CAVE SPRING HIGH SCHOOL
3712 Chaparral Drive, S.W.
Roanoke, Virginia 24018

August 9, 1974

Dear Parents and Students:

Your son or daughter will be entering Cave Spring High School for the first time and we will endeavor to make it a pleasant and fruitful start. We would like to begin by bidding you a cordial welcome to Cave Spring High.

Our Student Government, along with our faculty and staff, will be conducting an orientation on Tuesday morning, August 27 at 8:45 A.M. A regular bus schedule will be run to bring students to school. This bus schedule will appear in the local newspaper. This program will last until 11:00 A.M. This is a very important part of a student's entering high school life.

All 10th grade students and students new to our school, will be assigned a class which we call "Orientation 10". This class is set up to orientate our new students to Cave Spring High. It will meet once a cycle (six days) for thirty six cycles. Here a student will be told what the rules are and he will be given a chance to ask questions. There will also be a number of outside speakers lecturing in this class. We feel that this class will go a long way in helping students adjust properly to high school life here at Cave Spring.

You will also find enclosed in this letter much information about the school year. We hope you will post this so that you might have a guide to the school year.

Lots of luck in your coming year in your new school.

Sincerely,

James H. Daughtridge

Cave Spring High School
 3712 Chaparral Drive
 Roanoke, Virginia
 Volume 19

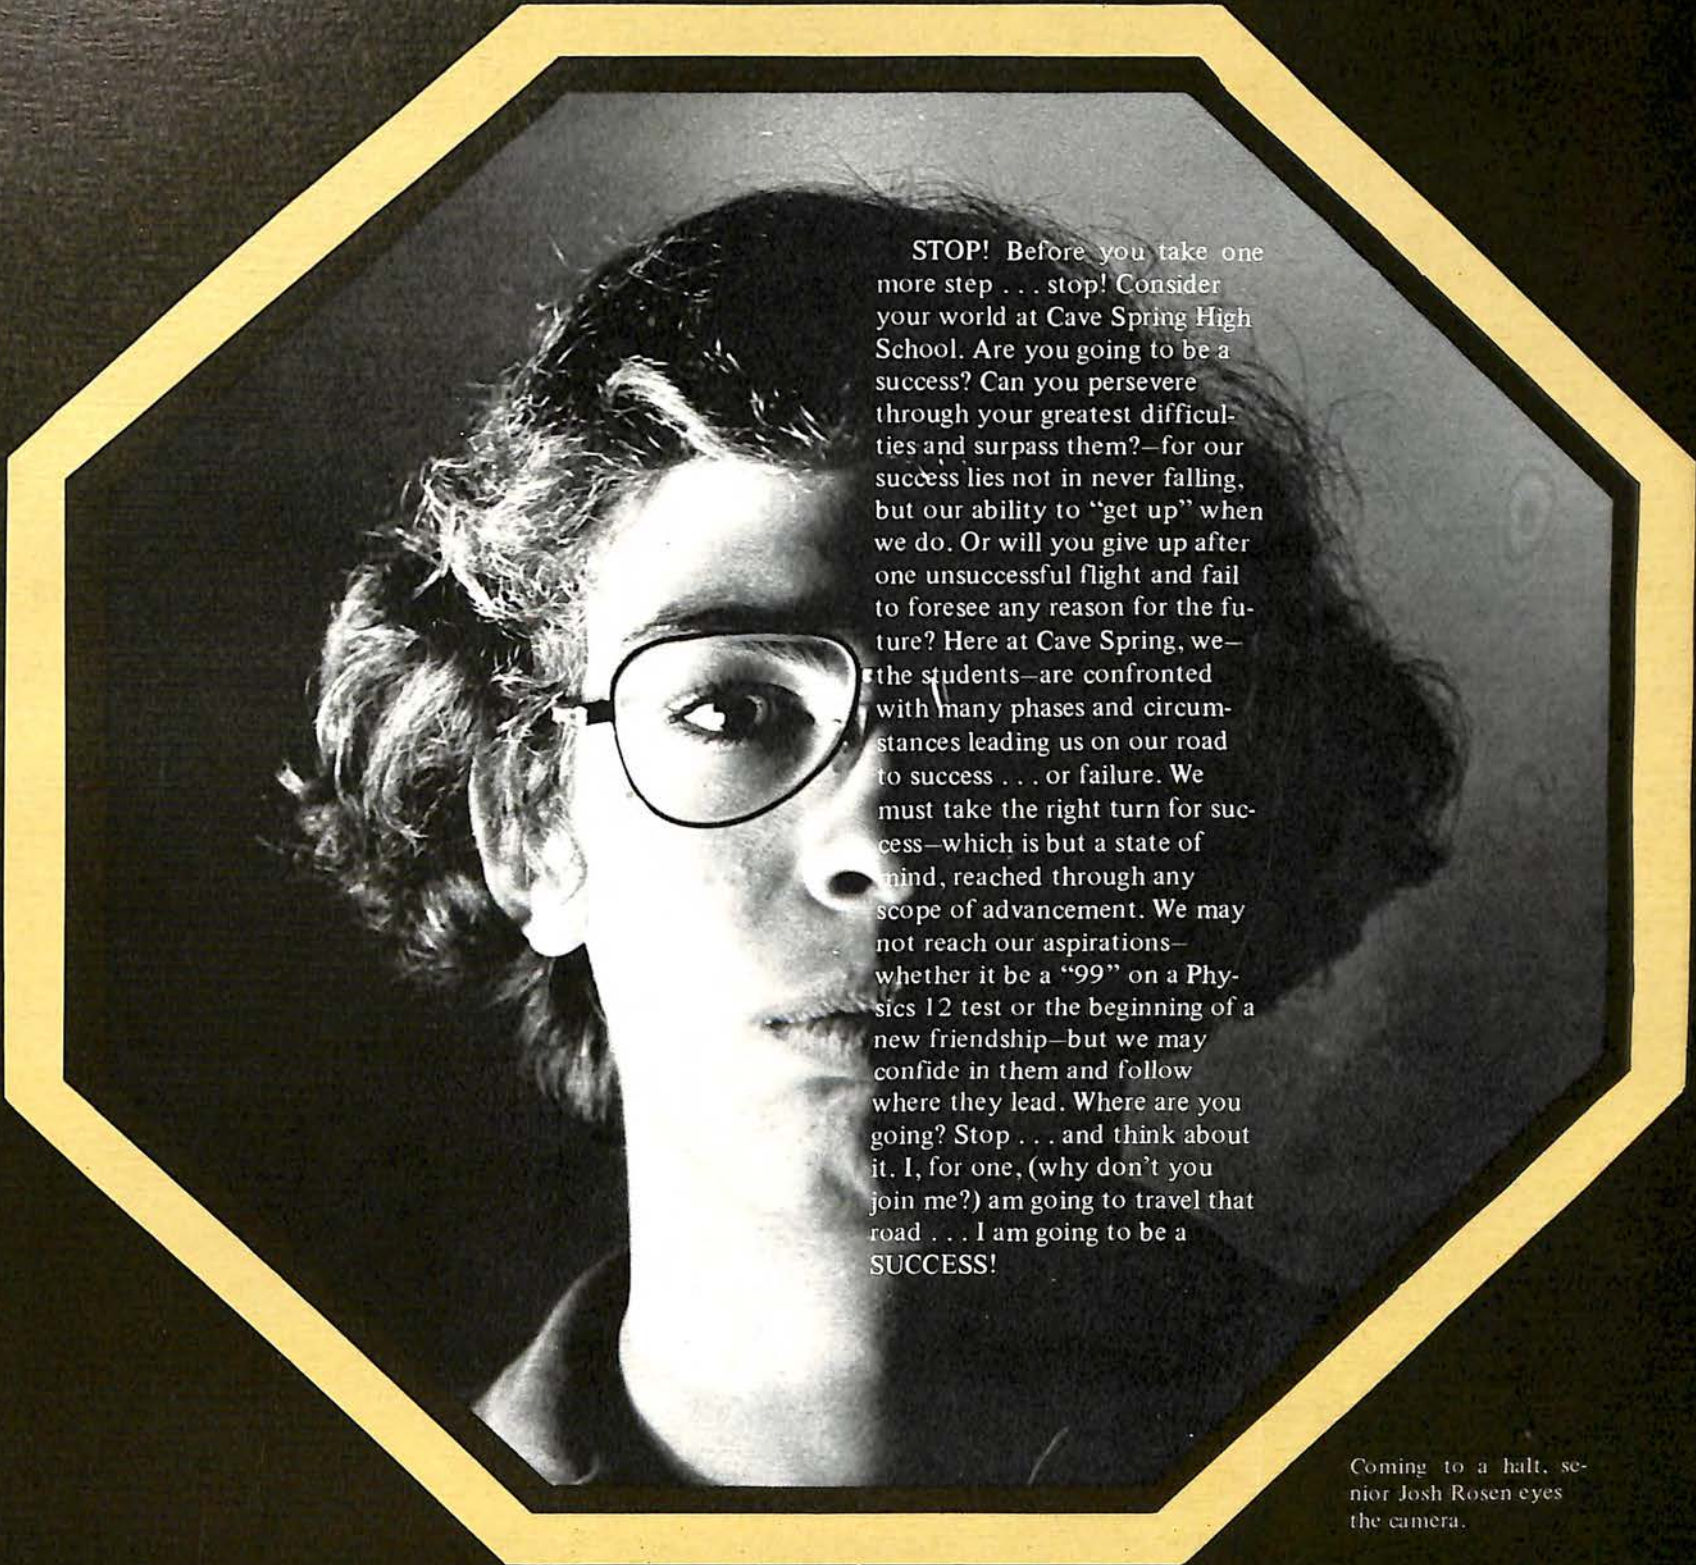

Senior tackle, Bill Poe, studies game plan before encountering the Knights' opponent.

Determining the proper books needed, juniors Melanie Woodford and Patricia Via speculate the day ahead.

Two Cave Spring students attempt to foresee the outcome of a meditative game of chess.

