It seemed to begin like any other school year.

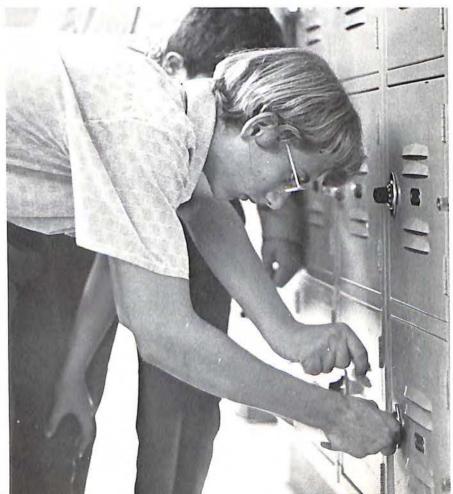

The tardy bell rang thirty minutes later as a somewhat smaller student body strolled across campus to the first homeroom period.

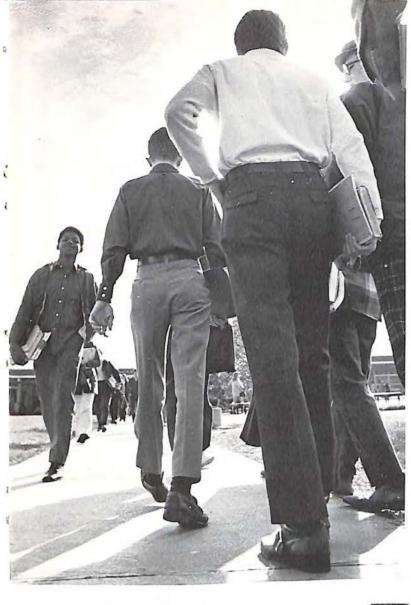

Book rental, Pilot Insurance Policies, and a fresh pack of notebook paper emptied wallets and silenced jangling coin purses.

Students fumbled with stubborn lockers; a few read the new edition of the S.C.A. handbook.

Most just caught up quickly on the summer's gossip.

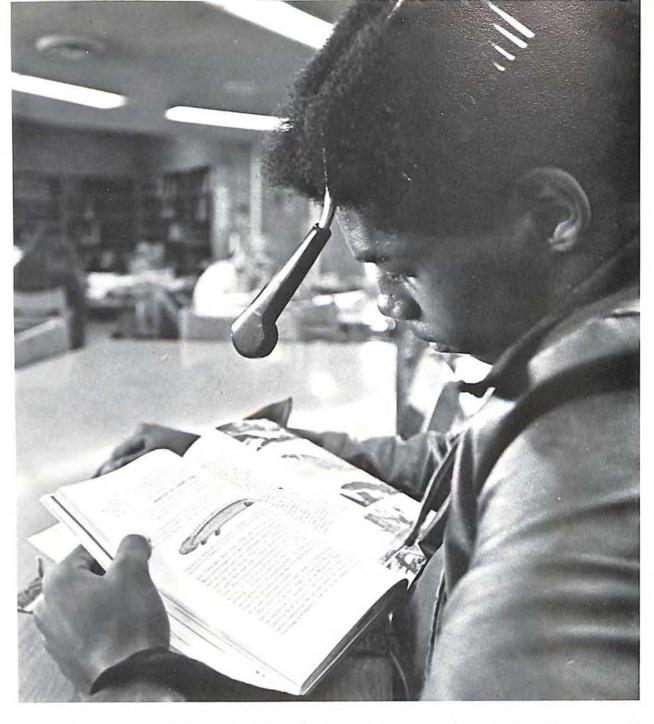

A lot could happen in three months, they found out.

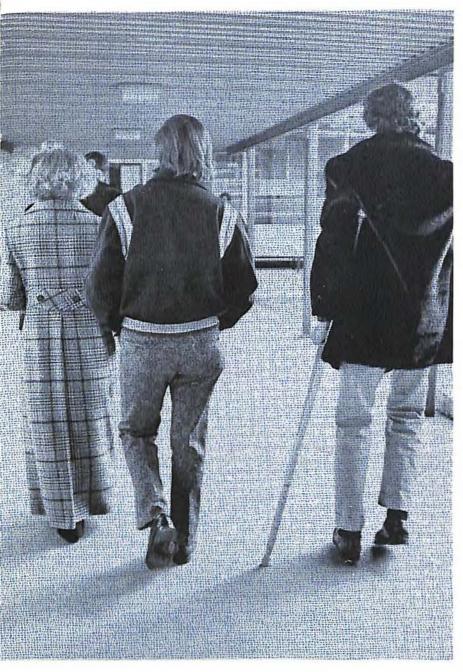

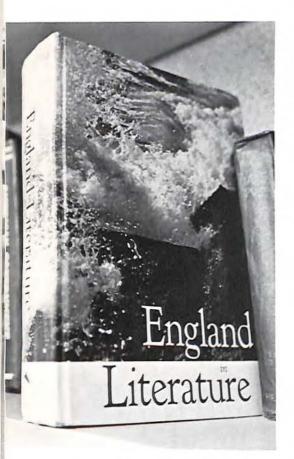

Brisk air ruffled maxi-coats and longish hair.
The stems of afro combs protruded from hip pockets and behind ears.
Green fatigues and army jackets contrasted sharply with hot pants and lace-up boots.
Here and there "Black is Beautiful" and "Virginia is for Lovers" buttons decorated shirt collars.

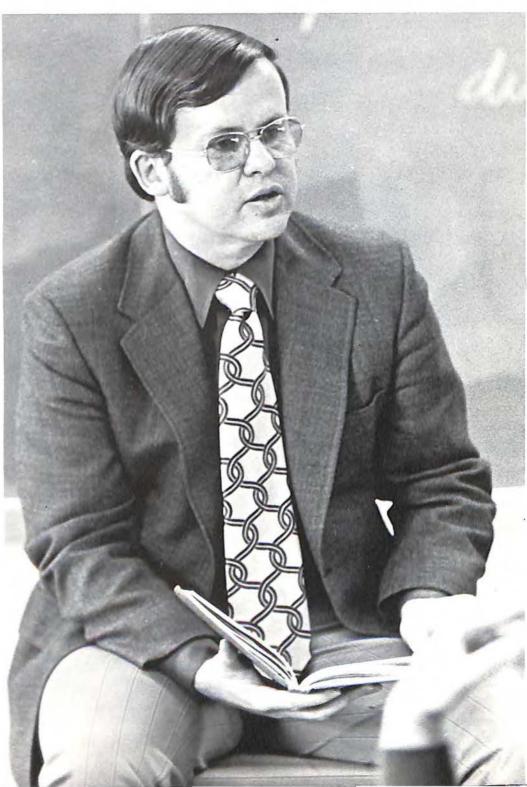

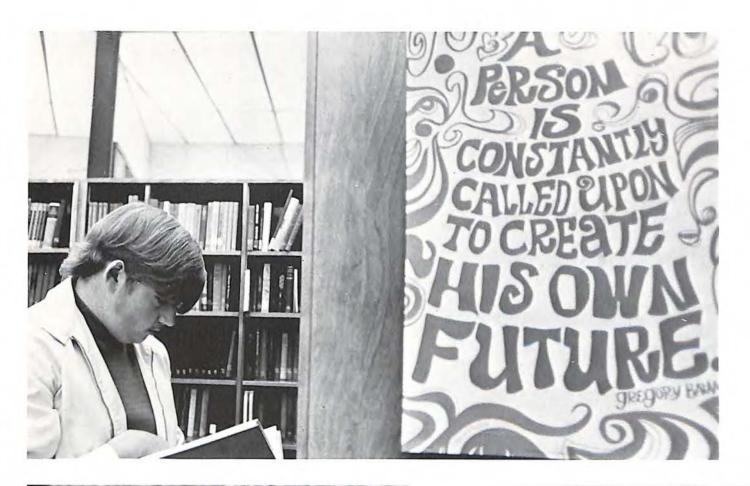

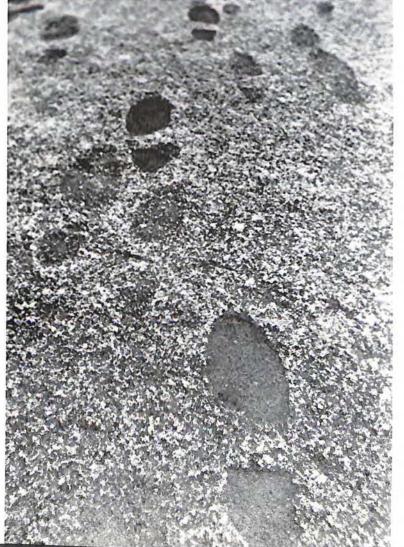

The usual daybreak appointment with education began. In yellow buses, riding bicycles, in cars, and on foot, students flocked from all directions. They left behind the security of home and entered into a different world of challenge, laughter, and friends. Verb conjugations, vertical angles, and Shakespeare probed the minds of many. Others began to experiment and dissect, to memorize and recite. Time passed quickly for some. Others sat restlessly counting the remaining minutes on the clock, or dreaming about the previous weekend's activities.

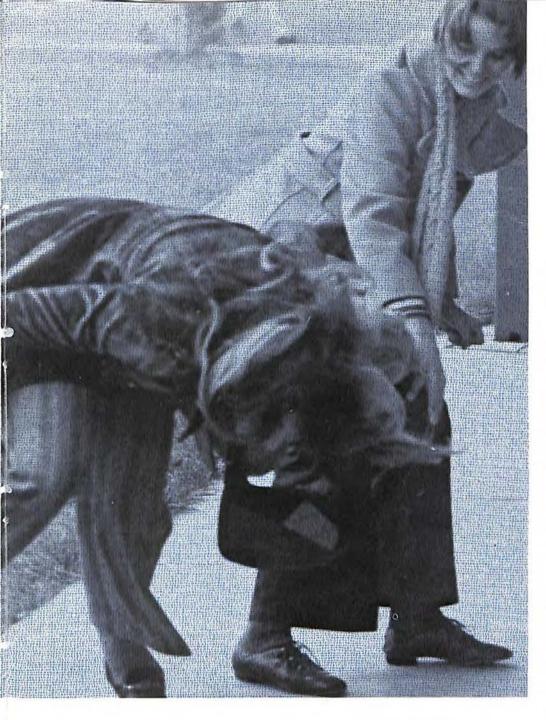

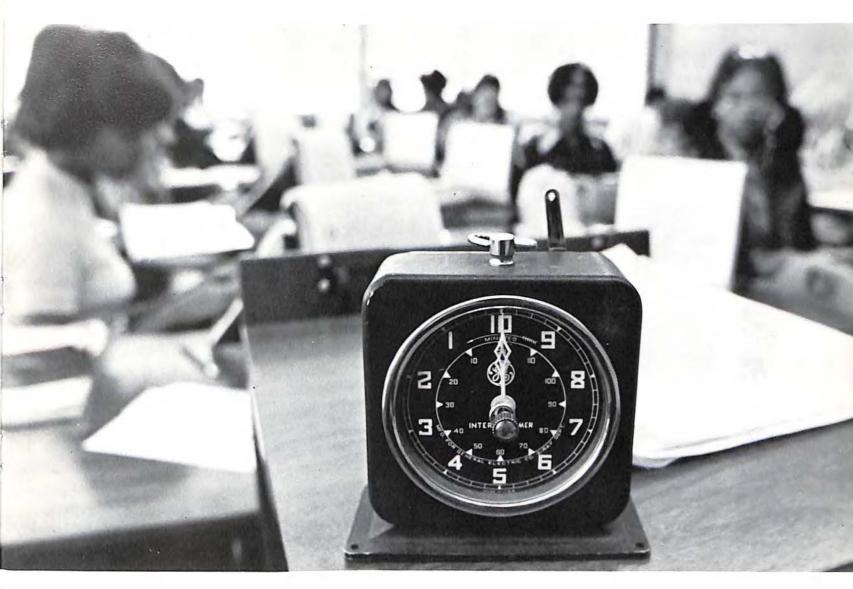

At times the whole world seemed topsy turvy. It snowed for Thanksgiving; the thermometer rose to 70 on Christmas day. Politicians debated the admission of Red China to the U.N. Parents griped about or praised President Nixon's economic freeze. Archie Bunker replaced Marcus Welby as t.v.'s most hailed hero. The Redskins lost the N.F.L. playoff; the Cowboys won the Super Bowl. The number one picked Colonels ended up even-steven for the season. It even rained for Homecoming.

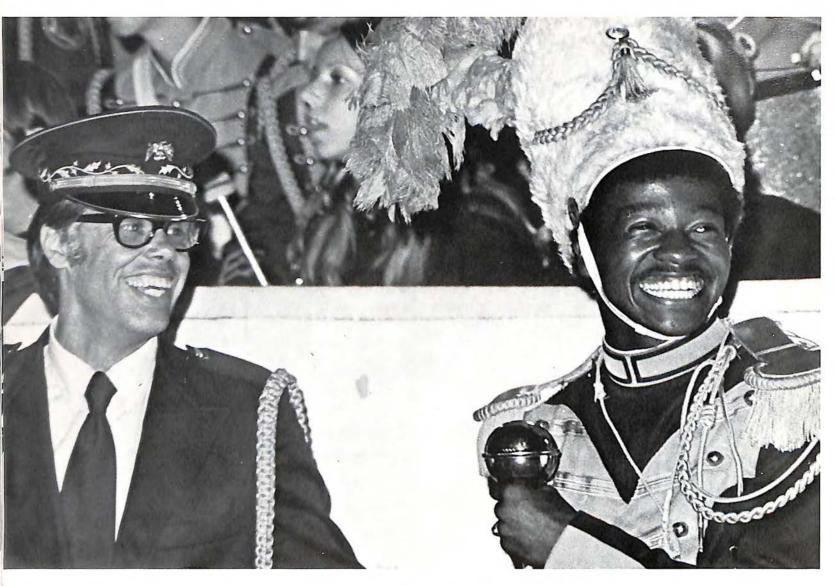

It was Thursday morning
October 28.

