Sun light poured in as 888 students walked in the building for the start of the new year. With the addition of 18 new teachers and many new students, the school began its 50th anniversary celebration. Students and faculty gathered in the auditorium to watch Charles Sublett be knighted the 46th Knight. Summer began to fade as spirit week came upon us quickly with dreaded rain and much anticipation for the homecoming football game. The homecoming parade was rescheduled for the night of the Hidden Valley football game. In spite of the down pour, fans turned out to support the football team. Students celebrated the win against William Byrd the following night at the "Way You Look To Knight" homecoming dance.

Students went out to see the volleyball team win the state championship title for the third time in four years. The end of the first nine weeks came fast on October 25. Thanksgiving quickly approached and students took this opportunity to take a break from school work and relax. Unexpected snow days surprised everyone in early December. The holiday break arrived with teachers and students preparing for the short winter vacation.

When students returned from break they started to prepare for exams which lead into the second semester. The weather started to get warmer as students were thinking about spring break vacations. Seniors and Juniors started to get ready for prom at the Hotel Roanoke on May 13. Senior day came as seniors decorated cap and gowns and learned who received senior superlatives. Faculty members and students anticipated the last days of school. June 9, 2006 marks another senior graduation at Salem Civic Center.

Student Life

The spirit and support among the students was greater than ever. Students painted their faces and bodies to support the football team. Spirit week started off bringing the 80's back to life with Decade Day. The senior class turned geek, dressing in togas due to the fact their 80's day theme would be on Friday. 80's rock swept the lobby and halls as Friday spirit day was brought to life. Although, rain postponed the powderpuff game and parade, students still came out to support the football team and see a sweeping win over William Byrd. At halftime, Hal Walker (12) was crowned king, while Stacey Craighead (12) was queen. Fortunately the parade was rescheduled and students could display their spirit on red and black floats.

Winter was here before we knew it. To help out with holiday costs, students got jobs during the winter. Presents filled the halls as students prepared to leave for a week and a half for winter break. To celebrate the winter sports season, students gathered at the annual MidKnight Madness where prizes were given out, faculty versus student games were played, and the basketball teams were introduced. Snow days were greatly welcomed early on, as students had a chance to sleep in and play outside with friends. Fans poured into the basketball games to cheer on the basketball team and with the addition of the pep band, the support was greater than ever.

After some much needed snow days, spring was in full bloom. Seniors heard from colleges and began to try on the new black and red gowns in preparation for the end of their high school career. However, seniors had a few more fun activities before graduation including prom, senior day and Baccalaureate. Prom was a delight as students filled the majestically decorated Hotel Roanoke ballroom. Seniors had a field day when they got the day off from classes and were able to play games outside and watch part of the senior video. With June 7th fastly approaching underclassmen prepared for exams while the seniors looked forward to graduation at the Civic Center. Although the 50th class graduated, some impressions from the past never fade.

young people who were homeless. As well as helping the children with HIV and AIDS, Whitney and Lindsey did small Bible study groups with the children and teens in the villages. "Being in Kenya changed my life, it's hard to see people in need of so much.", said Lindsey. Whitney said, "This trip was a life changing experience. You look at things differently when you come home. You learn to really put things into perspective." We learned that many other students took trips over the summer but this trip to Kenya was ont that truly impacted lives around the world.

During the holiday break students get together with friends to exchange holiday gifts. One of the most popular gift exchanging games is "Secret Santa", when friends buy each other gifts, but keep it a secret. It is fun, easy and inexpensive, since there is often a price limit on the gifts. Sometimes students will have a party where everyone opens their gift and their "Secret Santa" is exposed. A twist on "Secret Santa" is "Dirty Santa" where you not only open your gift, but can actually steal another's gift if you like it more. Many students enjoy these holiday games because they are exciting and fun. Seniors

Starting off their senior year, the class of 2006 prepared for the next 10 months until their graduation. Charles Sublett (12) was the Knight for the 2006 graduating class, promising to make this their best year yet. The start of the year led to the 1980's, which was the theme of the senior day during spirit week. The seniors decorated the school like a rock concert scene and dressed up like rock stars from the 80's. Also during spirit week the seniors wore logos instead of dressing up for decade day. Seniors started collecting their caps and gowns and began shopping for their graduation memories from Tostitos. Roanoke County had their annual mandatory H&AEP testing that seniors participate in, leading to almost near empty classrooms on January 24.

