PIONEER

PUBLISHED BY THE YEARBOOK STAFF OF

ANDREW LEWIS HIGH SCHOOL SALEM, VIRGINIAVOLUME 37

As early as Ulysses, men have envisioned a better world, but ages have passed and this idea is still only a dream. Let us, as today's students, push away from our apathetic past, and strive to make this dream an ever-present reality in ' 71 .

NO LONGER WAS THE ENTIRE SCHOOL DAY SPENT STUDYING . . .

with modular scheduling came a new freedom which offered students and teachers alike a chance to relax and unmuddle themselves. Having no scheduled study halls, teachers could gather in their offices to escape the Babel in the halls and prepare in peace for the next class. With the addition of new telephone booths, the students found it advantageous to use a few minutes of gain time for a quick call home. Lunch time brought the most freedom, however, as students were allowed to go outside and hold uninhibited discussions on everything from last weekend's date to Womens' Lib while smoking a cigarette ...

ACADEMIC EXPLOITS CONTINUED AS . . .

the Lewis student frequently found himself willingly visiting the library on gain time just for the sake of learning a little more than he was taught. Quite often, a budding young scholar would discover himself spending hours of gain time per week discussing a subject with teachers, not for the sake of a better grade, but simply for more knowledge. Nor was it uncommon to find a large number of interested students in one of the various science labs doing research without a teacher's making them do it .

From the loftiest perch in room 200 to the farthermost corner of the horticulture lab, these two snappily dressed and quick-witted gentlemen can easily be spotted making their daily rounds. Always alert to the shortcomings of modular scheduling, these two are the first to admit that this type of scheduling is not perfect, but they do believe it to be a favorable improvement over the standard seven-period schedule. Their faith in the students' ability to make the most of their academic opportunities is nearly boundless, but they are also the first to observe early signs of unruliness and apprehend gain time violators. Together they have ridden over the hills and valleys of success, the commendations and criticisms. They continually roam the school, exchanging ideas with both students and teachers, analyzing the various opinions gathered and observing the reaction to the various changes made in the school. A visitor to the guidance office often spies one team member hiding his cynical smirk behind piles of schedule forms. Any humanities student may identify the other partner by his rousing renditions of "I'll Fly Away" and other folk songs, while providing his own guitar accompaniment. Yet even before the advent of modular scheduling, these two gentlemen were known for their many contributions to the students' well-being, though each worked independently of the other. One member of this duo has long been noted for his ability to ease many a troubled senior's mind whether the problem stemmed from academic troubles, choice of college, or personal life. This man has willingly listened, advised, and comforted these students, many of whom have returned in later years to show their gratitude. Meanwhile his counterpart, before receiving the post of Project Director, served as Band Director. The students who studied under him remember all too well his critical inspections of the young rookie squads, but they more eagerly recall his quick, reassuring smile and his complimentary pat on the back. Nor can they hear his clear, sharp voice over the intercom without thinking back to the many commands and comments given over his infamous "squawk box" at rehearsals.

Because they have so unhesitatingly given of themselves, not only to aid us in our decisions, but to stand beside us in our tribulations, we find it most appropriate to dedicate the ' 71 PIONEER to those moderately modest men, Mr. Allan Earley and Mr. Gary Kelly.

WITH RELAXING

of the dress code this year, Lewis Wolves completely represented the changing styles as the new administration moved in. The styles worn by the mod mob ranged from the mini to the maxi, and pantsuits filled the gap between. In keeping with the liberalized dress, there was a greater tolerance of the longer hairstyles. Some of the more daring of the mob looked to our own Pioneer himself and found that the new style of fringed coats, vests, pants, and pocketbooks were not so new after all ...

STUDENTS BECAME . .

involved in extracurricular activities, in clubs, athletics, and dances. New clubs were born to add to the scope of individual interests. Athletics remained prominent in the school mind, while the band was everywhere at once. Representative groups such as the cheerleaders and the majorettes projected an outstanding image of the school. A more complete cross section of the school was represented in these activities, particularly because blacks became more involved. Students found that diligence and hard work made these activities fun.

SOCIAL LIFE

Throughout the school year the young scholars forsook their studies and spent much of their free time attending a variety of social events and activities. All went with one purpose in mind-they were searching for "something". This something could have been acceptance by the upperclassmen, a new friend, a good time-almost anything. By the time these sages have left Andrew Lewis, one thing will be a certainty-almost all will find some of what they have been searching for.

A FALL THEME DOMINATES HOMECOMING FESTIVITIES

Homecoming, the highlight of fall's activities, was met with contagious enthusiasm by the student body. In keeping with tradition, the Monogram Club presented thirteen senior girls, and our foreign exchange student as Honor Attendant, to the assembly as the 1971 Homecoming Court. The girls broke tradition, however, by wearing suits and "mums" instead of the usual formals. Queen Susan Cunningham, King Boozie Daulton, Princess Marilyn Lee and Prince Steve Crawford reigned over the remainder of the assembly which included the Chorale's presentation of several up-tempo arrangements, including "Raindrops Keep Falling on my Head", "Bridge Over Troubled Water", "Both Sides Now", and "Traces". With a final promenade of the gym, the Homecoming Court retired to their cars for the parade through Salem.

VICTORY AND ELATION END homecoming

Much screaming and total confusion then reigned for a few minutes until parade marshal Bill Ryan arranged floats in proper order and saw to it that everyone was on the proper vehicle. The procession moved off to the snappy rhythm of the band, recalling fond memories of past homecomings in the minds of the alumni. The many hours of hard work was very evident as the floats and cars passed. First prize winner was, appropriately, the senior float, and second and third prizes went to the sophomores and the juniors respectively.
A quick trip home for dinner and then off to the football game which ended on a triumphant note as the Wolverines whipped the Martinsville Bulldogs $24-6$. Highlighting halftime activities was the presentation of the Homecoming court and special performance by Mr. Dennis Reaser, Band Director, and Mr. Jimmy Simms, Supervisor of Music, with the active backing of the "Pride of Salem". Then the seniors took over and managed to form a slightly crooked ' 71 as the band played the "Alma Mater".

The following night, the Key Club sponsored the dance held in the cafeteria. Attendance was excellent and the Premiers Ltd. proved to be a superb choice for the entertainment. As the weekend drew to a close, students retired exhausted but happy, knowing that Homecoming '71 was, naturally, the best!

ASSEMBLIES

ACTION MAKES

AN ASSEMBLY

A new policy of letting students skip assemblies in favor of study halls made little dent in attendance as the rewards were rousing activity and provocative guest speakers.

The year opened with an informative talk to interested students in JA. Then followed a round of football pep assemblies with spirit reaching a record peak to warn visiting cheerleaders from rival Jefferson. Valiant cheerleaders and clubs strove to maintain spirit during the sports seasons by staging phony player interviews and a mock jousting defeat to the "Knights", inviting students to lead original cheers, and by plastering an agreeable soul with a pie-in-theface, while the band came on bold and sparkling. At later assemblies rampant fans cheered easy basketball and wrestling victories.