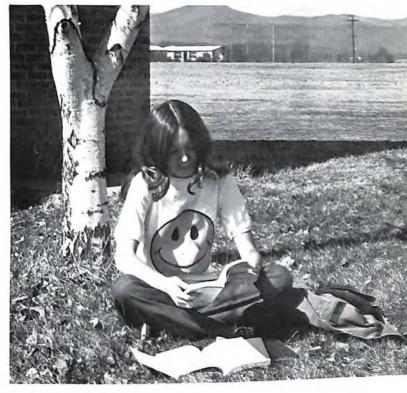

"Beat Danville"
the posters pleaded.
"Victory for Colonels."
Human Relation Councils debated the question of voting:
three to one
versus one to one.
"Keep calm" the intercom warned.
"Keep calm about what?"
most students wondered.
Tension mounted during lunch.
At one o'clock
about a hundred students gathered by the library.

Most were peaceful.
Now and then a shout echoed.
In class typing students raced against the clock for 75 words-per-minute records.
Math students did problems 1-10
on page 104.
At 2:45 the bell rang.
Everyone went home for the day.
Friday night we lost the game against Danville
ten to seven.
Three weeks later,
the first snow fell.

At times the whole world seemed too good to be true. Smiling faces shone from sweatshirts, bulletin boards, and book covers. While brightening halls and classrooms, they also reflected the moods of students as they: flipped pancakes after the bout with Cave Spring; made an "A" on that impossible Arrington test; spread greasepaint for Li'l Abner. Sometimes things happened unexpectedly, putting smiles on happy faces after the half time performance that went just right; when that special girl finally came through with an invitation to the Sadie Hawkins Dance: as the Colonelettes cut down the victory net after claiming the city championship.

What seemed to begin like any other school year soon took on an identity all its own.
Debates surged on every subject from the best-decorated Christmas door to the "loitering and littering" clauses in Guidelines for Discipline.
More open discussions meant more varied opinions and more varied opinions meant more problems to be solved. The Human Relations Councils, Principal's Advisory Committee, and S.C.A. General Council considered possible solutions.
1972 burst into being as the year of the great debate.

She Challenges Minds To Question, To Probe

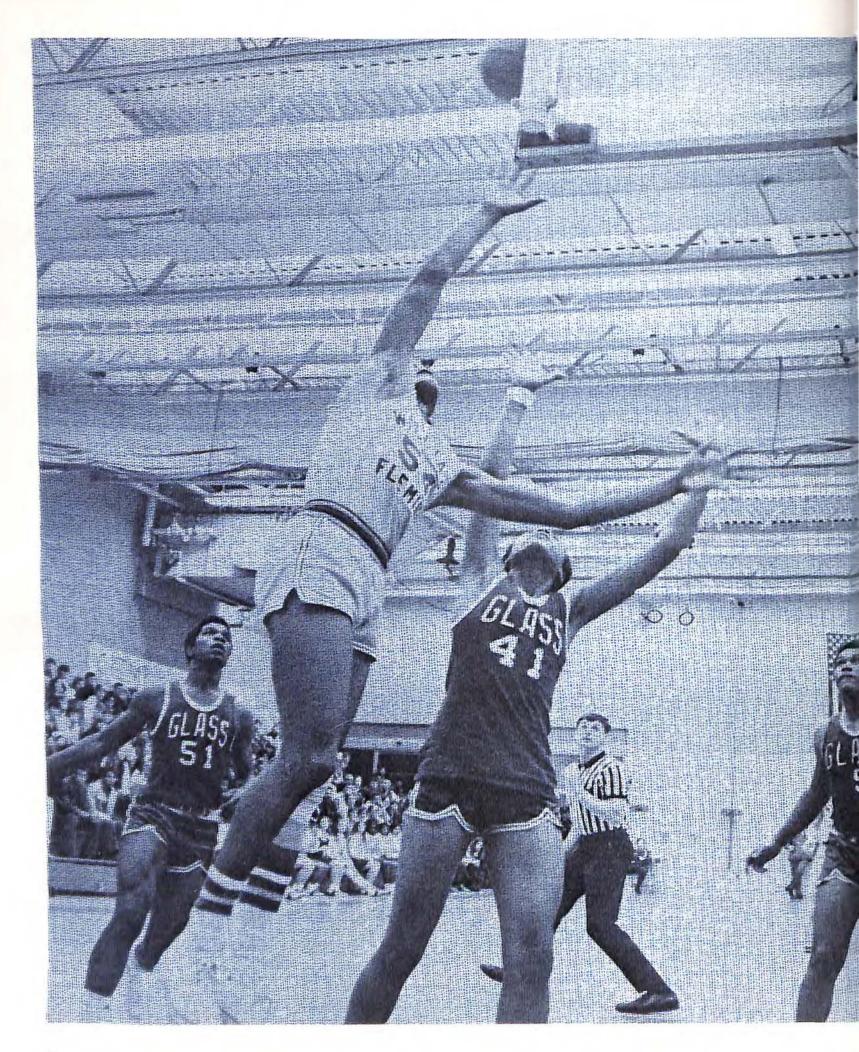

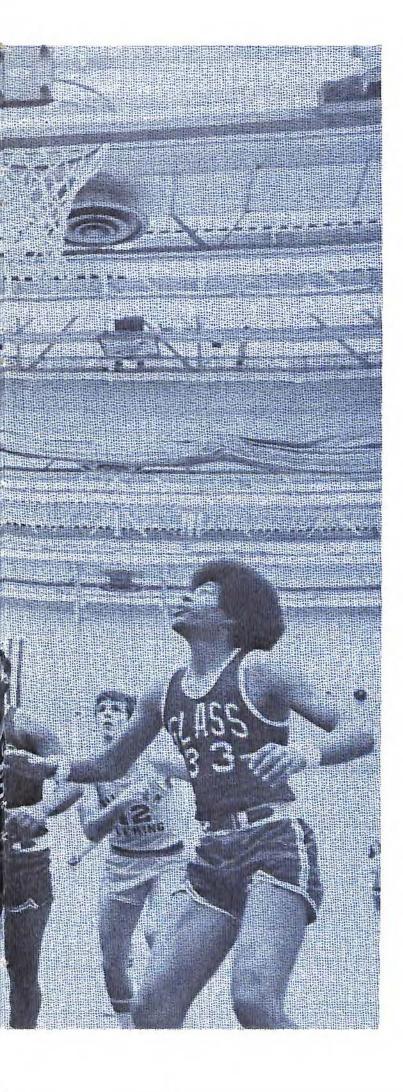

For fifty-five minutes of each day, minds reach past the memory work of grade school to question, to probe, to think. Eyes stop watching the clock. Thoughts stop straying to the weekend, and turn, instead, to learning. For fifty-five minutes of each day, a teacher shares her enthusiasm, her desire for knowledge. She is gifted with the rare combination of talent, zeal, and love that makes her classes vital and she demands Although perfection from herself, she is gentle and tolerant of those for whom learning is a struggle. Her students give her their best, because she expects nothing less of them.

But she is more to them than endless hours of translations and grammar rules. She is also their friend. She knows not only her students, but also their brothers and sisters, their happiest moments and their saddest, their hopes and their plans. To her students, she is Chapel Hill, a Mexican bus ride, a yearbook deadline met at four a.m., and three choruses of Man of la Mancha. But more than all of these, she is one who cares, who loves, and we dedicate the 1972 Colonel to her . . .

Miss Nancy Ruth Patterson

Because each was unlike all others, being together sometimes sowed the campus life with 1,348 different opinions. We chose sides and our minds plotted against each other: in class cheers for the spirit stick; in hall rivalries; in faculty-student basketball games.

Sometimes conflict came in other forms: two lines of determined players faced opposite goals on the gridiron; a convinced teacher and a doubting student held verbal slug-outs over a different point of view; a reasonable debate erupted over the experimental voting system.

Conflict, in these forms, lightly salted the campus life and made it a little more pungent.

Yet sometimes, the artificial fences fell. We all joined together for a good laugh, or an outlawed snowball fight, or a frolic in the spring grass.

Campus Life

Raindrops Complicate Homecoming Activities

Weather forecast for October 1: Fifty percent chance of thunder showers continuing through the weekend. The weather man was right. On the day planned for the homecoming game, it rained. It poured. Rain meant a pep assembly without a game; rolls and rolls of crepe paper stored on the shelf for three more days. It meant almost-wilted flowers for majorettes and cheerleaders; a mud-soaked field. It meant the postponement of the most celebrated game of the season.

For the first time, William Fleming held its homecoming dance before it played its game. On October 2, Nantucket Sleighride, a band from North Carolina, witnessed a small turnout. In keeping with the theme "New Horizons," a yellow-orange sun reflected on silver-foiled bleachers. Blue and gold streamers dared dancers to jerk them down and take them home for souvenirs.

Homecoming was halfover.

On the Monday night following the dance, shouts from the "Beat Vikings" motorcade echoed down Williamson Road toward Victory Stadium. There a caravan of convertibles paraded homecoming royalty around the field. A packed cheering section watched the Colonels romp Northside 35-0. The game won, an elated crowd forgot that three nights before it had rained. It had poured.

Napkins, Crepe Paper Make Place For Seniors

On Saturday morning, May 13th, girls sat before dresser mirrors rolling their hair and listening anxiously to the weather forecasts — hoping the expected rain wouldn't come. It came. It pattered on boys in tails and top hats carrying umbrellas as they escorted their dates. It drizzled on hairstyles which wilted in the downpour. But it did nothing to dampen the spirits of dancers in the gym.

As they stepped through the rose-covered archway, they found it hard to remember this gym as the place where they spent hours doing push ups and jumping jacks. A ceiling of blue crepe paper hid ugly rafters. Napkins and chicken wire transformed the wall to a garden of white and blue spelling out "There's a Place for Us." A stone fountain brought the final touch of romance.

Dancers swayed to the music — hesitant and a bit too formal at first. The change from jeans to chiffon or a cummerbund isn't always an easy one. But moods softened along with the music as the night wore on. The melodies of the Chordinators, joined by a trio of singers, and Early Morning Fogg echoed through the gym.

Midnight appraoched, bringing, for seniors, the realization that their "place" at Fleming would soon be gone. Dances grew slower. Memories grew stronger. Seniors left "There's a Place for Us," and walked out into the night, the rain still falling.

Principal Keeps 'Open Door'

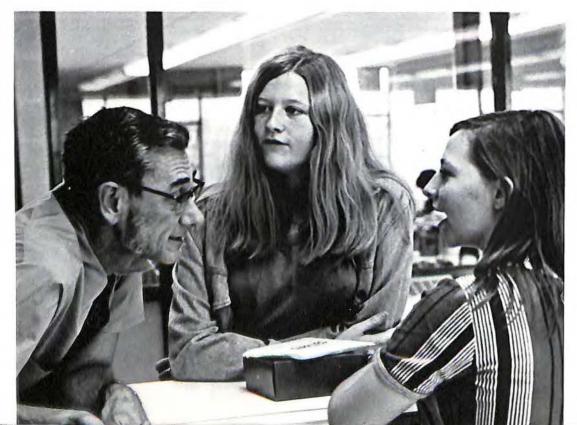

On January 26, principals from the four Roanoke City High Schools appeared on "We Two Form a Multitude," an educational television program to answer the public's questions about schools. A caller commented to the program's commentator that William Fleming Principal Frank W. Beahm, Jr. had an "open-door" policy. "The door to his office stays open to students who want to question, complain, or suggest." Assisted by four administrative deans and three school secretaries, Mr. Beahm surveyed curriculum, encouraged innovative classroom projects, and enforced discipline. New administrative policies included the requirement of Identification Cards for students, a study of curriculum revision, and the signing of Guidelines for Discipline required of all Roanoke high school students. Encouraged by Mr. Beahm, the Principal's Advisory Committee and the Human Relations Council met determine better ways of meeting the needs of a diversified student

Advisors Help Select Classes

College catalogues lined the shelves. Filing systems overflowed. Job placement booklets hid beneath a stack of personality folders. A college application nestled beside a fully scheduled calender.

In the bustling guidance office five counselors, including two new to the faculty, endlessly dealt with college entrance tests and student schedule planning. They also calmed worried parents and provided informational services. Still, each made time to be "the listener" to any student who felt like talking out problems.

Left: Recommendation forms clutter the desk of new guidance counselor Mr. Clarence Swain as he signs one college recommendation and begins another. Below: Selecting the right college causes many sleepless nights. Mrs. Doris Egge guides Eddie Allman in his decision.

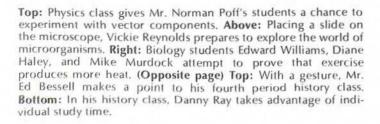

Lab Activities Test Stomachs

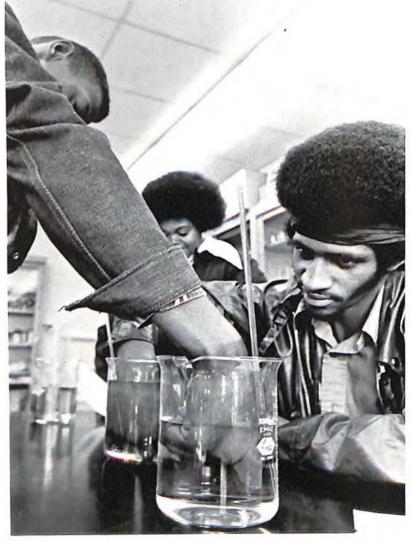

Formaldehyde tickled nostrils and uneasy stomachs took giant leaps. Quivering hands clinched scalpals and shiny blades pierced slimy frog membranes. Dissection day in biology class arrived.

Although all Fleming students are required to study biology, many others elected advanced sciences as well. College preparatory chemistry, physics, and physical science programs offered more in-depth studies of velocties and vectors, friction and forces, and Einstein's Theory of Relativity.