Eventually in the year, seniors learned that not just the senior class would be exempt from exams, but the entire school. Trying to make lasting impressions, seniors worked harder than ever to finish up their year and get into the college of their choice. Towards the end of the year, seniors voted for superlatives, got their acceptance letters, and prepared for their last prom together. Entering into their last few weeks of school, they decorated their caps and gowns for senior day and lived to spend as much time together as possible. Graduation came all too soon on June 9, 2006, but the senior class has left impressions that will never fade.

Ternances In Action Bring Out a Strong Crowd

The idea of bringing back a REC team was a hit when Terry Langford and Nancy Fralin decided to put together a team of fun, talented students. The newly developed team consisted of Quincy Ruckert(12), JC Chauncey(12), Richard Diones(12), Stephen Fralin(12), Joe Kozicky(12), Josh Leamnson(12), Will Osborne(12), Andrew Markey(11), and Jeff Wardach(11). The team decided to name themselves the "Ternances", by combining the names of the coaches.

With only one practice before their first game, the team had to face a challenge of playing against one of the three Hidden Valley REC teams. Half way into the game, Stephen Fralin(12) had to be taken out due to torn ligaments in his foot. "This was not a good way to start the season, but we knew we had to pull through" said Joe Langford(12). Although the Ternances did not win their first game, this did not stop them from trying their hardest and having fun while doing it. "After the first game, it made us realize what we had to do in order to be a team and start acting like one," said JC Chauncey(12). When word got out about how intense these games were, fans started pouring into the gyms to see what the excitement was all about. Some senior girls decided to support their fellow classmates by painting their stomachs to say "Go Ternances", which soon evolved into them being called the "Ternance Ladies."

The Ternances will never forget this experience after successfully ending their season with 7 wins and 3 losses. The idea of starting a small REC team just for fun and playing games turned out to be a very popular activity among the players, fans, and parents. When asked to comment about the team, Quincy Ruckert(12) simply said "Yeah, we're awesome!"

Signing With The Team

At the start of the senior year, students begin the application process to colleges. Students need to apply with the thought of what they want to do in the future. Some students, however, are offered scholarships to a college for various reasons; one of the most common being sports. This process involves a scout coming to the high school and watching the student play whatever sport they are thinking of playing in college. There aren't many people who get scholarships like these, but when they come along, it is definitely something to be proud of. Three students were offered scholarships by various colleges for the sport they played during the 2006/2007 school year, with many more seniors to follow. David Redick(12) was given a full ride to Marshall University to play football in the fall. Stacey Craighead(12) will be attending Seton Hall University to play volleyball. She said, "I had talked to the coaches of the other schools recruiting me, and had I waited, I may have had other offers, but I didn't care, I knew Seton Hall was the best fit for me." Julie Sablik(12) signed with Virginia Tech at the beginning of November for swimming. Julie was also offered a scholarship by Clemson and when asked why she chose VT she said, "I chose Virginia Tech because I wanted to be closer to home so my parents could still be a part of my swimming. Also because I have known the VT coach since I was 12 when my sister coached with him. And simply, I have always been a Hokie fan."

Some Seniors Are Juniors Graduating Early

Melissa Cordell
Clubs Staff

The rising juniors may notice at their graduation some people will be missing. They haven't moved away or dropped out, they graduated a year early. When asked why they decided to leave the nest so soon, Lindsey Baumoel(12) responded, "I was held back when I was younger so I decided to catch up." Most of the early graduates are supposed to be in the senior class but were kept back for different reasons. Betsey Beasley(12) said, "I am finally in the class I'm supposed to be in, my mom started me a year late in kindergarden." So what did these students give up in order to get their diploma a little earlier? "I gave up most of my summer to complete classes I needed for credits," says Kayla Caldwell(12). There are a few classes that require the summer, now most of the senior credit courses like English 12, US & VA History, and Government are offered online. It is a little faster than the actual class but doesn't have the benefit of time with the teacher. Some might wonder will you take a year off or go straight to school? "Picking colleges is always a big deal," Betsey answers, "I have applied to three area colleges and one out of state. All I can do is work hard until I can transfer to another school." Kayla has been accepted into Virginia Western and plans to later transfer to Radford. Many of us know seniors who have graduated before us and we miss them, but do they have any regrets about leaving friends behind? "Most of my friends are in the senior class so I will have no one to miss" responded Lindsey. Early graduation is a wonderful opportunity to open up and see the world a little sooner then the rest of us. Other students graduating early are Cory Hauschildt, Tiffany Strickler, Megan Coffman and Mary Swaffar.

