Biographical Note:

Eunice Poindexter was born on 23 July 1913 to Edward and Willie Josephine Poindexter in Roanoke, Virginia. Miss Poindexter never married, nor did she have any children.

Eunice Poindexter graduated from Lucy Addison High School in 1931, and she continued her education at Virginia State College for Negroes. She graduated with her Bachelor's of Arts in 1935. Miss Poindexter also received a Master of Arts diploma from Columbia University in 1952.

“Lady P,” as she was affectionately called, continued to live out her legacy as an educator, civil rights activist, and active member of the Roanoke community. She taught at her alma mater, Lucy Addison High School for seventeen years before teaching at Booker T. Washington Junior High School and Breckinridge Junior High School. Her career in education spanned over forty years.

Not only was Eunice Poindexter an educator in the classroom, but she was the first African American female supervisor of music in Roanoke City Public Schools. She was the president of the Bible Band at First Baptist Church, director of the Lucy Addison High School Choir, director of the Magic City Women's Choir, and director of The Melody Choir.

Poindexter's engagement with First Baptist Church did not stop with the Bible Band. She was:

- A member of the Sunday School Orchestra
- Sunday School Teacher
- Daily Vacation Bible School Counselor
- Director of Young People's Choir for thirteen years
- Founder and director of their drama guild
- Founder and coordinator of the hospitality committee
- Vice president of the trustee board

- The author of The Journey of Faith: A History of First Baptist Church
- Church Historian

On 3 December 1938, the Beta Chi Omega Chapter of the Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority was spearheaded by Eunice Poindexter along with several other women. Miss Poindexter continued on as their president.

Other notches in Eunice Poindexter's belt include:

- Founder and President of Les Joyeuses Amies
- National Editor of the Moles Magazine
- Founder and President of Roanoke chapter of Moles
- President of the Burrell Memorial Hospital Association
- Trustee Board Secretary of Advisory Board House for Adults
- Secretary and Vice President of Mental Health Association
- Secretary and Vice President of YWCA of Roanoke Valley

Eunice Poindexter died on 13 January 2005.