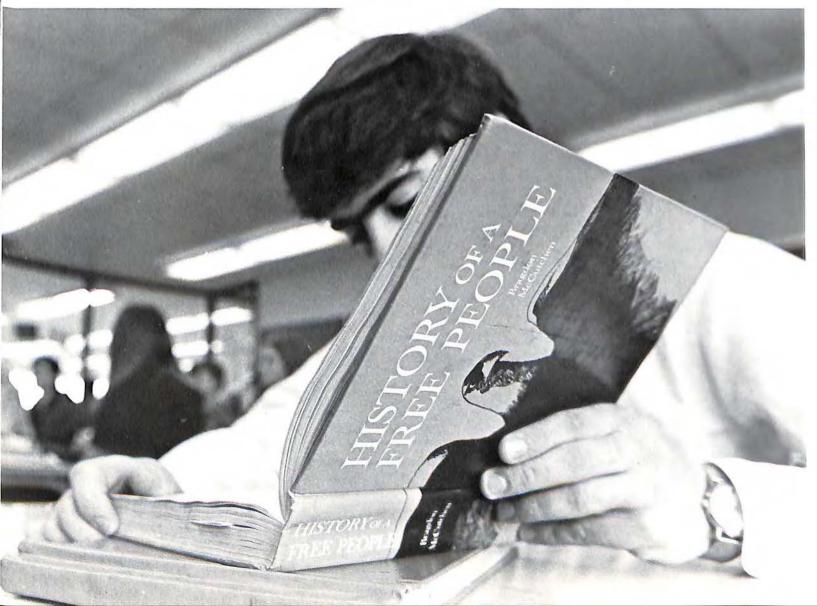

Students Visit Historical Sites

Fincastle, Appomatox, Lexington, Cherokee, North Carolina, and Washington D.C. became more than just dots on a map as social studies teachers arranged field trips to historical sites. One semester courses gave students in-depth concentration in several areas of history. In an effort to transcend the pages of a history book or the boundaries of a wall map, students in Liberty and the Law assumed roles as lawyers in a mock court. Those in Current World History debated the pros and cons of President Nixon's trip to Red China, while classes in United States in the Nineteenth Century relived the Civil War. Those in the study of Communism analyzed the theories of Marx and Lenin.

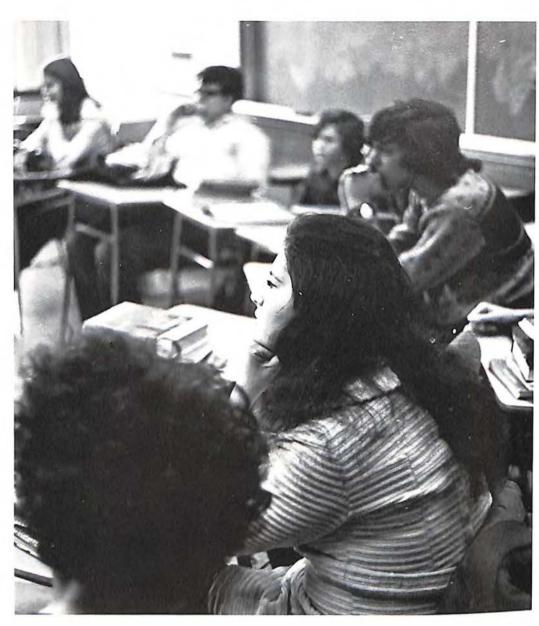

Other courses included Political History of the United States, Civics, American Ethnic Groups, Economic History of the United States and American Foreign Policy. Elementary economics and sociology rounded out the social studies program.

Trips Improve Understanding Of Languages

Once, only those with rich uncles could hope to travel to faraway lands and to converse in foreign languages. Today, with the numerous study programs abroad and special reduced air fares, opportunities for everyday students unfold. Spanish classes visited Mexico and New York; French students discovered New Orleans. German students planned a trip to Washington D.C. and Christmas carols on television, while Latin classes brought back a bit of Old Rome in their traditional Latin banquet. All gained insight through their study of foreign cultures.

Mass Media Produces Movies

Lights! Camera! Action! Students apply makeup scars in class and don cowboy clothes for the shooting of their self-produced film. Cameras click, voices recite, and another day in "Mass Media" begins.

English includes a wide variety of unusual courses enabling students to become film critics, as well as poets and theologians. It's even possible to study anything from Romeo to radio history, Moby Dick to advanced sentence structure, or correct theme form to Elizabethan theatre.

The school library boasts some 17,000 volumes plus subscriptions to a variety of magazines and newspapers. Those desiring extracurricular reading, materials for reports, or simply a quiet place for study may find the library their solution.

New Math Presents Problems

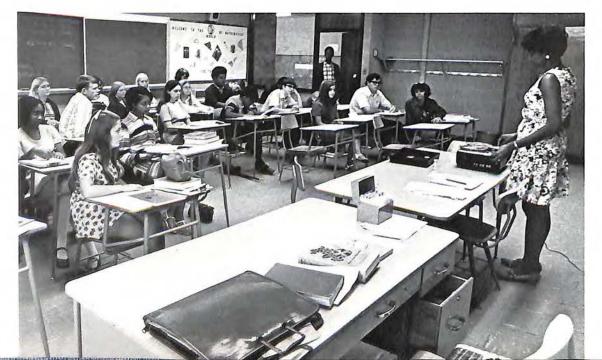

"How can you do new math problems with an old math mind?" questioned the poster in Mrs. Carol Tear's math room. Students found the answers to that question as the Math Department used varied methods to teach the world of imaginary numbers and two dimensions. Square roots and sequences, parabolas and probability, computation of the absentee rate and quadratic equations filled notebooks with figures. Business Math, Algebra I, and Geometry developed fundamentals. Students in Algebra II, College Algebra, Trigonometry, and Contract Math delved deeper into the world of numbers. Most, by the term's end, were able to do at least some new math problems with a new math mind.

Business Class Trains Typists

Plagued by a series of thefts during the winter, the Business Department operated temporarily minus several electric typewriters, adding machines, and electronic calculators. Undaunted by the thefts, typing teachers continued to teach the rudiments of the keyboard.

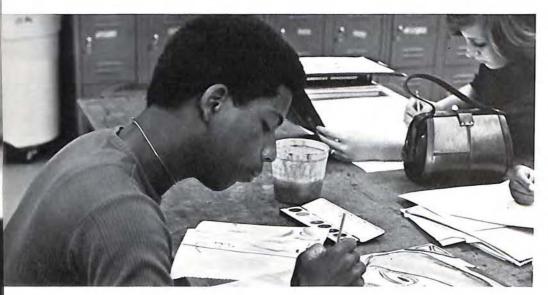

After "asdf jkl;" became routine, students ventured into typing to music and arranging typed designs; to producing business letters and reports. Background in General Business, Shorthand, and Bookkeeping prepared students for participation in Office Practice and Vocational Office Training.

Business teachers also spent many hours studying the possibilities of adapting a "Block Program" at William Fleming next year. The "Block Program," now used at Jefferson and Patrick Henry, allows business students a two-hour "block" of time to master various office procedures.

Christmas Finds Many Talents

As it does perenially, Christmas came to the campus. The Christmas spirit blended the talents of many students in the Fine Arts Department. Drums rolled, brasses accented a woodwind melody, and the Band's rendition of "The Twelve Days of Christmas" floated through an attentive assembly in the gym. The Choir and Girls' Chorus, robed in blue, marched reverently down the aisles of Huntington Court United Methodist Church and awaited the director's downbeat to begin their annual Christmas concert.

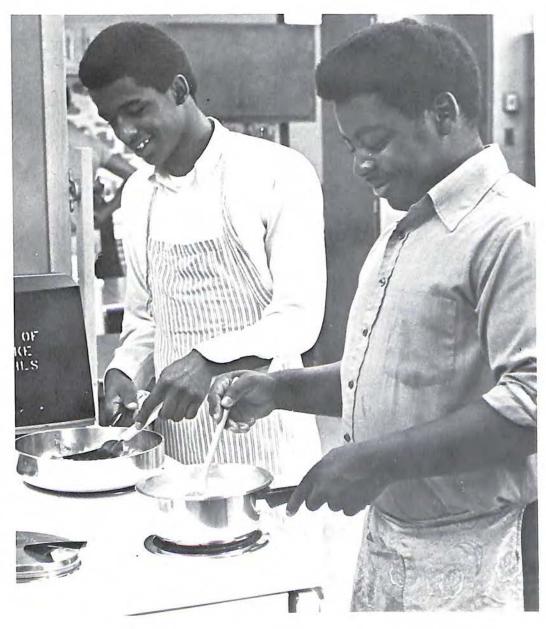

Colorful scenes in cafeteria windows were courtesy of the art department; groups of carolers in the hall sang "Un Flambeau, Jeanette, Isabella;" 'A Child is Born' with three different cast found the drama department at its best."

Christmas faded into memory, but throughout the year the Fine Arts Department helped students develop their talents. Courses in Music Appreciation and Theory gave music lovers a better understanding of the performing arts.

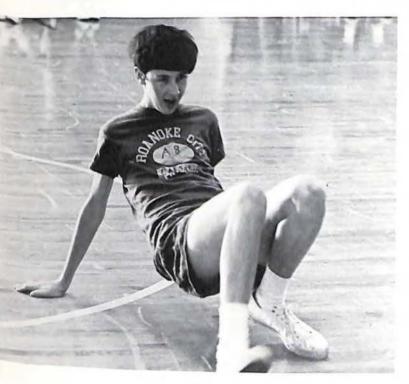

Opposite Sex Chooses Shop

Women's Lib hit the Industrial Arts Department as the first girl enrolled. Teresa Snead excelled in her studies and watched her male classmates handle welding torches, saws, ceramic wheels, and metals. Other Industrial Arts students completed projects in jewelry-making, printing, and plastics.

The Home Economics Department, always enrolled with girls, found many boys taking its two "Bachelor Survival" courses. In these courses, the males learned to fend for themselves in the kitchen and behind a sewing machine. Boasting that "most great chefs are male," they prepared a traditional Thanksgiving Day dinner for their favorite teachers.

Although Mechanical Drawing has attracted a few females in past years, the course remained womanless this year. The students in Mechanical Drawing dedicated themselves to learning the basics of isometric and architectural drawings. Those in second year completed house plans and other blueprints.

Right: After physical education, tennis shoes and gym suits clutter the locker room as students rush for their next class. Bottom: Ready for action, Francine Mitchell and Sharon Mitchell wait as Miss Lynn Coleman prepares to toss the ball.

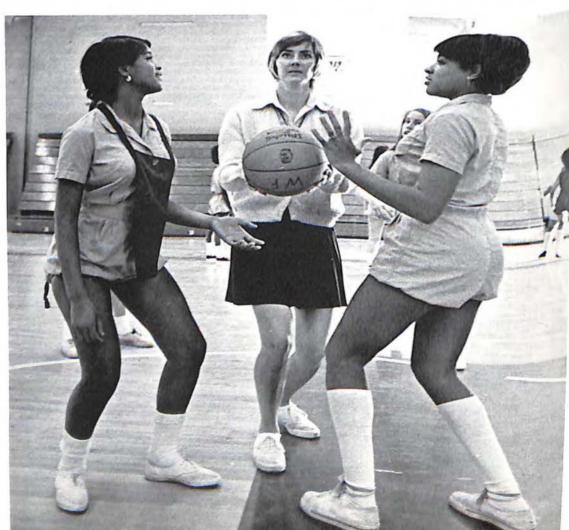

Gym Program Offers Variety

Sweaty socks and tennis shoes rested in gray lockers as students left gym class. Owners of those socks and tennis shoes met requirements for physical fitness in a variety of ways. In the fall a routine of jumping jacks and warm-ups preceded the vigorous pace of volleyball games. At other times students mastered the fundamentals of gymnastics and golf, archery and tennis, bowling, softball, and folk-dancing. In boys' physical education, teams also competed in speedball, crab soccer, and wrestling.

On alternate weeks, students retired from the gym floor to open health books. Those turning sixteen also applied for six weeks of behind-the-wheel driver's training.

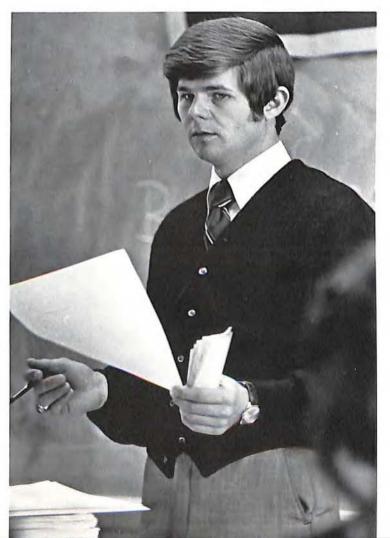

Students Seek Career Insight

The dismissal bell rang early for many students who varied classroom work with on-the-job experience. Industrial Cooperative Training, Distributive Education, and Vocational Office Training offered juniors and seniors an opportunity to "earn while they learn" at selected jobs.

I.C.T. placed forty-five students in part-time trade and industrial occupations. D.E. students worked in retail, wholesale, or - service operations. V.O.T. prepared future secretaries, file clerks, and office workers.

Although cadets in the A.F.J.R.O.T.C. program had no on-the-job training, they, too, explored career possibilities. A visit to Langley Air Force Base gave them first-hand insight into military careers.

Cheerleaders Surprise Varsity Players With 5:00 A.M. Visit

Alarm clocks br-r-ring at 5:00 a.m. Fourteen varsity cheerleaders wrapped up in familiar blue jackets and revved up cold car motors. During their early morning expeditions that led to the front porches of each football player, the girls left a path of paper footprints with the spirited plea "Stomp Lewis."

At six o'clock on a warm summer's afternoon and every Tuesday and Thursday after school, the Varsity and J.V. squads gathered to boost spirit. Decorating the locker room, treating the players to lemonade after hard practices, and meeting the Colonels' bus after games kept the girls busy.

The girls took time out during the summer to attend a week-long camp sponsored by the National Cheerleaders Association. The squad learned new cheers, along with more use of mounts and splits.

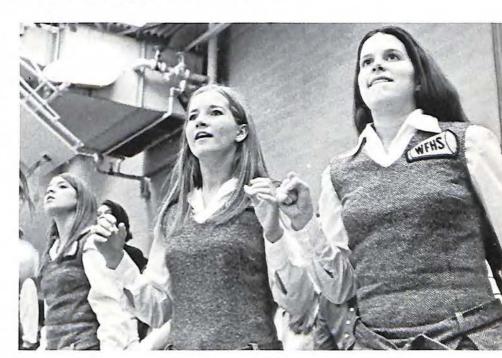

They also found time for bake sales, car washes and rummage sales. With this money, the girls bought new uniforms for the J.V. cheerleaders and gold vests for the Varsity.

