A NIGHT

Although we lost our Homecoming game, Cave Spring students and alumni will always cherish memories of Homecoming '76.

As Friday approached, students, teachers, and administration busily prepared for the game and dance. Friday night brought many surprises — a few being a large Trojan horse, a flaming "Class of '77" sign, and numerous balloons. The festivities were topped off with the crowning of Susan Delawter as queen, and the performance of the theme song, "Feelings," by the band. The Homecoming weekend was brought to a close on Saturday night with the dance and the crowning of Carl Bates as king. The memories and recollections produced from the event truly merited the phrase "A Night to Remember."

1. The Trojan horse, winner of first prize in the Homecoming parade, is led by victorious Latin Club members. 2. Determination shows on the face of Jay Peery as he explodes through the Homecoming shield. 3. The new Homecoming queen, Susan Delawter, lets her emotions show after being crowned. 4. The parade is highlighted by the presence of the 1976 Homecoming Court. 5. The Senior Class shows their spirit and talent with their entry in the Homecoming parade.

REFLECTIONS ON

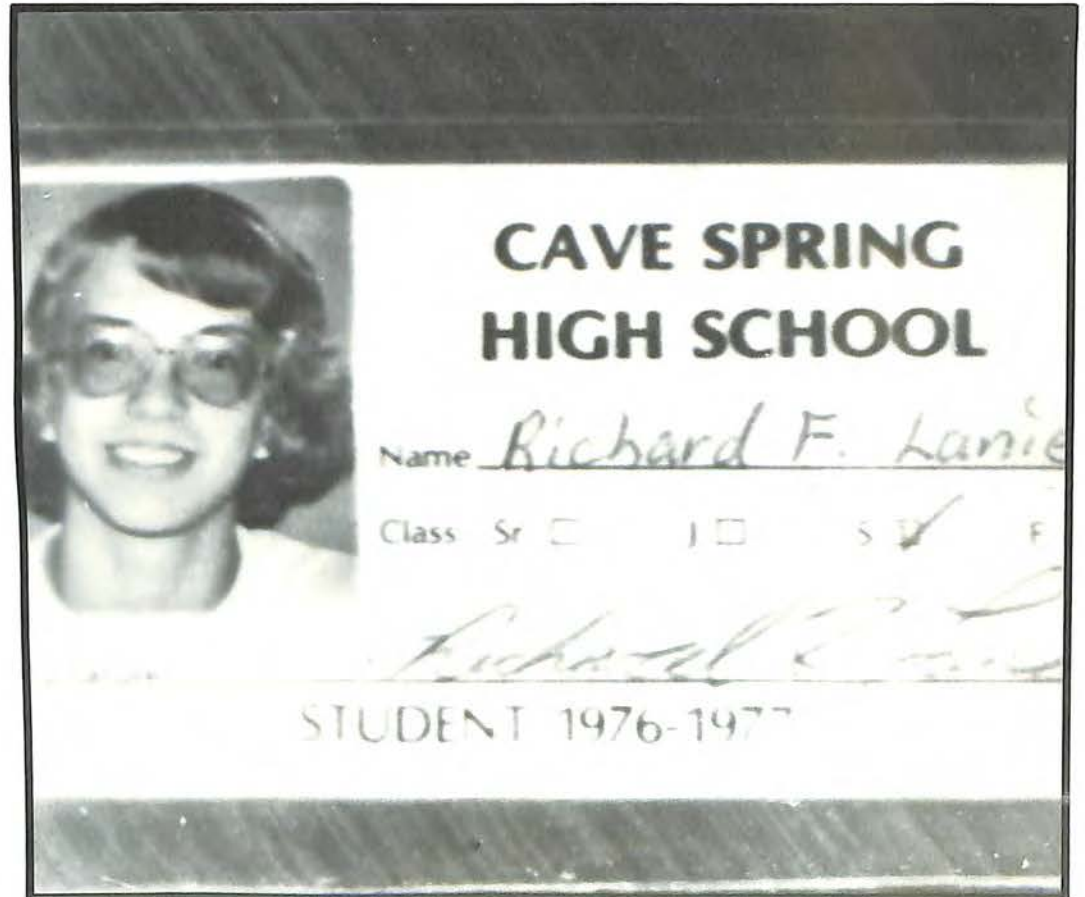

Do you remember some of the strange things that happened this year? The infamous I.D. cards were just the start of a chain of events that marked this year at Cave Spring as memorable. Now, just to refresh your memory, do you remember — the cycle of sewer days . . . the peculiar fires . . . the notorious orange fence . . . the many ticketed cars . . . the extended Christmas vacation — which became our Easter vacation . . . the gas shortage . . . days of sunbathing in February . . . the last day of school finally arriving!! All of these occurrences were considered unusual, but they just served to make this year one of the most unique.

4.

NOTICE

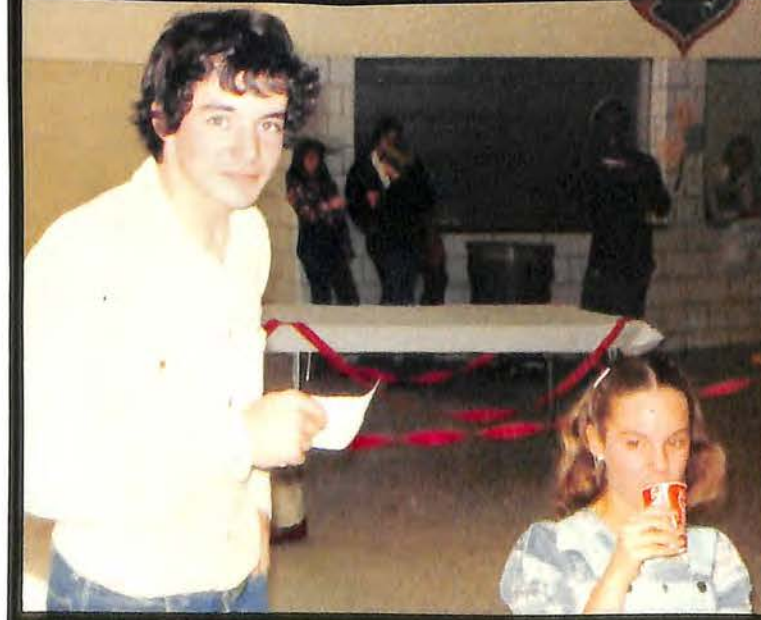

1. Do not break in line.
2. Do not throw objects.
3. Do not move chairs or tables.
4. Do not take food or drinks out of cafeteria.
5. Do not sit on tables.
6. Be courteous to one another.
7. No loud and boisterous behavior.
8. Place all trash in trash cans.
9. Return all trays and silver.