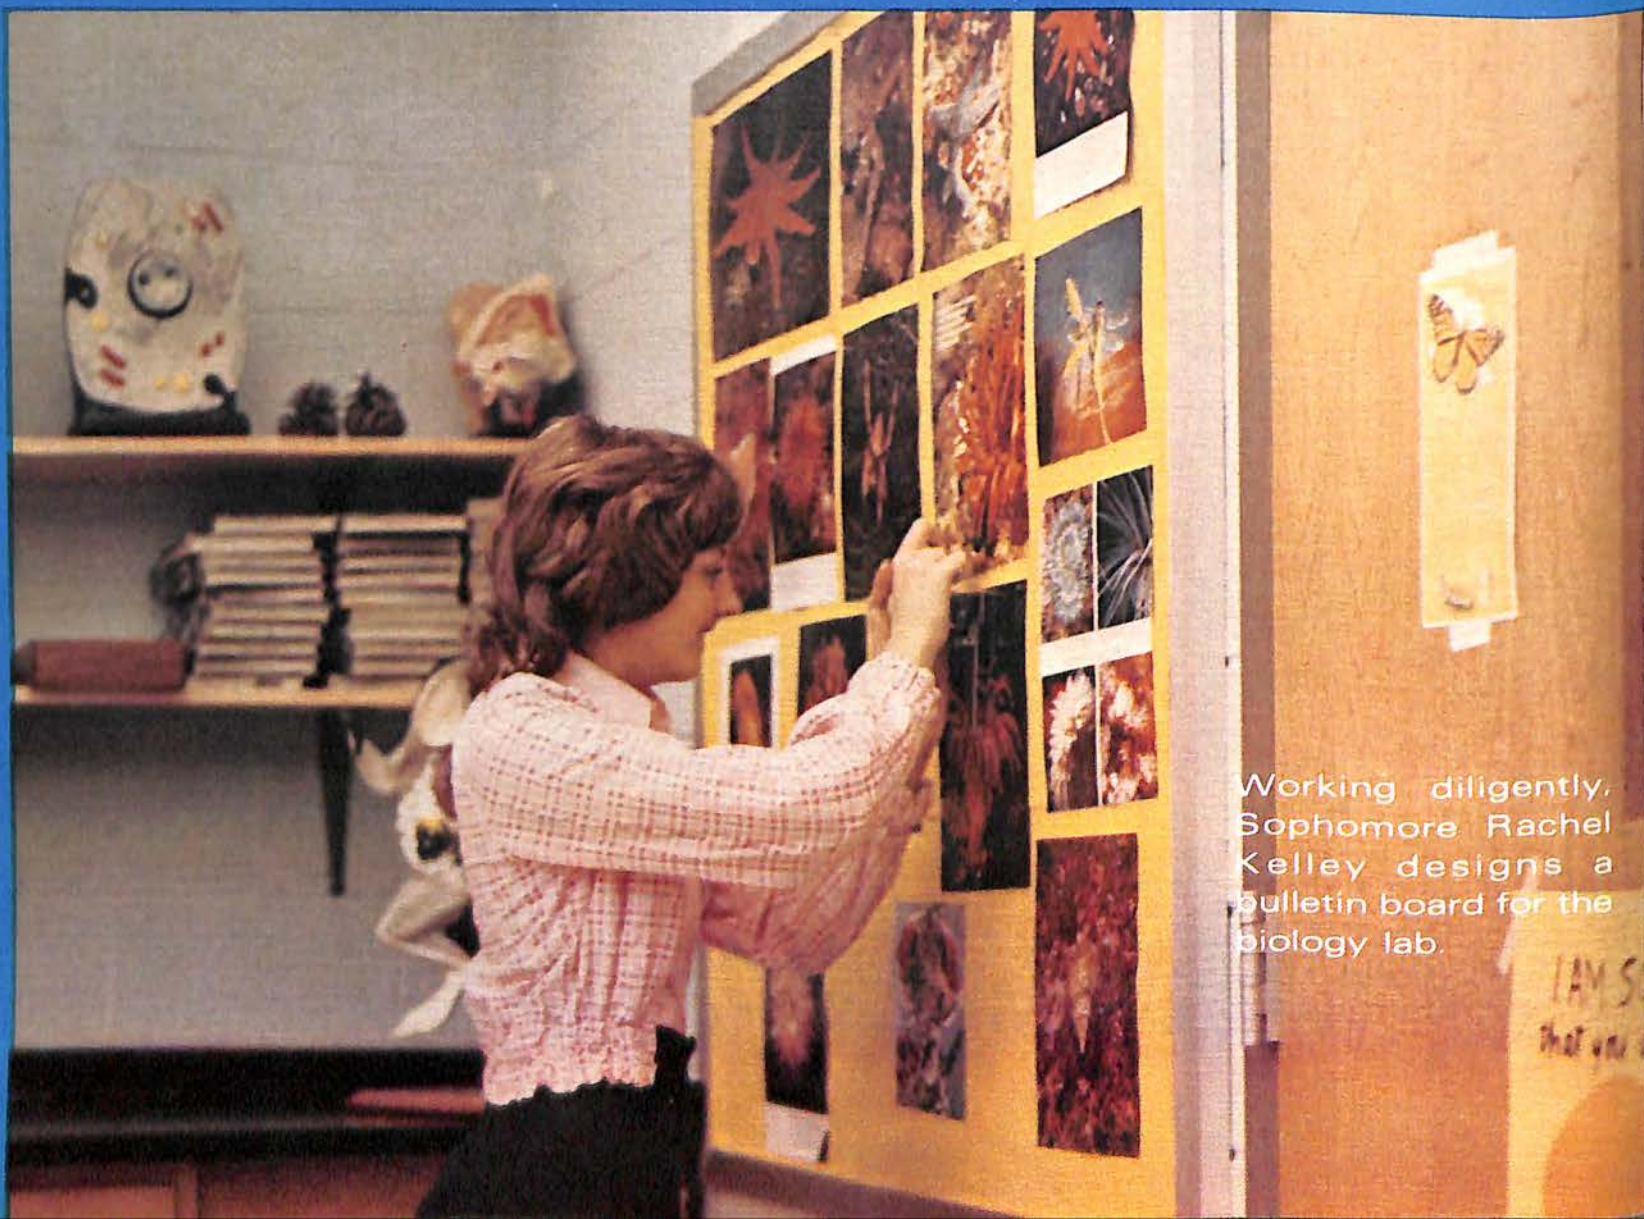

STOP! Before you take one more step . . . stop! Consider your world at Cave Spring High School. Are you going to be a success? Can you persevere through your greatest difficulties and surpass them?—for our success lies not in never falling, but our ability to “get up” when we do. Or will you give up after one unsuccessful flight and fail to foresee any reason for the future? Here at Cave Spring, we—the students—are confronted with many phases and circumstances leading us on our road to success . . . or failure. We must take the right turn for success—which is but a state of mind, reached through any scope of advancement. We may not reach our aspirations—whether it be a “99” on a Physics 12 test or the beginning of a new friendship—but we may confide in them and follow where they lead. Where are you going? Stop . . . and think about it. I, for one, (why don’t you join me?) am going to travel that road . . . I am going to be a SUCCESS!

Coming to a halt, senior Josh Rosen eyes the camera.

There are those of us who want success

However, work and determination are the "One Ways" we must follow on our ROAD TO SUCCESS!

Senior Barry Meador looks on dejectedly from the side line as game goes on without him.

Looking puzzled, Chip Holdren and Billy Zint figure out complexities of WCSH radio.

Ms. Tucker, Ms. Goodale, Mrs. McFarlane, and Mrs. Reid discuss RESPONDING textbook series.

Adjusting her contacts, Mrs. Holtman wastes her only three free mods of the day.

Due to limited space, the "stuffed" locker is a common sight at Cave Spring.

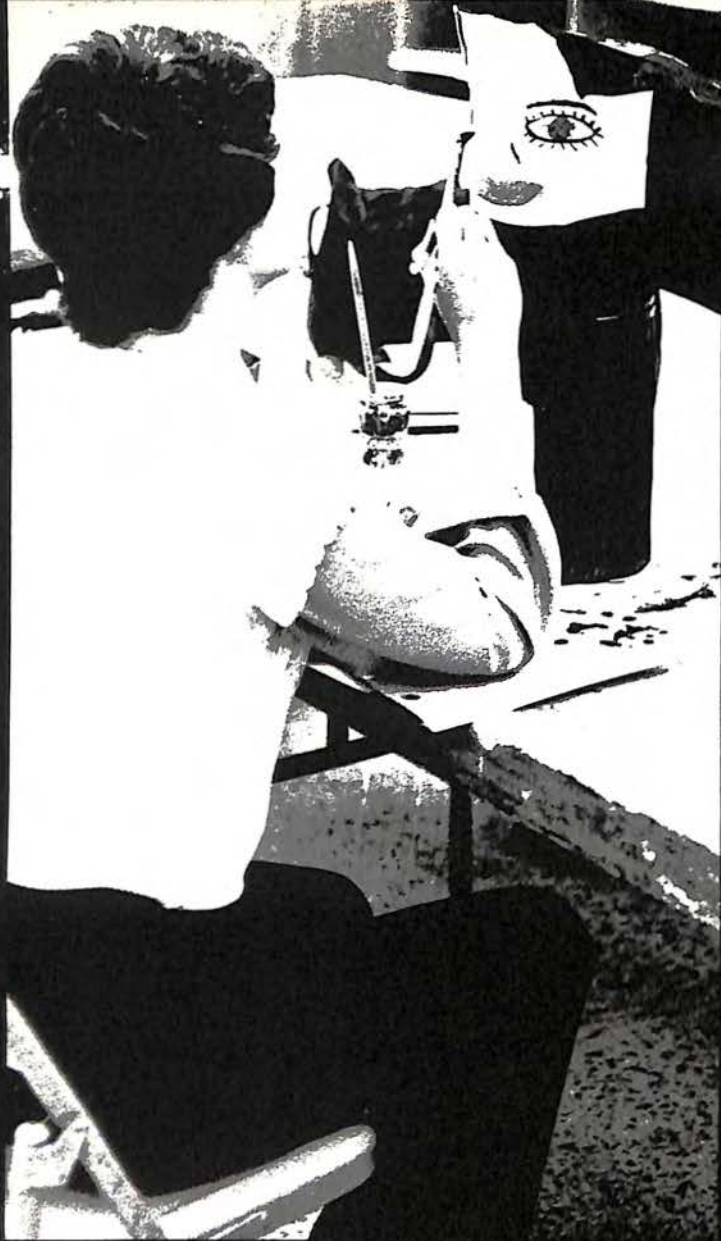

it's a "R O C K

"I got a 'D-F slip' in math" . . . problems, problems, problems. Unfortunately, our road to success is a task with many dilemmas on the way. But somehow we must learn to overlook them; for the road to success is traveled by those who have virtues to overcome obstacles and, when all else fails, are able to cling to their ideals. It is going to be rough, but I am going to be a SUCCESS!

Mr. William J. Svec

Young Bill Svec poses for a picture as Drum Major at the University of Pittsburg in 1955.

With an armful of music, Mr. Svec heads toward the office after Stage Band rehearsal.

During Symphonic Band practice, Mr. Svec goes through the agony of sightreading his score.

Presently band director at Cave Spring, Mr. Svec attended the University of Pittsburg and in 1961 graduated, with an A.B. in music from Morehead State University, Morehead, Kentucky. In 1962 he received his M.A. in education from the same institute.

He went on to hold a Graduate Assistantship at Morehead and for two years was an Instructor of Music at the University. He has also taught in Wythville on elementary, intermediate, and secondary levels. In 1970 he taught at what is now Cave Spring Junior High, and soon after construction of the new school, became band director here.

Having won many honors in college (e.g.—Drum Major at both the University of Pittsburg and Morehead State University) he has been selected as guest conductor for many All-County Band Clinics throughout Virginia.

His hobbies include photography; many of his pictures can be seen on the bulletin boards in the music department. He also spends time fooling with radios as a ham radio operator. His hobby as a gourmet cook comes in handy while his wife takes care of their seven children.

In the years that Mr. Svec has been at Cave Spring he has built the band to one of the best in the state. With respect he has brought out the best in his band members; and through admiration, encouragement, and devotion to them, he has won their respect. For this Cave Spring High School is most appreciative; and for this reason the 1974-75 Accolade wishes to thank you—Mr. William Svec.

SENIOR

The WANG Computer is under careful scrutiny by Fred Thompson.

Worn out by a hard day, Jay Hall exercises his senior privilege to take a nap in the Senior Lounge.

At the controls of the voice of Cave Spring, WCSH, is D.J. Jay Downie.

To keep going through a busy day, Suzie Holt sneaks a potato chip between mods.

To avoid getting caught for wandering in the halls, Pat Skeen ducks into an empty study room.

After three years, the Class of '75 finally became the "Senior" Class. At last—Senior Privileges!! Seniors were the only class with no study halls; therefore, they were free to explore other areas of "study." They also had a Senior Lounge which many seniors used as a place to rest and relax.

However; there were many duties that went along with the privileges. Such responsibilities as helping to plan graduation, organizing club and school activities, and even reading the morning announcements were placed in the hands of capable seniors.

On June 5, the Seniors were capped and awards were presented to the Seniors who reflected outstanding achievements in particular subjects and activities in the school. Then on June 8, the Seniors gathered together again for the Baccalaureate Service. Dr. Patricia Dragon spoke on the Gospel of Love, which enlightened both the Seniors and their guests. Finally on June 10, the Seniors met for their final gathering . . . Graduation. This year's graduation was filled, as always, with mixed emotions. The Class of '75 seemed reluctant to leave their classmates and teachers, yet eager to move on, meeting new people and new opportunities. Graduation marked the termination of lockers, mods, home-rooms, the smoking block, IAs, and many friendship ties; however, it also marked the beginning of a new life.

Spirit of '76

- - - The Bicentennial Specials - - -
 Class of '76—and more commonly known as Juniors—faced the year with zeal. Facets of the Junior class included cheering pep rallies, rousing class meetings, racing through seasons' sports, excitingly ordering rings, rehearsing class skits, paying class dues, and attending club meetings. Looking toward the future Juniors pulled through numerous tests, PSAT's and the significant SAT's. Juniors look forward to their Senior year and resulting careers.

Presenting Junior class officers of the 1974-'75 school year, (clockwise) David Hodges, president; Marilyn Mullen, secretary; Beth Thomas, vice-president; Bob Hudson, treasurer; and prom chairman Patti Wells.

Juniors achieve in every aspect of student life—in the classroom—sports—clubs—becoming mature young adults, facing responsibilities, glimpsing shadows of the future—but always—smiling their way through the days to come.

Passing tests is a feat that all Juniors are faced with during the year. Lori Roe and Donna Carroll seem to have no trouble.

On the first day, as Sophomores, when we walked in the doors of Cave Spring High we were in our own minds—proud, important people. Later that day, after finding ourselves being “brutally” beaten, pushed, shoved and knocked down by the upperclassmen we thought: REVENGE! We tried at pep rallies, magazine sales and spirit chains. Even though we weren’t too successful at pep rallies, we beat the Juniors and Seniors to a pulp by selling magazines, and buying more links for the spirit chain.

We found that high school wasn’t as easy as junior high had been, but we—being Sophomores, could take it. We struggled through geometry, history, orientation, and biology; and painstakingly we made it.

We are looking forward to that first day again, when we will officially be upperclassmen and we can watch the new Sophomores suffer as they take our place.

A true friend is a person who knows all about you, but loves you just the same . . . A friend is a present you give yourself . . . The language of friendship is not words, but meanings. It is an intelligence about language. In friendship let there be laughter, and sharing of pleasures . . . One of the most beautiful qualities of true friendship is to understand and to be understood.

new district hinders knights

Cave Spring's Varsity Football Team ended their football season with a dismal 3-6-1 record in the newly formed Western District. One of the Knight's main problems proved to be inexperience; as only seven seniors played on the squad. This inexperience showed up in the Knights' first game at Franklin County, where turnovers by both teams ended in a tie.