Colonels Blank Two Teams In Gridiron Play

The inaugural game on the 1971 varsity grid schedule marked both a great victory for the Colonels and the debut of one of the most unusual seasons in the history of Fleming football. Plagued by injuries throughout the season, the squad exhibited extraordinary versatility as it completely overwhelmed five opponents on one of the state's toughest schedules. Setbacks also managed to leave their mark, however, as the team met five narrow defeats at the hands of its remaining adversaries. Entering the season as the state's top team, Coach Don Lee's Colonels baffled everyone as their play alternated between fantastic routs and losing struggles in a season filled with surprises.

Two of the Colonels' five victories came in the form of shutouts of Valley District opponents. Both of these wins, a 35-0 triumph over Northside's Vikings and a 31-0 conquest of the Staunton Leemen, put the Colonels back in winning form after losing several previous games.

In the Homecoming victory over the Vikings, the Colonels pushed their opponents all over the field during the first half but managed to score only a single touchdown. The second half, however, looked like a whole new game. While the Colonel defensive unit intercepted five Viking passes and paralyzed Northside's offensive efforts, Colonel quarterback Gary Overstreet threw his passing game into high gear, leading the Colonels to four more scores.

At Staunton, a small group of nearly frozen Fleming fans saw the Colonel offense consistently punch holes in the Lee defense. The Colonel defense, meanwhile, completely bottled up Staunton's desperate attempts to reach the goal line, once stopping the Leemen deep in Fleming territory following a Colonel fumble.

42-6 Wins Over Area Foes Start, End Season

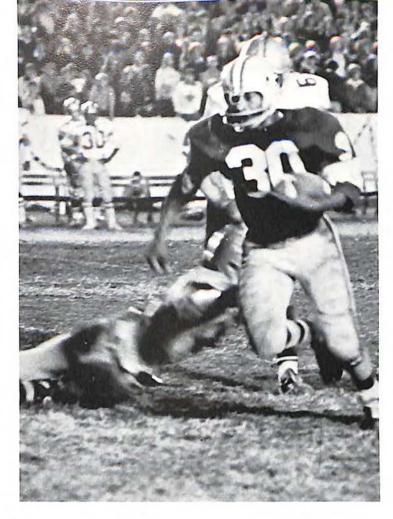

Losing no game by more than eight points while gaining their smallest win, a victory over Franklin County's Eagles, by a 25 point margin, the Colonels finished the season with a record that revealed a roller coaster of highs and lows. A pair of narrow defeats at the hands of Patrick Henry and E.C. Glass in early season play, coupled with a series of close losses to Halifax, Danville and state runner-up Andrew Lewis provided the season's low points for the Blue and Gold. The high points, in addition to the win over the Eagles and the whitewashings that ended the Colonels' losing streaks, came in the form of a pair of 42-6 victories, one of which opened the '71 season for the Colonels while the other brought it to a close.

In their opening game, a contest with Jefferson's Magicians, the Colonels seemed to provide the game's only magic as they jumped off to a quick 13-0 lead and broke the Magicians' new wishbone offense for an easy romp. The closing contest, an encounter with Cave Spring, saw the Colonels avenge the defeat that they suffered at the hands of the Knights in the second game of the '70 season. With area scoring leader Alfred Mitchell and senior end Kenny Bolden leading the Colonel effort, the Blue and Gold controlled the entire game with the exception of the Knights' single scoring drive. Bolden gave an especially outstanding performance in this victory, setting up and scoring the Colonels' first touchdown while providing the game's final tally on an 83 yard run that resulted from the interception of a Knight lateral.

Colonel Standouts Gain Individual Recognition

The uncanny manner in which the Colonels always managed to bounce back from defeat to win such big victories as those over Staunton and Cave Spring stands as a tribute to the determination of the Fleming players and coaches. At the team's annual post-season banquet, Coach Don Lee and his staff presented special awards to the players whom they felt made the greatest contribution to the efforts of the '71 team. These awards, and their recipients included: Best Defensive Back, Alfred Mitchell; Best Defensive Lineman, Kenny Bolden; Best Receiver, Jeff Reynolds; and Most Valuable Player, David Hardie. The Fred H. Smith Award for team spirit and co-operation went to Mike Thomas and Robin Saul.

In addition to the awards presented at the banquet, several players received recognition on the area, district, regional, and state honor teams. The following Colonels earned their respective honors for their outstanding contribution to this year's team.

Kenny Bolden; First Team Defense, All-Roanoke Area, All-Valley District, and All-Northwest Region; Honorable Mention, All-State.

Wray Cannaday; Second Team Defense, All-Roanoke Area.

Mike Dowe; Third Team Offense, All-Roanoke Area.

David Hardie; First Team Defense, All-Roanoke Area, All-Valley District, and All-Northwest Region; Honorable Mention, All-State.

Eddie McCallum; Third Team Defense, All-Roanoke Area; First Team Defense, All-Valley District; Honorable Mention, All-State.

Alfred Mitchell; First Team Offense, All-Roanoke Area, and All-Valley District.

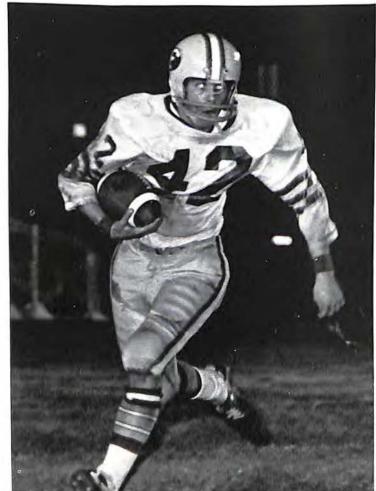

Jeff Reynolds; Third Team Offense, All-Roanoke Area; First Team Offense, All-Valley District; Second Team Offense, All-Northwest Region.

The 1971 season marked a period of problems and change for Fleming's J.V. Football Team. Composed entirely of sophomores due to the loss of freshman players to the newly initiated junior high school grid program, the squad struggled for survival throughout the season as one of the area's smallest teams. In addition to this disadvantage, a delay in the start of practice compounded the problems of the squad.

Although the Baby Colonels emerged from interscholastic competition winless, the players on this year's team gained a great deal of valuable experience through their valiant efforts. With Coach Edmund Bessell and former Fleming quarterback Barry Goodpasture in command, the squad produced several grid leaders including Randy Thompson, Curtis Sink, Wayne Brown, Steve Stewart, John Chatman, and Jim Patterson.

Inconsistency Baffles Colonels

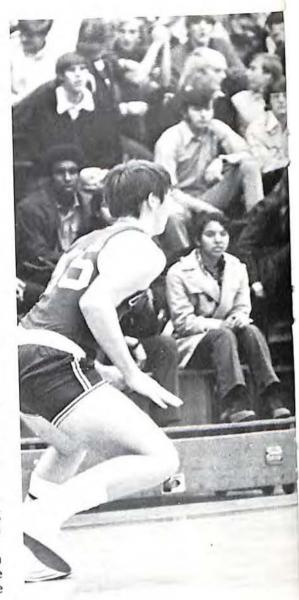

Constantly fighting to overcome a bad case of inconsistency, the '72 Varsity Basketball Team fought its way to a record of nine wins and nine losses in regular season competition. At times, the Colonels appeared ready to take the district with wins like their lateseason victory over district leader Franklin County. At other times, however, the squad seemed totally unable to get in shape for its games. Emphasizing teamwork rather than individual standouts. Coach Charles Van Lear's Colonels followed in the footsteps of the Varsity Football Squad. bewildering everyone as they alternated brilliant performances with futile struggles.

Five of the Colonels nine victories came during the first half of the season. Following an opening loss to Martinsville and an easy romp over E.C. Glass — both Western District opponents — the Colonels entered Roanoke Valley District competition with a loss to Lee of Staunton. Despite a fourth period effort in which the Blue and Gold narrowed the Leemen's lead to seven points, the Colonels could not stop their opponents long enough to gain the lead.

With their fourth encounter, however, the Fleming Cagers initiated a three game winning streak, first knocking Northside Cave Spring from unbeaten ranks and then crushing Andrew Lewis by a seventeen point margin. The Cave Spring contest proved to be the toughest of these wins with the Colonels trailing throughout most of the game. A determined fourth period effort put Fleming over the top, however, for their third victory of the season.

After defeating Lewis, the Colonels ran into another slump, falling to undefeated teams from Martinsville and Franklin County A victory over Patrick Henry then broke this losing streak, and the Colonels closed the first half of the season with a 4-2 district record.

Upset Of Franklin County Highlights Season

Moving into the second half of the season, Fleming's cagers once again ran upon hard times, falling first to Jefferson's Magicians and then dropping a pair of close, hard-fought contests to Patrick Henry and district runner-up Staunton. After their second encounter with Staunton, however, the Colonels regained their winning form, crushing both Northside's Vikings and Cave Spring's Knights.

Encountering Lewis for the second time, the Blue and Gold met defeat at the hands of the Wolverines in spite of a fourth period comeback. The game following this proved to be the Colonels biggest victory, however, as they walked over the district's firstplace team, Franklin County. Aiming for revenge after an early season loss to the Eagles, the Fleming squad defeated Franklin's cagers by a 39 point margin while obtaining a season's high of 92 points.

Finishing the season with a second victory over E.C. Glass and another loss to Jefferson, the Colonels entered the Roanoke Valley District Tournament as a "dark horse" team. Although many fans expected the squad to offer some stiff tourney competition, the Colonels fell to Cave Spring in the opening round, dispelling any title hopes. With this the Fleming disappointment, cagers closed the season.

Superior Play Brings Honors

Three Colonels received individfor their recognition contributions to the 1972 Colonel Basketball Squad. Senior Dennis Sullen and junior Jeff Reynolds both gained spots on several honor teams. Ending the season as Colonels' leading scorer, Sullen earned places on the All-Roanoke Area first team and the All-Roanoke Valley District second team. He also received an honorable mention on the All-Northwest Reynolds, Squad. Region meanwhile, earned a spot on the All-Area third team and an honorable mention on the All-Region Team.

Another Colonel, senior Alfred Mitchell, also gained recognition for his performance during the '72 season. As a result of his spirit and determination, Mitchell received the Fleming squad's "Unsung Hero" award.

Junior Varsity Finishes First In Regular Season

Displaying a potent combination of talent and teamwork, Fleming's 1972 J.V. Basketball Team fought its way to a 13-5 record and the district's number one spot in regular season competition. Opening with an easy 28 point victory over Martinsville, the squad moved through the first half of the season with only one defeat and a flawless record in Roanoke Valley District play.

The mid-season loss of high scorers Robert Franklin and Wade Gibson to the Varsity squad caused Coach Jim Ingram's Baby Colonels to suffer a temporary slump, losing two encounters. After a close defeat at the hands of R.E. Lee, however, the team tightened up and finished the season with four wins and only two more losses. Although the Baby Colonels fell to Cave Spring's J.V. Squad in the district playoff game, their performance during the regular season easily established them among the area's top-ranking teams.

Wrestling Squad Defeats Favored Wolverines

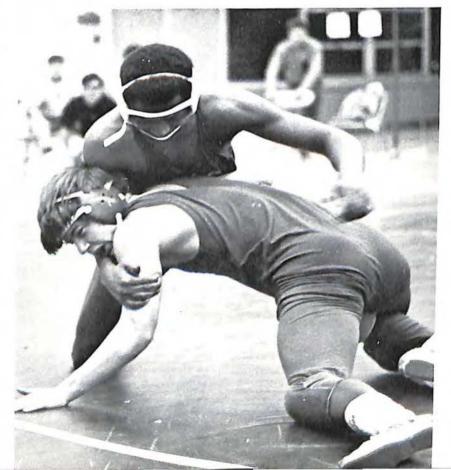

Struggling through a year of rebuilding for the Fleming Wrestling Team, the 1972 squad fought its way to a record of five wins and seven defeats while gaining some much-needed experience. The first part of the season proved to be rough for the Colonels, who emerged victorious in only one of their seven initial encounters. During the last five matches, however, the Fleming grapplers suddenly came to life and gained four more victories including an upset of the district's number two team, Andrew Lewis. As a result of this late winning streak, the team finished fourth in the Roanoke Valley District in regular season competition.

Moving into the Tournament, District the Colonels maintained their hold on fourth place with eight wrestlers earning a shot at regional competition. There, Gary Karr, whom Coach Jim Wills cited as the team's "most outstanding" wrestler, earned a fourth place ranking in the 185 pound division and the right to act as Fleming's sole representative at the State Tourney.

Track Squads Dominate Roanoke Competition

Establishing Colonel supremacy in district and valley track competition, Fleming's track squads figured as the school's most outstanding contenders in 1971-72 varsity competition. With coaches Bob Sandy and Rick Harvey in command, both the indoor and outdoor teams took several big championships. At the same time, many members of each squad established new individual records.

Taking both the Roanoke Valley District and Northwest Region titles, the indoor team finished tenth in the state meet, outscoring all other squads from this area. In regular season competition, meanwhile, the indoor cindermen set a new school record for regular season track victories, defeating fourteen opponents while losing only to E.C. Glass and state champion Menchville.

In spring competition, the outdoor squad also brought home two championships, taking both the Cosmopolitan and Roanoke Valley District titles. In addition, to these accomplishments, the team participated in the 69 school Southern Track and Field Classic, finished third of twenty-seven teams at the Dogwood Festival, and took a fourth place ranking in the twenty-two team Northwest Region Meet.

Track Squads Set Records

As is the case with almost all championship squads, the 1972 Indoor and Outdoor Track Teams fielded many outstanding individual performers. Junior Charles Robinson set a new school record in indoor triple jump competition, and became the third Colonel in the school's history to take an individual state title. Undefeated in the triple jump during the season, he also led the indoor squad in scoring, and set records in the 60 yard low and high hurdles. Co-captains Ricky Lee and Mike Washington established new school indoor marks as Washington broke the long jump record and Lee took the two mile run. A sixth record, the pole vault mark, fell during the indoor season when junior Frank Wirt broke his own record.

