MADAME GUSTAVE VIAUD
PRINCIPAL EMERITUS

The center of the Viaud School will always be Madame Viaud, its founder and principal, emeritus. No one could be more greatly loved and more highly respected. Her high sense of honor, rugged perseverance and deep consecration are qualities to be emulated by every student. To "Madame" the entire family of Viaud will always give love and devotion. We shall all sincerely strive to become real embodiment of her fine principles.

DEDICATION

When we think of spring, we think of flowers; when we think of sweets, we think of candy and when we think of Viaud, we think of "Charlotte." To students and faculty she is the embodiment of the spirit of our school. Always enthusiastic, willing and kindly. Charlotte helps with every activity. No day is too long for her, no task too arduous and no child, too troublesome. We admire her patience, cherish her smiles and wish for her presence.

So, the 1949 Spectator is dedicated to our registrar

A black and white photograph of a group of students sitting at a long table in a classroom. There are about eight students visible, some looking towards the camera and others looking slightly away. They are seated at a table covered with books and papers. In the background, a chalkboard is visible with some writing on it. The lighting is somewhat dim, and the overall tone is historical.

Class Prophecy

The Trans - Atlantic liners were rarely chartered for special groups, but because of the prestige of Bob Hunt and Ralph Dangerfield, co - owners of the Eastern Airlines, a precedent was booked. The destination was the Riviera where a world famous hotel had been leased for a reunion of Viaud's class of 1949.

Busy mechanics worked furiously in the Chicago airport making everything ready for the flight. The hour was set at noon Wednesday, June 6th, 1959. As the clock slowly ticked out the minutes, the passengers began to arrive. There were Carlisle Farmer and Alex Fekas in their sleek black limousine. Carlisle's successful drug business was in sight of the field and Alex's wholesale grocery stood nearby. Carlisle, due to the fact that he was President of the class welcomed Annie Purvis, Nancy Hale, Dot Hundley and Doris Ann Mason - - - successful business women, co - owners of a smart "Ready-To-Wear." Three charming matrons, Catherine Ann Vaughan, Joan Cooke, and Anne Brogan were brought by their handsome husbands. The affection of the couples was easily seen in the warmth of their farewell. When the luxurious baggage of the ladies had been safely stored away, all waited for the next arrivals. There were Clarence Chilton, Massie Poff, and Richard West. These had just flown in from Hollywood after a successful season in the movies. Along with them was Dulaney Ludwick, who had become a world famous pianist.

This completed the group getting on at Chicago and in a few moments the motors were started and the plane rose gracefully from the air-field.

Several hours later, the "Good-ship Viaud" approached Philadelphia airport. Another crowd waited for this plane to land. There were girls chattering and exchanging bits of personal news. Two couples stood apart from the rest, Woodrow Wright and Nelda, Louise and Ralph Martin. Woodrow and Ralph were the outstanding bakers of America having won the National medal for several successive years.

At the time of the plane's landing, two well-groomed women stepped from a new Lincoln, waved good-bye to those left behind and hurried toward the descending plane. These were none other than Ruth Thompson, Superintendent of Philadelphia Hospital and Rachel Bryant, Business manager. Margaret Jones and June Godsey, proprietors of the Jones - Godsey Beauty School, Park Avenue, New York; came next.

These all turned their eyes to see the Roanoke plane landing. From it descended Nancy Sandige, Jean Allison, Dolores Hodges, Jean Patterson, now very happily married. Arriving with them was Jean Parrish, a well-known art instructor of New York. After exchanging greetings, the whole party moved over for the landing of the "Good-ship Viaud."

When she came down, the excitement was great and in the confusion no one saw Jimmy Milliken's small private plane fly in from Washington. Senator Milliken was accompanied by Congressman J.D. Sisson.

The new comers were greeted warmly and began to bestow their personal effects in the plane. At that time, a cub marked "City of Roanoke" landed, bringing Gene Adams, Bob Hall, Ned Jennings and R.H. Quinn, successful Virginia business men.

Ralph Amos, president of Appalachian, Bob Patterson, proprietor of The Roanoke Paint Co., James Toler, owner of Toler's "Exclusive Printing" and Thomas Bradly, vice-president of the Norfolk and Western Railroad came in next. Then a delux Cadillac convertible brought Billy Holman, Truman Plasters, William Gott, Richard West, Elwood Bradford, Garland Fairchild, Arnold Overstreet, Donald Hatter, Bobby McKinney, Charles Scales and Oma Lee Spencer. These handsome and successful men had driven up from a week's fishing trip in Florida.

Billy Draper, Douglas Smith and Beverly Carter now joined the crowd. They had been in conference with the President of the United States and were high in political circles.

At that time a small chartered plane brought in Byrd Riddle and Dick Mays, proprietors of Williams Drug Co., 13th. Street, Roanoke.

A cloud of dust and a terrific back-fire heralded the approach of the 1929 Ford driven by Louise Cohn and Estelle Weiner. The 30-years antique had been purchased from Mrs. Cutshall together with ownership of the Viaud School. Estelle and Louise completed the party and the "Good-ship Viaud" again started her engines. Then the class of 1949 sailed high in the sky for a successful and happy reunion.

REFLECTIONS FROM THE PRINCIPAL

Shakespeare has truly said, "There is some soul of goodness in things evil would men observingly distill it out." Anyone who has experienced difficulties would testify to the truth of this statement.

So, the cramped quarters of our school, the inadequate facilities and the lack of beauty have built in our students a quality more precious than gold. This is the spirit of love and companionship - the helpful cooperation which every Viaud student shows.

To an outsider, perhaps, this spirit would not be obvious, but the entire faculty can testify to its truth. When a new student enters, he could not feel strange or left out, for some "oldsters" offers help in getting around. Lunches are shared, bill-folds exchanged and coats lent. There is a completely democratic spirit in the entire student body. No one considers the financial, religious, or social differences in the Viaud family. The faculty all join in saying, "We love you little, we love you big, we love you like a little pig." You fret and disappoint us, but we admire your spirit of loyalty to the school and to each other.

MARGARET M. CUTSHALL, Principal

LIFE'S HIGHWAY

How sweet to walk on life's highway,
To work, to plan for better things.
To have someone to walk with you,
To laugh, and cheer what you will do
And help you when the way seems long
Or sooth your heart with some sweet song,
For love alone can cheer our day
And make light shine on our way.

Louise Martin, '49

PARTING

The saddest thing for each to say
Is farewell to our school so dear
As we depart from crowded halls
And girls and boys with shouting calls,
Who constantly have each one said,
"This dreary School from day to day
Has worn us down in every way
We strive and work to pass the course
And go ahead by mighty force"
But now the end is almost here
We all will sob instead of cheer
For soon we'll pass from out the hall
And leave behind, things dear to all.