The Knights then started to come to life as they traveled to Victory Stadium to play the 3-A state champions Patrick Henry. Though Cave Spring was predicted to lose by 21 points, the Knights' solid defense prevented PH from scoring in the first half and allowed the Patriots only 6 points the rest of the game. Cave Spring almost had a terrific upset, but the Knights' inability to move the ball on offense doomed them.

However, the Knights didn't stay defeated long as they came back the next week and scored a win over Northside.

But the Knights' victory was a hollow one as they lost tackle Barry Meador to a knee injury and tight end Ricky Reese to a head injury.

The Knights then traveled to take on District Champs George Washington. The Knights' inability to move the ball on offense settled their fate.

E. C. Glass then came to the Knights' stadium to play an easy game, but the Hilltoppers found out that the Knights were anything but that, as they had to struggle the whole game. Cave Spring lost a decision that was much closer than the score indicated.

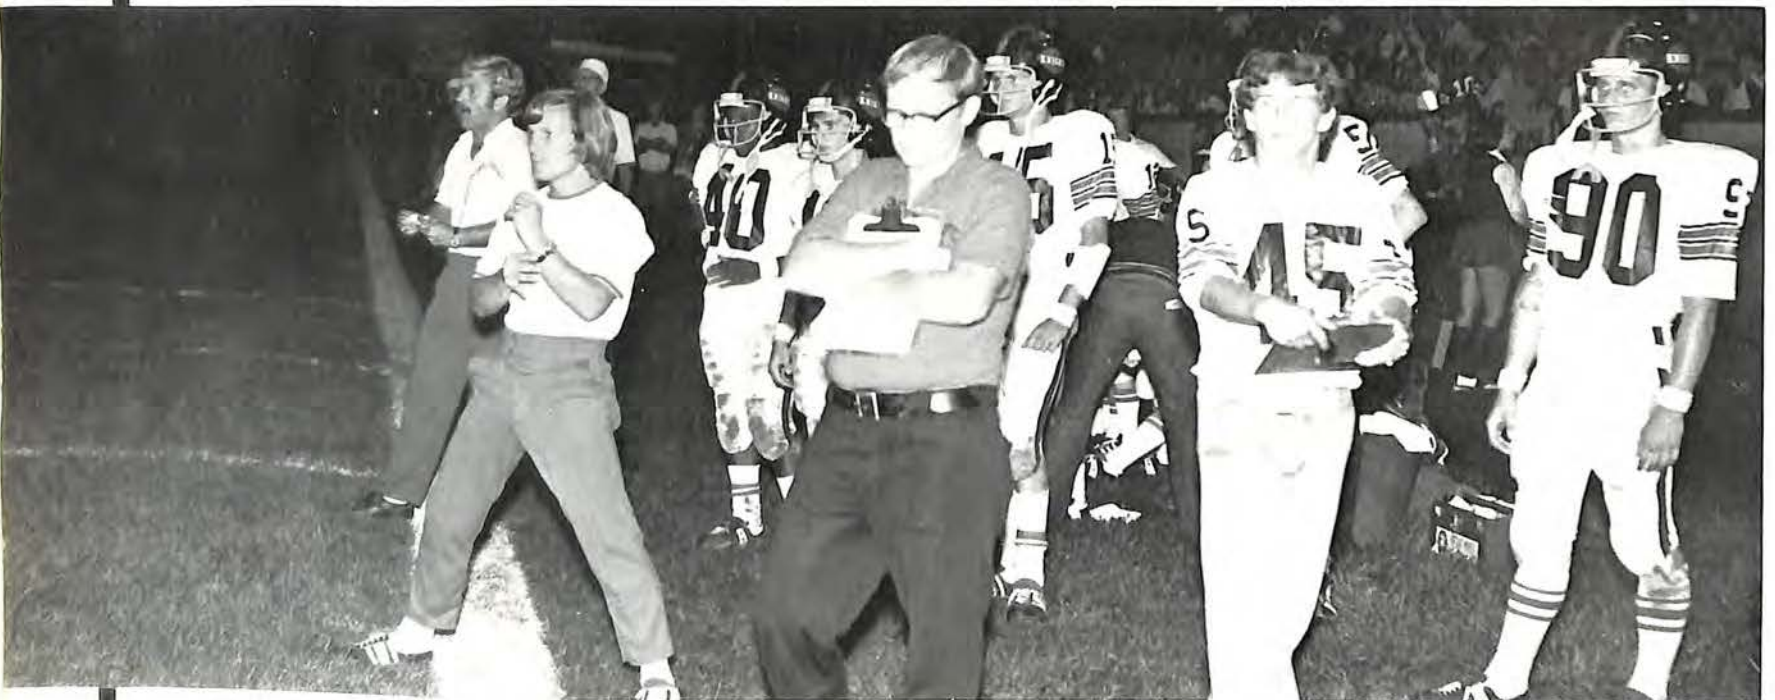

For Homecoming, the Knights showed that they could bounce back by defeating Blue Ridge power Covington. The game was highlighted by an 82 yard punt return for a touchdown by junior Bill Downie, who also had 3 interceptions, playing as a defensive back.

The gridmen then traveled to Halifax County to play in a closely contested game, until the last 59 seconds. Then with some lucky calls by the officials, the Comets made a touchdown to win.

Cave Spring then played the Pulaski Cougars and lost in a see-saw defensive fight. At this point in the Western District's statistics, the Knights' pass defense was first in preventing the pass and the overall defense was second in the statistics.

The Knights played their best game as they traveled to Lexington. The game looked pretty close until a 73 yard touchdown by Bill Downie put the Knights on the board. From then on it was the Knights all the way as senior Ralph Knoebel scored two touchdowns: one on a blocked punt, and the other on a 40 yard pass from reserve quarterback Tim Gravelly. The win was insured as the powerful defense stopped Lexington from making any threats.

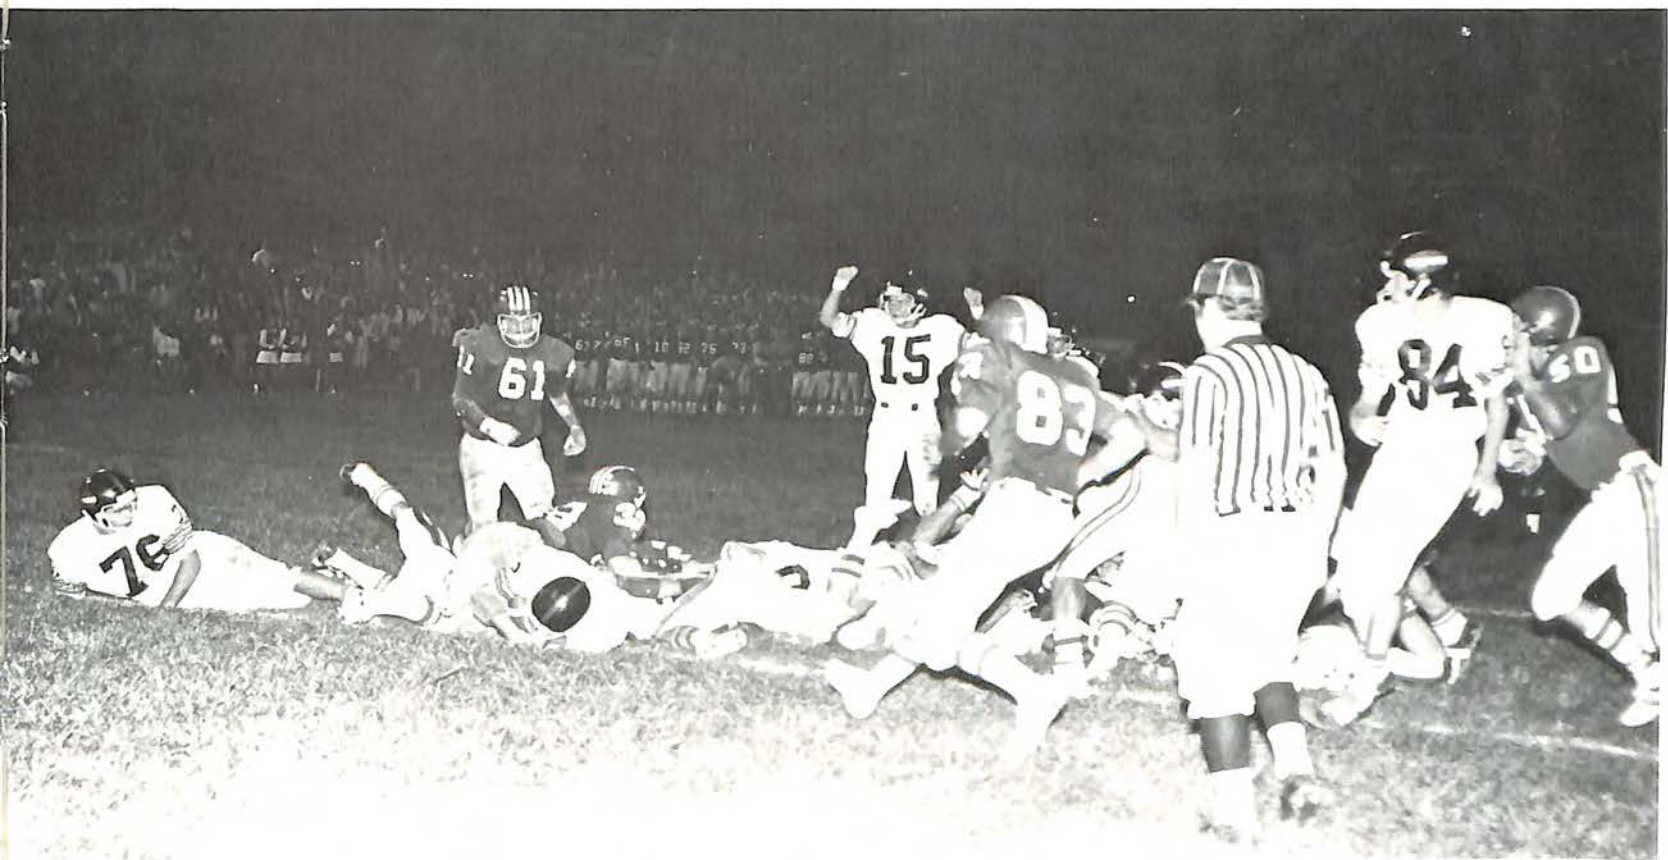

Coaches Hyatt, Dowdy, and Lindsey anticipate the following play.

J.V. Hit Rough Season

The Knights' junior varsity team finished up its season with a dejecting record. The baby Knights started their season with impressive wins over G.W. of Danville, Patrick Henry, and Andrew Lewis. Jimmy Hale, captain of the team, and John Hagins led the Knights' offensive attack; while Ed Peterson and Ed Snowadsky handled most of the rebounding chores. The J.V.'s demonstrated their ability to win games under pressure as in many of the games the final outcome was not decided until the last few seconds. Sometimes the games followed in succession and it takes a strong team to stand up to these pressures. The Knights were also pressured in other ways as in the middle of the season two starting players were suspended from the team for academic reasons. The baby Knights may have had a dissapointing season but their kind of experience under pressure will be valuable when they move to the Varsity team.

Cave Spring's Varsity Basketball Team started off their tough season with an upset win over G. W. Danville at the Knights gym. They then travelled to Pulaski to play a close game in which the Knights came out on bottom, losing by only 4. Cave Spring then hit a winning streak of 3 games as they defeated William Fleming at Fleming, Franklin County and Andrew Lewis. The following game, the Knights lost a heartbreaker to E. C. Glass by 1 point.

The next game finds the Knights winning over Northside to make the mid-season record—5 wins and 4 losses. George Washington of Danville was the next stop for the Basketball Team. After a close first half, the Eagles pulled away in another loss for the Knights. The offense and defense worked impressively, as they took revenge on Pulaski, on their second meeting.

The Knights won three in a row as they beat William Fleming, Halifax County, and Franklin County. The season's highlight was the Knights' victory over District Leader Halifax County. The Comets, previously undefeated in 17 games, fell as the Knights played flawlessly on offense and defense.

In the last three games the Knights saw their winning streak broken as they lost to Andrew Lewis. But the Cagers rebounded back to beat Northside in a well played game by the Knights. Junior forward Ricky Hall was the high scorer as he hit for 20 points and Junior center Chuck Kinzel pulled down 14 rebounds to lead the Knights.

In the Western District Tournaments, played at the Salem-Roanoke Valley Civic Center, Cave Spring was pitted against a powerful G.W. of Danville team. The team played a good game until the fourth quarter when they failed to hit a field goal. The only scoring in the final quarter was six foul shots. But that wasn't enough to pull the Knights through, as they lost. This ended their season as the CS Knights placed fifth in the Western District.