10. DO NOT BREATHE

1. One of the many fires results in the alarm to local firemen. 2. This policeman helps make someone's day more memorable with a ticket. 3. The distribution of I.D. cards provides every student with a valid identification. 4. The towing of cars becomes a routine occurrence at Cave Spring. 5. A sign in the cafeteria warns students not to breathe, among other things.

HIGHLIGHTS OF FESTIVAL REFLECT HARD WORK OF CLUBS

Lots of planning and hard work went in to make this year's Fall Festival a big success. On Saturday, November 20, the school turned into a carnival with food, games, booths, and prizes. Some of the highlights were the cheerleaders' "Haunted House," the Grapplettes' "Dunking Machine," the SCA's auction and the haircuts by Ron McNeil for only five dollars. All the clubs did well with the Senior Class "Country Store" being the biggest money-maker. As the day drew to an end, memories of cakewalks, international smorgasbord, and an enjoyable day lingered in the minds of all who participated.

1. The multi-colored wheel spins for some hopeful children in the booth sponsored by the Art Club . . . The mystic palm-reader Madame X, otherwise known as Mrs. Mildred Norman, surveys the palm of Kathi Bartlett . . . Coordinator of this year's Fall Festival, Susan Dickerson, shares her picnic lunch with Greg Burbo . . . Potential "Pinball Wizzards" try their luck at the booth sponsored by the Accolade Staff.

2. The auction sponsored by the SCA is led by Cave Spring's own auctioneer, Mr. Svec . . . Drill Team members, Paula Meuschke and Raymi Williams, assist a willing subject with her character analysis . . . In the play "Death Knocks," Jeff Wilson tries to convince Jeff Brown that he really is the devil . . . The dunking machine, sponsored by the Grapplettes, is occupied by Mr. Daughtridge . . . but not for long!

THANKS FOR THE

Mr. James Daughtridge has provided Cave Spring and its students with many memories. He came to Cave Spring four years ago, but in this short period of time he has helped to make our school one of the best in the valley.

Mr. Daughtridge was born in Rocky Mount, North Carolina, and he attended Wake Forest College, East Carolina University, Radford College. He has taught in various schools in the area, the most recent being Back Creek Elementary, and has fifteen years of service with the county schools.

Unfortunately, Mr. Daughtridge is leaving Cave Spring at the end of this year because of personal reasons. The 1977 ACCOLADE staff would like to recognize Mr. Daughtridge for his dedication, hard work, and determination. We wish to express our appreciation for his leadership, and wish him the best of luck in the coming year.

MEMORIES OF

This year at Cave Spring was full of important events, but it was the ordinary incidents which made it special. Although eating lunch in the cafeteria or sitting in the library didn't seem too exciting, the presence of close friends made it a memorable occasion. Normal days were enlivened by escapes to McDonald's, sorority hazings, and birthday celebrations; and, without these occurrences, life at Cave Spring wouldn't have been the same. Days came and went and when we look back it will be these routine affairs that come to mind first.

EVERYDAY LIFE

4.

1. Sophomores loiter in the lobby while Mr. Daughtride patrols the halls. 2. Studying, relaxing and foolishness take place in school. 3. Friends make our school life more bearable, but sometimes it's easier to give up. 4. The cafeteria is one of the liveliest places at Cave Spring.

REGIN BROTHERS....

The Senior Talent Show displayed many surprising talents, among these were the Regin Brothers, a nine-man disco dancing team that, aided by the Regin Brothers Band, brought down the house with a standing ovation in the final act of the show and received third place. These nine enterprising young men can be seen boogieing through the halls with monogrammed "Regin Bros." shirts and sporting such names as "Get-Down," "Sundance," "Boogie," "Goose," "Funk-up," "Stiff," "Stretch," "Blaze," and "The Ox." The Regin Brothers are in the same vein as the 1976 Senior Kazoo Band and helped in restoring some of the much needed spirit to the Senior Class.

GRADUATION ARRIVAL

1. Awards to deserving Seniors is the facet of the Capping Assembly. 2. The top 15 Juniors, academically, have the honor of capping the Seniors. 3. The Top 10 and class officers sit on the stage during Baccalaureate. 4. Guest speaker, Paul Hogue, flatters the seniors with his poetry at Baccalaureate. 5. Seniors relax after the ceremonies at the reception, served by the Senior Reception Committee, aided by Mrs. Markham and the Juniors.

Every year Seniors anxiously await graduation and although time appears to creep all at once the Seniors are receiving numbers and lining up to process into the auditorium. For many Seniors graduation is not yet a reality, but with the commencement of capping the reality of graduation slowly begins to creep in.

GRADUATION IN THE HOPE OF A BETTER TOMORROW

A final farewell, a rose, and the sheepskin are all the final ticket out, this is the moment, this is it — graduation. Some are happy, some do not care, but most are scared.

However, these fears are soon packed away as beach plans are made only to recur in September as the new alumni go off to college, jobs, or marriage.

Prom Chairman Martha Harrison

Though the Junior Class underwent many trying times through '76-'77, they emerged victorious! From the first few sewer days to the graduation of their predecessors, the Juniors have had to deal with such problems as: coming in second at all but one of the pep rallies, PSAT's, SAT's, trying to raise money for the Prom, organizing the Prom, the "Junior Jitters" (also known as the "pre-college decision nerves"). To top it all off, the Class of '78 will have to deal with two totally new problems in their senior year . . . new scheduling and a new principal. Even so, the senior year still holds all its excitement and challenge.

Status

The day finally arrived! Juniors were seen stampeding to the lobby, and on returning, flaunting their precious gems. And who can forget the "turning ring mania" or saving the 78th turn for that very special person?

