Another thing that meant a lot was the appreciation of the drama which came to him through the plays presented upon Camp Jeff's stage. Of these the one that will follow him forever is the Christmas assembly, which has come to be an institution. This is one thing he will always think of when he recalls Jefferson.

During his stay, the Little Wooden Soldier came to be justly proud of the five publications Camp Jefferson boasted. Working on any one of these was an experience he will profit by no matter where he may go. Here he learned to think straight and to make use of the knowledge he had acquired elsewhere.

These are three things for which the Little Wooden Soldier thanks Camp Jefferson. . .

JOHN D. RIDDICK, Principal

To the Student Body

In a year when the mental, physical and moral energies of youth of high schools all over the country are receiving a special challenge, I take this opportunity to commend you, the students of Jefferson.

You have kept, with reasonable success, your equilibrium; you have maintained an interest in the things that were planned for your development at this time; you have manifested a seriousness of purpose that is in keeping with the times through which we are now passing.

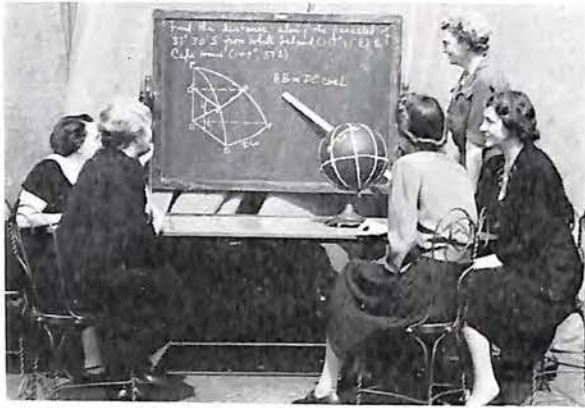

I, with your faculty, trust that this year has been a useful one to our graduating seniors, for of his generation, much is expected.

May I extend to each graduate my sincere congratulations, and wish him Good speed?

Sincerely,

John D. Riddick

COMMERCIAL

K. AKERS W. D. PARSONS G. A. BRANSCOM, JR. V. HARRIS
L. STALKER R. STRATTON T. CHAMBERS

The Commercial Department of Jefferson High School is dedicating its efforts to the meeting of the great demand for trained office workers. The supplying of efficient office workers is vital toward the war effort.

MODERN LANGUAGES

E. L. HOFFMAN MRS. CORRINE SASSER R. NOELL S. LOVELACE
MRS. H. M. FALLWELL

The diligent application necessary to achieve success in a foreign language contributes greatly to clear thinking, discipline of the spirit, and the ability to meet and master emergencies. Citizens in a war-time world need such steadying qualities.

ENGLISH

N. LUKENS F. DENNY M. BOWMAN R. DUPUY MRS. REBA HASH
MRS. RUTH DORSEY D. PAYNE M. S. HAYWARD JNO. GLASGOW
MRS. JEANNE COOKES (Bible)

Members of the English Department confer on background material to assist students in planning class programs on air-mindedness and internationalism. These programs attempt to develop appreciations and understandings of some of the forces at work in a changing world.

LIBRARIANS

MRS. DOROTHY WATSON FRANCES MILLER

In time of war, even more than in peace, the library is the center of information. Here are found the latest official pamphlets from the government, as well as the latest books on the army and navy.

MUSIC AND EXPRESSION

HOME ECONOMICS

MRS. ALICE MARSHALL VIRGINIA CALDWELL OCIE HUFFMOND
EDITH VERRAN

Guidance in home living during wartimes is fundamental to the upbuilding of citizens for a post-war world. Home production and conservation contribute to the development of skills, abilities and an appreciation of the home and family life.

DISTRIBUTIVE EDUCATION

JAMES FIRMAGE MARY E. WEST MRS. SASSER (Act)

By assisting consumers and retailers to a better understanding of those war-time regulations that affect their daily lives, we hope to maintain morale and help to preserve the American way of life.