Remembering The Past Four Years In Review

The graduating Senior Class has been through many experiences that other Senior Classes were not able to experience. They will be the first graduating class after the Hidden Valley and Cave Spring division. Also they were the first freshmen class after the split. The class of 2006 is the 50th graduating class. Megan Bowles(12) said, "It is really neat being the 50th graduating class. There have been activities to honor our class and it makes it more special." The Senior's have had many speed bumps along the way such as not receiving laptops as Freshmen and were no longer the only class to be exempt from exams.

On the other hand, they have had many wonderful memories that they will always remember. Lael Whiteside(12) quoted, "Homecoming week has always been my favorite. Being a part of the committee's and decorating the school was awesome." The Senior's also had the smallest class in the school. All the other classes before them had students from other schools which made their class population larger. Alex Veatch(12) said, "It always seems like the classes above and under us have been bigger. This year we're the smallest class and it's not as bad as I thought it would be." Although there were many ups and downs the past four years, the senior class has enjoyed every minute of it.

Where She Comes... Miss Roanoke Valley

During the winter season, six seniors competed in local pageants. Katelyn Reilly(12), Wendy Young(12), Alyssa Walton(12), Stephanie Fortune(12), and Krystel Rae Rogers(12) were the five seniors that participated in The Miss Roanoke Valley Pageant. Katelyn said, "We have to develop a platform, which is like an essay about something we think will improve the Roanoke Valley. We also have to practice a talent, prepare for judge's questions, and find new outfits."

Another participant, Krystel Rae said, "I've worked on my platform. It's by far my favorite part of the pageant. I feel so strongly about it." Her platform is bringing creativity into the schools. When asked what she would receive if she won, Krystel Rae replied, "I will receive the ability to have a voice, and work on my platform." She also participated in Jr. Miss North Carolina, where she was 4th runner up. For her talent, Krystel read a dramatic monologue.

Senior Carrie Doughty participated in the Virginia Junior Miss Scholarship Pageant. Carrie explained, "Junior Miss is a little different from the Miss Roanoke Valley Pageant. There is no swimsuit competition, there is a fitness routine instead. There is also a self expression portion which combines interviewing and evening gown." To prepare for the pageant Carrie had to choreograph a dance, brush up on her current events, and buy dresses and accessories. She also had to spend an entire week in Salem rehearsing and meeting all the contestants from around Virginia.

Although none of the seniors walked away with the crown, all gained valuable experience and made many new friends throughout the state.

The Nation's Report Card

Seniors Become A Statistic

Students all over the country participated in the National Department of Education's National Assessment of Educational Progress or NAEP Test. The NAEP test is designed to compare the educational progresses of fourth and eighth graders, as well as Seniors across the nation. The test concentrates on reading, writing, math, and science. Many Seniors took the NAEP test on January 24, 2006 at the Brambleton Recreation Center.

While these Seniors participated in the test outside of school; the school day still went on without them. "I fell behind in my classes," said Peter Wells(12). The Seniors were also a little disappointed with the test questions. One question read, "A girl has 3 dimes in her pocket and nothing else. What are the chances that she will pull out a dime?" said Cassie Baker(12). According to Joanna Delaney(12), "The sample question at the beginning of the math section was 'Draw a triangle in the space provided.'" "I was pretty sad when I got to an example test question and they used the wrong form of 'women'. It's ridiculous that there was a grammar mistake on the test," said Sara Equi(12). After taking the test Charles Sublett(12) said that he felt, "Physically, mentally, and emotionally drained."

While the testing may have been slightly different than expected, students were able to take an excused day off and eat free pizza. And who doesn't like free pizza?