The outdoor season, too, saw six school records fall as the Colonels set new marks in several meets. Washington took outdoor records in both the long jump and the triple jump while Lee broke the old mile mark and Wirt set another pole vault record. In addition to these performances, sopho-Henry Richardson established a new outdoor two mile record, and Washington, Ricky Schutts, Lawrence Brown, and Eddie McCallum took the 800 yard relay mark.

Colonels Gain Second Place

Combining the offensive punch of leading hitters Lewis Dillon and David Hardy with the powerful hurling of top pitcher David Wright, the 1972 Colonel Baseball Team ended regular season play in a four-way tie for the district's number two spot. With only two seniors in the starting line-up, the squad improved tremendously on the record of last year's team, gaining seven wins in twelve regular season encounters.

Defeating all opponents but district leader Franklin County at least once during the season, the Colonels, moved into the post-season playoffs as a dangerous contender. Slightly weakened by several late-season make-up games, however, the Colonels fell to Northside in the opening round of the eliminations after twice blanking the Vikings in earlier competition. Despite their winning record, therefore, the Colonels lost their bid for a spot in Regional play.

Fleming Golfers Overwhelm Magicians' Squad

Contending with the dual disadvantages of inexperience and a shortened playing schedule, Coach Bob Lenoir's 1972 Golf Team ended its season with a record of one victory, five losses, and one tie. Faced with a period of rebuilding at the beginning of the season, the Colonels halved their opening encounter with Franklin County, and then fell into a five match slump that they seemed powerless to break.

With their seventh and final match, however, the Fleming linkmen suddenly came to life. Blanking Jefferson's Magicians for the season's sole Blue and Gold victory, the Colonels prepared for the District Tournament hoping to send a representative into regional competition. Although this hope proved to be in vain, several members of the Fleming squad gave some tough competition to tourney opponents.

Colonel Netters Gain Four Victories In District

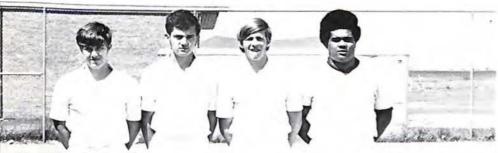

Struggling to a record of four wins and six defeats in Roanoke District competition, Fleming's Varsity Tennis Team fought a constant battle against disappointment throughout the '72 tennis season. Meeting a 3-6 upset at the hands of Cave Spring in their opening encounter, Coach Wallace Kern's netters gained only one victory, a win over Andrew Lewis, as they stumbled through their first six matches. With their seventh encounter, however, the Colonels initiated a three match winning streak. Defeating Lewis in their second encounter with the Wolverines, the Fleming netters then blanked Jefferson in two consecutive matches for wins number three and four.

Despite its losing record, the '72 Tennis Team did have several bright spots. Number one player Wray Cannaday and number three player Mike Dowe both compiled 8-2 records in district singles competition. The number one doubles team of Cannaday and Jay Noble also earned an 8-2 record, barely missing a shot at the Northwest Regional Tournament.

Cross Country Runners Finish District Meet In Fourth Place

Sweat, headaches, and salt tablets occupied many summer and fall afternoons for the ten runners who composed Fleming's 1971 Cross Country Squad, as they ran to a record of five victories and six defeats. Opening the season with three consecutive wins, Coach Rick Harvey's harriers improved greatly on the records of several previous Fleming squads and took fourth place in the District Meet.

Two runners, senior captain Ricky Lee and junior Charles Robinson, delivered outstanding performances during the season. As a result, both received All-District honors, and Lee, who earned the team's Outstanding Runner Trophy and the right to compete in the state meet, figured as the only runner from the Roanoke Valley District to gain a berth on the All-Regional squad. Sophomore Henry Richardson also performed well during the season accompanied Lee and Robinson to the Northwest Regional Meet.

Girls' Volleyball Team Earns Second Place Tie

Teamwork and long practice sessions combined to give the Girls' Varsity Volleyball Team a successful 7-2 record this year. The squad, which consisted almost entirely of juniors, fought to a tie for second place in the City-County League with co-captains Francine Coles and Jan Waldron, and top scorer Carole Poff, leading the Colonelette effort.

After opening the season with a relatively easy victory over Glenvar, the girls dropped their second contest to Andrew Lewis. The team's next encounter, however, marked the beginning of a four game winning streak that included victories over Northside, Catholic, Jefferson, and Lord Botetourt. The Colonelettes' second loss came in a hard-fought battle with Cave Spring. Following this defeat, however, an overwhelming win over Addison and a close contest with Patrick Henry provided the girls with two more victories and a winning close for the season.

The Junior Varsity Volleyball Team also closed out a successful schedule, losing only to Patrick Henry. Finishing with a 3-1 mark, the team took second place in the league. Junior Connie Dudding supplied scoring punch for the junior Colonelettes while Cynthia Edwards and Sharon Brown acted as the squad's co-captains.

Colonelettes Capture Basketball Championship

Showing the drive and stamina required to play a full-court game, the '72 William Fleming Colonelettes adjusted successfully to five-player basketball. With first-year coach Miss Lynne Coleman in command, the team fought to a 13-1 record and a second place ranking in regular season play. High scorers Charlene Curtis, Angielena Watson, and Jan Waldron led the team's powerful offense that outscored opponents by an average of over twenty points a game.

Moving into tournament play, the girls defeated Liberty in the opening round, and then crushed defending champion Roanoke Catholic for the tourney crown. Tournament officials named Angelena Watson and Charlene Curtis to the All-Tournament Team. League coaches also selected Charlene Curtis as one of seven members of the All-City-

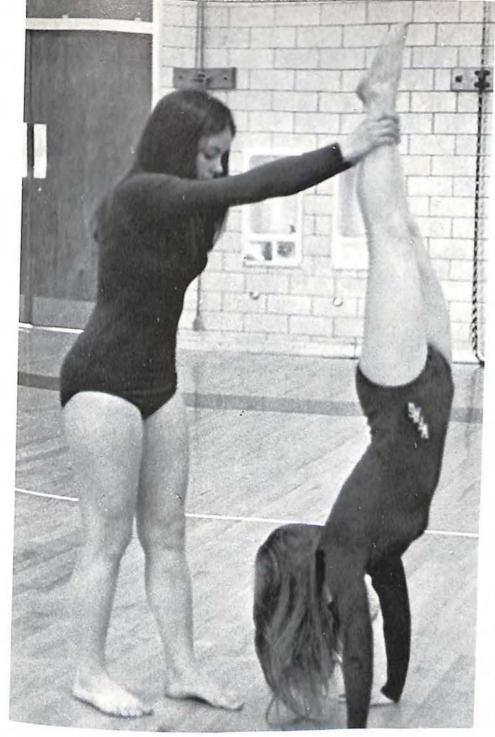

County Team.

Fleming Girls Attain Honors In Gymnastics

Coached by Miss Louise Thompson and Mrs. Betty Hatcher, the Fleming Gymnastics team participated in two meets during the '72 session. For three members of the team, the long hours of practice paid off in these contests. In city-county competition, sophomore Mary Gladu placed second in tumbling. When the team moved on to the Regional Meet, involving 109 contestants, Cindy Martin took second place in vaulting while Katrina Snyder earned a fifth place on the unevens.

Girls' Tennis Team Shuts Out Four Opponents

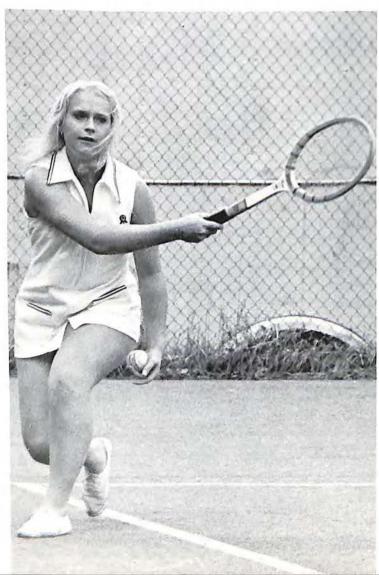

Opening the season with a prophetic victory over a tough North Cross squad, Miss Lynne Coleman's 1972 Girls' Tennis Team figured as one of the top squads in area competition. Compiling a record of six wins and one loss in regular season play, the girls blanked their last four opponents after meeting their sole defeat at the hands of Patrick Henry.

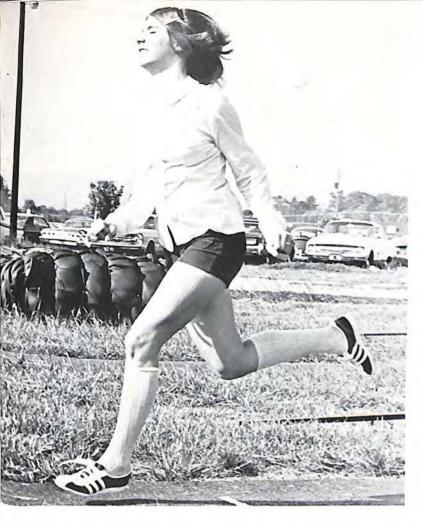

In addition to their outstanding regular season performance, four of the team's members participated in the Regional Tournament. The doubles team of Debbie Weaver and Jackie Cline advanced to the tournament's semifinals while sophomores Katrina Snyder and Mary Gladu, undefeated in regular season play, fought their way to the second round in regional doubles competition.

Girls' Track Team Routs Roanoke Competition

Advancing to the number one spot in Roanoke high school competition, Miss Bertha White's Girls' Track Team proved to be quite successful during the 1972 season. Winning two of their three regular season encounters by forfeit, the girls easily established their supremacy in the city with a 67 to 29 victory over cross-town rival Patrick Henry. The team also participated in the Regional Track Meet at Roanoke College. There, one of squad's members, Saundra Byers, earned the right to represent Fleming in the State Girls' Track Meet.

S.C.A. Members Collect Glass For State Drive

Glass bottles stacked in boxes filled closets and corners throughout the school as Student Cooperative Association officers spent much of the year collecting, cleaning, and smashing them. Adding the Fleming glass to that of other clubs, the state S.C.A. sold it and earned enough money to place brightly decorated Peli-Cans along Virginia highways. Each day during fifth period, officers and chairmen of the S.C.A. executive council met to plan and organize school activities. In addition to printing a student directory and handbook, the S.C.A. sponsored Orientation Day, a teachers' tea, assemblies, the TOPS Awards, IR cards, a Christmas social, and spring elections.

A.F.S. Auction Day Increases Club Treasury

"Get revenge on a senior" whispered posters in the halls as the A.F.S. Auction Day approached. Students auctioned for senior slaves and the highest bidders won a senior for a day — resulting in flag pole climbers and book-carriers. The American Field Service sold doughnuts, booster buttons, and baked goods to raise money for the treasury. Mike Simpson enlightened the meetings with stories of his summer in France as A.F.S. exchange student. At a Christmas banquet at the Bonanza, Andrew Lewis High School's exchange student, Ester Zurcher, spoke about life in Switzerland.

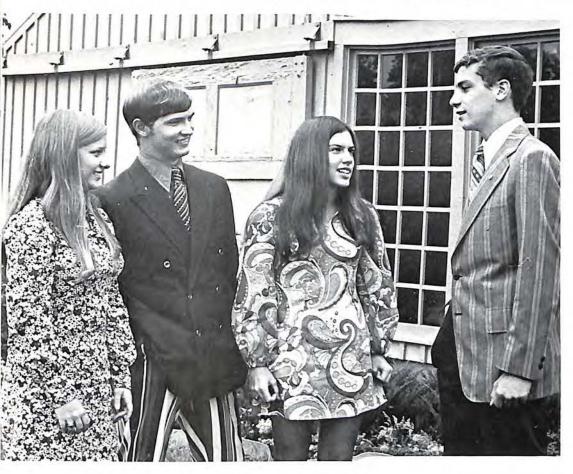

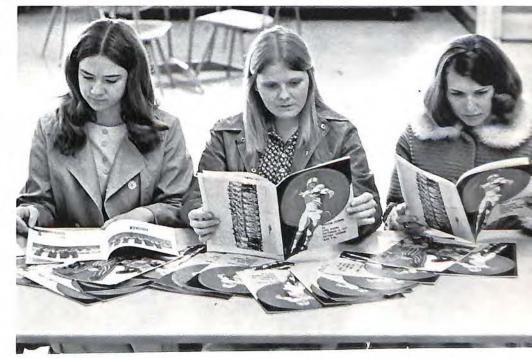

Beta Club Members Peddle Football Programs

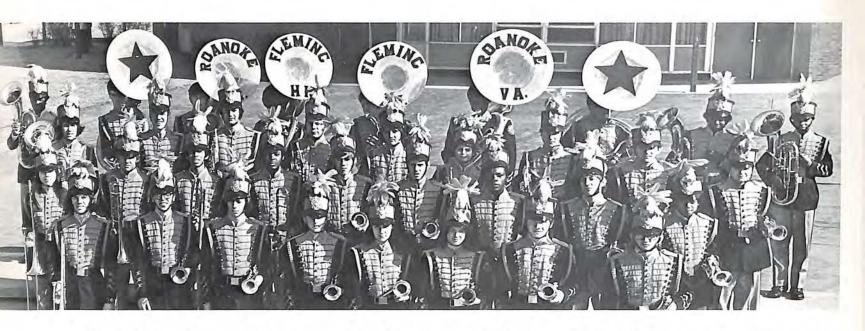

"Programs for sale!" Everyone attending Fleming home games heard this call as industrious Beta Club members sold football programs for their main fund raising project. The club donated money to a proposed statue of Colonel William Fleming and petitioned the school board for a sidewalk shelter between Coulter and Hart Halls.

In November juniors and seniors with a grade average of 4.3 and above received invitations to join. At the annual Beta Club banquet, columnist Mike Ives encouraged these new members to seek high goals. Club members worked with the Chamber of Commerce to gather information about Roanoke to fulfill their duty as host club of the state convention. Graduation found Beta Club seniors wearing the traditional gold cords honoring three years of outstanding achievement.