1. Juniors order precious class rings . . . 2. and then eagerly receive their class rings. 3. Juniors turn rings in anticipation of a kiss from lucky #78.

smoking cigarettes and writing on the desk . . . misconduct slips and overdue assignments . . . Homecoming . . . Fall Festival . . . Snow . . . Spring Fever . . . this was our school and we made it that way. It was our first and last year of modular scheduling (SOB), therefore, we enjoyed it to the hilt — taking all the classes we could and cutting all that we could. We were growing, sometimes forwards sometimes backwards. Finally growing up and realizing that it all wasn't right. But this is our final step to becoming a Junior, and while we did it — it sure seemed right.

The days of Biology, smelling up the halls and especially the lab. Playing with "Herman the Crayfish" and "Louie the Daphnia." Grow your own mold and bacteria, from such places as the library, smoking block and phone booth. We graduate to Chem. Study and Anatomy for more interesting sights and odors.

1. This Sophomore, "Herman the Crayfish" has had enough of Biology. 2. Studying the crayfish, under the microscope are Dee Wimmer and her lab partner. A rough Biology test starts the day for this class. Intently studying the crayfish in Biology lab, and ignoring the odor?

Looking back on our high school days, C.S. students will never forget the teachers. Those fun-loving people who collected coffee grounds, those who formed musical bands, and finally those teachers who got their kicks from cutting off long locks of hair during gain time. When a student stepped into one of the offices he would immediately spot the stained box filled with mounds of old coffee grounds. It would have seemed that this box and its contents would have been discarded periodically, however someone felt very close to these coffee grounds and would have become heartbroken if they hadn't been there every day. While the coffee grounds were quickly building up, the members of another dept. were displaying their musical talents when they played kazoos in a group on the day before Christmas vacation. They were also most fond of nostalgic songs of the '50's. Gain time, which proved to be "game time" for most students, was also a time for teachers to "do their own thing." One teacher spent her time cutting a student's hair. Students who passed by this office might have been surprised to see this teacher hacking off those golden locks with her prize "machete." All our teachers, those colorful people who were "young once too," did teach us something — if not about frogs, or relative pronouns, then about life.

ON I.D.'S

From one emergency to another, our beloved "J.D." and his two asst. principals, Mr. "T." and Mrs. Goodall, survived the disasters at Cave Spring. The first trying experience came early in the year, when the sewers "fouled up." To the students' delight we received two half-day vacations. Then came the infamous I.D.'s! Against their will, students were crowded into the wrestling room to have their pictures made. These I.D. pictures were even worse than our driver's license pictures. No sooner had we overcome the I.D. rage than the snows came. In January, after having returned from Christmas vacation for only two days, we were overrun by snow. As soon as one snowfall would melt, another one would come, allowing students to frolic on the slick roads in cars or on sleds. Along with the snow came an energy crisis, which forced students to remain out of those "fun" classes for a few more days. Finally returning to school, students found themselves forgetting locker combinations, classroom no.'s, and most dreadful — they forgot their schedules! The Guidance dept. quickly eliminated the problem and students resumed the drudgery of school. However, the counselors became frantic when hordes of seniors assembled in the guidance office to learn their class rank, and the sophomores and juniors crowded in, to return their schedules for their first year of high school without modular scheduling. The majority of students preferred modular scheduling because they could sit out on the front lawn, or if they succeeded in evading the parking lot patrol, they could dine out at Wendy's or McDonald's, or Bonanza.

The colorful English department expressed its imagination for their office decor by allowing each teacher to adorn his or her desk and wall. Mr. England displayed his Star Trek Klingon Battle Cruiser along with the Enterprise, over his desk. Mrs. Townsend offered visiting students a "homey" atmosphere with her wicker chair and oriental rug, while Dr. Kelley spent her gain time repotting spider plants. Mrs. Goodale's desk was located next to posters of her favorite horses. Mrs. Smith's wall reflected the subject that she taught, Drama, with her drama masks hanging on the wall. Mr. Weinstein managed to keep the group together with his unmatched wit and flaming personality. Many students who visited the English office did not always come to visit the teachers, sometimes they enjoyed a relaxed moment in the comfort of the black chair. Those more daring students who ventured into taking the Honors English test, which wasn't as hard as the teachers led us to believe, rushed in to be surprised with the results of passing. The English teachers also participated in a Kazoo Concert, while Mr. England joined Mrs. Smith in singing old fifties songs.

The Social Studies office was a favorite meeting place for those more politically inclined students who challenged Mrs. Mason to fast paced debates. Our sociology teacher, Mrs. Harris, conducted arguments on what is socially acceptable and what is not, while the "psychiatrist's corner," under the guidance of Mrs. Wilkerson, attracted many students who needed Mrs. Wilk.'s good advice. The psych. classes performed their various experiments, such as sitting in a car in the Tanglewood parking lot with the hood raised or getting locked in one of the hall lockers. As the cold winter months hurried in, so did our own Mr. Hammes clad in his famed red beanie which topped off layers of warm clothes. Mr. Shackelford's assortment of Life Savers attracted many students to his desk, while others joined Mrs. Harris and Mrs. Mason in eating diet lunches. Every morning the coaches were found discussing the previous evening's games over a cup of coffee made in their "Mr. Coffee" machine.

SCIENCE DEPARTMENT HAS SOLUTIONS FOR EVERYTHING

The students of Cave Spring discovered a new haven this year in the science office. With the more intense patrolling of halls, many students ducked into the office to hide and found a completely different world within its walls. The science office has many unusual characters lurking about in it, but finding them can be a little difficult. Perhaps this comes from the mass confusion surrounding them. Somewhere beyond the tangled mess of A.V. equipment, lost biology books, and students making up tests were the teachers. While often out of sight, they were never out of earshot. Almost always they could be found by following the sound of Mrs. Van der Schalie's voice raised in a "discussion" with Mr. Laughlin.

Once spotted though, it was sometimes impossible to reach them through the mounds of trash. The scientific minds of the teachers seemed to have problems with balancing the amount of trash they generated with the number of trash cans available.

While the science office was an interesting place to be, the classes were something no one should have missed. The students' first memorable experience of high school would have to be the dissecting of crayfish in the biology lab. For other students the great feat was trying to light the Bunsen burner in Chemistry under the supervision of a laughing Mrs. Reid, and the by now traditional "skinning of the cat" in Anatomy lab.

