STONEWALL JACKSON JUNIOR HIGH
ROANOKE, VIRGINIA

ROANOKE PUBLIC LIBRARY

VIRGINIA ROOM

REFERENCE

NOT TO BE TAKEN FROM THIS ROOM

Eddie Russell Camden
1923—1974

On November 30, 1974, Stonewall Jackson students and faculty lost a dear friend and dedicated teacher when Ed Camden died.

Mr. Camden came to Jackson in the fall of 1955. All of his teaching career was spent at this school. A person of many interests and talents, he was engrossed in the total program of the school. His challenge to students and associates alike was always to work with determination and pride. He had a quiet, methodical manner that never demanded the spotlight. This earned him the respect of his colleagues and students.

In all probability, if he could offer you guidance today, he would say in effect, "Don't spend time mourning my passing — get on with the task at hand. Use your time and talents to improve yourself and the world."

Eddie R. Camden's legacy to each of us should be, "Whatever our goal, strive for it with dedication, pride, love and understanding. When completed, the results should be nothing less than a work of art".

WALKER NATHANIEL ATKINSON

DEDICATION

A native of South Carolina, Mr. Atkinson started his teaching career in Georgia. After ten years, he moved to Staunton, Virginia. From there he came to Booker T. Washington Junior High School in Roanoke as an Industrial Arts teacher and was appointed assistant principal in 1967. In the fall of 1970, Mr. Atkinson was assigned assistant principal at Stonewall Jackson and has served in this capacity since.

We dedicate the 1975 STONEWALL to Walker N. Atkinson — a quiet gentleman with strong convictions whose manner is always calm — yet firm.

His long career as an educator and administrator has allowed little time for hobbies. Yet, he has spent many pleasant hours of service and worship in his church. The faculty, staff and students at Stonewall Jackson wish him well in his retirement — may the days ahead be filled with health, happiness and good hunting and fishing.