Sharply contrasted to these were other occasions calling for more dignified moods. The atmosphere of suspense turned to jubilance for fourteen girls named to the Homecoming Court. Guest ministers speaking at Thanksgiving and Christmas induced seasonal introspection and were graced by polished performances of the choirs and the new stage band.

OPPOSITE FAR LEFT: Speaking on the value of Junior Achievement in preparing for the business world is the executive director for the Roanoke Valley Branch, Mr. Richard Slaysman. # SENIORS AGREE "THE PAHDY IS ON"

Members of the Class of '71 revealed their genius in the annual Senior Talent Show. MC's David Willard and Ray Fodor kept the show moving with their ready wit. Creating the atmosphere for the party were various acts. A skit by the senior cheerleaders, an Argentine folk song from our AFS student Margarita Romano and impressions of famous personalities such as LBJ and a former principal contributed to the success of the show. The traditional singing of the "Alma Mater" to end the show was just the beginning. Mr. Bruce Jacobson, lead singer of the "Royal Kings", entertained the audience and kept the 1971 Senior Talent Show in conversation all day.

POWDERPUFF FOOTBALL

JUNIORS EDGE SENIORS 14-12

Neither frozen ground, nor arctic winds, nor scarlet ears, nor rosy noses could keep the junior and senior girls from playing their appointed game. Only one end zone of Veteran's Field had been entered all day as the juniors scored one touchdown in each of the odd-numbered quarters as did the seniors in the even-numbered quarters. The opening junior score came on the first play from scrimmage as Joyce Shepperd ran for seventy-five yards. Maxine Joiner, by completing the only two-point conversion play of the day, scored what was to be the winning margin of the ball game. The seniors retaliated before the half by scoring six points as Michie Sheretz recovered a loose ball in the junior's end zone. After a few minutes of the second half had slipped away, the juniors again tallied six more points due to a twenty-five-yard run by Jerry Sweeney. In the last period there was another fumble. This time senior captain Pam Brooks recovered it and ran it back seventy yards for the final score of the game. The juniors then ran out the clock, assured of their 14-12 victory.

YOU CAN'T TAKE IT WITH YOU

The sponsors of the department of forensic and dramatic arts can assure you, the debators can convince you, the poets can phrase you, that they're not just putting on an act. This year's Drama Department, headed by Mrs. Cheryl Hilt, performed with much success a variety of plays. The comedy "You Can't Take It With You" led the way. Presented later were the productions "Trifles", "Our Town", "Comin For to Carry", and "The Zoo Story". The Forensics Department, under the direction of Mr . Robinson, Mrs. Stimpson, and Miss Moseley, placed second in a Western District forensics meet held at E.C. Glass High School. Honors were awarded to Lewis students in categories such as public speaking, prose reading, poetry reading, and debate.

LEWIS STUDENTS LEND A HELPING HAND

The community of Rancho Norte in southern Bolivia, South America, will be able to complete the addition to its two-room school thanks to the efforts of the students at A.L. A donation of over $$ 500$ was raised by the students through various projects such as the magazine sale and a "Wear What You Like" day. The donation was forwarded to the rural community of 410 through the Peace Corps School Partnership program which brings together schools in the U.S. and schools in foreign communities engaged in self-help improvement projects. The people of Rancho Norte constructed their present day school over the past 15 years without any outside assistance. However, because of limited space only 95 of 117 enrolled elementary students have been encouraged to attend regularly and then only in half-day shifts. Joe and Gunnel Schmidt, Peace Corps volunteers assigned to the project, explained that 32 students will use the new addition and that the school will now be able to operate on a full-day schedule.

AFS UNITES THE PEOPLE OF THE WORLD

The American Field Service is an international organization that allows students to travel all over the world. Andrew Lewis has been working with the AFS for the past nine years. This foreign exchange program sends students abroad and it also brings foreign exchange students to the U. S. for a year of study.

This year, Andrew Lewis received Margarita Romano from Argentina. She stayed in the home of the Richard Guerrants. Margarita soon became involved in American high school life. She was invited to speak to the Womens' Club and also in various lecture groups at school. Margarita was active in the Keyettes, the Mixed Choir and the International Club. She thought Salem life was friendly, liberal and quite similar to home in Argentina.

The American Field Service has worked toward a better understanding between countries and in turn has brought the world a little closer together.

ATHLETICS

Pinning your opponent, diving over for the final touchdown, scoring the winning bucket, breaking the tape, and driving in the winning run-all are the results of long hours of hard work, pain, encouragement, and anticipation in that special section of school life, athletics. Athletics is the standard on which a school is often judged; Athletics is the proud representative of the students. Athletics, both major and minor sports, labor to prove their school the best, humble in victory and proud in defeat. The sacrifices of the players, coaches, parents, and the crowds all go into attaining the victory and the satisfaction of athletic accomplishment.

CHEERLEADERS

CHEERLEADERS GENERATE SCHOOL SPIRIT

VARSITY CHEERLEADERS FIRST ROW:
Gerry Sweeny, Maria Long, Lucy Grogan, Becky Turner, Lisa Smith, Kim McNutt, Karita Blackwell. SECOND ROW: Alexis Wreden, Susan Cunningham, Michie Sherertz, Mindy Maury, Jinnie Walton.

The Varsity Cheerleading squad started working this summer by making their way to camp. They received the "Green Ribbon" every day for their spirit and hard work. Returning home early meant more work; therefore, practices were held every week so they could change, make-up, and improve cheers. The cheerleaders greatly improved the school spirit by trying a few new tricks as well as depending on a few old dependable methods. They decorated lockers, had shorter uniforms made, and at pep rallies they faced each section instead of forming the traditional line.

Behind the Varsity cheerleaders were the Junior Varsity cheerleaders just as eager and just as hard working as the varsity squad. When September came they found their longoverdue uniforms ready to wear. They cheered the Junior Varsity and Freshman teams to victories and assisted the Varsity cheerleaders at the Homecoming game. Together, the two squads gave effective and appreciated support to all team events throughout the year.

SCRAPPY WOLVES FINISH 17TH IN STATE

The 1970 season was another banner year for the Andrew Lewis football team. As a result of hard work and desire the squad finished with a record of seven wins and three defeats. The team ended the season ranked 17 th in the state as one of the best teams from this area.

The Wolverines started the season slowly by losing to the Franklin County Eagles in the opener at Municipal Field. The "Big Blue" next traveled to Kingsport, Tennessee, as underdogs to the highly-rated Indians. Victory was sweet for the Wolves as they came away with a hard-fought win. The next game was at home with powerful Robert E. Lee of Staunton. The gridders put up a tough battle, but bowed to the Leemen by two touchdowns.

The Wolverines then proceeded to play two games at Victory Stadium where on consecutive weekends they put it all together. A fired-up defense with eight interceptions brought new life to the squad as the Wolves first mauled Jefferson and then soundly defeated the highly touted Patriots of Patrick Henry. The passing of Eddie Joyce Jr. to speedy Roger Surber led the offense to a fine performance. The Wolves then returned home to play Baltimore

Northern, a Maryland powerhouse. A fine defensive effort by Lewis held the mighty Vikings scoreless. Joyce and Surber once again led the offensive fireworks. The next week the Wolverines found themselves pitted against powerful William Fleming. In front of an overflowing crowd at Municipal Field, the destined Western District Champions were just too strong for the Wolves.