1. Struggling through another day, Billie Reid gives a sigh of relief. 2. Chemistry teacher, Steven Sboray, discusses matters with a student. 3. Chemistry teacher, Patricia Perfetti, attempts to calm her class. 4. Playing the balloon game in Biology lecture can be interesting as Linda George and a student show. 5. School is not all work, as Ellen Holtman, Eric Snowadsky, and Reggie Tuck make the day a bit more enjoyable. 6. With a look of astonishment, Barbara Van der Schalie finds it hard to believe her study hall's behavior. With an unexpected look, William Pugh prepares to enter the physics lab. The Cave Spring math department housed that group of teachers who considered themselves geniuses. One should have noticed this immediately — seeing their desks piled high with papers, folders, and make-up tests. The math teachers themselves, decided that they were of superior intellect and that is why they made no effort to file away these unneeded papers, which were a sign of genius. The math office was kept open throughout the school day in order that students might experiment with the computers and make up tests. The high number of test make-ups was in part due to the air-conditioned rooms of the annex. If you were lucky enough to sit under the vent, your neck would soon stiffen and you would become unbearably numb. The next day there would not be anyone in math class because everyone, including the teacher, was in bed at home, deathly ill. Mrs. Pack, one of the "straighter" of the math teachers, was sick very little because her appropriate attire, a scarf, coat, and knit hat kept her in operating order at all times.

French, Latin, and Spanish students all had a busy and fun-filled year. French students will probably remember their Christmas carols. The Latin students, on the other hand, will long remember their celebrations of Roman holidays, and their game days in which they played "Spin the Coliseum." And certainly the Spanish students will not forget when they munched popcorn and sipped Kool-Aid as they watched films.

The highlight of the year for the art department was the infamous field trip to an art museum in Richmond. It was really a shame that there weren't more field trips. Another exciting event was working with clay. Unfortunately for the art classes, the clay was stored in the weight room where the football players tramped on it with cleats causing it to dry out. The art room was a place of inspirational works of art, but also a hangout for students who wanted to rest on the bus seat or on the carpeted tree stump.

When school first started, members of the various choirs and bands could be heard struggling to hit the right notes, but as school progressed they blended together in perfect harmony. At Christmas time, the Concert Choir in conjunction with the Va. Western Community College Choir gave two concerts. Members also participated in various competitions in which they did rather well, partly due to Mr. Bixler's friendly coaxing — those cute little grins which almost sent the singers into howls of laughter. The Marching Band performed ably through the slop and slime of wet, muddy football fields, always managing to stay in formation and to hit the right notes at the right time. Members of the other bands also held their own at all levels of competition.

While some students were learning to drive, others were playing field hockey, tennis, and golf. The young student drivers were off to a delayed start, since the range was filled with unauthorized cars. This practice was halted when an immense barrier was erected. While the Sophomore girls attempted games of field hockey, the Sophomore boys tried to hit tennis balls. In addition to the famed Rec. Sports ski trip, the Rec. Sports classes engaged in vigorous games of volleyball and ping-pong. The Distributive Education office housed the beloved Mr. Graybeal, affectionately known as "Gravy," and his new colleague, Mr. Phipps. These two men were responsible for getting D.E. students on the job training. The D.E. office was decorated with many showy plaques and a wall mural, painted by the Pep Club, which displayed the freedom of American life. Mr. Morrison and Mr. Salyer, the able Industrial Arts teachers, were not only skilled in the manufacturing and building fields, but they were also knowledgeable in the communication field. They taught students the art of designing, manufacture, and engineering, and they even managed to keep students from smashing their thumbs when hammering.

STRIVING FOR FUTURE GOALS

11.

12.

The Cave Spring business department prepared the students for the outside world of business life. The students found part-time jobs due to their superior skill in typing, shorthand, and record keeping. The teachers patiently taught students how to type their names and the sentence about the fox and the dog, as well as other more useful things. Shorthand students often wrote notes to nearby friends in shorthand so that their teachers would not be able to decipher their secrets.

The home economics department which taught students to become expert seamstresses and excellent cooks also taught the proper procedure to be used when setting a table for a meal. The annex, which housed the home ec. dept., attracted many people with the smell of baking cookies or possibly an entire meal. The students prepared themselves for their annual Faculty luncheon and the sewing contests. The enticing smell of their cooking not only attracted visitors in search of a snack, but it also distracted students' minds from the forever cold annex classrooms.

The library, the place where students went to study and to escape the undercurrent of milk cartons, forks, and leftover food that was on the floor of the cafeteria, also had its disadvantages. There was a considerable amount of noise present, which was not always caused by the students present. The librarians, who in their struggle to eliminate all noise, ultimately caused more noise than was already present. At approximately every mod tone, a voice of authority began her diatribe against the people who talked. She also informed the crowd of studious people that the tone had just sounded and they should leave for the cafeteria if they could not follow these simple rules: a) There will be absolutely no talking while in the library; b) If you must talk, go into one of the "quiet" study rooms; and c) Do Not Breathe. Some students tried to avoid the librarians and their rules by hiding between the bookcases or in the section with the encyclopedias. This to the dismay of students did not work and they were banished from the library for a whole week!

The Para-Professionals at Cave Spring are constantly kept busy in their pursuit to aid teachers and school personnel with Mrs. Fanti "on the beat" in the annex students could not stray from the Cafeteria or other designated areas for fear of being written up. This fear was not only instigated by Mrs. Fanti but also by Mrs. Bostian, the keeper of the drink machines. Mrs. Morra, who reigned over the English Lab, was the chief when it came to making up tests, while Mrs. Hawthorne wrote out never-ending early dismissal slips that would have brought mutiny to the halls of C.S. if ever discontinued. Mrs. Mastrangelo, who dealt with frustrations that go with the operations of the book store, was also very helpful to the Chemistry teachers when she would don goggles and lab coat to tackle the world of chemicals. Mr. Hawthorne, who frequented the gym, had a soft spot for ice-cream sandwiches and girls. He could often be seen with ice-cream sandwich in hand or helping a flustered girl in a Rec. Sports class try to properly hold a golf club. Mrs. Simmons and Mrs. Jones aided the librarians in the prevention of "blab" so that those three students can study. Finally, there is Mrs. Lotts who could be considered the most helpful para-professional as she types out those tests that seem to destroy any of our hopes for graduation.