SENIORS

Soon the trucks which were to bear them away were ready, and the soldiers, carrying the equipment they were to take to the front lines, began to file into the trucks. The Little Wooden Soldier stood very straight in line, and took his last look at the camp.

This was what he had waited for. This was what he had worked for all those hard days. It was his great moment, yet it was saddening to know that it was over.

Before long the trucks began to move, and soon they were passing the drill field. What memories that brought back! The Little Wooden Soldier cast a long look at it. He remembered how hot the sun was and how weary he had been at the end of the day. All that was preparation for this moment—for this departure.

He saw himself again, marching one-two, one-two with his companions. Somehow, he'd rather miss that drilling.

at Jefferson

Student Government was another phase of the life of the Little Wooden Soldier at Camp Jeff.

Due to the fact that there was a war going on, its activities were somewhat different from those of former years. Its work began with an orientation program which was given with the purpose of acquainting the new students of Jefferson with the officers of Student Government, its objectives and its activities.

The most successful project of the year was the key drive. The whole school participated in a three-day campaign to collect as many keys as possible for the war effort. The response to this call was overwhelming.

The Annual Old Grad's Day dance was given November 7th, following the football game and the festivities of Old Grad's Day. During that day the students sold Defense Stamps and Bonds in booths downtown. This sale of stamps broke all records.

This year, Student Government has sent copies of the Jefferson News to the graduates of 1942 who are now in the armed forces.

A second orientation program, similar to the first, was given at mid-term for the new students.

Although the Southern Association meeting was postponed this year because of the war, Jefferson will remain Vice President for the duration.

The Little Wooden Soldier found that there were a number of students who were helping the librarians at Camp Jefferson. On investigation, he was told that they were members of the Library Club. The Library Club was organized for those students who are especially interested in books and libraries. The aim of the club is, therefore, not only to develop a deeper appreciation for good books, but also to assist the students when in the library.

The activities of this club are social as well as literary. It meets regularly for the discussion and study of selected books and current literature. Once a month the club meets for dinner and for an evening of entertainment.

The faculty sponsor for the club is Miss Frances Miller.

Junior American Classical League

OFFICERS

SARAH OVERSTREET..... President

FREIDA RAMSEY..... Vice President

HELEN HITE..... Secretary

To every Little Wooden Soldier with a serious turn of mind, the Junior Classical League offers an opportunity to study and profit by the past. The object of this organization is to keep alive an interest in Greek and Roman culture, and to foster an appreciation of our heritage from these nations. The Jefferson chapter is the largest in Virginia.

This year's activities in class and out have centered around the war program. Daily opportunities arise in the regular work to discuss one or more of the various phases of the program, whether it be health, air-mindedness, international relations, conservation or even inflation.

The Little Wooden Soldier was somewhat shocked to find that the Greeks and Romans had all of these problems in their day. The story of Dædalus and Icarus shows that they even thought of flying. Cæsar and Cicero, especially, afford abundant leads to comparisons of modern and ancient conditions in war. Besides, Cicero is a very "Bible of injunction" to right living, patriotism and good citizenship—those qualities that made Rome the "mistress of the world."

The Roanoke Roman, sponsored by the League, has been devoted almost entirely to war activities of students. The club programs, however, have been largely cultural and historical. This publication won first-place rating at the Columbia Scholastic Press Association this year.

French Department

Never knowing where he might be stationed, the Little Wooden Soldier thought it would be wise to take up a modern language, so he entered the French Department, under the leadership of Mrs. J. H. Fallwell.

Here, an interesting feature of the year was an Assembly on French Culture, presented during French Week. All departments of the school took part. Victor Hugo's "Les Miserables" was featured by the English Department, while Sylvia Farnham, dressed in silver armor as Joan of Arc, symbolized the undying spirit of France.

The French Department continued in its traditional intellectual and social activities. Radio talks reminded the public of the international value of the French language. A number of outstanding students participated in the annual French Tournament.

