1984 MATADOR Dedication

We, the 1984 MADISON MATADOR staff, have had an important decision to make concerning the 1984 yearbook dedication. We thought about the kind of person to whom we wanted to present this honor. We came up with a person who is dedicated to her work, who enjoys teaching, who gives each student respect and attention, and who is an all around good person.

We believe we found the perfect person. She is patient and understanding. She is always glad to explain things over and over again, conjugate a verb one more time, and interpret the past participle and the ablative. She is always willing to do ANYTHING to get you to understand French and Latin. So, with great pride we dedicate the 1984 MADISON MATADOR to someone very special — to "une personne magnifique,"

MRS. CHRISTINE S. ALMEIDA.

Awake and At Work In Study Hall (Alias Skill Development)

Madison received several Instructional Mini-grants for 1983-84. These grants help innovate instructional programs. Mrs. Ross and Mrs. Cooley got a grant for calligraphy. Mrs. Shaw received money for teaching English as a second language. Miss Taylor bought enrichment materials for the library. Mr. Vandergrift led the science and guidance departments in developing a nature trail.

Seeking Out New Horizons: There and ...

In social studies we have annual field trips. Seventh graders go overnight to Williamsburg, Jamestown, and Yorktown. Eighth graders visit the capitol, city hall observation deck, and Fine Arts and Science museums in Richmond. Ninth graders tour the capitol, National Cathedral, and Smithsonian in Washington.

'87 WILL AND TESTAMENT

I, Steve Weiss, being of sound mind and body, do leave to Mike Falk, a lot of time with Miss Newman; to Mrs. Blain, another person like Chris Robbins; and to everyone else a wonderful time at Madison.

I, Tracey Thomas, being of sound mind and body, leave Lori Nicholson, Angelo Day; Chantelle Baker, a better life; and all the love and kisses to Aaron Scott.

I, Beth Oyler, leave Miss Garst someone who can make better grades. To my close friends, Virginia Dawson, Brigitte McBride, and Jennifer Beckner, good luck in the future; to Mr. Frye I hope he gets another class like his 5th; to Ms. Hardwick, I hope she gets better classes in the future; to all 8th graders, good luck in the 9th grade.

I, Amy Woodford, will: Elizabeth, the moon, SATC, and "I apologize; Susie, Stricterism; Beth, "our project"; Keith, the words, "I'm sorry"; Zach, a note; Margaret, fickleness; Ceci, a great fight; and my brother, 2 more great years at Madison.

I, Tara Hodges, being of sane mind and sound body, do will: to Angie, a red boll weevil. Jennifer, a stolen piccolo; Anne, a decent brother; Darrell, ears; Aleta, my ability to get away with anything; 3rd lunch, a bunch of crazy Bulldogs; and Mr. Shulkcum, all my love.

I, Ashleigh Harris, do will: Sarah, a surfboard case and an excuse; Ash, the ability not to be a klepto; Pam, an MBL and Cosmo; Charles and Ian, a Bud T-shirt; John, the first declension; Paige, a clay blob; Kim, an outline, Taylor, Jaws II; Eliz, Latin punchies; CL, Nantucket.

I, Mary Legg, being of sound mind and body, do will the following: to Miss Richardson, a back brace; to Sheila Hall, stilts and a New York accent like her sister; and last of all to Sonya Huff, Cindy Lower, and Ann Rakestraw, someone else to steal your belongings. Tee Hee.

I, Glenn Ramsey, being of sound mind and semi-sound body, hereby will: to Mr. Vandergrift, one suit that doesn't glow in the dark or run on batteries; to my brother, a fun year of struggling through geometry and history.