The measure of a good team is that they can bounce back and the Wolverines showed that they could by coming back to defeat a highly regarded Cave Spring team. Going into the game as underdogs, the Wolverines controlled the ball with a good running attack. Boozie Daulton returned to his powerful form after recovering from a preseason injury and Jesse Lawson was introduced as a fine breakaway threat. The defense, led by nose guard Jim Neese, blanked the Cave Spring offense which had been shut out in only one of its last 42 games. The Wolverines continued their winning ways as they "tamed the Bulldogs" of Martinsville for a great Homecoming victory.

After two postponements due to rain, the Wolverines played the Vikings of Northside on a rainsoaked Saturday afternoon. Roger

Surber started the season's finale off with a bang, when he returned a punt 75 yards for a touchdown. Boozie Daulton enjoyed another good game gaining over 100 yards in the mud. The defense, playing their best game of the season, shut down the renowned ground game of the Vikings to hold them pointless.

The Jayvee Football squad under the head coaching of Bill Winters proved how good they were by going undefeated in six games. The Jayvees opened their season showing a great offense in beating Northside in a high scoring game, " G " Sprinkle pacing the Wolverines with 4 touchdowns. The Jayvees then shut out Jefferson behind a strong defense. The Baby Wolves next won on a forfeit by Patrick Henry.

In the following two games the Jayvees found the going rough. In the Cave Spring game the only score was on a run by John Moore of 36 yards. In the next week Lewis sneaked by William Fleming by one point. A blocked punt by Gary Graham and a two point conversion by Eddie Reed won the game.

As a result of their strong running attack and good defense, the Lewis Jayvees had an undefeated season and won the City County Championship.

VARSITY BASKETBALL

CAGERS SHINE INDIVIDUALLY

The 1970-1971 basketball season was another one of those years for the Wolverines. The Wolves started fast by clubbing the two northern teams of Garfield and Woodbridge. Led by high-scoring senior Roger Surber, it looked like Lewis was in for a good season, but as the year progressed it was apparent that it would be an uphill fight to the very end. Many factors contributed to the disappointing season. One of the major reasons was the lack of height of our cagers in a district where giants are kings. Two district victories over Northside brightened an otherwise frustrating season of last-second losses. Upcoming sophomore star, Charlie Morgan, and the constant superior play of Roger Surber, Terry Murphy, Steve Smith and Jesse Lawson kept the Wolves in the running game after game. Entering the district tournament as heavy underdogs, the Wolves, led by the strong board play of Eddie Joyce, lost to Patrick Henry in the final minute after leading the whole game. With many returning lettermen, next year's team should be one to remember.

JAYVEES USE BALANCE TO PRODUCE WINS

Using an attack of balanced scoring and hustling defense, the $1971 \mathrm{~J} . \mathrm{V}$. Basketball team drove to a winning season. Against tough Western foes the team went 10-6. Offense, defense, rebounding, and depth all added to their success. Scoring came from many sources with Tim Stewart and David Heath leading the team. A pressing, ball hawking defense was headed by quick Billy Sample. John Moore and Gary Moore produced the consistent rebounding essential to any team. The bench provided the good depth needed when a starter got in foul trouble or the team required a spark. The team's success cast a hopeful light on the troubled varsity program for future years!

NEW COACH IMPROVES BASEBALL PROGRAM

Under the guidance of new coach David Price, the 1970 baseball team showed much improvement over the preceding year. An outstanding group of starters played like winners, combining tight pitching with clutch hitting. Though a mark of 5 9 was recorded, a winning season was envisioned for most of the season because the games were extremely close, with the margin between victory and defeat often being only 1 run. A midseason injury to a key starter caused a constant shuffling of players to new positions. However, this experience may be useful in next year's try for a winning season.

Steve Bast, Captain; Tom Blanding, Rick Deyerle.

Led by captains Pat Blackwell and Steve Bast, the 1970 Andrew Lewis Cross-Country team worked for a season marred solely by one loss. The harriers hosted William Fleming in their opener and won. Next came the season's only loss at Patrick Henry, but after the next meet Jefferson had fallen to Lewis. Two more victories were gained by again defeating Fleming and edging Cave Spring. The following week the Wolverines traveled to Jefferson and won handily. The team finished its regular season by defeating previously unbeaten Northside in its best meet of the year. The harriers returned from the district meet at Halifax County with a fourth place finish. Overall it was a very successful season, with Blackwell running unbeaten until the district, and setting course records at Fleming and Cave Spring while narrowly missing our own school record. Coach Dick Milley and team members hoped that through hard work and dedication in future seasons, Lewis will have more successful cross-country teams like this one.

TRACK TEAM BEGINS DRIVE TO THE TOP

With the dawning of the 1970 season, track and field at Lewis began a rebuilding program. The program received boosts with the addition of Walter McCulley as an assistant coach and the mysterious appearance of more football players out for track. Although the team won only one meet, this was an improvement over the preceding year's winless record. A sound group of distance runners was led by miler Steve Bast and two-miler Pat Blackwell.

Hurdler and 440-man Ronnie Hannah was a bright spot in the running events, while sprinter George Oliver and 880-man Joe LaRocco were constantly improving. Field event stars included Ray Fodor in the broad and triple jumps and Eddie Joyce in the high jump. Weight men Don Whitesell and Nicky Thomas emerged as contenders in the shot and the discus. With these and others returning in 1971, Lewis looks to improve their records of the last few years.

ALL THE LEWIS TENNIS TEAM NEEDS IS LOVE

The A. L. Tennis Team could have used a lot of love and a little more luck in this frustrating season. The hard working racketeers suffered defeats from George Washington 9-0, Patrick Henry 9-0, Fleming 6-3, and E.C. Glass 9-0. However, their spirits bounced back as they defeated Martinsville 7-2 and Jefferson $7-2$, this serving as a warning to future opponents.

A.L. SWINGS INTO ACTION

The Andrew Lewis Golf Team was off to a swinging start as they began the season under the close leadership of Coach Hubble. The pros had an amazing season as they faced rough competition headon. They suffered only a few disappointments as they were defeated by Fleming $16^{1 / 2-1} 1 / 2$, Martinsville 14-4, and Patrick Henry 18-0. After a great team effort they defeated Jefferson $161 / 2-1 \frac{1}{2}$, Marion $12-6$ and Fleming $111 / 2-61 / 2$. The rest of the season unfolded as they tied for 2 nd place in the regional and placed 8th in the state.

LEWIS SEASON

Led by regional unbeatens Jim Wells and Cornelius Perry and district unbeatens Clifford Hancock and Dale Arrington, the 1970 wrestling team fashioned a 6-5 record and finished second in the district and fourth in the regional tournaments. With the help of the rest of the grapplers whose spirited competition aided greatly the season, last year's record was much improved. Our four best wrestlers went to the state tournament, the most to make that journey in a long while, but only experienced Jim Wells could come up with a victory.