Under the Veteran leadership of Coach Wayne Hyatt the netters became a powerful contender in the tough Western District, as they showed well in impressive wins over Northside, Pulaski County, Fleming, and Franklin County. They exhibited power as they played Pulaski County in a close, down to the wire game. Under heavy pressure, Pat Skeen and Mark Curbow won their doubles set to win 5 sets to 4. This particular match lasted for 5½ hours. Not lacking in excitement, the Tennis Team broke traditional rules and allowed Maribeth Atkinson, a lone girl, to display her exceptional talents.

MEADOR LEADS CINDERMEN

Barry Meador led the team throughout the season, as he won almost all the shot and discus events in dual meets. He broke his own school record in the discus with a throw of 156'11", furthermore he only missed the shot record by three inches. The Knights were also led by record breaking senior Ralph Knoebel in the high jump. Knoebel bettered the old mark by four inches with a jump of 6'4". The Track Team suffered in the other field events, due to an injury of long jumper Kenny Ballard and the dismissal of several other jumpers.

The sprinters were paced by Ricky Hall and Kenny Ballard. Hall had fine performances in the 440 all year, while Ballard ran well when he was not being bothered by his injury. The distance runners had four consistent winners: Mark Hunter in the 880 and mile, Doug Pierce in the mile and 880, and Gary Barba and Mike Benson in the mile and two mile. Pierce set a new school record in the mile, breaking his old mark from the previous year. Benson and Barba each broke ten minutes in the two mile; Barba also set a record in the two mile.

The Knights finished a strong third in the district meet, where Barry Meador was a double winner and Doug Pierce, Mark Hunter, and Mike Benson finished first, second, and third in the mile. Gary Barba out distanced the field to win the two mile. Meador went on to place second in the region and fourth in the state meet in the discus.

The Cave Spring High School Physical Education Department expanded again. The department hired Richard Painter to take over recreational sports classes. Physical education classes consisted of tenth grade boys and girls, while juniors and seniors participated in Gymnastics, Advanced P.E., and Recreational Sports. The expanding program enabled more students to participate in a wider variety of activities. The students were able to relax during the school day by taking part in such recreational activities as golf, tennis, ping pong, bowling, and badminton. If a student wished to participate in more strenuous sports, he could get involved in Advanced P.E. and Gymnastics.

However, the Grapplers came back winning five of their last eight matches. The Knights defeated E. C. Glass, a team expected to have a chance at the district crown.

The matmen sent seven wrestlers to Regional, two were District Champs; Mickey McKay at 98 pounds and Robin Leonard at 119 pounds. The other members were Steve Arledge, Tim Largen, Ron Kase, Chip Kalbaugh, and Ray Broughman. Robin Leonard repeated his previous year's winning performance and became the first Knight Wrestler to be Regional Champion two years in succession. Also advancing to the State Meet were Mickey McKay, Ron Kase, and Ray Broughman. The Cave Spring Wrestlers had a fine showing in the State Meet, but the lack of good competition during the game handicapped the Knights.

Starting Line: ORIENTATION

On the 27th of August the upcoming sophomores for 1974-1975 walked through the doors of Cave Spring High School for the first time as students. Kathy Enyart, taking her first official duty as president of the SCA quickly got the assembly under way. After listening to speeches by school officials, the excited students were taken on guided tours of their new school. At 12:00 o'clock the first of many school days was over for the CLASS OF 1977.

Assistant Principal, Mrs. Goodall explains modular scheduling to the anxious Sophomore Class during the orientation assembly.

Fans Acquaint with KNIGHTS

Cave Spring's new Athletic Director, Mr. David Wymer assists Jim Carroll in welcoming the spectators to the annual fall "Meet the Knights Night."

The 1974-75 Knight, Mike Apostolou and the spirit leader "Onion" Leonard smile as they are introduced to interested fans and supporting spectators.

Students and parents enthusiastically greeted members of Cave Spring athletic teams at three "Meet the Knights Nights." In September, WROV's Jim Carroll announced the fall sport's members at an outside rally. Winter teams were recognized by their coaches and cheered by their fellow students in November. During March, fans met participants in spring sports. The success of the three events was due in part to the sponsorship of the Knight's Booster Club.

WROV's sports announcer, Jim Carroll, recognizes the Knight Football Team.

'74

The week of Homecoming was filled with numerous events. All classes decorated their halls to display their spirit. Paper corsages were made for every girl in the school by the pep club and there was also a contest to see which class could make the longest spirit chain. The Sophomore class won the spirit stick and was awarded the winning links of the spirit chain at the homecoming pep rally. On October 16, there was a bonfire held in the school's parking lot.

When the night of homecoming finally arrived, every student was filled with excitement. The night began with the traditional homecoming parade. A long line of floats, decorated cars, cheerleaders, and enthusiastic students proceeded from the high school to the junior high stadium. After circling the field, the Junior class float was awarded first prize. The highlight of the night was when the Homecoming Court was announced at half-time. Sherrie Boone was crowned queen, and Kathy Enyart, maid of honor. After the Knights' victory over Covington, students and alumni poured into the gym to hear the music of "Sea Witch." During the dance, Barry Meador was crowned king and Doug Pierce was introduced as the first homecoming prince. The dance was the final event of a very successful HOME-COMING '74.

Homecoming Queen Sherrie Boone and Maid of Honor Kathy Enyart smile after being crowned.

Knight Mike Apostolou joins the marshalls Jamie Balzer, Kent Bond, and Dawn Pierce.

Enthusiastic "cheerleaders", Bill Anderson, Doug Pierce, Harry Angel, Bill Poe, and Jack Humphrey lead seniors to victory.

Basketball coach Mr. Lacy changes positions on court.

The traditional Student-Faculty game was held on February 26. The night began with a victory for the Senior girls in the volleyball competition. After the volleyball game, the Senior girls failed to out score the women faculty which were aided by male students. Even though the seniors had an enthusiastic team, the faculty managed to pull together enough points to win. Entertainment was provided by the drill team with a new and original routine of do-se-dos, and swing your partners.

Immediately following the square dance the players entered on to the court with one thought: to keep their undefeated record. This thought was demolished by the senior boys with a score of 65-63.

As always the Senior-Faculty game was a big success with all money from it going to a deserving senior in the form of a scholarship.

Drill team exhibits a different type of routine, from short shorts and tams to bib overalls and straw hats.

SENIORS TOP FACULTY

The Student Cooperation Association, aided by the Pep Club and various students, rearranged the once dull cafeteria into a setting of Christmas glee on December 19. Candy canes dangled from the ceiling, while the tables were ornamented with snowmen to modify the decorations.

Finally at 8:00 the long awaited dance got underway with music by Grim Reaper. The climax of the evening arrived when Santa Claus Daughtridge announced to the students Ralph Knoebel, King; Linda Bates, Queen; Doug Carter, Prince; Laura Duncan, Princess; along with their court.

With well organized plans and the help of many students the evening came off with much success.

The dance came to an end at midnight, but it was the beginning of a happy holiday season.

Students boogie to the sounds of Grim Reaper.

RELEASE YOURSELF

Students boogie to soul music.

In February, the Black Minority Committee sponsored the "Release Yourself" dance. A week before the dance, posters were hung in the halls to inform the student body about the scheduled plans. The ticket sale got off to a slow start, but with the help of the faculty sponsor Ms. Tucker the dance was a success. At eight o'clock, the students began to boogie to the music. After three hours of soul, the dance came to an end and the students left with many memories and a lot of tired feet.

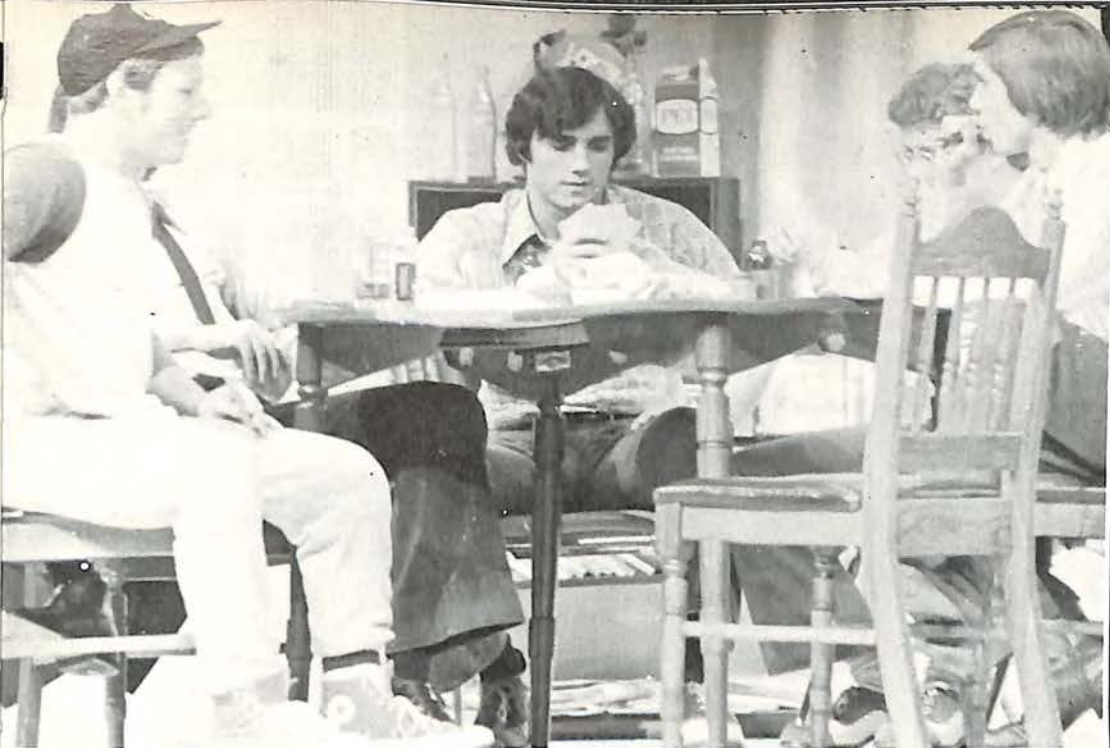

A new dance is displayed.

Students supply their own music.

Student actors give a preview of the play "The Odd Couple".

Mrs. Dechow interprets her version of the "Chaperral PTA".

Many assemblies were performed throughout the school year. After a day of shortened mods, the auditorium would fill up within a matter of minutes. Students would sit impatiently wondering what exciting program would be displayed.

Assemblies were presented for many reasons such as: entertainment, holidays, class meetings, sports events, and to promote school projects. Many long hours of hard work were spent by students and faculty to make these assemblies possible.

GREASY FIFTIES DAY

Senior Harry Angel dresses up for the occasion.

The "greasers" exhibit their stylish clothing in the cafeteria.

This year the students at Cave Spring put on their long skirts, peg pants, and bobbie socks to participate in the "Greasy Fifties Day." Music was played in the cafeteria by WCSH to set the mood for the "greasers". The day had only just begun when school was closed due to a sewage problem. The costumed students left their classes in hopes of enjoying the unexpected vacation.

SNOW CLOSES SCHOOL

The Easter vacation was shortened this year because of an unusually heavy snowfall. Students fled to the lobby as soon as the snow started to accumulate on the ground. Teachers barricaded the doors and requested to see a driver's license before allowing any student to escape the school grounds. However, students surpassed them and were soon found frolicking in the snow!

Unexpected snow quickly covers the school parking lot.

Faculty member Mr. Laughlin holds back anxious students.

CLUBS

This year Cave Spring held a competition between the clubs of the school. Any club could enter a team to compete in basketball. Thanks to the support of most of the clubs, this project was a success.

Participants try their best to gain victory for their club.

Faculty members were among some of the spectators that came to support the inter-club games.

Students exhibit the skills used to acquire VICTORY!

The 1st of two Disaster Drills sponsored by Veterans Administration Hospital was held on September 11, 1974. Several students were asked to participate in this drill and perform as casualties of a bad wreck on a school bus.

Following the drill a critique was held in order for the students to express their opinion of the exercise and suggest improvements.

Even though the Disaster Day is a serious matter, the students look forward to their participation in the drill.

Junior class president David Hodges takes time out to explain the modular scheduling to an exchange delegate.

SCA members and visiting delegates gather in the senior lounge to enjoy the refreshments and discuss the events of the day.

This year the Roanoke Valley High School Relations Council Junior-Senior Exchange Week was held April 7-11. Two juniors and two seniors visited their assigned school each day of the week. Cave Spring received students from other schools on April 7. After touring a normal day at CS, the guides and SCA members talked with the delegates to see what was said about Cave Spring. The day ended with a party, which was held in the senior lounge.

ATHLETES ACHIEVE HONORS

Cave Spring athletes achieved various awards this year. Three banquets were held in the school's cafeteria to recognize outstanding students, while guest speakers were invited to talk to the athletes after the meal. Cave Spring is very proud to have had so many dedicated athletes who attempted and accomplished their goals.