THOSE BEHIND THE LINES

Mrs. King, the petite black haired lady in charge of the cafeteria, was responsible for keeping the cafeteria running smoothly. With the expert help of the other cafeteria ladies, she was able to take care of the dietary needs of the whole student body. Although the eating area of the cafeteria was often buried under mounds of garbage, the kitchen was kept spotless. Cave Spring was fortunate to have these talented ladies with us.

The maintenance staff were perhaps the least known people at C.S., but probably the most needed. They were the people who un-stuck lockers, fixed leaks in the roof, changed light bulbs in classrooms, and kept the mess in the halls and cafeteria to a minimum. They did most of their work when no one was around, so what they did often went unnoticed, but without them the school would have ground to a halt.

The faculty and student body of C.S. owe much to the secretaries who managed to create some semblance of order out of the day-to-day chaos of running a school. In the main office Mrs. Allen served as a buffer between the principals and the public. Somewhere deep within the maze of offices Mrs. Miller could be found busily working on the records and books. Mrs. Jones, the friendly lady in the attendance office, and Mrs. Lewis, the guidance secretary, also helped to make sure that things went as they should.

TALENT SHOE RAISES

The Talent Shoe hit off right with a large and superb audience. Providing the excellent show with music was "Turquoise." The program consisted of a variety of acts from the students themselves. Braving the stage, with a roaring and attentive audience, the performing artist gave a terrific show. The judges had a hard time choosing the winners and finally came up with their decisions.

The third place was the Reggin Brothers, second place, Bobby Haskins; and first place, The Bluegrass Band.

1. Seniors Bill Enyart and Kevin Hurley scoot out in their Volare wagon. 2. The Bluegrass Band performs one of their numbers. 3. Singer Terri Atkins and guitarist David Delpierre perform the song "Long, Long Time." 4. Italian producer Mark Ditman gives the audience his sophisticated look. 5. The members were Queen, Susan Wingate; King, Dobby Dobyns; Princess, Becky Draper and Prince, Greg Kennerly. Other attendants were Donna Furrow, Karen Guilliams, Sharon Guilliams, Lynn Hardy, Susan Poe, Nancy Rhodes, Julie Romano, Lisa Thompson, Charlie Apperson, Don Ballard, John Blair, Tom Boehling, Ray Broughman, Pat Equi, Paul Pennino, and Eric Snowadsky.

APRIL'S FOOLS

Though school provides a place for getting a serious education, the days are sometimes brightened by the crazy antics of the students and staff. These escapades help to make the days pass quickly and appear not quite so hectic. Learning obviously isn't the only part of school life, and Cave Spring couldn't be the same without the "fools."

The long awaited moment finally arrived after many weeks of anticipation and planning. Each couple became surrounded by a feeling of elegance as they entered into the excitement of Broadway. The theme, "Knights on Broadway" present "Nights Are Forever," was most appropriate for the courtly setting. The band "Flying High" provided mellow as well as disco music that made everyone more than willing to get up and dance. REFLECTIONS ON Capping marks the beginning of the graduation ceremony. On June 3, seniors processed into the auditorium, anxiously awaiting their turn to walk up on the stage. After each senior had his cap placed formally on his head, outstanding members of the class were recognized for their accomplishments during the awards ceremony.

On Sunday, June 5, seniors and their parents, relatives, and friends gathered in the auditorium for the Baccalaureate Service. Mr. Paul Hogue spoke about "Today's Knights, Today and Tomorrow." Opening with a poem written during the middle ages, Mr. Hogue included many familiar Knights and fair maidens. After inspirational words from Mil Norman and Bob Patane, the Concert Choir sang "May the Road Rise to Meet You," in memory of Annette Bosco. With memories, happy and sad, the Class of '77 recessed to music played by the wind ensemble composed of mostly senior band members.

SCA CARRIES THE LOAD

The SCA upheld their tradition of service to the school with the many activities they planned and carried out this year. The annual Fall Festival turned out to be a great success. After a long delay the Winter Dance was transformed into the Spring Dance. SCA elections were made more exciting with the appearance of voting booths. The SCA sponsored Exchange Day came off well giving students a chance to observe the daily life at other schools. Special thanks are given to Mark Brenton, president, for an excellent job.

ESTABLISHING VALUES

Twice monthly, Soda members visit local elementary schools to meet with various fifth grade classes. Soda's main purposes are to establish values, develop decision making skills, and enhance self-esteem among the kids. Most Soda members find these meetings very rewarding as well as good experience. The 1977 Soda Council consists of Roseanne Bowman, Kelly Moles, Francine Brinkley, Janet Warsaw and Suzanne Scott.

REGIONALS IN LYNCHBURG

DECA at Cave Spring is a member of District 7 that includes several schools in the Roanoke Valley. This past year the club has been very active in all areas. Members competed at the Regionals contests at E. C. Glass in the areas of apparel, food service, and general merchandise. They held an Employer-Employee breakfast in honor of those businessmen that sponsor them. Deca has taken field trips to several retail and industrial centers of the valley.

HALF TIME

The Marching Band did everything from packing a Pacer to running 25 yard sprints in summer practices and getting ready for Friday nights. Under the "white glove" test of their director, Mr. Svec, the Marching Band had many sparkling performances this year. Those performances were enhanced by the presence of the feature twirler Teresa Mobley and the drum majorette, Debbie Dunham. The band traveled to two Christmas parades, and had the honor of greeting Santa Claus at Sears to ring in the holiday season. The year ended with a fantastic Stadium Revue.

SPIRITED KNIGHTS HAVE DISAPPOINTING SEASON

Although spirit was abundant the varsity football team had a disappointing season finishing with a record of five wins and five losses.

As the season started the Knights worked hard in practice preparing for their encounters with opponents. Practice seemed endless and in vain. Mistakes arose causing the Knights to falter in key situations. Strong running by Don Ballard and Carl Bates, with excellent blocking from Tom Dickey and John Blair led the Knights. Although the team possessed a potent running attack, they were unable to score in important situations throughout the season.