L'Echo de Roanoke, a publication in French, entered with honors the National Columbia Scholastic Press Association. Its staff consisted of:

BOYD DICKERSON.....	Editor
RUSSELL SCHIEDLER.....	Assistant Editor
BEVERLY MICHEL.....	Business Manager
HERBERT MORRIS.....	Sports Editor
GLORIA ZOBEL	} ..... Reporters
HELEN BURROWS

The Fleur-de-Lys had several outstanding speakers at its programs, which were held twice a month. A Christmas party was given at the home of Barbara Barnhart.

The officers this year were:

SHIRLEY RUBENSTEIN.....	President
ANN LOGAN BAIRD.....	Vice President

Hi-Y

OFFICERS

- GEORGE DRAGON..... President
 FRANCES FLORA..... Vice President
 DUDLEY MARSTELLER..... Secretary
 CHARLES LEMON..... Treasurer

The Hi-Y was indeed a club for Little Wooden Soldiers. And he found that its activities had definitely been aimed toward the war effort.

During the year there was a scrap iron collection that was very successful, and a campaign to collect phonograph records for veterans of World War II, who were at the Veterans Facility.

Jefferson's Hi-Y was host to the State Hi-Y Convention held in Roanoke; out-of-town boys were entertained in the homes of the members.

The club's programs featured many prominent speakers, both local and out-of-town.

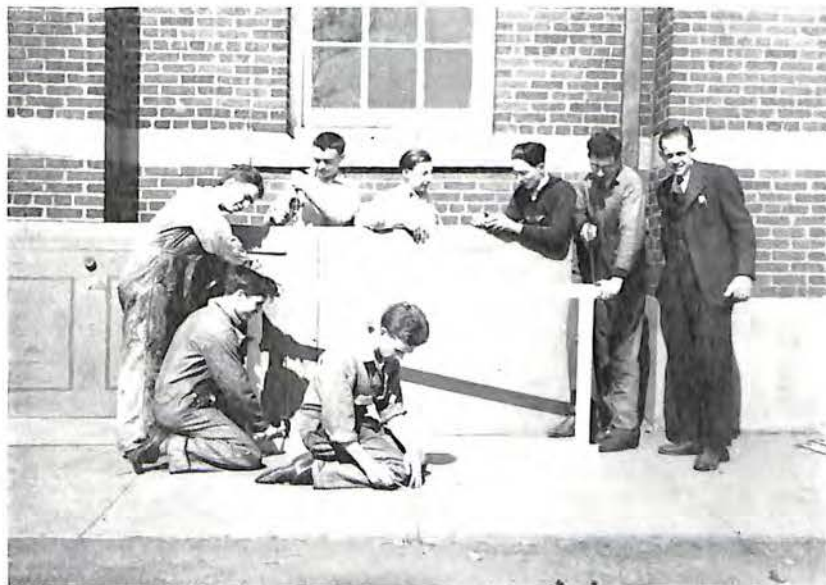

The lighter side of the activities included a banquet at which Hi-Y fathers were honored. This was balanced by the usual dinner for under-privileged boys at Christmas.

Speech Department

Spring's arrival brings anticipation of many events on the Speech Department's calendar. Among these is the Costume Play. At the right is the cast enjoying the first reading of the play after their stiff competition for parts.

Martha Washington Literary Society

The Little Wooden Soldier discovered that there were several organizations at Camp Jeff for which only Little Wooden WAAC's were eligible. One of these was the Martha Washington Literary Society.

The aim of this club is to develop its members in literary and social activities; it endeavors to create in its members an interest in the higher, finer things of life and seeks to introduce them to various programs on educational topics along these lines.

Highlights of this year's activities have been: Installation of officers, initiation of new members, teas, a backward party and a Christmas get-together.