Drumming Their Hearts Out Drumline Taking on a New Role

Each time you walked into the gymnasium for a basketball game, you noticed something different in the stands and on the court. Seniors Andrew Gilliam, Josh Roupe and Bain Floyd had the drumline at several games playing their hearts out. Josh Roupe(12) stated, "It was such an awesome feeling playing in front of the school because we actually had something to be proud of this year." During football season the drumline had many new stand tunes and difficult break drums during their show. Preparing for the games was difficult for the line too. They had many long practices and spend extra time working on their skills. "The hardest part about drumline was having to memorize new stand tunes an hour before the game", said Andrew Gilliam(12). The drumline also spent time together bonding before games whether it was at the school playing their drums or going out to eat before a game at Buffalo Wild Wings. Bain Floyd(12) said, "I always remember just to have fun and the tune will come out right." The drumline worked extremely hard to make all of their music perfect. Some mornings they would come in about an hour before school started and practice right until the bell. Hard work pays off and the drumline is a perfect example. Josh Roupe(12) stated, "We had to practice our parts so much longer this year because the music was really challenging but we got such an adrenaline rush when we performed at the games."

College Choices Getting Picked By The Best

With pressure throughout all the senior year, students had to make decisions that could affect their future in many ways. Planning for the future, students were faced with a challenge of deciding on a college to further their education. Family and friends are just a few of the people that may impact a student's college decision. "My parents have basically been the ones to influence my college decision," said Katelyn Reilly(12).

Once again, the decision to stay in-state was very popular among seniors. Some of the most popular colleges that students applied to were Radford University, Virginia Tech, Virginia Western Community College, and James Madison University. "I am going to Virginia Western Community College because I do not have a major yet and I want to get my general studies out of the way. After I figure out what I want to do, I can transfer to a college that I have always wanted to go to," said Juliann Greco(12).

With the majority of seniors going to colleges in Virginia, some students are taking this opportunity to move to a new place to have new experiences. Having to live on their own and being able to support themselves may become a struggle, but will help students in the "real world". The University of South Carolina, North Carolina State, University of Tennessee, and Penn State are some popular out-of-state colleges chosen by students. "The idea of going to college where it is really warm is so exciting to me," said Caitlyn Koch(12), who will be attending the University of South Carolina.

Excited to go to college, students start preparing themselves for their upcoming new life. Finding out new information about their roommates, buying dorm supplies, packing up all of their belongings, and spending their last days with family and friends are just a few of the things that the upcoming college freshman are looking forward to.

Ashley Bland(12) showed off her Radford University school spirit by wearing the hoodie that she purchased prior to being accepted to the University. "When I visited the campus I was so excited that I went to the store right away to buy something related to Radford."

Underclassmen

As 701 underclassmen entered the building after two months of summer vacation, they began the traditional climb. For the freshmen, it was all new for them. They picked up their schedules and headed into their high school classes for the first time. Freshmen quickly became involved in their academic and athletic routines. Freshmen had to quickly learn how to navigate the halls with bookbags and laptops.

The sophomores returned, knowing they are no longer the youngest class. They quickly became involved with clubs and organizations and all the activities involved with being a sophomore. The sophomores knew that it was important to keep their academic standings, while trying to fight for a spot on the varsity teams. Sophomores learned the importance of getting to school early enough to get a parking place across the street at the church.

The juniors began their year knowing that the college search was just around the corner. As they prepared for SAT's and AP exams, juniors eagerly awaited their results. Juniors looked forward to the arrival of their class rings, and prepared for "The Most Magical Night of the Year"-Prom. Some juniors found after school jobs to help defray the expenses of their upcoming senior year. The year came to a close as the juniors prepared to enter their senior year.