Injuries played an important role in the outcome of the varsity football season this year. Many key areas of the strong Knight defense were weakened by the loss of the top players. Major detriments were in the backfield as Dobby Dobyns, Don Ballard, and Greg Roush acquired injuries early in the season. Linebacker, Tracy Brooks, played throughout the season with a knee ailment. The loss of these important players proved to be a handicap as the season progressed.

The Junior Varsity football team had an unsuccessful season, winning only two games and losing five. The small Knights started off in a bad position when a few major players were moved up to the varsity team. Some other factors that hurt the J.V.'s were the lack of size and the lack of spirit. The strong side of the line averaged 175 pounds and the left side of the line averaged 140 pounds. The Knights were unable to "get up" for their games. This lack of spirit led to the loss of many important games. The practices never slacked up, but the 15 hills the team was supposed to run never were completed. Major players included John Childress, Ben McCoy, Mark Gliniecki, Bob Price, Jay Lynch, and Glen Gibson.

YOUNG CROSS COUNTRY TEAM GAINS SKILL

Coach Sam Shackelford began forming his cross country team two weeks before school began. After losing nine seniors last year, Steve Hawkins and Robbie Anderson were the only returning team members. A diverse team was finally formed with three swimmers, two ex-football players, many wrestlers, two band members, a boy named "Jungle," a basketball player, a Latin scholar, some track members, a dancer, a pole vaulter, and many others. The team worked harder than previous cross country teams, running 254 miles in practice. The meets were a new experience for all of the Harriers. The Knights finished with a record of three wins, and only two losses to Patrick Henry and Pulaski County. Every member contributed something toward helping the team but the final two top runners were Steve Hawkins and Bill Currie, who went to the regional meet.

GIRLS CONTINUE EXCELLENCE

The 1976-77 Volleyball team worked hard this season to achieve an over-all district record of 7 wins and 3 losses. Although the Knights placed a strong second in the regular season, they suffered an upset in the district championship by placing third behind William Fleming and Patrick Henry.

The netters were led by Nancy Rhodes, captain; Ellen Stanley, co-captain; Pam Cropper, Sharon Carper, Brooke Overby, and Cindy Bull.

Spiker Nancy Rhodes achieved the Most Valuable Player award and was voted on the All-Western District team. Setter Pam Cropper was voted on the second team and Sharon Carper and sophomore Cindy Bull were awarded Honorable Mention.

Teamwork was the key to the success of the girl's basketball team this year. In the opening of the season the Knights were not expected to finish in the number one position due to their lack of overall height. This hinderance was overcome in their speed. Coach of the year, Susan Dunagan, strove to get the team working as a unit. In accomplishing this feat the Knights surpassed many of the taller teams in the district, showing supreme form and determination.

KNIGHTS FALTER IN NEW DISTRICT

The Knights Varsity Basketball team ripped off five straight games before the Christmas break. The first game at home against E. C. Glass proved to the Knights that the season was going to be rough. Beating E. C. Glass in triple overtime the Knights then flew by four 2-A teams. Then beginning district play the Knights winning streak came to a halt. Winning only one out of their ten meetings with district teams the Knights showed they would not give up. The Knights won their only district game playing Northside in the Northside gym. In Tournament play a respectable triple overtime loss to Northside ended the season for the Knights.

While Captain Jimmy Hale and Guard John Hagins directed the offense, Forwards Chuck Suggs and Eric Snowadsky used their leaping abilities to grab many rebounds this year. Ed Peterson, whose six seven tall frame scared many a small guard, captured the M.V.P. honors while Chuck Suggs was voted the "Unsung Hero" for the year.

The J.V. Basketball team showed everyone this year that they definitely have talent. Their teamwork and quickness led them past many teams. Leading the baby Knights were guards James White and Tim Bradley. Controlling the boards were Kevin Wall and Bobby Garret. Long range shooters Pete Hagins and Ben McCoy proved they could score when it was needed. The baby Knights played Patrick Henry's J.V.s in a play-off game, but a loss ended the year. The experience and talent the baby Knights showed this year will help next year's varsity become a successful team.

GYMNASTS IN RUGGED

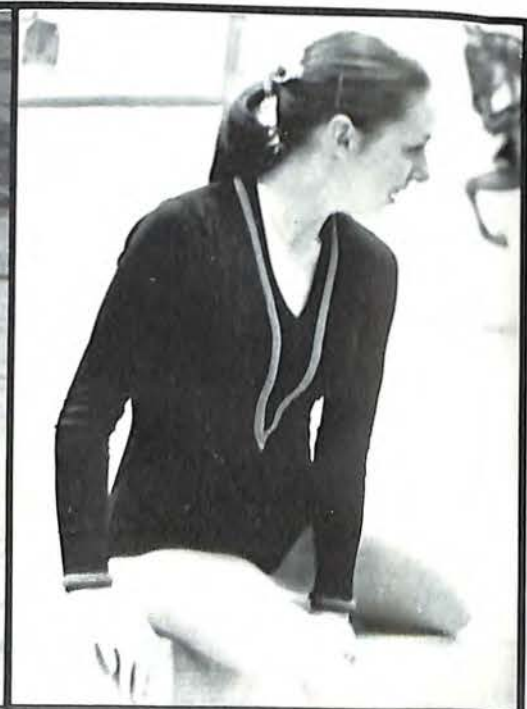

The renowned Knight Gymnastics team continued their superiority by compiling a district record of five wins and no losses in a season filled with barriers. The first obstacle the girls faced was the loss of Carolyn Beecher, the coach of the team for the past two years. A replacement was found in Holly Moore, a teacher at Glenvar Elementary School. Due to Mrs. Moore's inexperience in coaching, the gymnasts found themselves explaining to her many details of their sport, but as the season progressed Mrs. Moore was able to relate to the gymnasts on their own level. Through many hours of practice the girls strove to perfect their routines and achieve their full potential. Two of the top vaulters, Nancy Rhodes and Pam Cropper, were unable to compete in the district meet due to injuries, but the Knights were able to place five girls in the meet.