Football players Ken Beane, Bill Poe, Carl Bates, Jim Simmons, and Jim Butcher received outstanding linemen and back awards, while senior Doug Carter was given the Ray Waskey coaches award.

Athletes and parents attend the banquets in the school cafeteria.

Senior Bill Poe is Cave Spring's recipient of the B'nai Brith award.

Spring Fever Is CONTAGIOUS

Skipping class seems to get harder every day.

As the end of the school year draws near, "Spring Fever" spreads throughout Cave Spring. There just does not seem to be enough time to go to class! After sleeping in late, going to McDonald's for lunch, and visiting a few parties the day is almost over. Faculty members try their best to keep students in class, but the cure for this annual epidemic has yet to be found!

Prom Construction Underway

Only too soon the long awaited day arrived for the juniors and seniors. With the assistance of Mr. Laughlin the juniors transformed the gym into an enchanted countryside. Due to the long hours of hard work and the effort displayed by Patti Wells, the prom was a great success.

Even though the prom is produced by the junior class, other students deserve a great deal of thanks. The juniors would like to thank senior Chip Holdren for helping move trees and other props from construction homes to the gym.

Juniors Mitzi McNeil and Marilyn Mullen distribute long awaited Prom Invitations.

One major decoration of the prom is the lowering of the ceiling with hundreds of crepe paper streamers.

Construction chairman, Kevin Foster works hard while girls take a breather.

Prom Chairman Patti Wells, works hard and with much dedication for a successful prom.

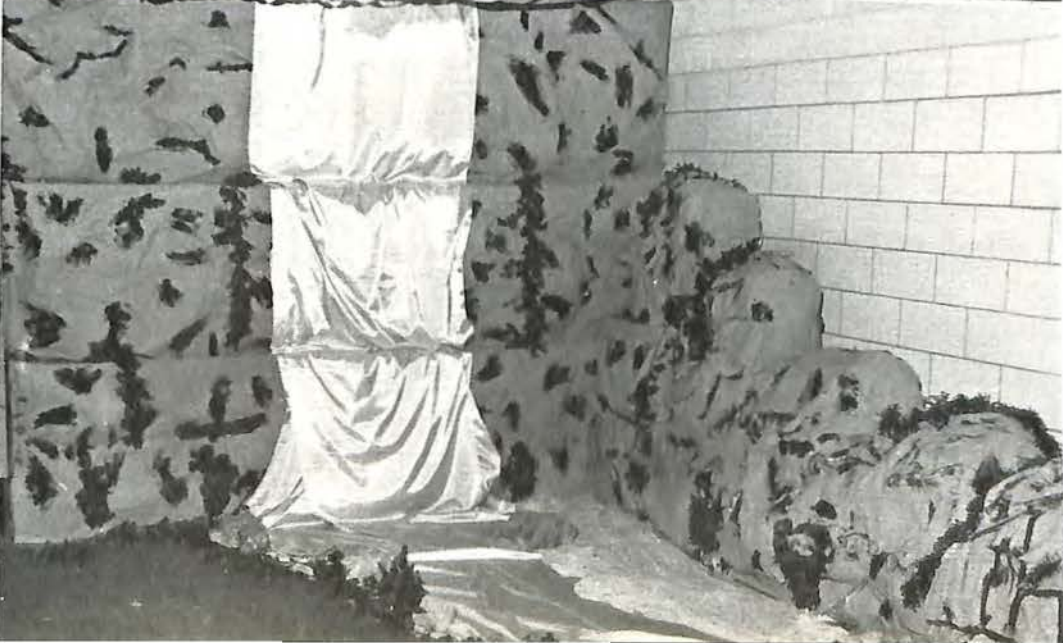

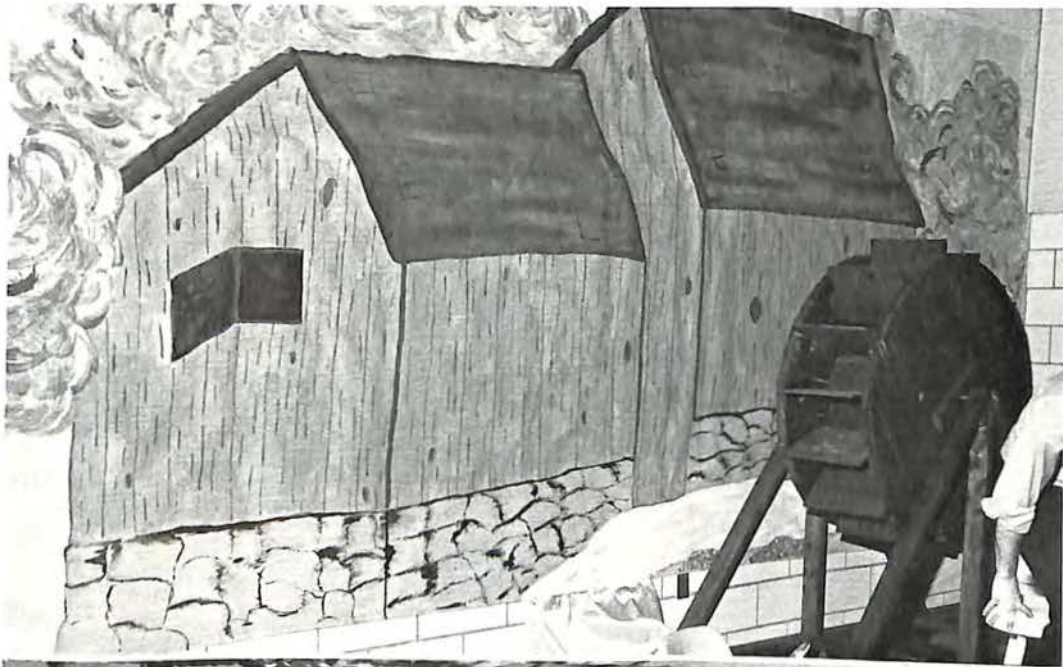

Pat Johann and her date admire the unique entrance way that leads to the "countryside."

Prom Night Arrives

On a rainy May 3, the prom had finally arrived. Students strolled through the open pages of a life-size book and across the ivy covered bridge into the countryside. They danced to the sounds of "Sebastian and Company."

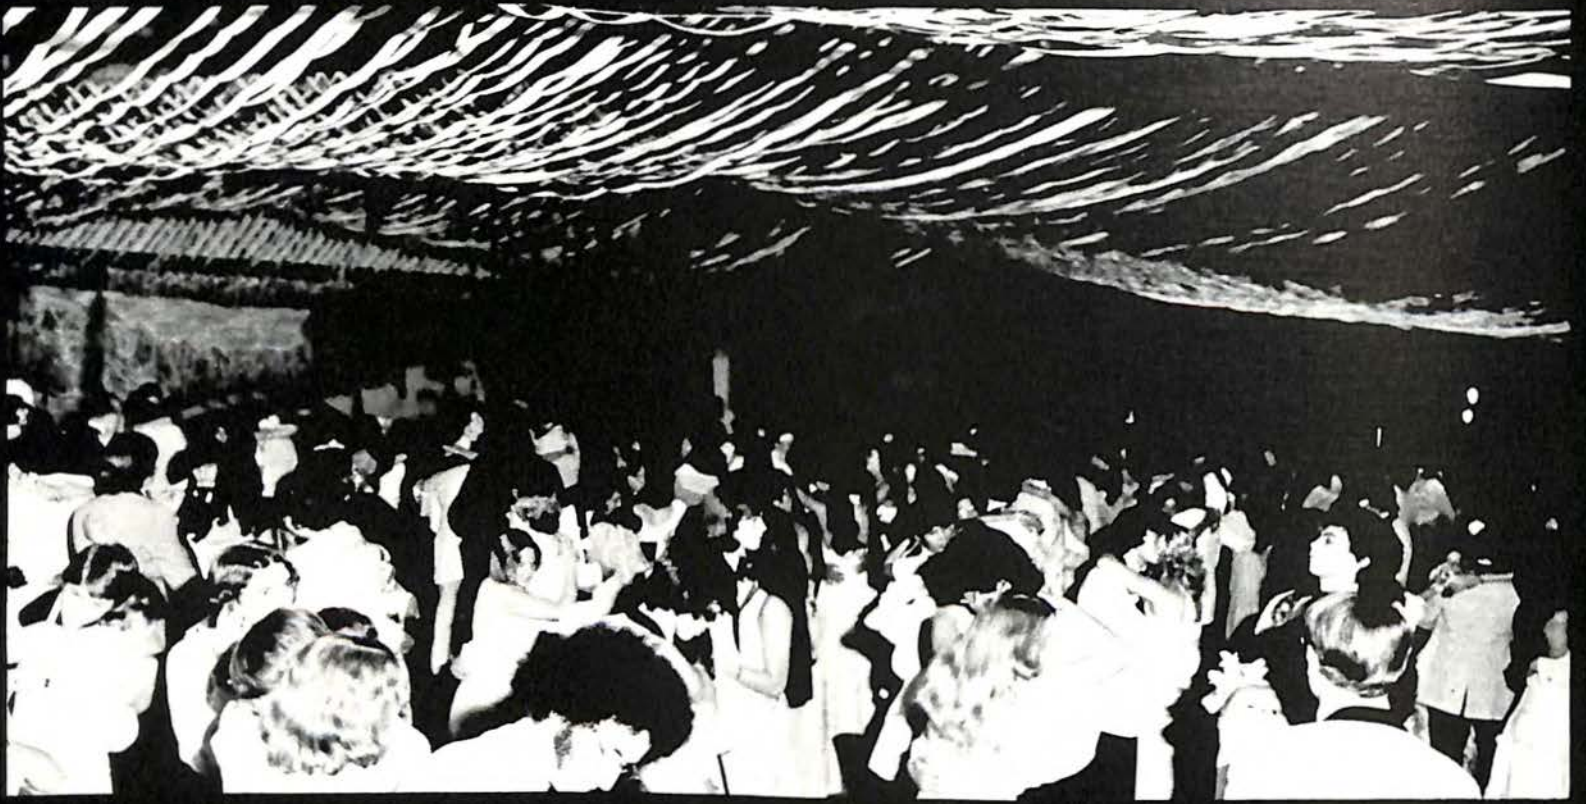

At the stroke of midnight everyone left with mixed emotions. Seniors departed with saddened hearts knowing they had attended their final prom. The juniors left with a feeling of accomplishment knowing they had created "SOMETHING WORTH REMEMBERING."

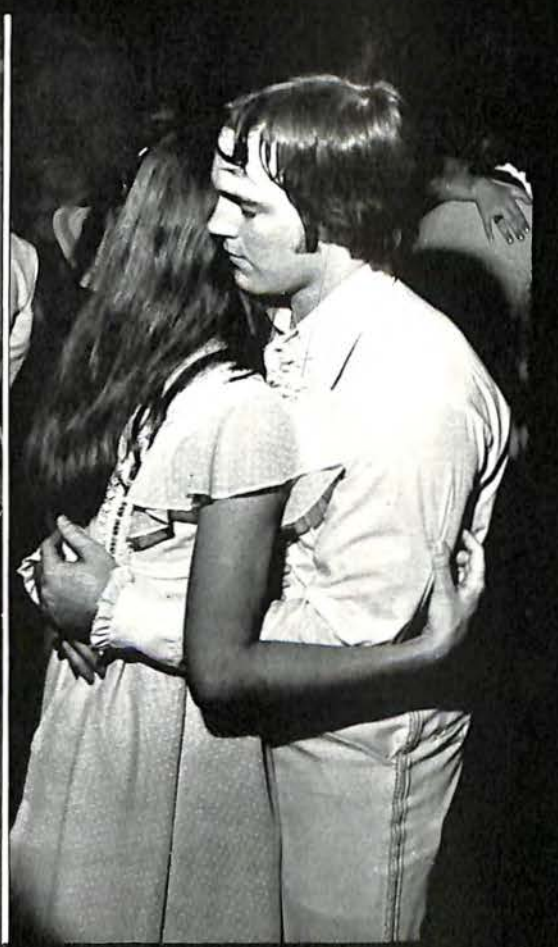

Chaperones seem to enjoy their job.

Props were constructed to change the simple gym into a scene from the country.

Students boogie to the sounds of "Sebastian and Company."

Larry Terry, Mrs. Bostian, Joe Starnes, Scott Mustian, and Cindy Dodd enjoy dancing in the "countryside."

SOMETHING WORTH

"Sebastian and Company" supply the dancers with a variety of popular songs.

A wishing well, a wishing well, and trees helped to set the mood for the play.

STUDENTS RECEIVE WELL- EARNED AWARDS

FAREWELL

398 UNITE FOR FINAL

After twelve long years, the long awaited graduation day arrived. The ceremony began with the procession of the Senior Class led by Valedictorian Elizabeth Leonard and Salutatorian Kenny Ballard. After top ranked Seniors addressed their fellow students, the distribution of diplomas began. At the conclusion of the presentations, principal Mr. Daughtridge declared the Class of '75 graduates of Cave Spring High School.