The Country Store

It's "The Place To Be"

The Country Store has always been very popular among the student body. Not only can teens fill up their cars with gas or get food, but it's also a place where they are able to see their friends whenever they go. Erin Griffin(11) said, "The environment at The Country Store is really laid back. I like going there because I know I'll see at least one person that I know. It's also nice because it's a central place to meet your friends if you need to; everyone knows where The Country Store is." Not only is The Country Store busy during the day, but the later it gets, the more popular it seems to become. "I go to The Country Store all the time, especially during the summer. I'd meet up with my friends there and figure out plans for what we were going to do that night," said Whitney Williams(11). Teenagers can hangout with their friends while enjoying ice cream at the picnic tables that The Country Store provides. Although many people hang out there at night, many students also go there in the mornings for breakfast. The Country Store provides tables inside where people can grab a biscuit with their friends. The Country Store also has an iced tea and cappachino machine so teenagers can fulfill their morning caffeine needs. Betsy Hudson(11) said, "Most of the time I go to The Country Store to meet up with friends before going out, but sometimes I get breakfast there before I go to school; their biscuits are great!" Overall, students like The Country Store because it's a central location for their everyday needs.

Dressed To Impress Juniors Have Class

Catey Robbins
Club Staff

When you're walking down the hall and you see a group of people wearing tennis shoes, jerseys and jeans, it's the junior class "dream team". This group of guys wear different outfits on the same days and are dressed to impress. The trend started during their 8th grade year when they first created the "dream team". Some days they all wear jerseys and some days they all wear polos. The guys still keep the tradition alive but with different outfits. For example, one Friday all the guys wore polo's with sweatpants and another day wore over-sized T-shirts with jeans and tennis shoes. The guys like to do this because it's something they can all do together and they get a lot of attention for it. On college game days, they will all wear either jerseys or team T-shirts of the schools that they support. The guys enjoy doing these fun things together and they get other students involved.

Looking Ahead

Students Plan For The Future

During junior year, most students must start thinking about their upcoming senior year. Junior year can be stressful in many ways, in that students start to look at colleges and get an idea of where they want to go to college. SAT's, the much dreaded tests that are normally taken during junior year, are sometimes very stressful on students. These tests show parents and colleges how much material you have learned throughout high school. "I really want to attend JMU so I know that I need to prepare and do well on my SAT's," said Lauren Harris(11).

Preparing for the SAT's is very time consuming but worth it in the end. There are SAT prep classes and tutors which are very popular among students because they are classes with other peers that are wanting to review material that has been learned in high school. Students are also encouraged to take the PSAT's to get a feel for how the real SAT tests will be. "I thought the PSAT's were really hard but I think it prepared me for the SAT's in the spring," said Catey Robbins(11). On the contrary, some students decided to take the easy route and not prepare for SAT's. "I do not plan on doing too much preparation for the SAT's because I feel you either know the information or you don't," said TJ Marshall(11).

On "The Edge" Writing for the Roanoke Times

Laurin Ann Link
Clubs Section Editor

Many juniors were on a newspaper staff for The Roanoke Times called, "The Edge". The Edge is part of the extra section every Wednesday and produced by and for students. This staff was compiled of teenagers from across the Roanoke Valley. Most of the time the writers thought of their own topics, however sometimes if another person was better suited for the topic that person would get to write about it. Kelsey Bryant(11) stated, "Overall, being a part of the Edge Staff has been a great experience. I have learned the importance of details, deadlines, and teamwork." In order to be on the staff, one needs a recommendation from a teacher, write two mock stories, and turn in personal information.

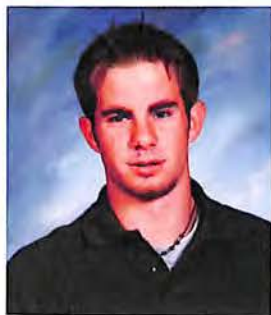

Writers for this section had to follow strict deadlines. The deadlines depended on when a story was thought of, the amount of room on the upcoming page, and its relevance to a certain time period. Emma Berry(11) and Brian Bosche(12) were two other members of The Edge staff. There is also an adult editor that reviews the stories.

Indeed, many students were honored by being selected to write for "The Edge". Despite the work, and difficult deadlines, all were in agreement that being able to write for the Roanoke Times was worth it. Having such great responsibilities gave the members needed experience as a journalist.

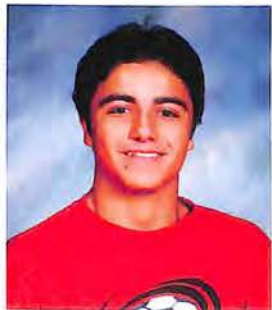

1. Edge staff members Kelsey Bryant(11) and Brian Bosche(12) discuss an upcoming story. This was their second year on the staff. The staff meets once a week on Wednesdays.