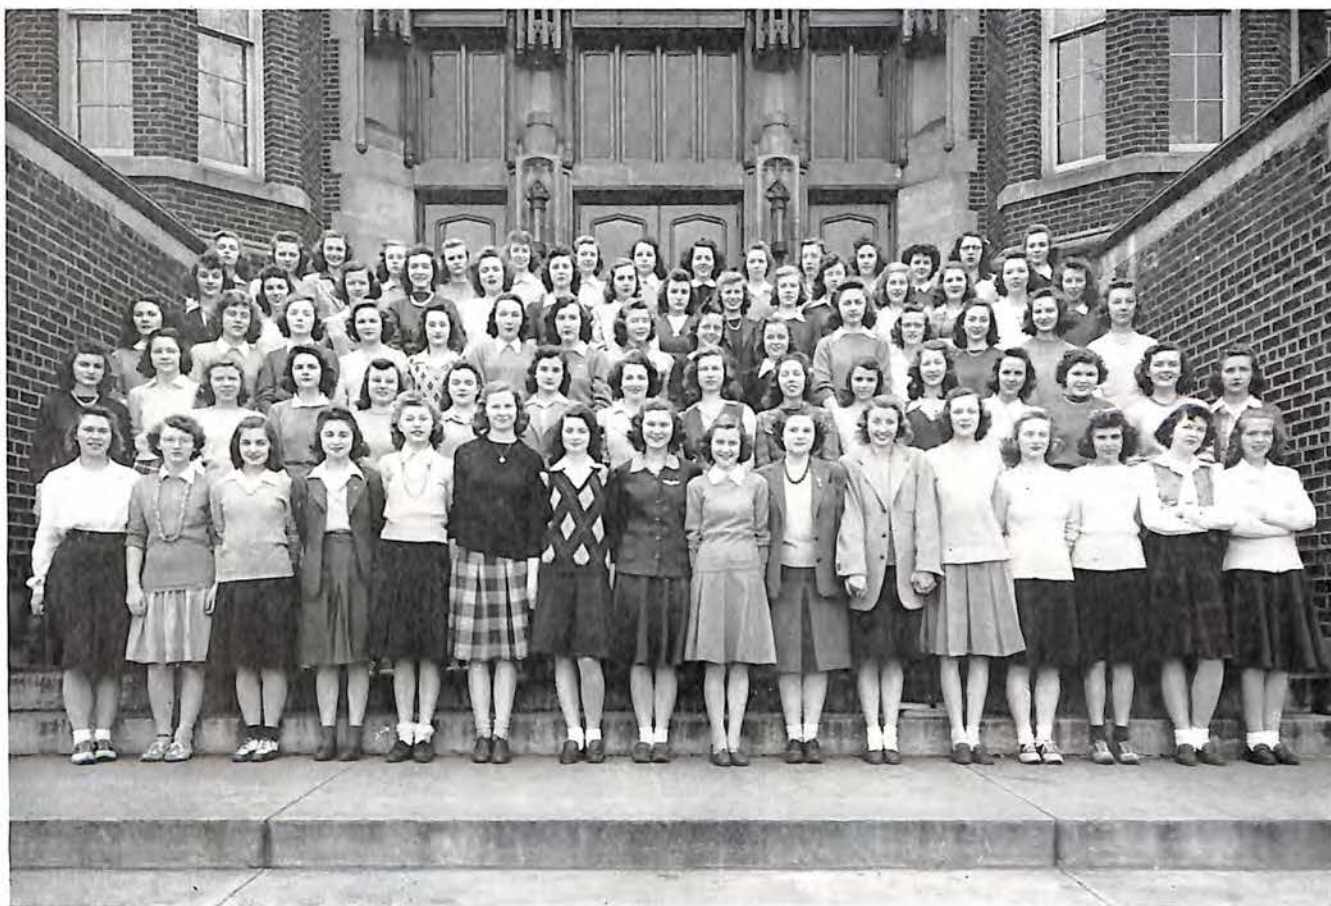

The assembly this year was in the form of a "Mistress Major Cowes" program and a one-act play entitled, "Too Many Marys."

Girls' Club

The Little Wooden Soldier discovered that only Little Wooden Waac's were admitted to this club, and there were so many of them in it, that it had to be divided into three sections this year. Each section represented one of the three sides of a girl's life—mind, body and spirit. These "triangles" met separately twice each month and followed individual programs.

The purpose of this nation-wide club is "To find and give the best." Its members are junior members of the Y. W. C. A.