GIRLS' TENNIS

RACKETEERS BRING HOME STATE CUP

The 1970 Tennis Team opened a winning season as they hit the court early in the year with a victory-a narrow win over Fleming. They followed that by traveling to Roanoke Catholic for another big win over the Celtics. The next meet stumped the Lewis girls as they lost to North Cross, but they bounced back with a win over Jefferson. The Wolverettes were then beaten by Fleming but they edged North Cross for a win to close out their season.

Two girls represented Lewis in the state doubles and brought home the championship. The season was summed up as a success with high hopes for another successful season in the coming year.

GIRLS TAKE SOFTBALL TOURNAMENT

The Girls' softball team won the City-County championship with a seven and one record. Early practice gave the girls an added advantage over their other opponents. Losing only once by one run in their second game with Addison, the girls defeated their other opponents valiantly. The team won twice over Cave Spring, which each member considered the greatest victory of all. Their other four wins were over Fleming and Jefferson High Schools. Mrs. McCoy, having coached this team for the second year, was pleased, saying that she knew the team had the potential for a greater future.

VOLLEYBALL

TEAM REBUILDS ITSELF

In 1970, the Girls' volleyball team had a rebuilding season. The team was comprised of 2 seniors, 5 juniors, 3 sophomores, 4 freshmen, and the foreign exchange student Margarita Romano. The girls worked hard to prepare for their first game. Victory didn't come as they were defeated by Fleming and Patrick Henry High Schools. Then against Northside came "the victory", long awaited. Their final opponents, Cave Spring, Addision, and Glenvar, reigned victoriously. With eleven returning next year, though, it should prove to be a winning season.

Gymnastics started out with little thought of going to the city-county meet and much less the Regionals. The girls, with help from Mrs. McCoy, had to run out a few wrestlers every now and then to get into the old gym for practices. When the team couldn't get their own gym, they made their way on to Cave Spring to practice and make new friends.
With so many things happening at once, and only one supervisor, there were bound to be a few injuries. These ranged from Lisa Shaw falling off the beam to Angela Austin cutting her hands on the unevens.

The first meet came for the juniors and Ruth Bell tied for third place on the balance beam but slipped to fourth in the run off. The Lewis senior girls had their meet the following week with only three girls, due to injuries. Lewis made its way to the Regionals as Lisa Dearing captured third on the balance beam and uneven parallel bars, while Clay Whitman came in fourth on the balance beam.

Then came the day of Regionals and Lisa Dearing and Clay Whitman made it up at 5:00 on that Saturday morning to travel to Harrisonburg.

STATE MEET

The girls' track team began the year with a good running start. They opened with a five team meet and pushed hard to capture second place overall. Maxine Joiner and Donna Miller took a first in the running events. In the Regionals held at Patrick Henry, the relay team came in second and Donna Miller got first in the 50 -yard dash. The results of this meet sent the relay team, Arlene Halstead and Donna Miller, to state competition. Donna came home with a well deserved second place in the 50 -yard dash. With many veteran runners returning, the team looks forward to another sccessful year.

HOOPSTERS HAVE HIGH SPIRITS

Try outs for the girls' basketball team came early this year. No sooner had the announcement been made than the courts began to fill with inexperienced dribblers. These early practices also marked the faithful return of many veteran players.

Unfortunately, this early boost of energy soon dwindled as game after game slipped by without the much sought-after victories.

Through it all, the teams' spirits remained undaunted as the season wore to a frazzled end.

CLUBS

Involvement and participation are an important part of any school. A chance to serve, to learn or express one's talents-All can be found in the various clubs at Lewis. These opportunities expanded with the establishment of new clubs and improvement of old ones. Whether one is learning about foreign countries, selling candy or working on a worthwhile project, students have had the chance to obtain personal satisfaction from their many extra curricular activities.

GETTING IT ALL TOGETHER IS THE THEME OF SC

Change was advocated in Lewis' SCA this year. Their goal was trying to get more students involved and to become effective as a governing body. The "thought drop" was one of the methods used to arouse student interest. This was a small box in the cafeteria on the bulletin board. Whenever a student had a question about any school policies he would write it down and deposit it in this box. Later the question would be answered and posted on the bulletin board. This method of student, student council, and administrative interaction proved to be very successful.

Another change of the SCA was the formation of the Inter-Club Council. The head of every club or organization in the school composed this council. Every Monday these dignitaries would meet, under the supervision of the vicepresident, to discuss any projects they might take on. One such project was the sale of peanut brittle. For about two months everyone was crunching on candy and each club's treasury gained some weight.

Getting it all together seemed to be the best phrase used to describe this year at Lewis.

'71 MARKS YEAR OF CHANGE FOR BETA CLUB

Activity was the keynote this year for the Beta Club. It is a service and honor organization, not before known for this.

The club's projects were as varied as they were numerous. Projects to raise money included selling programs at a football game and participating in the candy sale. The tutoring program was continued and the club entered a float in the homecoming parade. Members were given ample opportunity to display their intelligence as several members appeared on both "Klassroom Kwiz" and "Who Knows?". After the first semester, students who had obtained a 3.25 average or better were invited to join the club in its traditional assembly. As the year, which proved to be quite productive, came to its end, the Beta Club held its annul banquet and attended the statewide convention in Richmond.

PROVIDES A ## SCHOLARSHIP

The Key Club, in its eighth year at Lewis, continued to serve the school and community in many ways, living up to its motto. The club took charge of the Homecoming Dance and at Christmas members helped distribute baskets of food to needy families. In a stroke of originality, Key Clubbers painted a billboard with a timely message urging 18 year olds to register to vote. Partly through the work of this club, Lewis students saw the return of the drink machines. Different club members were assigned each day to clean up bottles in the cafeteria, and in return for this, the club received a part of the profits. With this money they provided a $$ 250$ college scholarship to a senior. In March 25 members attended the district convention in Washington, bringing home many ideas for next year.

The Keyettes apparently were unaffected by Women's Liberation in 1971 as none of the members quit to join the Key Club. However, under the sponsorship of Mrs. Hammond, the club kept busy. The biggest project was making Christmas merry for a needy family. The Keyettes gave a tree and Christmas dinner to the family and took the children on a shopping tour. In a humanitarian spirit, the club collected books for American Indians and made valentines for veterans. As an indication that spring had finally arrived, the Keyettes reached into the past for an idea from Mrs. Hammond's high school days and sold daffodils. As the year ended, the Keyettes seemed to prove once again that a group of 30 girls really can respond to the needs of others and have fun at the same time.

Debbie Burton squeezes in some shocking gossip before a Keyette district meeting.

The Interact Club is a service organization which is affiliated with the Rotary Club of Salem. This past year, members of the club met with Rotary Club members twice a month. Many films and different speakers were brought in to enlighten the boys in the club.

Living up to their name as a service organization, the Interact Club worked through various fund raising projects so that they could adopt an American Indian child. Without his new "family" this child might not have the opportunity to get an education.

The International Club replaces the Spanish Club and includes all the language students in the school. To entice all the new members many different speakers were invited to speak. Among them was John Wulfken, who spoke of his trip to Australia. Foreign exchange student Margarita Romano came also to speak of her country, Argentina. To the great delight of the girls in the club, hockey players Claud Piche and Bobby Guindon lectured on Canada. When Christmas came, the club gave a presentation of Christmases around the world.