Admini- stration and Guidance Pave Road To Success

In an effort to lead young minds along the road to success the Administration set guidelines for students to follow, while guidance counselors set them on the right track. One new program installed by the administration was the "tray-back-dime-back" policy in the cafeteria. Students paid sixty cents for their lunches and when they returned their trays, a dime was refunded. Also, a new tone schedule was put into operation by principal James Daughtridge. The schedule was arranged so that on any schedule besides the P.M. Assembly schedule, classes would follow regular times after 12:00 P.M.

Guidance counselors sought to aid students in matters which they didn't understand or about which they needed information. Besides providing students with information on the various testing programs, the department also sponsored an orientation program for upcoming sophomores, and a college night for juniors and seniors. Arrangements were also made for college students to hold interviews with prospective college students from Cave Spring. Through these programs the guidance department marked a road for students to follow toward a goal of success.

Assistant Principal Penny Goodall explains modular scheduling to a visitor at Cave Spring.

Assistant Principal Richard Tisinger refunds dimes to students returning their trays in the cafeteria.

Strutting down the hall Miss Draper grins after just having administered PSAT's.

Junior guidance counselor Mr. Engers looks up a student's schedule.

Guidance counselor Mr. Millard finds pleasure in calculating class rank for seniors.

In the doorway of her office, Mrs. Hagen discusses a problem with Calvin Reese.

Para- professionals Pack Punch

Dotting rooms and hallways were the paraprofessionals at Cave Spring. Each assigned to different functions, the paraprofessionals aided teachers with many little chores of the profession. These chores ranged from taking roll in lectures, to keeping lists of overdue books, to keeping lists of "overdue" students. Patrolling the hallways and cafeteria was a major duty of all para-professionals, as they attempted to keep students out of the halls during mods, and all the time adding a little "punch" and personality to the school.

In a playful mood, Mrs. Bostian pushes John Wilson under the table in an effort to rid herself of his nonsense.

In the attendance office Mrs. Kauffelt looks up a student's absentee record while office secretary Mrs. Jones types the absentee list for the day.

Fun and games hit the classroom as Mrs. Mastrangelo demonstrates the movement of a slinky to physics lecture.

In a pensive mood Mrs. Hall relaxes in the library office.

As faculty typist, Mrs. Lotts prepares to run off a test after typing it.

As a paraprofessional in the guidance office, Mrs. Hawthorne writes out a slip requesting a conference with a student.

During slow hours Mrs. Morra finds time to read on her own as she keeps a watchful eye on the students in the English lab.

Posted outside the cafeteria, Mr. Hawthorne stands ready for the crowd to leave as the tone sounds.

At the Media Center desk, Mrs. Simmons checks for overdue books.

Dedicated to Serving Faithfully

Getting paper from the storage closet, office secretary Mrs. Allen prepares to type a letter.

In the guidance office Mrs. Hunt prepares one of the many high school transcripts to come across her desk. Business goes on in the book-keeping office as Mrs. Miller writes out another check. Earnestine Hairston begins her day with a smile.

With weeping eyes, Mrs. Meador and Mrs. Cochran chop onions for lunch. Manning her post at the end of the line, Mrs. King rings up lunches. Mrs. King discusses the rising price of lunches with Mrs. Cochran and Mrs. Love.

Taking time out from his busy day, Mr. Meador eats lunch.

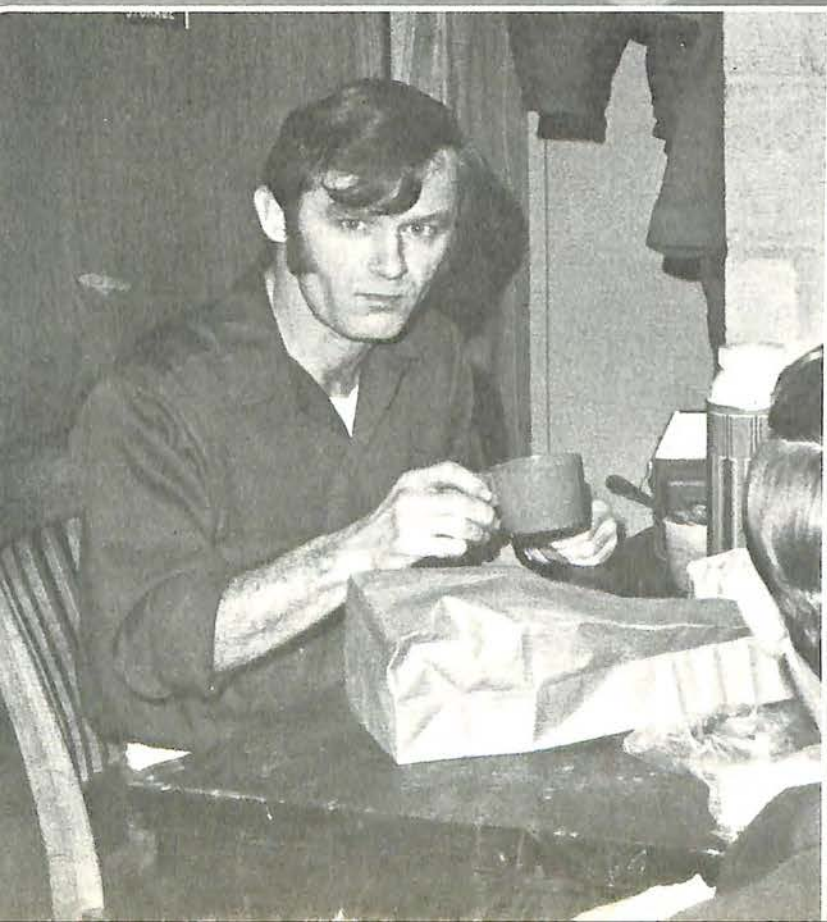

New janitor Mr. Lotts takes a break after school lets out.

Even with a score of tedious tasks to perform, the service personnel faithfully spent time keeping the school running smoothly. In addition to the usual tasks performed, the cafeteria ladies added two more meals to each day's menu (having dropped the snack bar). One member of the janitorial staff was assigned to keep the cafeteria clean. In the office, the secretaries remained busy keeping the school on the right tone schedule according to the new schedules added in January. With dedication, staff members kept the wheels turning smoothly.

New Teachers Impressed With CS

New teachers were delighted with Cave Spring. Commenting, Mr. Clingenpeel said, "It's a great school." Mrs. Hayman added, "I love it. The students are really great." Baffled at first, Miss Henderson said, "Modular scheduling is a whole new idea for me." This statement seemed to hold true for most new teachers. Some said there was not enough time to complete lesson plans during classes while others held one advantage to be the fact that the modular system was not so boring as the traditional system. Ms. Townsend, new in the English department, said, "I see this school as extremely efficient." Overall, those new at Cave Spring were impressed by the modular system and found it quite a challenge.

Relaxing with a coke, Mrs. Jones makes out lesson plans for biology class the following day.

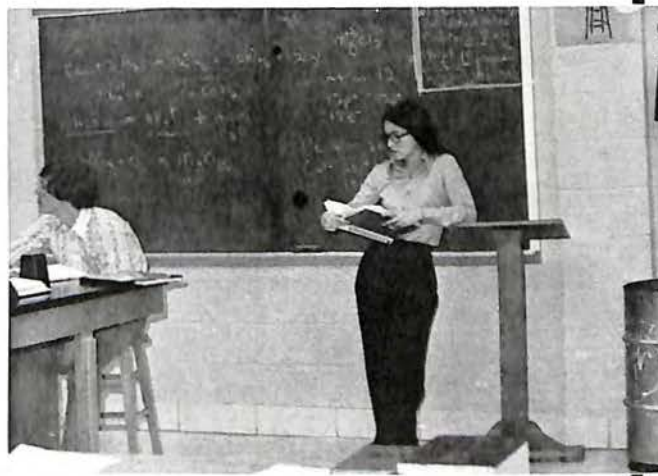

With a quizzical look on his face, Mr. Clingenpeel questions the objectives of IA.

During geometry lab Mrs. Hayman demonstrates a proof to her class.

Raising her hand to her head in disgust, Mrs. Sams realizes she has just missed her short story J group.

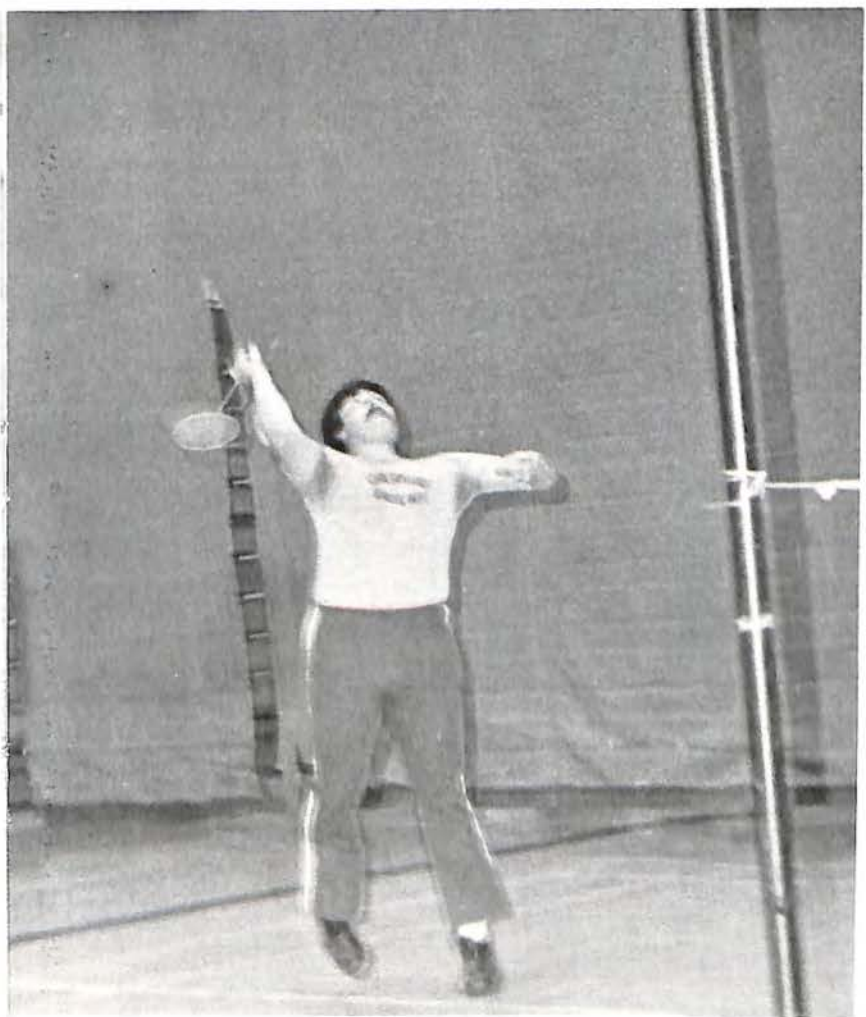

While his students work on homework, Mr. Steorts makes lesson plans.

Planning to check out a book to read for her own enjoyment, Ms. Townsend enters the English lab.

Having completed a lab assignment, Mrs. Henderson discusses results with her chemistry class.

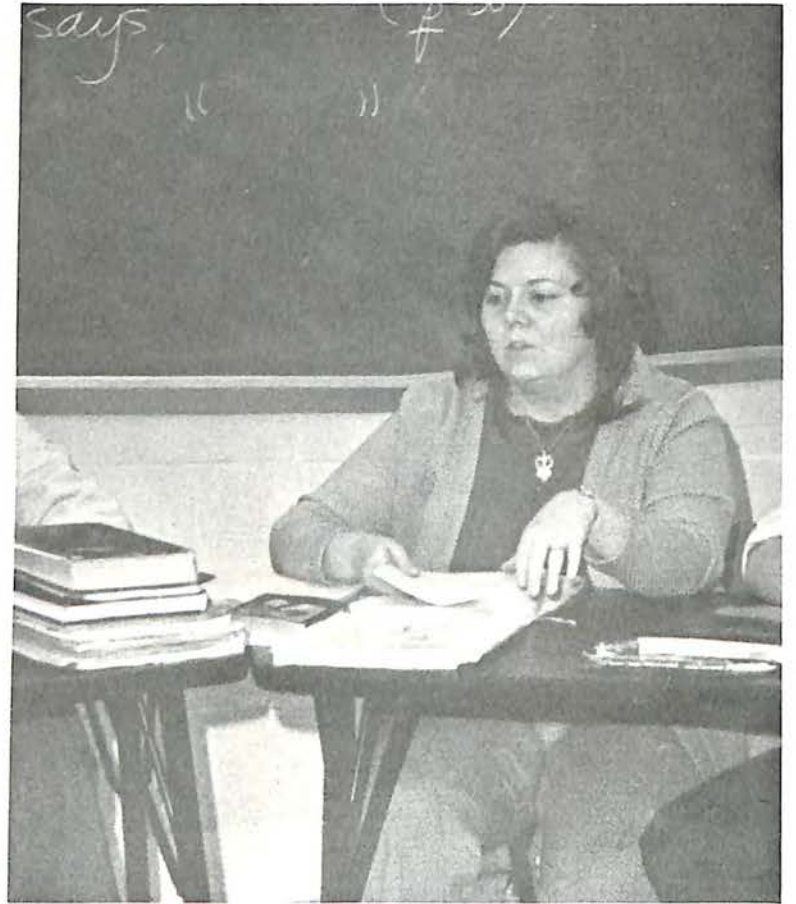

Finding a few free mods, Mr. Painter rigorously practices his badminton to keep in good physical condition.