The schedule of activities for this year has been full. It included a get-acquainted tea, the Bluefield Conference, Thanksgiving baskets, knitting socks and mittens for underprivileged children at Christmas, selling defense stamps in down-town booths, a Valentine Cabaret, presentation of "The Persecuted Maiden," a melodrama as part of the city-wide Girl Reserve Revue, a dance to entertain the Hi-Y regional conference, faculty picnic and closing down conference. The year's activities concluded with the Annual Sweetheart Banquet.

The Band

The band plays an important part in the memory of every Little Wooden Soldier. Without it, football games and parades wouldn't be any fun at all. This year, in their new uniforms, they looked even more proud and impressive than before, and well they might look proud and impressive, for the year 1942-43 was a great one for them.

Under the direction of J. R. White, the band has taken part in a great many community events, including the Labor Day rally, featuring Greer Garson, Armistice Day program, Bond Rally, featuring John Payne, the Music Parade of 1943, Kiwanis Club program and others.

The Little Wooden Soldier, as he leaves, is extremely grateful for the part the band has played in his life at Camp Jeff, and he has a right to be proud of it.

The Choir

No matter where the Little Wooden Soldier may be stationed, there is one part of life at Camp Jeff that he can never forget. And that is the music of the Jefferson a cappella choir, under the leadership of Robert Griffey. The Choir has come to be part of the community as well as of the school.

Beginning with the yearly Minstrel, in which they sang a group of popular songs dear to the hearts of everyone, they stayed busy right on through the year.