The club has been a great success, and next year they look forward to more exciting events, and who knows . . . maybe a field trip around the world!

LATIN CLUB

LATIN CLUB ADDS MOD MEMBERS

This year the Latin Club had a new addition to their numbers, the Mod Latin students. Offered for the first time this year, Mod Latin was designed to increase English vocabulary and has proved quite successful.

Latin Week was April 19-23. The activities included a banquet in which everyone wore Roman costumes. Earlier in the year the Sodalitas Latina met with the International Club for a Christmas party and in February for a Valentine's party. Other activities included a basketball game against the Cave Spring Latin Club and a picnic at Longwood in the fall.

The Latin Club is a part of the Junior Classical League which includes three other area high schools.

Although the Bi-Phi-Chem Club had an uncluttered schedule of group activities, the club maintained a lively interest in the science world of '71. Meeting on the traditional once-a-month basis, this group of would-be scientists explored their environment as they discussed at length the benefits of "Earth Day". A member of the Junior Academy of Science, this club provided a happy diversion from the routine modular experiments.

CHESS DEMANDS IMAGINATION AND ABILITY

With an ancient and obscure origin, the game of chess has been the pasttime of those students who were members of the Chess Club. Although there were no interscholastic tournaments, the Chess Club members remained at the peak of their ability by challenging their own teammates. The only qualification for becoming a member is an active interest in chess and the time to participate in outside activities. The Chess Club hopes to broaden its membership next year.

The Astronomy Club, though a fairly new club here at Lewis, has fulfilled the curiosity of those talented boys interested in astronomy. This year, along with other outside activities, the club attended a meeting at Hollins College where there were films and lectures in the field of astronomy. Afterward they went out and studied the stars through an amateur telescope. President Mike Good said, "This year has opened many new gates for all of us."

RANGERS TEACH KVG TO FIGHT FOREST FIRES

The KVG Club, which has been in existence as long as the school, thrives on keeping Virginia green. Its members, the rugged boys of A.L., work together in order to preserve the forests of Virginia by fighting fires as well as helping prevent them. The club's main objective this year was to learn about the land and forests in this area. They acquired the knowledge of the tools used in fire fighting and were given a chance to practice this knowledge by excursions into the wooded areas nearby. Andrew Lewis was proud to have so many young men conscious of conservation.

BUDDING CLARA BARTONS MEET RISING DEMAND

Service was the key word associated with the Red Cross Club of '71. Their efforts to promote the well-being of hospital patients throughout the Roanoke Valley did not go unheeded. Many of its members anticipated the school year by working as "candy stripers" while others entertained the patients of the Veterans Administration Hospital. Their chief function, however, was the Blood Donor Drive. The Red Cross worked hard to bring to the attention of students as well as teachers the decreasing amount of blood available in our community and the nation. The club worked hand-inhand with the local chapters of the Red Cross to produce an integral service to the school and community.

FUTURE HOMEMAKERS OF AMERICA

HOMEMAKERS HAVE EVENT

FILLED YEAR

The Future Homemakers of America at Andrew Lewis is a service organization under the sponsorship of the home economics department. Meetings were held monthly, where service projects and social functions were planned. Participation in the Homecoming Parade, a fashion show, and a field trip to a bridal shop were among the various activities. Their main project has been to earn money for an air conditioner for the foods department. To do this, a series of bake sales were held, much to the delight of the student body. The members of the club all agree that it has been a successful year.

DISTRIBUTIVE EDUCATION CLUB

PROFESSIONS CHALLENGE D E C A MEMBERS

Distributive Education of America is a national youth organization. Its members consist of students interested in marketing and distribution.

DECA I students learn the fundamentals of distribution. DECA II and DECA III students are able to work part time, usually in jobs of their choice. The students attend school half a day and work the second half.

The A. L. DECA Club started off the year with the fall rally held at William Fleming High School. At the end of the year, after many valuable experiences, they had a banquet attended by all the members and their employers.

FTA TRIES TO LEARN TEACHING METHODS

The Future Teachers of America is an organization in which the members receive experience as teachers' aides.

The club and their sponsor, Mrs. Daphne Jamison, held meetings once a month and were usually entertained by a guest speaker. This year the club's activities started off with a remarkable membership drive which proved to be very effective. This was followed up with a candy sale to raise money.

Joyce Vaughan livened up the club's spirit when she was elected Member-at-Large at the FTA annual convention.

The FTA's biggest project of the year was organizing District $P$. This brought all the local chapter presidents together for training. The FTA ended its year with many accomplishments and enthusiasm for the future.

GIRLS' ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

GAA BOUNCES  INTO ACTION

The Girls' Athletic Association got into the swing of things with the membership picnic held at Mowles Spring Park. Old and new members were introduced as they competed against each other in a tight game of softball. During the year of monthly activities, volleyball and basketball were the scenes of the action. It seemed the Pot Luck Supper and Fun Night were the most rewarding.

This year's spunsors were Miss Jane Painter, Mrs. Nancy McCoy, and Mrs. Joan Farley. Their influences played an important part in encouraging more girls to join.

The GAA'S main purpose was to promote girls' interests in Girls' sports, and this year they happily realized their goal.

A.L. PRIDE

The Pep Club got an early start this year as veterans roamed the halls encouraging students to join their club. The price was right for many juniors, and they emerged victorious with half the members from their class.

The club then organized the first event of the year, Homecoming. After many debates, the nobility were elected and announced at the annual assembly. Next came the job of designing and selling buttons to promote spirit. This project successfully carried out the theme of "Put the Bite on the Bulldogs".

The year ended as ' 71 passed the gavel once again to the upcoming president who began immediately to formulate the new ideas of ' 72 .

The Fellowship of Christian Athletes gathered its members from all athletes interested in the development of Christian principles in sports. Anyone connected with the athletic program, and with this goal in mind, was free to join. The club met on Wednesday nights to carry out their business and to listen to guest speakers on certain occasions. One of the F.C.A.'s main projects was the collection of canned food at Christmas time for the needy. Another one of the club's projects was the selling of soft drinks and candy to hungry basketball fans. The boys of the FCA set a fine example for the upcoming athletes.

   REMAINS}

The thirty member Monogram Club is composed of all boys who have lettered in any varsity sports during their high school years. Their main project is to select the Homecoming Queen and her court. Clouding the issue was the question of underclassman participation. After two days of voting, the club decided upon the traditional court with only minor changes in the number of participants. Announcing the club's decision was President Terry Murphy, who glibly explained the predicament. This decision, as many others, served to reflect its members as not only fine athletes but tactful gentlemen.

STAFF EARNS RECOGNITION

This year newspaper staffers could be found busying themselves with numerous activities in the Spokesman office. Whether it was goofing off or rushing to meet dreaded deadlines, room 210 always seemed to be a scene of confusion and never-ending action.

Homecoming week didn't pass without a special edition of the Spokesman, and a month later, seasons' greetings produced a spirited holiday issue.