Band Members Perform For Halftime Shows

"And it's a touchdown!" screamed the voice on the loudspeaker. Immediately, mechanically, the band would rise, bedecked in their freshly pressed uniforms, and play the Colonels' fight song. Band members appeared for halftime shows at football games, after spending countless fall afternoons practicing their marching and harmony. Selling Fleming cushions and begging money on Tag Night earned them over $1500.

The Band boasted the only percussion ensemble in the city, and though they received an honored invitation to play at the grand opening of Disney World in Florida, conflicting dates kept them here. Beloved traditional carols rang at the band's annual Christmas concert and assembly, and favorite melodies added a nostalgic note at their spring concerts. The Band participated in the Band Concert at Gretna, and the Dance Band played for the festival in Martinsville, the Latin Banquet, and the French Club's Cabaret.

Pep Band Greets Roanoke College Champions

Clad in blue vests, gold shirts, and jeans, the Pep Band adopted new, updated music, and dropped the traditional "Peter Gunn." Their music cheered on the Roanoke College Maroons when the team returned victorous from the National basketball championship. They also performed for the teacher's Roanoke Educational Association meeting in late summer, adding fifty dollars to their treasury as a bonus. Another honor, playing for the television program "We Two Form a Multitude," and celebrating Halloween with a party added to the Pep Band's industrious year.

Majorettes Do New Routines

Brisk, lively steps accompanied whirling, fiery batons as the majorettes performed the highlight of the halftime shows at football games. Sporting sequined outfits and gold blouses with blue jumpers, the majorettes appeared at pep assemblies, football games, and Bridgewater's homecoming game and parade. The girls practiced new routines — some without batons, some with smiley-face theme. Selling baked goods and light bulbs financed a new head majorette uniform, a new feature twirler uniform, corsages, and keepsake school pins.

Choir Stages Spring Concerts

Over 500 voices boomed long and rang clear at the Roanoke Civic Center, when the Fleming choir joined in a mass high school chorus appearing at the Roanoke Symphony Concert. The choir's other honors included concerts for the State Junior Miss Pageant and the State Convention of Women's Clubs. Prominent members participated in the All-City, All-Regional, and All-Sate chorus, and everyone helped present two spring concerts. Following a welcomed tradition, the choir performed for the Christmas assembly, a Christmas concert on television, and at Windsor Hills and Huntington Court Church. They also sang their favorites for a "Festival of Sacred Music" at Huntington Court Church, and for a Delta Kappa Gamma concert. With special reverence and sentiment, the choir sang their last notes together at Graduation.

Girls' Chorus Aids Choir In Planning 'Love Is'

Fluffing out hand-made paper flowers and making peasant dresses claimed time from members of the Girl's Chorus. The Spring Concert's theme of "Love Is" included bright scenery and happy, spring-fever songs. At Christmas, the Girls' Chorus performed with the Choir at Windsor Hills Methodist Church. On Channel 7 television they spread the Christmas spirit with favorite carols and holiday music. The Girls' Chorus also joined the choir in selling candy and singing for a May concert and graduation.

'Soteria' News Spreads Word

Witnessing and testifying for Christ, members of the Campus Life Club spread and shared their faith. Loyal members met each morning in Camper Hall at eight o'clock for Bible study. The club put out its own Christian newspaper, Soteria, in which they published some of their own ideas and writings. The club also sponsored the Easter Assembly with guest speaker Dr. Jaack Arnold from Grace Church.

Chess Players Improve Logic

That victorious, long-awaited checkmate makes those minutes and even hours of deep, silent contemplation worth the effort. Members of the chess club played each other during study halls and after school. Tournaments with Madison Junior High School and Patrick Henry High School added extra competition to the chess club's year, as the chess players improved their logic-powers by spending much time on their hobby.

Debate Team Contends Jury Pro And Con

Resolved: That the jury system in the United States should be significantly changed. Determined debaters spent countless afternoons and week-ends researching the assets and faults of the American jury system. Practicing for the Roanoke District Tournament, the debate team divided and argued among themselves, trying to find every possible argument, for and against the issue. The long sessions proved worthwhile as the team won second place affirmative and third place negative at the tournament.

D.E. Members Buy Juke Box

A dime clicks, a button presses, pop music blares from the cafeteria jukebox. After numerous student requests for a lunchtime jukebox, the Distributive Education Club offered to install one. The Club furnished social activities for working D.E. members. Meetings were monthly at various restaurants, and members planned a festive Christmas party and a spring gathering at Lock Haven Country Club. The club also honored Roanoke employers at an Employer Appreciation Banquet. A D.E. — sponsored job survey at Fleming showed interest in the school's vocational program.

F.C.A. Invites Packer Player To Give Talk

When one of the Green Bay Packers visits a club, excitement stirs up! The Fellowship of Christian Athletes welcomed football player Richard McGeorge, a former Roanoker, to one of their meetings.

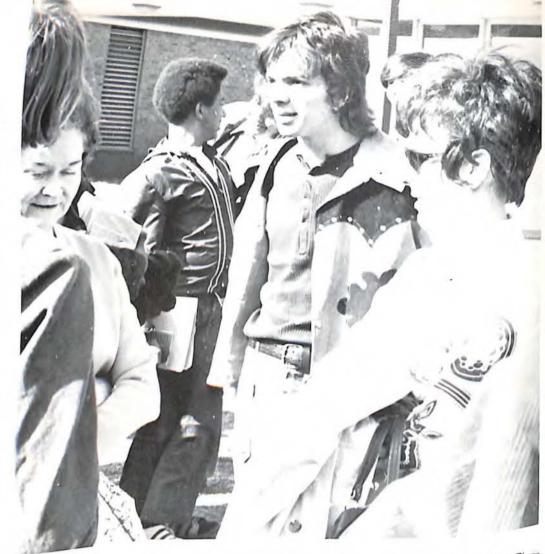

The F.C.A. sponsored this year's Christmas basket collection. Homerooms filled decorated baskets brimming with canned goods and non-perishable foods. F.C.A. members gathered the baskets, presented them at the Christmas assembly, and delivered them to needy homes in time for Christmas dinner.

G.A.A. Travels To Longwood

Unusual meetings became the trademark of the Girls' Athletic Association as members spent their time romping in the gym, shooting basketballs, swatting badmitton birdies, and slapping volleyballs across tall nets. Turning to business matters, the girls worked hard revising their constitution — making it possible for girls not participating in varsity sports to become members. Money raised from selling soft drinks at a citywide Cheerleading Clinic enabled the GAA to purchase varsity letters for all basketball, volleyball, gymnastics, tennis, and track participants in the club. Members also visited Longwood College to inspect the Physical Education Department located there.

German Club Plans Journey To 'Old Salem'

Those with a love for edelweiss, apple strudel, Castles on the Rhine, and the German tongue managed several bake sales and a car wash as fund-raising projects. The fun came, though, at the German banquet, "Jhuse." At Christmas, the club sang German carols on television and in services at Emmanuel Lutheran Church. The year's highlight was a journey to the German Moravian town of "Old Salem," in North Carolina.

Girls' Club Offers Divots For Christmas Dance

On a chilly December evening, the Fleming cafeteria whirled and hummed with its "Color My World" theme to the spirited music of the Divots. Couples in bright, gala colors flounced beneath mistletoe and balloons, and the smell of holly and roses scented the room. The Christmas Court stepped forward and Queen, Janice Askew, donned her glittering crown. Hard work and planning went into the Girls' Club annual Christmas ball; the members spent their morning in tedious decoration, and selling baked goods one weekend helped secure funds. At a pizza party at Village Inn, the girls chose the court and began organizing.

Members Plan Holiday Party At Orphanage

Nibbling on a dozen different cheeses, girls in the Home Economics Club gathered together to enjoy a "cheese-tasting" party. Apples and crackers went perfectly with the samples of soft and mild, or aged and tart cheeses.

At Christmas, members planned a holiday party for the orphan boys at Saint Vincent's Home. Homemade cookies and Christmas cakes of spice fetched beaming grins from the boys. The girls brought gifts and games and played basketball with the children. Home Economics members also sponsored a bake sale and enjoyed a pizza party.

Latin Students Hold Banquet

Pictures of Medusa's snake-covered head and Zeus's lightning rod bedecked the walls, and the blue waters of the Styx mingled with Elepian flowers at the Latin Banquet. Robed gods and goddesses dined on Roman food, while sandaled slaves scurried to and fro running errands. The Dance Band entertained between skits given by younger Latin students.

Besides the main banquet project, Latin students worked on individual projects each six weeks. Some translated the Ten Commandments into Latin or did book reports; others made models of Roman temples or created authentic togas. Mrs. Gustin's slides of Italy familiarized students with Roman settings.

Literary Club Meets At Mill Mountain Picnic

The oldest club at Fleming once again spent a year learning to appreciate great literary achievements. Students in the Literary Club also devoted much time to the forensics and drama departments and received awards for participation in state and district meets. In May, members armed themselves with food and soft drinks to celebrate the end of a successful year at the annual picnic on top of Mill Mountain.

Beautification Fulfills Motto For Key Club

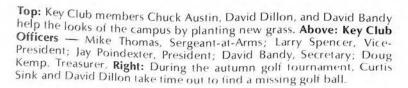

Members of the Key Club fulfilled this year's motto, "Beautify the campus," by lining the buildings with dogwood trees and reviving the area between Hart and Coulter with fresh grass. They also encouraged several clean-up campaigns at school.

Golf lovers competed in the Key Club's autumn golf tournament. Jeff Connor, Dana Carrol, Jeff Reynolds, and Bruce Chitwood received trophies as the top scorers.

As money-making projects, members spent Saturday mornings with soap suds and sponges scrubbing cars. They also sold white mugs engraved with the Fleming emblem.

New Keyettes Sell Stationery

"Don't come as you are" the rule said, and the twenty-five girls in the newly-formed Keyette Club had to obey. Dressed as hobos or in Sunday best, they attended weekly meetings in costume to avoid a quarter fine.

Not only did the service organicollect money from zation but it also sold members, stationary made from recycled paper and shared recipes for bake sales. Money earned enabled the club to make posters supporting the girls athletic program, to host the District Keyette Meeting in February, and to attend the threeday national convention in Washington, D.C.

P.T.S.A. Members Sponsor Lion's Club Dinner

Slaving over hot stoves, dedicated mothers and students spent many hours preparing meals for a Lion's Club dinner meeting. Profits from the meals enabled the PTSA to purchase school blazers for students who represent William Fleming in any outside activity.

Students, teachers, and parents worked together throughout the to create a better understanding of each other. Before each PTSA meeting, homeroom representatives gathered to report any problems to the hall chairman. The student representative then presented them to the PTSA executive board where solutions were often found through discussions.

Valentine's Day brought a festive party for the patients at the Veterans Administrative hospital — bright ballons and red crepe paper bedecked the walls. Red Cross members served homemade goodies, and the pep band entertained. The patients also enjoyed a comedy-variety show featuring Mrs. Mary Allen as Flip Wilson. The thirty-eight Red Cross members met every Saturday at the Red Cross Center to plan the annual blood mobile. They also encouraged students to do volunteer work in hospitals with retarded children.

Fleming Day Raises Money

"Fleming Day is Coming" appeared in hallways, on doors, and above water fountains. Students eyed the curious words suspiciously until they learned the ROTC's "Fleming Day" meant all day at Lakeside Amusement Park for only three dollars instead of four. ROTC cadets and their dates celebrated Christmas at their dinner dance "Dining-In." Sophomore cadets explored the Peaks of Otter Radar Station and all engaged in the traditional routines of military drill and flag-raising.

Science Club Explores Cave

Boots, heavy jeans, flashlights, and hard hats added to the wardrobe Science Club members devoted much of their time to speleology-the study of caves. Crawling through muddy passages and jumping over dangerous crevices, Fleming spelunkers joined the Blue Ridge National of the Grotto Speleological Society in exploring the old Saltpetre Cave in Greenville, West Virginia. After becoming experienced in the art of cave exploration, all in the Science Club became official members of the Virginia Junior Academy of Science and in May attended its annual meeting at Natural Bridge.

El Club Espanol Offers Skits, Talent Show at Kaleidoscope

Clodhoppers, patched jeans, and lacy gingham appeared on the hay-covered floor at the Spanish Club's Sadie Hawkin's Dance, featuring the Rotations and Rene Stevens. Guys and gals lined up for Marryin' Sam's hitching license and hopped around dusty tires and mounds of straw between dances. El Club Espanol also sponsored the annual Kaleidoscope — a lively conglomeration of skits, a talent show, and the "dating game" — as well as an autumn picnic supper, and the National Spanish Tournament.

In May, members packed their bags for a weekend in New York, visiting famous landmarks and seeing the Broadway play Fiddler on the Roof. Third and fourth year members also visited Valle Crucis, a mountain resort in North Carolina.

Thespian Play Wins Superior District Rating

"Break a leg," Fleming players whispered backstage for good luck, as hushed whispers drowned nervous giggles. The show went on.

Thespians presented a traditional Christmas play, A Child Is Born, at the school assembly and produced Fleming's first musical in several years, Lil Abner, in the fall. The Ugly Duckling won a superior rating in Sixth District competition, and appeared on WBRA television. The Fleming players also produced Curious Savage in the spring.

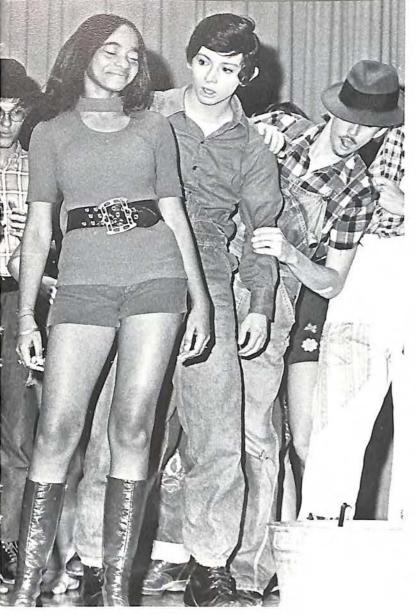

Ten Thespians appeared in Who's Who in American High School Dramatics; many attended an acting and theater workshop at the University of Virginia. At the year's end, devoted thespians honored Mrs. Dickinson, drama teacher at Fleming since 1941, with a surprise reception at the Patrick Henry Hotel.