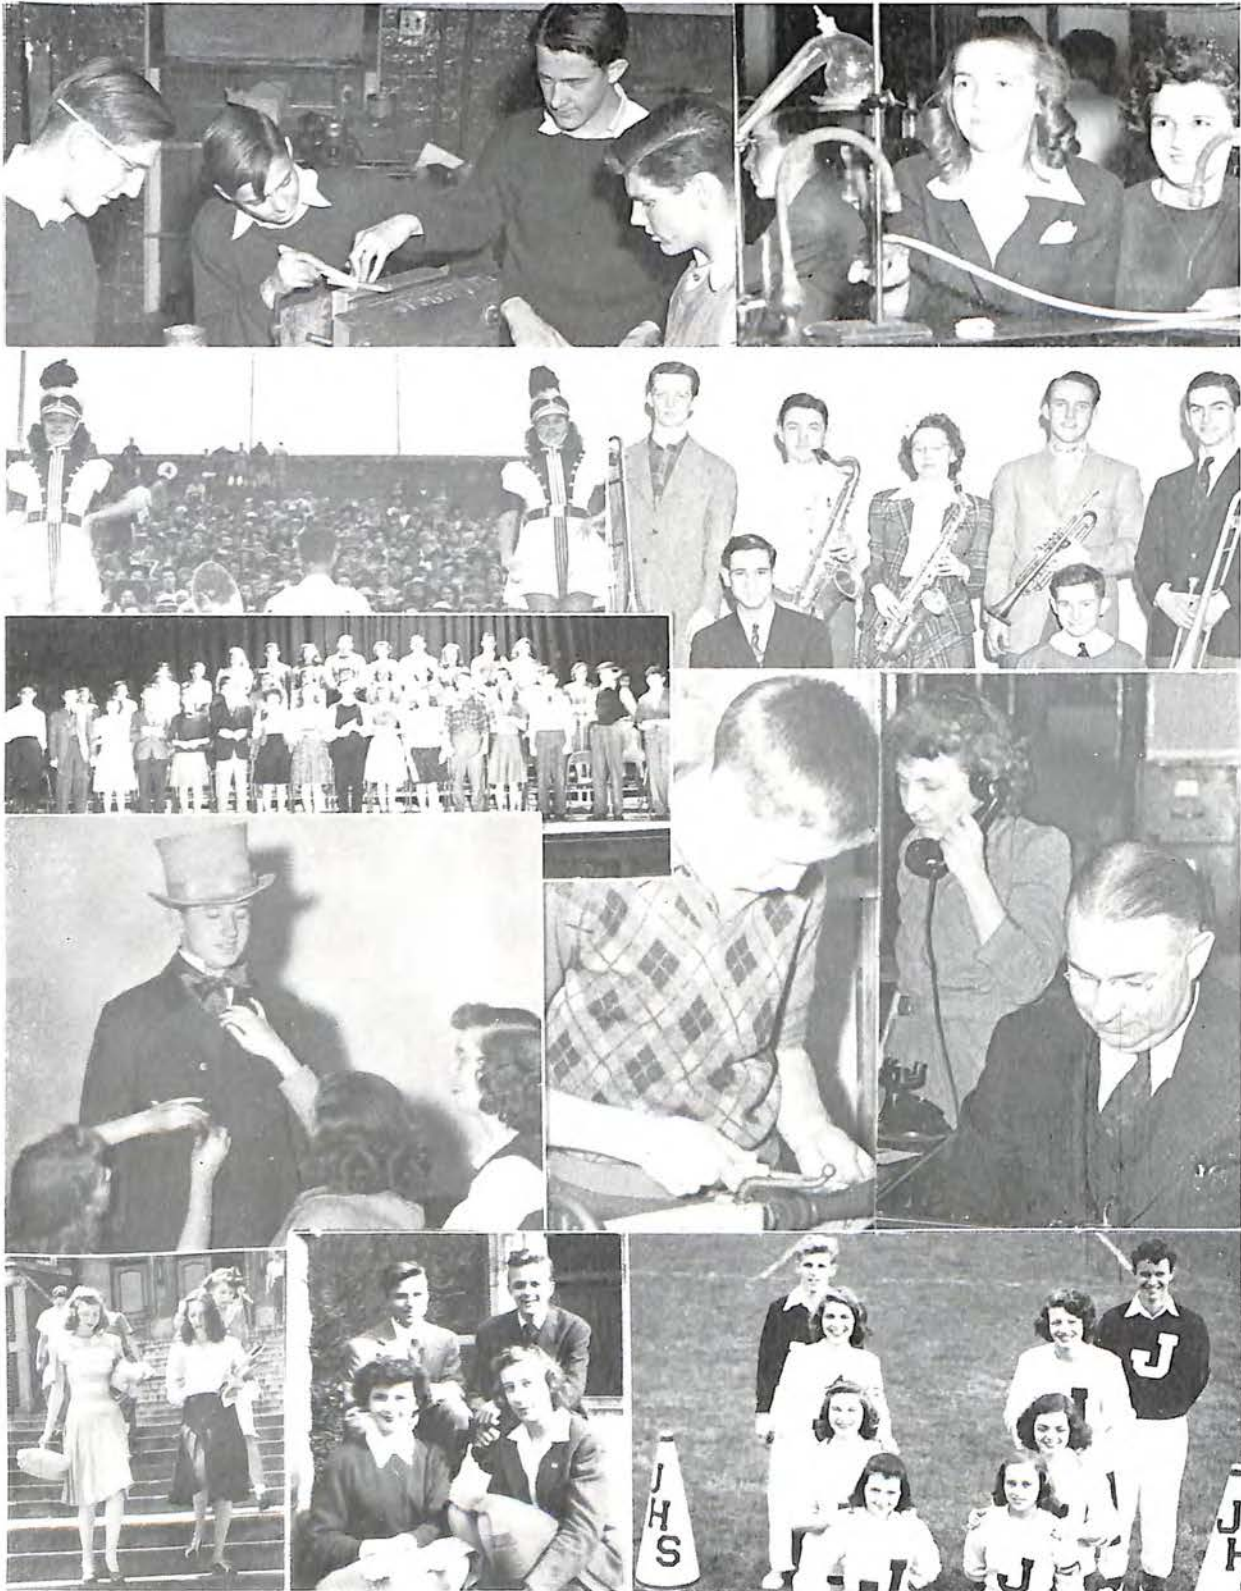

At Christmas, besides participating in the Annual Christmas Assembly, a group of choir members sang carols at Heironimus store.