TURNTABLE IS LEWIS' MEDIA

Thanks to seventeen diligent workers on the Wolverine Turntable staff, Lewis students could be informed of all the latest news by simply listening to WBLU. Sunday mornings at 10:00 A.M. winning team scores, latest gossip and of course the funkiest RPM's traveled across sound waves to eager listeners. Obtaining the news is easy, say Turntable members, but broadcasting it can be complicated.

YEARBOOK

THE HOLE-IN-THE-WALL GANG COMES THROUGH

With the dawning of the school year, yearbook staffers rushed to greet the work ahead. Few knew what was ahead, as most of the fifty member staff were inexperienced. The first task was the selling of ads to area businessmen. After staffers had completed this task, they sat down to preparing layouts, copy, and captions. Deadlines came and went with the editors and advisor barely recovering in time for the next one. Much time and effort was given to each page before final inspection. Soon after distribution, all staffers glowed with pride as they searched out their own masterpieces.

ACADEMICS

We spend immeasurable amounts of time each day searching for knowledge, the real meaning of our high school years. Our journey is aided along its way by many individuals dedicated to our futures. Our curriculum at Andrew Lewis is so designed as to allow each individual to express and develop himself as a unique being. When we leave Lewis we can only hope that we have been brought closer to our goals by the knowledge gained in these halls.

ALWAYS A "DEEP" LEARNING

With the addition of 750-1000 books annually, the Andrew Lewis IMC provided 18,000 volumes this year in offering a quiet, academic atmosphere for inquisitive students and faculty. Included among the additions was a microfilm reader of the New York Times from 1854-1969 for the use of the American history students, and others interested.

Eighth and ninth graders were scheduled to the IMC three modules weekly for instruction from Mrs. Counts on the use of and conduct in the IMC.

The IMC boasted one of the largest and most extensive collections of reference material in the state and also a photo-copier for students and faculty copying needs. All this and more was made ready from 8:00-4:30 every school day. Each student, knowing that the doors were always open, was encouraged to go to the IMC for research and to use this variety of materials. Lucky indeed, is the A. L. student to have such a Library!

ENGLISH

ENGLISH COURSES BEST YET

Under the capable leadership of the new department head, Miss Joanna Harris, the English Department offered a modernized course selection. With more electives added to the program, this department showed great initiative in responding to the needs of the students. Composition Skills was added to aid students in paragraph and theme writing. The familiar term paper was separated from the Senior English course and studied by itself in Literary Research, a new semester course. Minority Groups was a new course co-sponsored by the department, and student-taught mini courses were available for the first time. The students can also thank them for the film series they helped sponsor at the Terrace Crossroads Theater. New to the English lab was the use of eighth and ninth graders as lab assistants. Lab periods were arranged by grade level this year and held only once a week, providing students with an excellent time to catch up on Shakespeare, Poe or Chaucer.

Whether it was a required course or one of the many interesting electives, the English classes at Lewis provided a solid academic background to the increasing number of students pursuing their studies of literature and grammar.

MODERN SCIENCE DEPARTMENT AIDS ALL

The third floor boasted a new science department office this year, with Miss Hurt again acting as department head. There were courses available for almost everyone, ranging from Science 8 and 9 to Creative Horticulture or Electric Circuits. A large number of students struggled through biology and chemistry, while the physics and space science classes explored the theories of the universe. Many students, who wanted to learn more about the science field in general, enjoyed the updated practical science course, while many brave souls tackled anatomy and genetics. A new remedial help program was put into effect the second semester in the Science 9 and chemistry classes. Created to improve grades and make it possible for more students to pass their courses, the program was a great help to many students in more fully understanding the material. Thanks to a sincere interest on the part of teachers and students alike, the science courses at Lewis provided a successful, varied program for everyone.

MATHEMATICS

PUPILS SEEK

Each year the math department has come up with new ideas to tantalize its eager students into the fields of reasoning and logic. This year has been no exception. New text books have challenged bright minds into the level-headed thinking of Euclid and Socrates. A different approach to the learning method, the floating seminars, have intrigued many mathematicians into various extracurricular adventures in mathematics. New additions have also been found in the faculty's philosophers of math. Dependable student teachers were a welcome sight with their extra help and advice. Grasping the minds of their waiting but unaware victims (the students), this variety of teachers was the brain of the math department. These changes, improvements and additions in the math program have contributed much to the students' preparation for using modern-day math ideas.

ADVENTURES IN NEW MATH CONCEPTS

HISTORY STUDENTS LEARN TO FACE SOCIETY

This year the social studies department's main goal was to make the students aware of their part in today's society and world.

With a need for a new flair in history courses, there was more emphasis on current events in all history and government classes. A Minority Groups class and Floating Seminars were introduced into the schedule as new and relevant social studies courses. Taught by Mrs. Diane DeBell and Mr. Ken Middleton, their main objectives were to develop an awareness and understanding of minority groups in America and to develop an awareness of the role played by prejudice and discrimination in daily social relationships without directly and personally challenging the student's own morality.

Sociology and Psychology, taught by Mr. Cridlin, advanced a step away from the conventional study guides and decided to explore the world outside the textbook. He had more up to date literature circulated, such as paperback books on rioting and the population explosion. Instead of trying to analyze each other in Psychology, Mr. Cridlin's main objectives were teaching the principles of psychology and the students "gaining an insight into their own behavior through study of different cultures."

The students of social studies are learning and preparing for their future in the world. With the background that World and American History provide, and with the gift of an open mind and understanding of society today gained by Sociology, they can develop into a new and promising generation.

FINE ARTS

MUSIC, ART

INDUCE

CREATIVITY

Lewis students found the art and music courses much to their advantage this year. Mr. Bullock and Miss Davis combined their talents to find unsuspected Picassos among the drawings, paintings, and craft students. Mr. Snyder, assisted by his student teacher Miss Miller, tackled the problem of organizing the eighth grade and girls choirs, the mixed choir, and the Chorale. They came up with some outstanding results as the music department enthralled audiences in assemblies, PTA meetings, and on tour. With brushes flying wildly and trained voices reaching for their utmost, art and music students strained to produce their best, and thoroughly enjoyed the success of their efforts.

FINE ARTS

CREATIVE ARTS ENHANCED BY BAND, DRAMA

The Drama Department continued its winning ways this year with three successful performances. These plays were professionally produced by the new drama teacher, Mrs. Carolyn Hilt. The students participating put much time and energy into these productions, but they also received much self-satisfaction and were a definite asset to their school.

Under the fine leadership of Mr. Dan Reaser and the directions of Mike Green, drum major, the Andrew Lewis band enjoyed an outstanding year. Even though the band suffered financial difficulties, they were able to get back on their feet and bring home a near-perfect rating from the band festival in Bristol. For their ability to be down in luck and still come up shining, they have proven themselves to be truly the "Pride of Salem."

Conjugations, tenses, punctua-tion-even these eternal headaches of learning the languages were relieved by the newest addition of the language department's lab. Amidst the tapes and endless reels of jingles and conversations, the student found himself learning and even enjoying the convenience of these new gadgets. Much to the delight of teachers, weary of the same mistakes, were the individual booths and the secret "sneak-alisten" method of catching offguard linguists. Everyone, from the strictest Latin scholar to the drowsiest French student, soon grew accustomed to feedback and the skipping tapes and finally emerged from room 101 knowing a little more than he thought he did.