At the end of a long, long Monday, Mrs. Rouse sighs with exhaustion.

At the blackboard Mrs. Fore finally finds some time to actually teach.

Clerk typist teacher Mrs. Perdue dictates an assignment to Barbara Reese after class.

Teachers Find Hassle Rewarding

As always, filling out forms, signing absentee slips, calling roll, and so many other bits of "busy work" dominated many classrooms. In addition there were the problems and necessities of each individual student. Other responsibilities of teachers included conferences with parents and confrontations with administrators; and, somehow, the teacher always ended up in the middle. These, along with the many other hassles of the teaching profession, did not go unrewarded, though, for in every situation some fragment of progress was made, some splinter of knowledge instilled.

During IA Mr. Laughlin holds a discussion on the practical applications of biology in other fields of science.

Amid the hassle Mrs. Catron has forgotten what she was going to teach, as she tugs at her ear trying to remember.

Between classes Mrs. Wilkerson takes time to add the "mark of the red pen" to some psychology tests.

"A kiss for luck" says Mrs. Reid to a surprised Mr. Hyatt on his way to range.

Spanish teacher Miss Baldwin smiles at the antics of her students.

During Anatomy and Physiology lab Mrs. Dechow points out the bones of the arm of the skeleton and demonstrates movement in her own arm.

Faculty

Adds Perso

Relationships between students and teachers grew closer for various reasons (many of these unknown). Perhaps the most significant factor was that the "stiffness" of modular scheduling had worn off; students had learned the art of discussion in IA's, creating a more open atmosphere and an outlet for teachers to get to know their students personally. This put students on a one-to-one basis with their teachers. The personal touch even spread to extra-curricular activities in the forms of the senior-faculty basketball game, pep rallies, dances, and attendance at athletic events. This personal flair was no coincidence, however. It was carefully planned by the individual teachers in their never-ending battle to enhance learning.

With a personal touch Miss Pierce readies a filmstrip for government IA.

"Alright now, get out of my gradebook!" says Mrs. Todd to Millard Radford.

For her special reading classes, Mrs. McFarland threads a film projector.

At the typewriter Mrs. Robbins writes a rough draft of a letter.

During gain time Mrs. Smith checks paragraph structure in the essays of her students, especially checking spelling which she feels is a basic lacking in students.

Gymnastics class is a fascination for Mrs. Sink and Mr. Dowdy as they discuss their students' progress.

Believing that there is a lack of background of the principles of math for students in lower grades, Mr. Salyer helps a student with a problem.

In a playful moment Mrs. McCurry and Mrs. Bowers examine each other's stuffed animals.

In Honors English class Mrs. Goodale pronounces a new vocabulary word.

With papers in hand, Ms. Simmons and Mrs. Peschel discuss book orders for the library.

Basics Lacking

Despite the fact that "new math," supposedly based on the teaching of mathematic principles, came to elementary schools in the sixties, there still seemed to be inefficiency among students in this area.

Math was not the only area in which fundamental skills lacked, however. In the sophomore class spelling seemed to be the problem; whereas, the senior class had more trouble along the line of vocabulary.

Many teachers, not only at Cave Spring but in other schools as well, expressed concern over definite reading deficiencies on all levels of education. Experimental programs were blamed for these deficiencies. Some Cave Spring teachers believed that students were taught by more than one approach, which confused the students.

Though basics were lacking, teachers believed an upward trend of better education would result in the long run.

Teaching: Form of Friendship

Many teachers looked upon teaching as a form of friendship, incorporating the learning experience with a congenial atmosphere.

Through a friendly atmosphere, teachers hoped to encourage learning in their students, desirous that this situation would make the student more open in expressing his problems. Encouraging openness was the basis for aiding students.

Though not on a "buddy-buddy" basis with students, many teachers felt that part of the reason they had chosen their career was that it would offer a professional form of friendship.

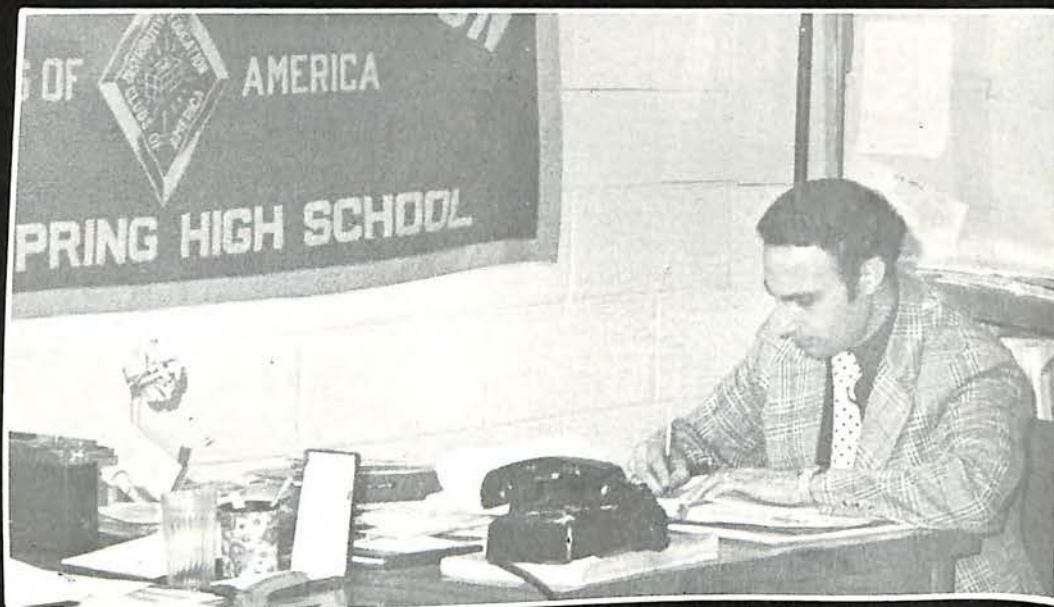

Stressing a student oriented atmosphere, Miss Morgan explains time, rate, and distance problems in algebra class.

Distributive Education instructor Mr. Tesh goes over lesson plans for the cycle.

Cross Country coach and history teacher Mr. Shackleford discusses distance running with Doug Pierce.

Between gym classes Coach Dowdy organizes audio-visual aids.

Having dismissed her class, Mrs. Shafer begins to pack up her books to carry them to her next class.

Pressured for time, Miss Wood grades papers during American History lab.

In a crafts class Mrs. Markham teaches students to crochet.

May in November

On November 5, 1974, Mrs. May Johnson, chairman of the Social Studies Department, was elected to the Cave Spring seat of the Roanoke County Board of Supervisors.

After many months of campaigning with the slogan "May in November," Mrs. Johnson finally realized her ambitions. Actively involved in politics, Mrs. Johnson said, "You never know what it's like until you really get into it."

With a victory in hand, government teacher Mr. Wymer said, "Her election will supplement the text with the reality of insight. She has always been frank with her students so it may not be a terribly noticeable difference."

Indeed Mrs. Johnson's experience in politics did bring insight to her teaching.

As a new member of the Board of Supervisors, Social Studies Department Chairman Mrs. Johnson shares a victory celebration with Tommy Hensley and Pam Palmer and Larry Terry and Robin Ervin. During State and Local IA she discusses her new duties with class members.

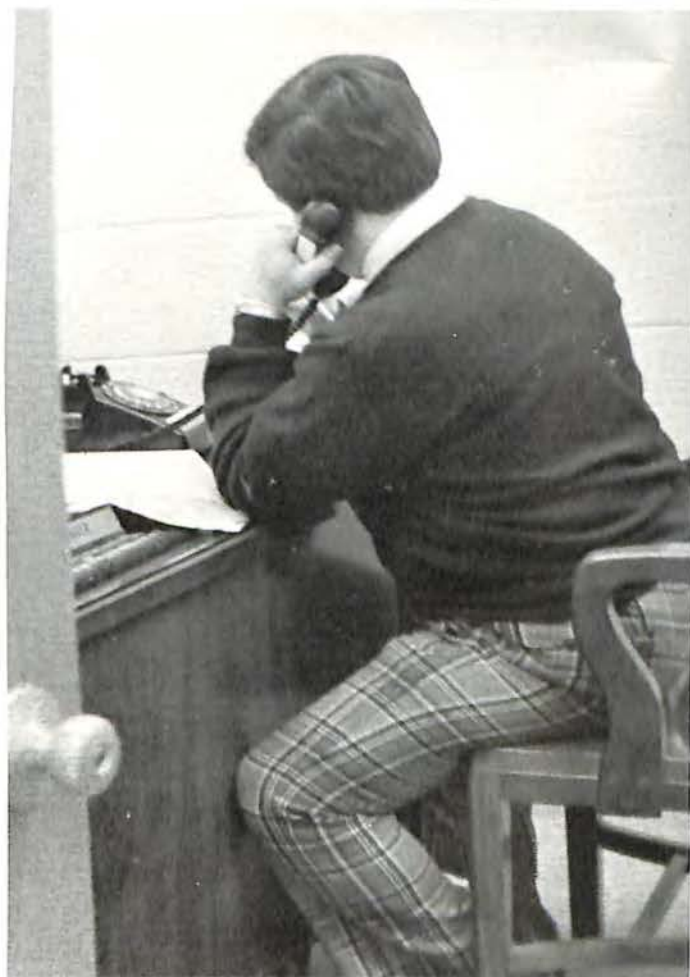

In charge of the attendance office, Mr. Lindsey checks a list of absentees for the day.

As Athletic Director Mr. Wymer makes plans for athletic events at Cave Spring over the phone.

Business education instructor Mrs. Self explains the use of Bank Americard to her students.

Lecturing to consumer math class Miss Byrd discusses sines and cosines as used today.

RCEC President Mr. Graybeal signs out a few stencils as he talks to Mr. Laughlin in the office.

Relaxation Abounds in Varied Forms

Relaxation also includes time to freshen up as Mrs. Holtman adjusts her contact lenses.

For Mr. Lacy even class time can be relaxing.

Sitting in the teachers' lounge, Mrs. Ruoff enjoys her newspaper.

A much favored pastime for Mr. Berry is sitting in the lobby, watching the people go by.

With the modular system (as with any new invention) came an abundance of free time for teachers. Many teachers had no problem finding something to do during their extra time. There were always tests to be graded or plans to be made.

But for those teachers who had completed their "tedious" chores, there were other things to do. From reading the newspaper to drinking cokes, teachers all busied themselves, each doing their own thing. Though sometimes engrossed in "busy" work (or otherwise involved), the tone would always ring—sending the teachers off to classes, having wakened them from their slumbers.

Semester Classes Advocated

To every argument there are two sides, as teachers revealed in a survey taken by the annual staff concerning the use of semester classes. For each side teachers gave valid arguments.