Their activities included giving several programs for civic clubs among which were the Kiwanis Club, Lions Club's party for the blind, the Junior Music Club, a radio program and providing the music for an inter-racial meeting at the First Baptist Church (colored).

The highlight of the year was as usual the production of an operetta. This year it was "My Maryland," by Sigmund Romberg, the first "name" production ever given at Jefferson.

ATHLETICS

Perhaps the Little Wooden Soldier's favorite pastime at Camp Jefferson was playing with the other fellows. Football, basket ball, wrestling, tumbling—all had occupied some of his time. He had made many friends that way. But now he was going off to play a bigger game, where the principles learned at camp were to be applied for much bigger stakes. Yes, the time had come for him to cease looking back, and to begin looking forward. His training days were over, he was leaving—destination unknown.

Football

With a team of inexperienced boys, Coaches Rohrdanz, Boyer and Spessard molded an eleven which was to better any record set by a Jefferson team since 1928. From last year's strong squad there were but six lettermen with which to work but the Magicians came through with six wins, four ties and one defeat.

The Jeffs started their season against William Fleming in the first game played in Victory Stadium and with Clay Bear and Buddy Shoaf in mid-season form and walloped the Colonels, 33-0.

The next game brought together the Magicians and the Cardinals of Danville High which ended in a 7-7 deadlock.

Ralph Wade and Charlie Rush were outstanding on the defense and in the line. William Byrd came next and lost 35-0 in one of the muddiest games played in Jefferson history. With second and third teams playing, Frank Feathers, Billy Patterson, Gordon Cecil and Billy Simpson sparked the Jeffs attack. Another tie, this time Granby, and the score was 6-6 with Charlie Evans bearing the Magicians offense with Billy Bynum and Buddy Sexton playing good defensive games.

Jefferson then journeyed to Portsmouth and a scoreless tie, playing on a sandy field and the only night game on the schedule—Jack Taylor, James Fitzgerald, and Jack Guilfoyle keeping the Magicians in the game on defense.

John Marshall would not be beaten and neither would the Maroon and White. The score ended 6-6 after the Jeffs had pushed Jayem the whole first half. The entire team played a great game that day.

The Wolverines of Salem fell under the pent-up onslaught of Jefferson to the tune of 35-0. Paul Cannaday, Calvin Sizer, Eddie Sharpe and Charlie Evans playing an outstanding game.

A trip to Richmond and a 14-0 victory over Thomas Jefferson came next with Billy Nover, Herbert Morris and George Dragon playing good ball for the second team who played over half the game.

The one sore spot on the Magician schedule . . . Petersburg and the only defeat 12-13. No one or two outstanding players can be picked for special credit. It was the whole team who fought until exhausted.

An 18-6 win over Bluefield put Jefferson back on the win side of the ledger with Billy Nover running wild and Jimmy Schilling playing fine ball on defense.

The season's finale brought a strong Hilltopper eleven from Lynchburg and a possible defeat for Jefferson, but the Magicians turned the tables and came out on top 27-7 to finish in a blaze of glory. Clay Bear, Buddy Shoaf and Ralph Wade starred as did Jimmy Schilling and Calvin Sizer.

Thus the finish of a great season, but what of the next? Lynchburg has given up football and whether others will or not will be questionable, but Jefferson will have a football team and a good one. Many Junior Varsity and "B" team boys coming up, we can look ahead to a successful season.

Many boys already in the armed forces have written home to relatives and commented that this rigorous training has stood them in good stead while at basic training camps. All in all it cannot be said that Jefferson has not been preparing boys for the Army. All the fellows who have undergone this training will make a name for Jefferson some day . . . Watch and See!

Basket Ball

Basket Ball at Jefferson had a gloomy outlook at the beginning of the season but as time went on Coach Hurt put a team on the floor that put up a good fight against all other teams.

Two losses at mid-season hurt the Magicians considerably, Clay Bear's shoulder operation which put him out for the season and Buddy Ebert's appendectomy which benched him for an equal length of time. Despite these losses, Jefferson compiled a record which is no disgrace.