UNIQUE TOPICS AIM FOR PRATICALITY

Offering a number of varied and unique courses, the practical arts department achieved its aim of developing the interests and capabilities of its students.
Girls preparing for future homes and families learned cooking, sewing, child care, and the efficient management of family finances in Home Ec. Those who had already completed Home Economics took Interior Decorating, where they drew house plans and learned to select and tastefully decorate a home. Others, more interested in the culinary arts, tested gourmet recipes in Experimental Cookery.

Working with woods and metals, Industrial Arts students constructed small furniture, while draftsmen, with the aid of a T-square and compass, drew precise reproductions of mechanical parts.

Through such beneficial courses as Experimental Cookery and Industrial Arts, students gained knowledge useful in everyday life as well as the incentive for long-lasting and enjoyable hobbies.

BUSINESS

SECRETARIAL  SKILLS AID BUSINESSMEN

Whether or not a student was planning a business career, there was at least one course planned by the business department that would profit him one way or another.

For those seeking jobs immediately after graduation, typing and shorthand provided some of the necessary skills. Typists pecking frantically at keyboards to prove their ability on a speed test and young ladies struggling to transcribe their shorthand were a common sight. As proficiency increased, they moved up to office practice. There, furnished with all the essentials of a modern office, they gained experience in such duties as filing and handling mail. The girls became adept in using adding and duplicating machines. Personal typing and recordkeeping were courses designed for students who wished to learn practical knowledge for their own use.

Through the variety of courses offered by the business department, young people became skilled enough to type their own themes and competent enough to become indispensable secretaries or leaders of the business world.

PHYSICAL FITNESS FEIGNS FRIVOLTY

Freelancing fun has been the central attitude of this year's physical education program. Continuous engagements in lively activities made the students feel free to enjoy the various classes set up by the department. The Physical Education program this year has served as a foundation for the mentally and physically fit young people of today. Funloving activities not only prevailed in gym classes but also in the various classrooms. Rounding out the Physical Education department's agenda were the vital subjects concerning Human Growth and Development, Recreational Safety, Driver's Education and Personal Hygiene. Through the year, a combination of learning and fun has provided each student with a foundation for future fitness.

PEOPLE

Composing the mainstream of life of Lewis ' 71 are the people. Reincarnations of past generations with a smiling new face here and there among the crowd. Veterans and rookies alike pace the corridors and add spice to the routine. Like a mighty current, ever-changing but strangely remaining the same, flows the life of Lewis.

LEADERS PAVE THE WAY WITH A HAPPY "LIFE"

With a fresh coat of paint and a new principal, life at Lewis brightened as the third year of modular scheduling got underway. Several changes were made in administrative positions as Mr. Garland Life, ex-assistant principal, undertook the responsibilities of principal. A newcomer to the staff was Mr. Lewis Campbell, who joined Mr. Eddie Joyce as an assistant principal. Mr. Alan Farley, formerly project director at Lewis, became Assistant Principal for Curriculum and Instruction. The two secretaries, Mrs. Linda Green and Miss Vickie Journell, added both charm and efficiency to the front office. Without their aid our four leaders and the student body would not have gotten through a day easily.

Mr. Life's first year as principal was marked by his genuine interest in the suggestions and problems of students. Going to lockers at the end of every module was one of the privileges welcomed by students heavy-laden with books. As the year progressed, our leaders paved the way for livelier life at Lewis.

Mr. Life (top) realizes that the office of principal entails its fair share of paperwork. Students have their problems, but then they have Mr. Farley (center) to solve them. With Mr. Joyce (bottom center) in charge of extra-curricular activities and Mr. Campbell (bottom left) keeping attendance and discipline in order, things run smoothly in the front office.

GUIDANCE TURNS HEADS IN THE RIGHT DIRECTION

Want to know where to go, and when? Go to the guidance office. There you can find our trusty counselors if you dig deep enough through the schedules on their desks, or if the underclassmen can make their way past distraught seniors trying to get into college.

This year the guidance office expanded. It took on another classroom, and two counselors were added, Mr. Miley and Mr. Kelly, who is the department head. The office also expanded in the number of students it sees daily. This year many more students went to the guidance office without being called in. This is what the counselors call self-referral. This alone shows the popularity of our hardworking counselors.

FACULTY

NEW AND FAMILIAR FACES COMPOSE THE '71 FACULTY

August 1970 saw the A.L. teachers resuming their annual preparation, hopefully with less panic now that they are veterans of mod scheduling. However, the many new additions to the faculty who set out eagerly to conquer their jobs at Lewis found that confusion arrived before the students. But after classes started, teachers spent time calling roll in LD's, cutting IA's to a reasonable size and keeping calm until organization finally came forth. Now Thanksgiving, Christmas and the end of first semester were close by. Starting second semester, teachers prayed for no snow and smooth sailing the rest of the year. The Easter vacation came and went. Then Lewis teachers bore down to finish the textbooks and prepare for final exams. Summer finally came as a much-needed rest.

SPIRITED SPECIALISTS STRESS ACCURACY

It seemed that the service groups specialized in early arrivals and late dismissals. From snack bar operator to office aide, each member of the team realized the importance of an early start in doing his job well. Whether it be checking lab attendance or preparing the following day's cafeteria speciality, these cheerful attendants saw to the least details. Lab assistants scurried about checking in and out an endless stream of materials, as Mr. St.

Clair manned his station in the bookstore and sold pencils and paper hand-over-fist. Never to be forgotten by any unfortunate person who managed to spill a tray of food in the cafeteria was the quick helpful response of one of many reliable custodians. As a whole, these aides are to be commended for their offerings of time and effort and gratefully thanked for their valuable services.

"END OF THE BEGINNING"_-FOR SENIORS

SENIOR CLASS OFFICERS: Nicky Thomas, Treasurer; Pat McCormack, Secretary; Susan Brown, President; Steve Crawford, Vice-President.

The best prophet of the future is the past. As the Seniors reflect on their years at Andrew Lewis, they can't help but wonder what lies ahead. For four years they have been a class, learning and growing from bewildered freshmen to mighty seniors.

The Class of '71 started their freshman year eager to become an important part of the school. They were so eager that they not only won first place for their beautiful Homecoming float during their freshman year, but also took first for the following three years! The other classes were a little taken aback as, year after year, this class produced floats that should have been in the Rose Bowl Parade!

These members made their mark at Lewis in many ways, but the highlight of their efforts was produced in the ' 70 Prom. With a blast of "Purple Haze", the night of the prom became a psychedelic happening that would not be forgotten. (With a few purple splotches of paint on the floor, just to make sure!)

Time passed quickly, and almost before they knew it, they were seniors. Now they could appreciate the prestige of being No. 1, after three years of hard work. Students who had planned on their Senior year as being the easiest were in for a shock. Still not believing that this was their last year, they were given new responsibilities as they prepared for college or jobs.