Thespians Gather To Honor Retiring Sponsor

On June 4, Troupe 570 of the International Thespian Society turned from its usual tasks of producing award-winning plays and winning oratorical contests and forensics meets. On that night, current drama students and many Thespians from past years gathered to honor their retiring sponsor, Genevieve G. Dickinson Hidden behind the ballroom doors of the Hotel Patrick Henry, the large group of guests awaited the guest of honor. A surprised Mrs. D. saw the room decorated with posters, pictures, and programs from past plays. Thespian president Susan Bower recalled Mrs. Dickinson's career as a high school teacher, calling her work with students "an impossible dream come true."

The Thespians presented their sponsor a diamond watch, and saw her "speechless' for the first time as her daughter Jeanne, flown from Beverly Hills, California joined the celebra-

'Us' Receives Contribution From Contest

Searching for the finest of essays, stories, and poems, the Literary Magazine staff sponsored a contest open to everyone in the school. Offering twenty dollars each to the first place winners in the prose and poetry division, the staff read hundreds of entries. The staff collected enough material to fill fifty-two pages, making the 1972 US the largest literary magazine in school history.

Cartoon Characters Plug Sabre Advertisements

During the 1971-'72 year, the Sabre Staff experienced several "firsts." The first female in recent years to hold the position of Editor-in-Chief presided over the staff of twenty-nine members, the largest in the Sabre's history. For the first time, co-editors on the news staff worked side by side to keep students informed on the latest happenings around the campus.

The advertisements for the Sabre came to life as cartoon characters plugged local florists, pharmacies, and beauty salons. Snuffy Smith, Charlie Brown, and Andy Capp, who were seen frequently throughout the news, sports, and feature pages, livened up the usually drab advertisements.

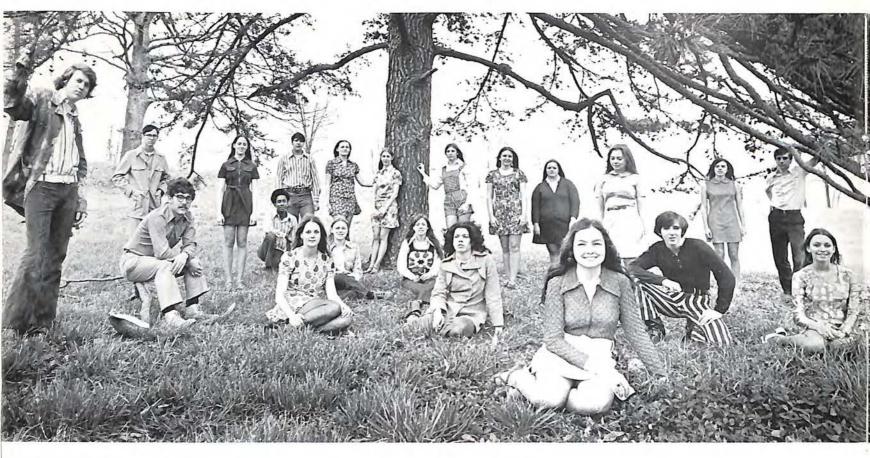

Athlete of the Issue was added to the sports pages as a regular feature and gave recognition to those individuals involved in all fields of athletics, including football, boys' and girls' basketball, track, tennis, and gymnastics.

To make Sabre Salute a little less formal and a little more informative, reporters interviewed the teacher being honored to delve into his views on religion, politics, teaching, and other subjects to reveal more of the teacher's personality.

Because an editorial is supposed to display the sentiments of an entire newspaper staff, and not the editor alone, regular editorial sessions were held involving the entire staff. Here, all the more pressing problems and complaints concerning students were uncovered and discussed.

Canvas, Headaches, Ideas Create 1972 Colonel

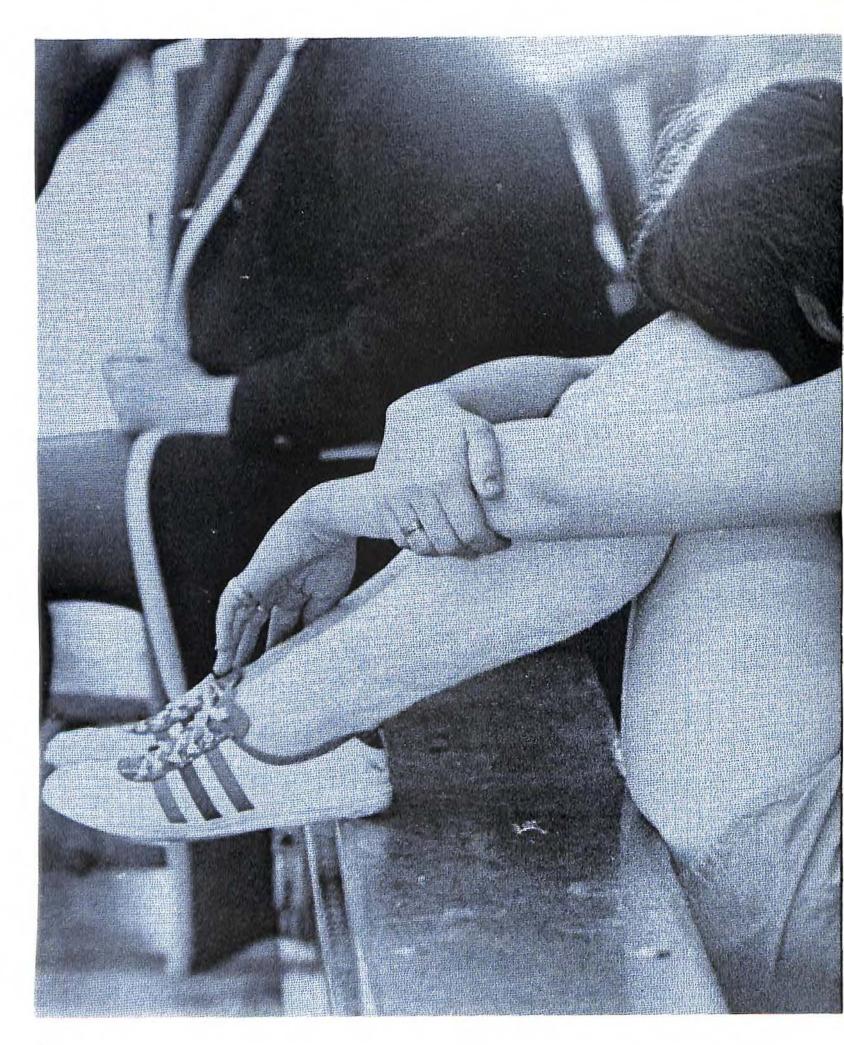

Swatches of light blue canvas cloth, specially ordered, sandwiched the two hundred pages of the 1972 Colonel. Twenty-three staff members rallied to sell over $500 of advertisements to pay for the extra cover expense and to provide special color effects.

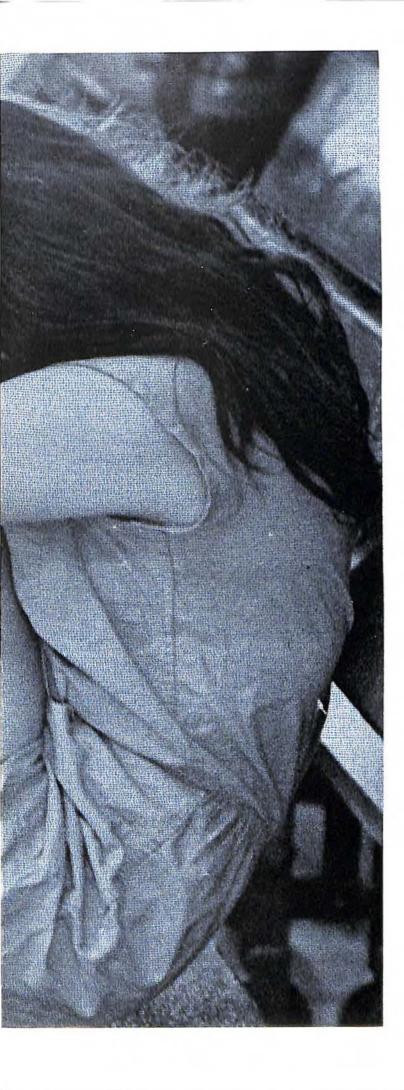

Not only did the outside differ from the leather covers of past years, but the inside of the 1972 Colonel also took on a new look. Contemporary layouts with large dominant pictures gave the layout staff Excedrin Headaches. Headlines that had to fit "just right" caused a run on Alka-Seltzer.

To gain ideas for the annual, six staff members journeyed to New York City for the Columbia Scholastic Press Association Convention; there the 1971 Colonel took first place honors in national competition. Other delegates attended workshops sponsored by the Virginia High School League in Charlottesville in November and April.

In the spring, a record number of applicants for staff positions attended a week-long workshop before submitting projects for evaluation. Senior members, seeing these apprentices face a layout sheet for the first time, looked forward to handing them their well-worn grease pencils and slightly warped scaleographs. Yet, they remembered, somewhat nostalgically, their role in the frantic, time-consuming, but indescribably exciting birth and creation of the 1972 Colonel.

Different, yet alike, we all slid from beneath warm contrasts captured many different personalities in the soon-to-be-filled halls. Dedicated athletes sported blue letter jackets; anxious spectators pinned on "Beat Lewis" buttons. Scholars thumbed through well-worn notes; the not-so scholarly managed to find a pencil before ambling to class.

A few Big Men on Campus strutted toward the field house; hordes of scrawny hopefuls stood by watching. The aggressive pushed and shoved in lunchlines; the meek took their places at the end.

Roanoke Civic Clubs Honor Fleming Students

A firm handshake, a congratulatory smile, and a round of applause awaited selected students at the Awards Assembly on May 19. Area clubs and civic organizations recognized outstanding Fleming students. Jack Vincent received the Optimists' Award. Mike Washington received not only Fleming's B'nai B'rith Award, but honors for the Roanoke Valley as well. Students voted for Corby Cochran to receive the Brotherhood Award, sponsored by the National Conference of Christians and Jews. Faculty members selected eight juniors to represent the school at Boys' and Girls' State. Susan Bower received the D.A.R. Good Citizenship Award. The "I Dare You" Award went to Shelia Cline and Ronnie Holmes.

Fleming Seniors And Juniors Earn Recognition

For outstanding achievement both in and out of the classroom, Fleming seniors and juniors attained many honors. The entire student body chose Eddie McCallum to receive the Grand TOPS Award. Corby Cochran, David Bandy, Charlene Curtis, and Vicki Shonhor were named Outstanding Teenagers of America. In December Joanie McGuigan won the title of Roanoke Valley's Junior Miss. Seniors Jack Vincent, Edwina Parks, Dennis Evans, Corby Cochran and juniors George Tshakis and Ricky Williams represented Fleming on Klassroom Kwiz and Who Knows. Vicki Shonhor won the school Betty Crocker Homemaker Award and later placed in state competition. Dennis Evans became a finalist in National Merit Scholarship competition. Junior John Belcher won the Rensselear Award for Math and Science and Jack Vincent received the Bausch and Lomb medal as outstanding senior boy in science. Linda Kelley won district, state, and national honors in the National Spanish Examiniation.

Seniors Receive Symbols Of Growth, Maturity

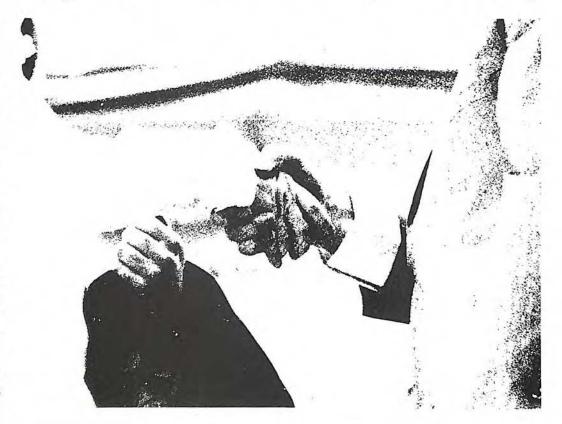

"Go placidly amid the noise and haste and remember what peace there may be in silence," Principal Frank W. Beahm, Jr. quoted from Desiderata.

At the Capping Assembly, the Class of 1972 went placidly amid the noise and haste, but found little peace; for there was little silence. Seniors dressed in starched white shirts and freshly pressed white dresses draped blue caps and gowns over their arms and waited in turn to receive "the symbol of a certain degree of growth and maturity."

Yet, what should have been a moment of joy became tarnished for most seniors. Small segments of underclassmen, unimpressed by the formality of the occasion, laughed at and mocked those being honored.

And though the seniors reeked with disgust at the rudeness showed by some, they recalled the words Mr. Beahm had quoted. "In the noisy confusion of life," he had said, "keep peace with your soul. With all its sham, drudgery, and broken dreams, it is still a beautiful world. Be careful. Strive to be happy."

Baccalaurate Services Begin Seniors Week

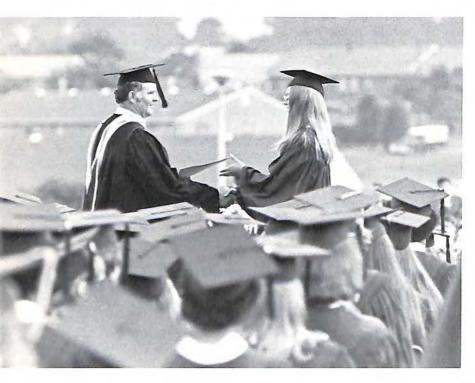

The last week of school began a day early for some 360 seniors who came on Sunday night for Baccalaureate services. "God of Our Fathers" beckoned the graduating seniors into a gymnasium transformed with plants and shrubs into a chapel-like setting.