The team that had the Indian sign on Jefferson was William Fleming to whom the Magicians succumbed twice with scores of 38-30 and 37-14.

Against all others Jefferson did well considering the size and experience of their opponents. Salem and Jefferson split even against each other with one win a piece and then met for the "rubber match." Salem took this one in an over-time period but it would not be fair to say the Jeffs were beaten. Tough breaks were the cause of the defeat.

Those who played outstandingly for Jefferson this year were Julian Fulcher, sharpshooting forward; Frank Phillips, a great little floorman; Ernest Akers, the best defensive man on the squad; Calvin Sizer, a good man under the basket; Jimmy Schilling, whose height helped the Jeffs no end; Eugene Lindamood, the dead set shot artist; John Hildebrand, the coolest under pressure; Jack Reed, whose desire to win was as big as his heart; Bobby Trippeer, Charles Gose, Jack Dille and Keith Bohon.

Physical Fitness Program

The Little Wooden Soldier found that keeping himself in good condition was not merely a matter of a few exercises and some scrambled games, it was a down-to-earth job, keeping fit for military duty.

C. W. Rohrdanz, physical director, introduced the boys to tumbling and boxing. These sports give the boys the coordination which is so necessary to a good soldier, sailor or flyer. A mind and body that cannot work together are of very little use to the armed service.

Another request of the Army and Navy officials brought about the setting up of an indoor commando course much like the ones in many army camps all over the country and in many colleges and universities. This course includes a rope climb which strengthens shoulder and arm muscles. Many lives have been lost in the Navy because boys could not pull themselves out of the water and climb a rope. A tunnel to crawl under which accustoms the boy to getting himself out of tight places, and a somersault and chinning bar which accustoms him to having his body hanging in all directions, are also included. The boys must run up a wall which develops legs and toughens muscles, swing off the balcony of the gym on a rope to accustom himself to absorbing the shock of jumping from high places and to the sensation of falling, walk a board set on edge to develop a sense of balance and timing, and swing, monkey fashion, from one horizontal support to another.

In order to give the boys more of a sense of competition among themselves, a new system was installed whereby all the boys' achievements are recorded on his own individual card. This gave the boys more incentive to work.

Along with these came another new conditioner, a calisthenics team. A group of boys of average build and average height were selected from the physical education classes to be the members of this team, and competition for positions was great. This team specialized in drills and different exercises in which timing and precision were very necessary.

Another factor that drove the boys on to added effort was the City Recreational Department's Sports Carnival held at the Roanoke Auditorium March 12th and 13th. The desire for boxers, tumblers and calisthenics team to make a good showing forced the boys to whip themselves into condition. Also a group of boys from the different schools competed in an obstacle course.

FOLK DANCE

Sellinger's Round, an English Country dance, was presented by the girls' physical education classes at the Fitness Cavalcade, sponsored by the Roanoke City Recreation Department. Schools in Roanoke City and County took part in the program, the purpose of which was to show the people of Roanoke and vicinity just what the schools are doing toward the physical fitness program.

BASKET BALL

VOLLEY BALL

MONOGRAM CLUB

Ably led by their president, Jeane Bentley, this year was really an outstanding one for the Girls' Monogram Club. The new physical fitness program necessitated the addition of several new activities to the list of old ones. Achievement tests such as push ups, potato race, rope climbing, tumbling, balance beam, and folk dancing, as well as a sports program, kept the girls busy.

BOWLING

Shown here is the champion bowling team. They are Dot Strickler, Jeane Bentley, Captain; Dot Mays, Claudine Conner and Nellie Stevens.

The "Annual" Result . . .

For two generations the STONE imprint on college yearbooks has carried with it the assurance of high-quality printing and "on-time" delivery. We handle the entire production job, with careful supervision from beginning to end. Working in close cooperation with the editors and staff members of college annuals, our skilled artists plan the layout. Half-tone illustrations are made under the direction of engraving experts. The utmost care in printing and binding produce a finished job of which any school may well be proud.