The Senior Talent Show was the last chance for the Class of '71 to show their stuff. The show included such talents as singing, playing musical instruments, jokes, bands, impersonations, and even some whipped cream pies thrown in faces!

As the Class of ' 71 prepares to leave, they'll have many things to remember. Their four short years at Lewis are gone, but they have shaped their lives, their personalities, their futures. If the past is a prophet for the future, we know that their future will be a smashing success!

ANOTHER MOD YEAR FOR '71

JUNIOR CLASS OFFICERS: Clark Andrews, Treasurer; David Paxton, President; Ralph

Hite, Vice-President; Nish Hartman, Secretary.

The Class of ' 72 started the year unprepared for the big jump from Sophomores to Juniors. With their great enthusiasm the Juniors took first place in the Pep Club membership drive. The magazine drive, their first money making project, became the center of attention to all Juniors. Prom preparations were begun and proved to be well worth the effort. Junior scholars had their first attempt at the PSAT and College Boards, in hopes that their knowledge of the past was valid. The junior girls "muscle power" helped them to tackle the Powder Puff victory with a 14-12 edge. The grand finale, the ordering and arrival of the class rings, brought the Class of ' 72 closer to their dream of Senior Power. The Sweetheart Court was adorned with the poised, gracious, and somewhat nervous Junior representatives. As the end of the year drew closer, the efforts, wits, enthusiasm, and hard work resulted in a year which each Junior will cherish.

SOPHOMORES' MOD DAYS ARE EASIER NOW

With pride and determination, the Class of ' 73 left its mark this year. Having the second largest class, participation and spirits were high, apathy was low, and the Class of ${ }^{\prime} 73$ was busy.

The Sophomore Class proved to be extremely studious, especially during the first nine weeks when it produced more honor roll students than any other class.

The members' traditional drive brought the Sophomore Class float second place in the Homecoming Parade. The success that belonged to the Junior Varsity football and basketball teams was largely due to the backbone provided by the Class of ' 73 .

FRESHMEN

CLASS OF '74

MOD ROUTINE

The Freshmen class, boasting the largest class at Andrew Lewis, soon found their way into the main stream of school activities. To be taught the constructive use of gain time, they were scheduled to the IMC and orientation. Their first project was a float in the Homecoming parade. Although this float did not place, The Class of '74 gained the experience needed to produce future winners. Adding to their contributions was a football team that finished with a perfect 7-0 season. Through these activities, the ninth graders adapted easily to our fast paced schedule and to their own changing status.

CLASS OF '75 TACKLES MOD SCHEDULING

From the first day of school, the class of ' 75 began to make an impression on Andrew Lewis. The class became unified through their sponsors Mr. Thomas, Mr. Porter, and Mr. Colley. They also were brought closer by the fact that they were scheduled together for Orientation, study, and IMC. With this unity, the class spirit kindled and then flamed as they began participating in more and more activities. Some became involved in athletics while others took part in the many club activities. Their enthusiasm was felt all over school, and held the promise of an energetic senior class four years from now.

COMMUNITY

Probably the most imposing aspect of our changing environment is the individual community in which we live. Like a mainspring of a clock, our community does its work in relative silence and only occasionally ceases to function, thus drawing attention to its vital service. Our community metes out our existence by generations, instilling in each one the motivation to seek a better governing process.

LOCAL NEWS

ELECTIONS, SPORTS MAKE HEADLINES

As always, elections made headlines over the '70-'71 year. The Salem
 City Council elected our own Coach Joyce to fill the position of mayor in September. One of the first things he proposed was a new football stadium for the "Wolverines"; the idea is now being thought over. The council also took in two new members, Clinton Slusher and Glenn Simmers. Re-elected to the U.S. House of Representatives was Richard Poff.

An emergency quarantine was ordered in the east section of Roanoke when a fox was killed and found to have rabies. Students hoped for another one when the flu epidemic left a score of empty desks.

In sports, the Roanoke Valley Rebels made the post-season playoffs again. Roanoke's Buckskins took second in their division. In basketball the Roanoke College Maroons received national recognition, and an NCAA Tournament bid.

STATE NEWS

VISITORS ENCHANTED BY STATE EVENTS

Once again elections dominated the headlines. "Old Dominion" citizens saw Sen. Harry Byrd run for re-election as an independent against Republican Ray Garland and Democrat George Rawlings. Senator Byrd won easily, as more citizens came out to vote than ever before Another debatable issue was the lowering of the voting age to 18 in the state elections.

Virginia moved toward modernizing her police force with the purchase of two new survey helicopters.

With the advent of underground cables came more efficient TV communications among the major cities of the state.

The state also saw the addition of its first major league basketball team, the Virginia Squires. They soon became the best team in the ABA and showed people they were here to stay.

EVENTFUL YEAR DRAINS NATIONAL WEALTH

The events of 1970-71 indeed made the world appear to be a harried and challenging place in which to live.

In our nation, turmoil was caused by student unrest and labor strikes. The main reasons for these conflicts were the desire for peace and the rising cost of living. The year 1970-71 was marked by rising unemployment which was compensated for by a shorter work week.

Despite extensive campaigning by Nixon and Agnew throughout the nation, the congressional election resulted in a Democratic majority in that governmental body. During the past year, scientists and laymen alike warned us of the danger to ourselves and the environment if pollution was not curbed. Very prominent in the news were the growing movements which focused attention on the need to give women an equal opportunity in employment.

International strife continued in the Middle East and Southeast Asia. Unexpected events such as a hijacking by Palestinian guerillas which endangered the lives of many Americans, Nassar's death, and the death of Charles DeGaulle shook the stability of international affairs.

Two literally earth-shaking events were the devastating cyclone in Pakistan and the distastrous earthquake in California.

A prime highlight in this troubled atmosphere was the safe journey of Apollo 14 to the moon. After the near failure of the docking while the craft orbited the Earth, the trip progressed smoothly. The moon landing was climaxed by Sheppard's driving a golf ball across the surface of the moon.

Though many changes took place last year, we are STILL looking for peace in Vietnam and solutions to the many problems that face us in the nation and in the world.

The year has drawn to a close and with it the small portion of our quest illustrated by this book. It is not complete, however, until a special thanks is given to many kind people: to Mr . Gibson, our many plights; to Mr. Cournoyer, who aided our Photography staff in producing their many masterpieces; to Mr. Petcher and to Donna Shrader, who admirably led the aforementioned Photography staff; to Miss Davis who backed our unsung hero, Jay Hough, through his many trials with spilled ink and torn paper; to Mrs. Lemon, who willingly took on our business staff and consistently discovered more capital in the most unexpected places; and to our inexperienced yet original staff, who endured many late nights and dreaded deadlines to put out this 216 page better-than-expected monstrosity. Finally, we give a very special thanks to Mrs. Bowman, who faithfully pushed, prodded, charmed or otherwise pulled us through many hectic experiences, and managed to help us, despite her own crowded class schedule.

To MTB, Many Thanks!

'It may be that the gulfs will wash us down:
It may be we shall touch the Happy Isles,
Tho' much is taken, much abides; One that which we are, we are;
One equal temper of heroic hearts,
Made weak by time and fate, but strong in will
To strive, to seek, to find, and not to yield,".