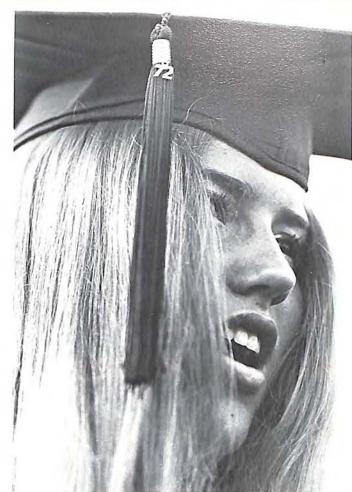

After the invocation by the Reverend H.H. Waid, senior choir members joined underclassmen in singing "Choose Something Like a Star," "The Twenty-Third Psalm," and "Holy Lord, God of Hosts."

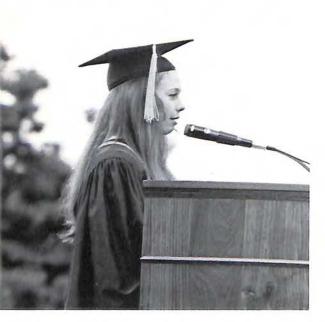

The Reverend J. Clint Noble delivered the Baccalaureate sermon, welcoming the seniors into the "guilty generation" of adults and reminding them of the characteristics of maturity. The seniors then recessed solemnly to "Onward Christian Soldiers" and hurried home to study for the next day's exams.

We cannot stand back while others do things. If we ever hope to learn, if we ever hope to be secure in life, we must act rather than observe. We must experience things for ourselves. To completely enjoy all the pleasures life has to offer, we must be able to adapt to life's mutability. There can be no set formula for living. We must build our plan and learn for ourselves as we live

Pat Ward, Valedictorian

In our preoccupation with our accomplishments and plans, we often forget to consider the most important knowledge we have gained during our school days — the simple lessons we have learned about living with other people. At Fleming this year, perhaps more than ever before, we have had many opportunities to see what bitterness and prejudice can do to people. Apathy has often been the rule rather than the exception, and hatred stemming from both racial prejudice and individual differences has often been in the forefront.

Jack Vincent, Valedictorian

The world is full of people, and we belong to the world. Every individual is important, and each of us has his own unique contribution to make. Thus, in the near future, we must examine our inner selves. We must make sure we have the courage and determination to do what is right. And being young does not excuse us, for the young must make great contributions in the coming years.

Dennis Evans, Valedictorian

We are young, full of energy, ability, and hope. With our youthly vigor, we have the power to make great progress toward the accomplishment of our ideas. No aspiration is too impossible when we believe in ourselves. We must accomplish together, for the world belongs to all of us. It is up to us to improve our world.

Joanie McGuigan, Valedictorian

And now my wish for all of us is that we find the unity we've somehow lost; that we find once more the love we had for each other — black and white, red and yellow, conservative and radical. But we can only find this love within our own

Corby Cochran, Salutatorian

What is found in the very depth of our being is the key to success. What we ascertain when we dig deep into the abysss of our inner-most part is the only thing that matters. Our concern for humanity crowds out all worries of yesterday and doubts of tomorrow.

Sherry Jones, Class Speaker

We must open our hearts and minds. We must discover what our intentions are, what our goals are, and what we expect to gain from life. This is what counts, not what lies behind us and not what lies before us, but what lies within

Charlene Curtis, Class Speaker

'We Must Experience Things For Ourselves.'

Remember those moments at school when life seemed at its best? Warren Gilbert employs the finest photographic techniques in capturing nearly every school activity on film for years of memories.

When the garage needs repairing, trust Lowe's for all the needed supplies. Lowe's hardware store sells tools and supplies for every do-it-yourself building job.

In addition to speedy prescription service, Painter's Pharmacy offers greeting cards, school supplies, and cosmetics — all in a friendly atmosphere.

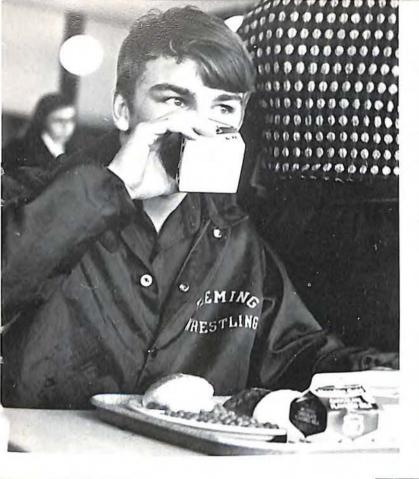

Clover Creamery delivers ice cream, orange juice, and cottage cheese, while supplying Fleming with Meadow Gold Milk—the best nickle drink in town.

Located in the center of the busy Crossroads Mall, Andy's has become a hallmark in party decorations, cards, and candy.

Say it with flowers — Webber's florist takes orders for proms, holidays, or any special occasion.

Now is the time to save for the future. First Federal's highest passbook interest encourages planning ahead.

Williamson Road Pharmacy attracts people of all ages. It offers a variety of cards and special candies, school supplies, holiday trimmings, and a speedy delivery service.

Reading, whether for enjoyment or for information, requires a large variety of material. Atlases, mystery stories, joke books, biographies — books for all occasions line every shelf in Ram's Head Bookstore.

Decisions are hard to make! Should Kim get velour hot pants in January knowing that half the day is spent running between Camper, Coulter, Hart, and the cafeteria? Or should she get that warm velvet midi coat? Leggett Suburban Store simplifies Kim's problems because she can buy both, along with boots, long scarves, mittens, and berets to complete her outfit.

When Jenkins Jewelers' representative arrives, excited juniors anxiously choose their rings. The different styles of rings, including cut stones, floating letters, and many various colors make the decision difficult. A Jenkin's ring will be a treasured token for years to follow.

For all occasions, DeLongs meets a youn man's clothing needs. At DeLongs he can choose from a wide variety of styles in suits, sweaters, jeans, and accessories.

Pictures bring back special, important memories. Ewald-Clark takes great care in developing film, and offers camera equipment, gifts, souvenirs, and greeting cards as well.

Leftovers again? No problem. Dairy Queen is only minutes away. Dairy Queen offers a variety of treats from footlong hot dogs and chicken to banana splits and sundaes. For a meal away from home, or just a snack after the game or the movies, head for Dairy Queen and "live a little."

Nothing tastes better after a late October football game than a hot Dr. Pepper. And what can beat the taste of a cold Dr. Pepper after an hour of practicing cheers? It's a refreshing, bubbling drink. Try it. You'll like it.

Walking past the large windows of Stone Printing Company and stopping to observe, one might see in operation many strange machines distributing inks of various colors. It may be the beginning of a calendar, tablet, poster, or even a business form. Whatever the job, large or small, Stone Printing handles it with professional care.

The guage registers empty, a tire goes flat, or a dry motor begs for oil, and the whole world seems too busy to lend a helping hand. But Union 76 on Peters Creek Road always offers fast, dependable service.

Right: Taking an interest in the new addition of Friendship Manor, Jonny Berkner talks with an H.A. Lucas construction worker. Below: Assisted by an employer of Duf-Rite Cleaners, Katrina Snyder picks up her clothes. Bottom: Employee Steve Roberts drives a Yellow Cab to the garage, where it will receive an inspection and wash job.

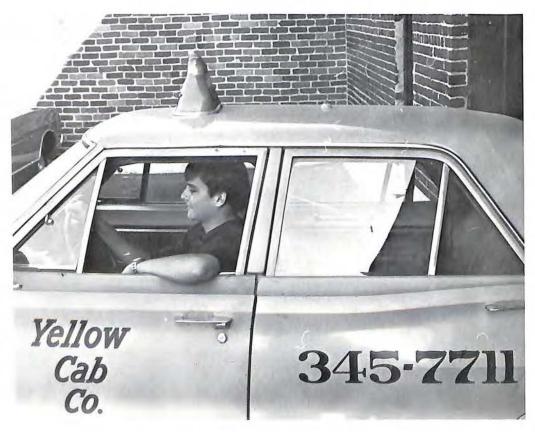

Building requires planning: for appearance, size, and conveniences. H.A. Lucas and Sons use the most modern architectural designs and techniques. Among their constructions are most of the schools in the Roanoke Valley, including William Fleming High School, and the Science building at Hollins College.

To put life back into soiled clothes, trust Duf-Rite Cleaners. Their one-day service offers the best in dry cleaning, alterations, and repairs.

When the car breaks down, or the bus is late, call Yellow Cab Company any time of the day or night. The familiar yellow cabs have offered a safe, courteous, and dependable taxi service to the Roanoke Valley for nearly forty vears.

It seemed to end like any other school year. Juniors and seniors donned prom gowns and top hats as tunes of two bands ricocheted from gym rafters.
Hands clapped and swoons echoed as the McCrary Family concluded their message of "Peach on Earth" with the latest soul songs.
Old S.C.A. officers marched down an aisle of white carpet to relinquish their duties; new officers promised great things for the year to come.
A surprised Miss Patterson stumbled across the gym floor to accept the annual's dedication. Bleachers grew hard as the Awards Assembly came to an end. Bleachers grew harder as four hundred seniors adjusted caps and gowns.

People . . .

People . . .

introverts, extroverts
People . . .

the loners and the love-bitten
People . . .

the teachers and the taught
People . . .

fancy people, just plain people.

All joined for the countdown . . .

thirteen more days . . .

178 more hours . .

twenty-six more bus rides . . .

thirteen more lunches . . .

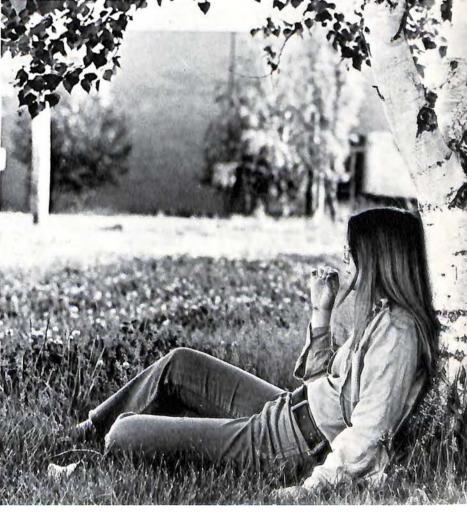

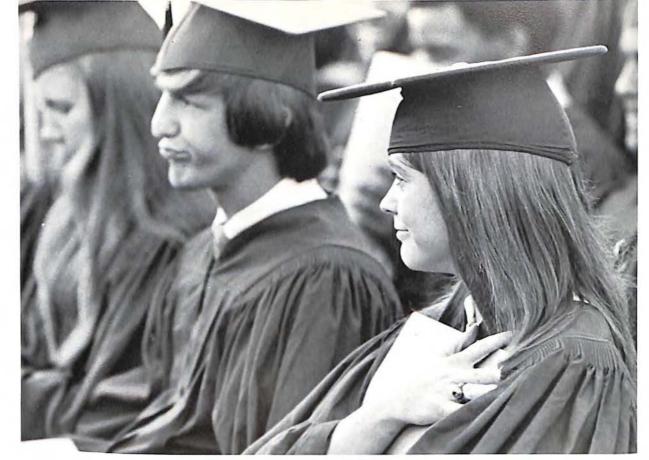

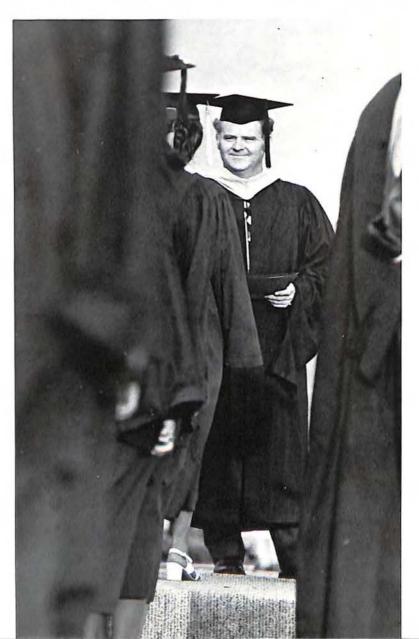

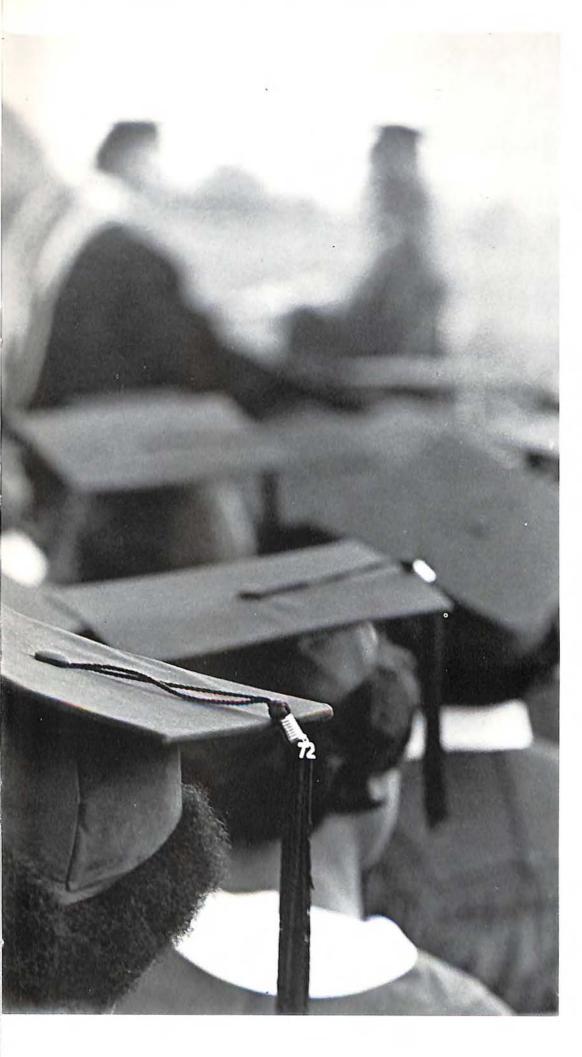

It was Tuesday eveing, the sixth of June.
Almost 360 soon-to-be graduates headed for the school one last time.
It was a cool day for June, but the palms of seniors' hands were sweaty as the first strains of "Pomp and Circumstance" began. Mortar boards stood out against a threatening sky as the Class of '72 waited for an endless line of handshakes and diplomas. Unified at last by a single piece of parchment they left behind their places "in the heart of nature's wonders" and entered the world, the palms of their hands still sweaty.