Grapplers Place Well

The Cave Spring High School Wrestlers were in a category of their own this year as far as sports were concerned. Coach Dowdy had predicted that the team would be a successful tournament team, and in the end, he was proven right. After receiving very little recognition during their disappointing regular season in which some close matches with Patrick Henry and E. C. Glass were lost. The Knights held both the District and Regional Wrestling Tournaments at Cave Spring High School and represented the school well. The team was led by seniors Ray Broughman at 105, Max "Nasty" Halliburton at 112, and Jeff Lester at 167 to the state competition and placed 19th, which had been far better than district teams had done in the past few years. Other seniors on the team included Neil Holland at 126, Jeff Beasley and Jimmy King at 145, and Dan Gowan at Heavyweight.

TRACK HAS SUCCESSSES, FAILURES

The track team had an encouraging season compared to having only one win last year. The team was composed of old and some very promising new talent. The team's record of 3 wins, 1 tie, and 7 losses does not indicate that they had some very close meets. The team was hurt by some inconsistent performances and also by the fact that the other valley teams had participated in an indoor track program during the winter. Individuals who made the team solid in the meets were Kevin Hurley and Mark Gliniecki in pole vaulting, sophomore T. Maddox in high, long, and triple jump, junior, Gerald Sigrist in high jump, Jamie White, John Childress, Jeff Brown, and Jay Peery in the relays, Mike Barbery in 440 yard dash, Steve Hawkins in the mile and two mile, Allen Bostian and Steve Houchens in the hurdles, Greg Caldwell and Steve Fleming in discus and shot, and Bill Currie in the 880.

The Girl's Track team coached by Susan Dunagan and Kathy Lambert, a student teacher, concluded their season placing fourth in the district. Many individuals performed well in the district meet. Sara Reed and Gabe Larew each placed second in their events, and qualified for the regional meet. Junior Jody Caldwell placed first in the 80-yard hurdles and progressed to the state meet. The mile-relay team composed of Beth Lambdon, Nancy Rhodes, Diane Henemeyer, and Rosemary Kemp set a new district record. With many new members on the team, the future of the girl's track team looks successful.

TEAM IN RIGHT FIELD : DISTRICT CHAMPS

The baseball team had a strong year again, with a record of 9-6 in regular season play. Their only losses were to Fleming, Heritage, Franklin County, and Northside. An outstanding performance was made by senior T. G. Williams, who was the Metro leader in home runs. Other valuable players were Fred Moore who batted in the 300's with no errors in fielding in three years, and Tim Klare and Don Ballard who hit in the 350's. Dobby Dobyns and Jimmy Hale had an excellent season along with junior, Alan White whose golden arm pitched a no-hitter game against Northside.

The tennis team coached by Wayne Hyatt ended a successful season finishing second in the district. Competition was tough and many hours of practice were required by each team member. The Knights were able to overcome their opponents with their strong serving and volleying. Although Todd Stockstill was injured for most of the season, he was able to play in the final matches. With strong depth and abundant spirit, the Knights defeated their opponents.

DUFFERS SEND 2 TO STATE

The Golf team led by Keith Meyers and Steve Sewell finished an outstanding season with a record of 7 wins and 3 losses. The duffers spent many hours on the golf course practicing and perfecting their skills. As early as 4:00 the golfers could be seen roaming the fairways of Hunting Hills golf course. One of the honors received by the team was a feature article on Monty Goff in a local newspaper. The highlight of the year came when Steve Sewell and Keith Meyers qualified for the state tournament.

FINAL DAYS

As the final days of school approached, a strange phenomenon occurred. Cave Spring students were seen at McDonalds, Twin Falls, Tanglewood, and Smith Mountain Lake when they were supposedly at school. Excuses such as "my dog had kittens" and "I had an infected hangnail" were used to explain these strange absences. School activities began to come to a close, and students took this to mean the end of all school work. The last day of school finally arrived, and everyone reflected on another exciting, but often difficult, school year.

1. A quick escape to McDonald's is made by Jay Hurst and Byran Shane. 2. Senioritis is reflected in the faces of these excited seniors. 3. Much needed support is given to a skeptical Tim Hudson by a smug Brian Parker. 4. The lack of any constructive activities leads Jim Phillips to drastic measures. 5. Modular scheduling becomes a lingering memory. 6. The dream of every Cave Spring student . . . THE BEACH!!!

THANKS

The 1977 ACCOLADE was published by Taylor Publishing Company in Dallas, Texas. Mr. Tom Roberts served as the Taylor representative. Mr. Lynwood Atkins of Atkins Photography and Mr. Bob Tavner of Max Ward-Delmar Studios were the photographers.

The cover was designed by the Editor, and Mr. Lynwood Atkins took the cover photograph. Melior Bold type was used, and all ARTYPE was set by the staff.