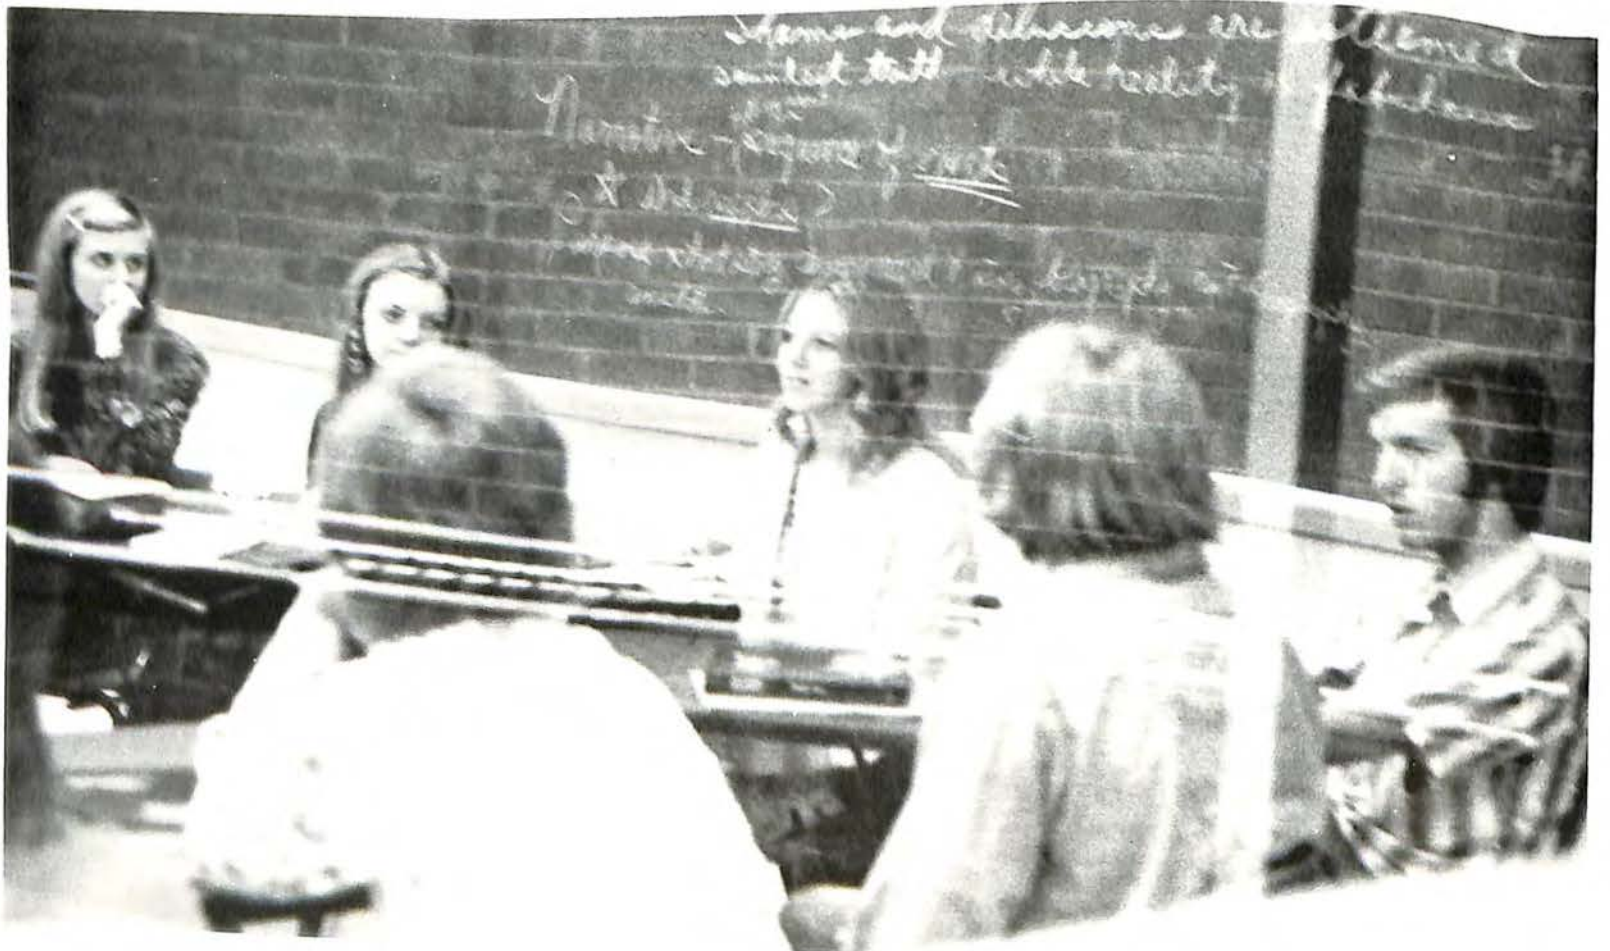

Those who supported the idea of semester classes said that it might lessen the number of assignments given to the students, thereby permitting them to do a better job on the ones they had. Advocates also stressed the fact that there would not be as much time slipping by between each class meeting if semester classes were adopted.

Other faculty members believed the system would bring several long assignments on the students which would be more of a burden than many short ones. Also suggested was the fact that there would be too much material to teach and expect kids to learn in such a short time.

Though no plans were definitely made to employ the semester class system, the idea was studied. Perhaps in several years the semester class system will be incorporated into the modular scheduling system, bringing on two headaches.

"Semester classes would involve teaching the students more than I feel they can comprehend in such a short time," says Mrs. Harris.

"Sometimes teaching can be like talking to a brick wall," Mrs. Russell.

For physics class Mr. Pugh sets up an experiment dealing with reflection in concave mirrors.

For Mrs. Tucker, humanities class takes much preparation, as she seeks to culturally orient her students.

After a "close call," driver's education instructor Mr. Hyatt takes a drink of water to calm himself.

Students Appreciate Teachers

Many times teachers thought their efforts went unnoticed, but somewhere in the corners of their students' minds, their acts were recognized. Students did not always openly reveal their appreciation for teachers, but the feeling was there. There was a great sense of appreciation felt for those teachers who spent time helping students outside of school or classroom. Students recognized teachers who went out of their way to aid in solving a problem, whether it was class-related or of a personal nature.

Getting to know a student as an individual, however, was perhaps most appreciated by the students, and to this end the teachers at Cave Spring were most dedicated.

As Miss Ammen listens to a recording, she analyzes the choral arrangement for her class.

The bookstore is only one of a thousand rooms to which Mr. Svec has the key.

"Appreciation is not lacking in my classes," Mrs. Overstreet thinks as she looks over her gradebook.

In an effort to meet Advanced Composition and Research class on time Mrs. Bowles quickly grabs her clipboard from her desk.

Having recently visited France, Mrs. Hosp explains the architecture of a French castle in a poster which she bought on her trip.

SCA Reporter Tammy Toler works hard making a sign for the Winter Dance.

Parliamentarian of the SCA, Larry Terry arrives on time for another meeting.

"Get In Deep", the SCA's slogan, was first seen on the activities board in the lobby the first week of school. Confusing to many, it simply mean 'get involved'. the SCA carried this theme throughout the year. The Subscriber's Spree was very successful, promoting sales and enthusiasm from CS students. "Twas the Night Before Christmas", the dance sponsored by the SCA, was fantasy filled, and enjoyed by all the students. SCA sponsored various projects, such as RVHSRC, assemblies, Subscriber's Spree, Winter Dance, and a petition to stop the slaughter of the baby seals. The SCA did much for CS during 74-75.

Pep Club Expands Knight SPIRIT!

"Fearless Leader" of the Pep Club, Mrs. Bostian portrays a thoughtful expression.

Pep Club Members Charles Goolsby, Tes Robinson, Laura Atkinson, and Kathy Tuck originate another sign to promote spirit throughout Cave Spring.

Richard Dickerson, an active member of the Pep Club, creates a sign for the upcoming game.

The Pep Club was perhaps the most active club at Cave Spring High School. Stirring up spirit among students, making signs cheering the various teams on, and helping with the Winter Dance were just a few of the activities of the Pep Club. Due to the efforts of the Club, school spirit flourished at Cave Spring.

The Drama club and International Thespian Society brought entertainment and talent to Cave Spring. The Thespians are more advanced Drama students honored with points and stars gained by devoting many hours in action and play productions. The Drama and Thespians brought a hilarious comedy "Gammer Gorton's Needle" to Cave Spring in the fall, put on by the Virginia players. The Drama students also put on the successful play "The Odd Couple" and planned more in the spring.

new director

The 1974-75 choirs were conducted by a new, young and talented director, Miss Cassie Ammen. Under the leadership of Miss Ammen, the choirs performed before a full-house at the annual Winter concert in December. A successful Spring concert also was held after many long rehearsals. The highlight of the year was the tour of the north-eastern United States with the band. A concert was held at Erie, Penn.

The Cave Spring bands were very active during '74-'75. In January, 25 members participated in All-County Band, the woodwind choir accompanied the concert and mixed choirs at the Christmas concert, and the performance of the stage band added to the excitement of basketball games and pep rallies. In May, the C.S. band did a concert in Erie, Pennsylvania, while the Erie band performed at C.S. in March. The band finished off the year with a tour of Canada.

SODA . . . Not Just Another Soft Drink

Soda Team: 1974-1975

When the term S.O.D.A. was first heard many thought of various brands of soft drinks. Twenty-three SODA members knew better. SODA is student organization for developing attitudes. SODA teamers visited six elementary schools to help kids understand themselves. A workshop was held to prepare members, and regular business meetings were held at CS to share new ideas and tales.

Hard Work Pays Off for Accolade Staff

Staying up all night to meet deadlines, working during the summer and on weekends, slaving over copy and layouts, and developing pictures were just a few of the things the annual staff went through this year. Despite all this, the staff made it, managing to successfully finish THE ACCOLADE.

Sports Editor Bill Poe explains a layout to Bill Downie and Tim Gravelly.

The Fellowship of Christian Athletes' membership was enlarged in 1974—female athletes under the direction of Miss Becky Pierce, formed a separate FCA club in early fall. In late fall, however, the male and female groups combined to form one strong club. Their activities included weekly meetings, monthly breakfasts, and to raise money cokes were sold during home basketball games. Money was used to send delegates to a summer conference.

"We're Behind You We're Backing You Up"

The Junior Varsity cheerleaders stood behind the Varsity all the way this year. Coming back from summer camp filled with spirit and ready to go, the J.V.'s started off the season by cheering for Cross Country, pushing the team on to 7th in the state. Their selling of the programs at Varsity football games helped the Booster Club immensely, and their cheering added much to the J.V. basketball games.

Yelling for a victory, the grappelettes cheer the wrestlers on.

The latest group since the J. V.'s were the new Grappettes. The Grappettes, chosen this fall, were the wrestling cheerleaders for CS's strong wrestling team. Under the sponsorship of Miss Morgan, these six girls cheered and excited our grapplers on to victory after victory. Completely separate from the other CS cheerleaders, Grappettes did a great job of attracting larger home crowds and adding even more thrills to wrestling matches.

The 1974-1975 Varsity Cheerleaders.

The sports program at Cave Spring last year wouldn't have been complete without our cheerleaders. Working closely with the Pep Club, they strived to raise spirit at school, a goal which they most definitely achieved. The choosing of Onion Leonard as "spirit leader" increased spirit at CS tremendously. The cheerleaders had money-making projects in order to present awards to every sports participant. The hard work of Miss Pierce, Cindy Whitenack, and all of the cheerleaders made them one of the best squads ever to cheer for Cave Spring.

The marching band season officially began in August '74 with practices twice a week. Mr. Svec, along with much determination from the band members, created a great band that won first place, division two, at the University of Richmond in November. Mitch Viar, drum major, led the band through many new formations. In November, the marching band had the honor of performing at the "All-Star" football game, representing Western Virginia. A successful Stadium Review was the finale of the season.

The Drill Team played a very important role in the football program this year. Their excellent performances at football games added much to the event. The many hours that Mr. Svec, Leigh Harris, and all the members put into their practices paid off when they received the Best Drill Team award at State Competition in November. Football Season at Cave Spring just wouldn't have been the same if the Drill Team hadn't been there to liven up the half-time show with their performances.

Organizations Aid C.S. in Many Ways

The Cave Spring chapter of the American Red Cross headed many community projects during the year. Due to the hard work of its members, Donorama '74 was a huge success, collecting more pints of blood than ever before. Other projects included a party at the VA hospital, and the annual blood mobile drive in spring.

Red Cross members demonstrate a little of what the club is about. Pictured are Barbara Johnson, secretary-treasurer; Bruce Martin, vice president; and Loretta Pilcher, president.

The purpose of the Science Club was to create an enthusiasm for science and a love of nature among students at Cave Spring.

Most of the club's activities were centered around the buying of a greenhouse for the school and spraying the bank behind Cave Spring with grass. Many interesting and qualified speakers came and talked to the students about forestry service, agriculture related fields, the serengetti plane, health careers, computer programming, and various other topics.

The club also visited the Smithsonian Institute in Washington, D.C., in the spring.

Officers of the science club are: Elizabeth Leonard, president; Cliff Sutton, vice president; Connie Cox, publicity chairman; Bill Leavy, treasurer; and Leigh Harris, secretary.

FTA officers Byron Coffee, Kathie Eanes, Roberta Naff, Renee Parker, and Janet Schell take time out to smile for the camera.

It was composed of students who were aware of the failings of their society and wanted to correct those faults on a school level.

1975 ACCOLADE STAFF

The 1975 ACCOLADE was printed by Inter-Collegiate Press in Shawnee Mission, Kansas. Mr. Ernie Olmstead served as the ICP Representative. Mr. Terry Ayoub, Mr. David Downs, and Mr. John Broadwater of Olan Mills were photographers. Mr. Lynwood Atkins also served as photographer.

The cover was designed by the Editor. American Lithoplate of Roanoke set type for the cover design. The definition was selected from the RANDOM HOUSE COLLEGE DICTIONARY. Jamont Press, Inc. of Roanoke, Virginia printed the Autograph Supplements.

The paper stock was satinweave. Universe Wide and Roma type was used. All artwork, ARTYPE and LETRASET, was set by the staff.

The 1975 ACCOLADE Staff extends its greatest appreciation to Advisor, Mrs. Billie Reid, who has worked with the staff for 12 years. The staff acknowledges the cooperation of the Cave Spring Administration and student body in the publishing of the yearbook.