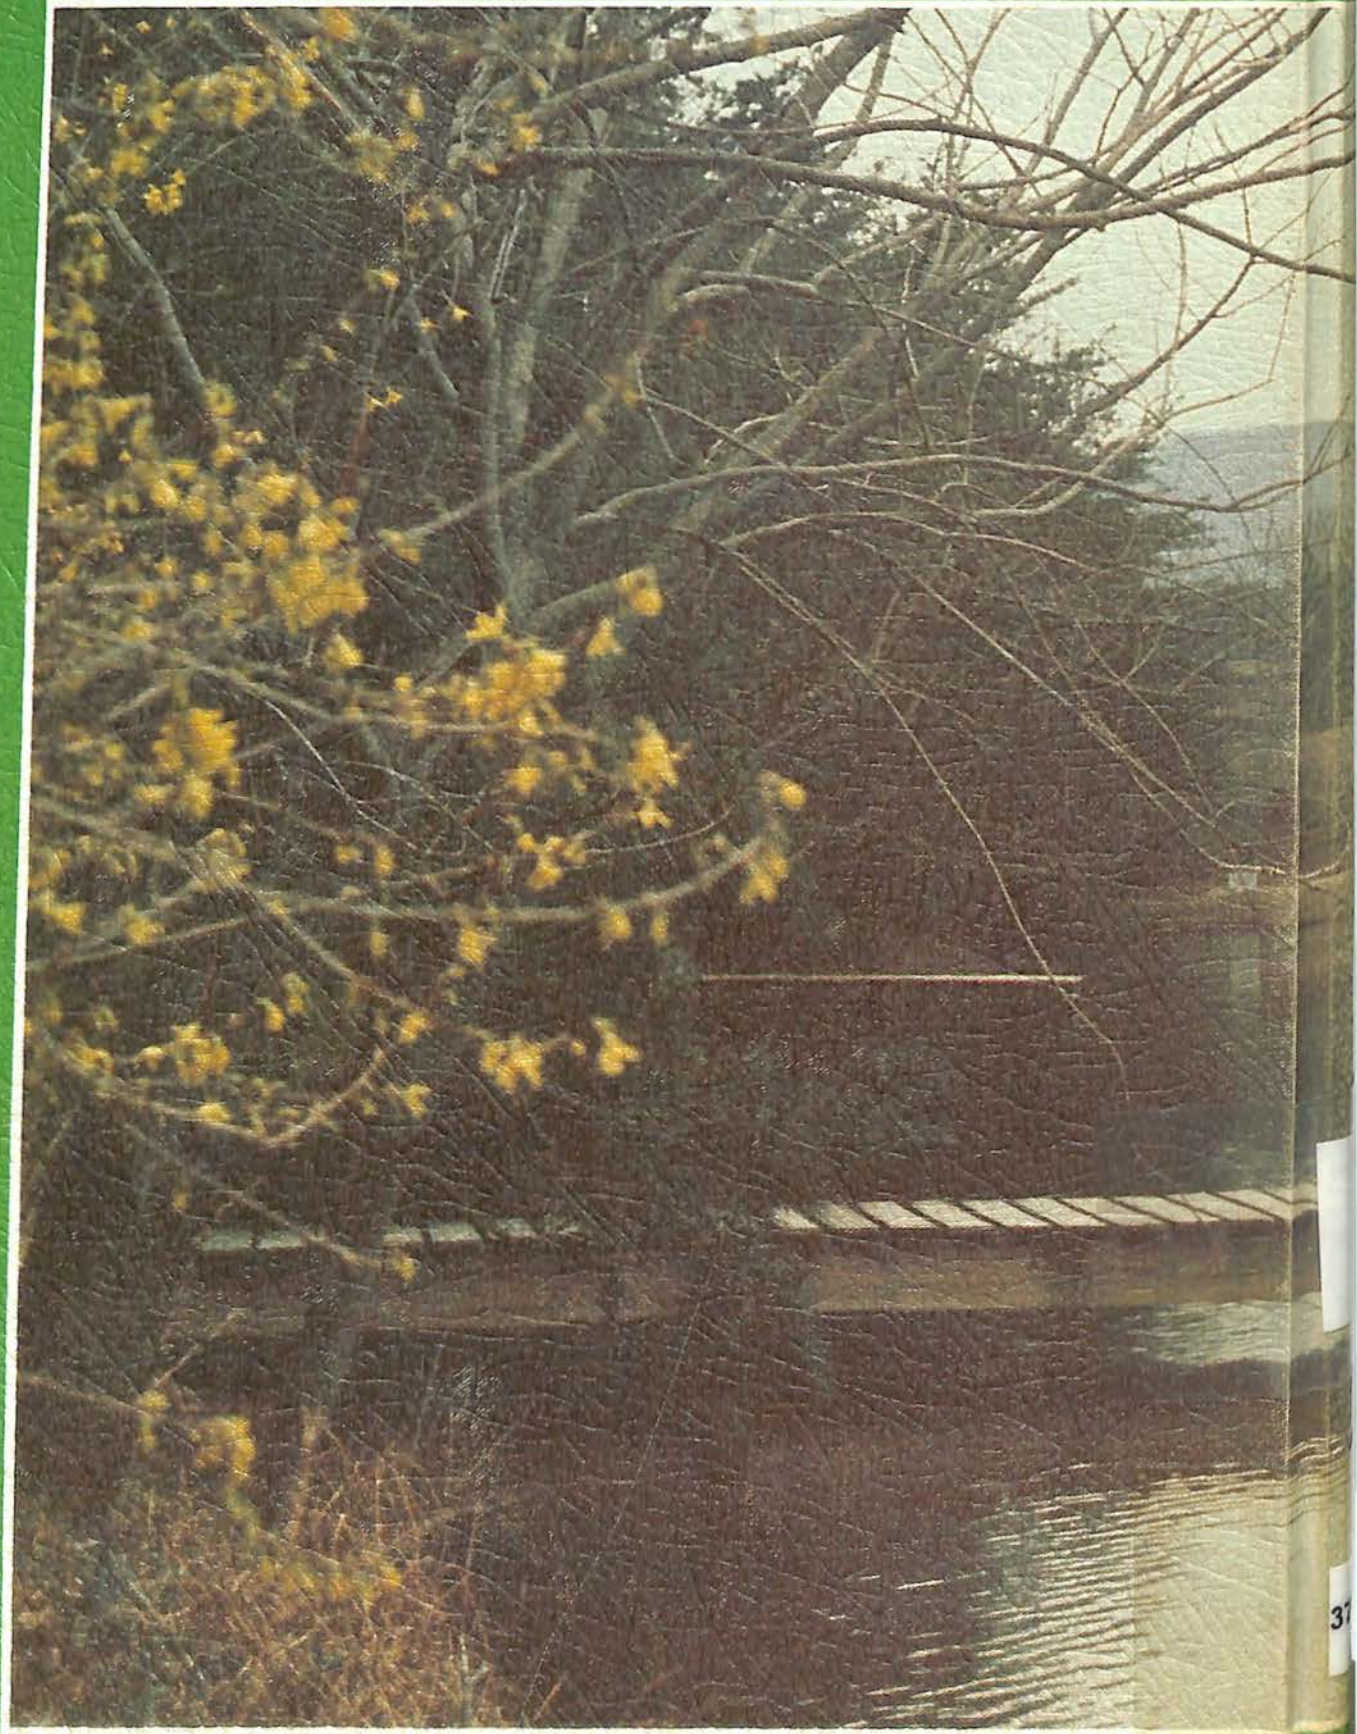

The 1977 ACCOLADE Staff would like to express its gratitude to Mr. Lynwood Atkins for his sincere efforts and to Jim and Wayne for their hours of hard work. As Editor, I would like to give my special thanks to Mrs. Sue Harris for her advice and to Mrs. Billie Reid for her strong support and encouragement.