2. Emma Berry(11) uses her laptop to write her article for The Edge section of The Roanoke Times. Emma was a first year member of the staff, and was also acting editor.

Taking Charge behind the wheel

Melissa Cordell

Club Staff

Every teenager's dream is to turn 16 and get a drivers license. Driving on your own means freedom, but there are a lot of things that lead up to that first trip by yourself. More juniors prefer to drive their cars to school rather than ride the bus; but are the cars they are driving their own? "I paid for half and my parents are paying for the other half. I think it's a good deal," said Ryan Martin(11). At this point most juniors haven't been driving a year, but most everyone has a hard copy of their license. Going to court is a nerve-wracking experience, but it pays off in the long run with a permanent license. Driving definitely has its rewards but no one likes to be stuck in the traffic. When asked about the parking lot situation Lauren Davis(11) replied, "It is sometimes very crowded and hard to get out if you have to be at work." Everyone likes to drive but almost no one has the money to pay for everything their cars need. Are gas prices too high for the average high school student? "Gas is out of control, but my parents gave me a gas card that they keep money on, and I work to pay them back every month," answered Amy Chang(11). In the end, the prices of gas and maintenance are outweighed by the ultimate sense of freedom driving brings.

Young Talent

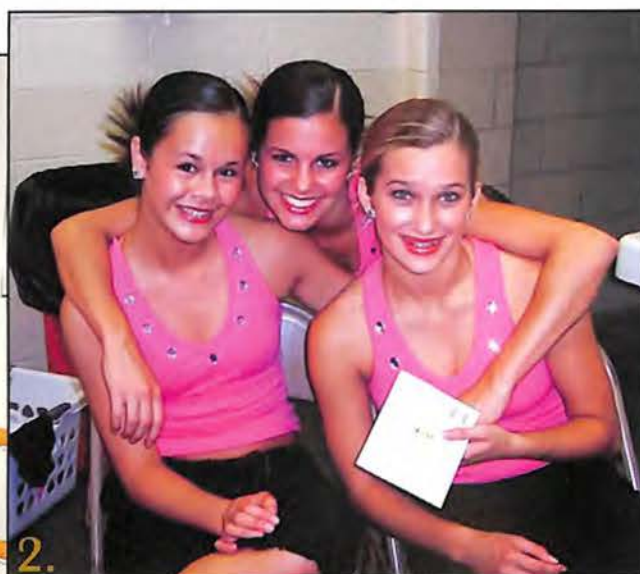

Best Friends Dancing Together

Dancing is very popular among some students, but Amanda Couture(10), Lydia Tran(10), and Kate Johnson(10) show special talent in this hobby. Amanda Couture, who has been dancing for 14 years at Ardell Stone said, "My mom put me in dance when I was 3." Kate Johnson has been dancing for 12 years at Ardell Stone, and Lydia Tran has been dancing for 10 years. Kate said, "My mom made me quit gymnastics to start dance and I was mad at the time but I grew to love it over the years." Kate, Amanda, and Lydia take Jazz, Tap, and Lyrical at the studio, and Kate also takes a pointe class. These girls are very busy with dancing and spend around six to seven hours a week at the studio. Before competitions, which normally take place in February and March, these girls spend every day at the studio putting in extra hours of practice to perfect their dances. Dancing in college is their next challenge, with Amanda wanting to either be a High-Tech at Virginia Tech or a Dukette at James Madison University. "I want to dance for the University of Kentucky as a Wildcat!" said Kate. No matter what the future holds for them, dancing will always be these girl's passion. Spending long hours in the studio is nothing to these girls when they are with their best friends.

Working Day and Night

Earning Money On Their Own

Many sophomores have jobs; Most of them to raise money for upcoming trips, increasing gas prices, and insurance for their cars. Laurin Ann Link(10) has a job at Stein Mart inside Tanglewood Mall. She said, "I have a job because I'm going to Hawaii this summer and I have to help pay for the trip. The only hard part about having a job is I don't get to hang out with my friends as much." Other students feel the same way. Evan Mixon(10) has a job working at The Country Store. Evan said, "I really like my job because it helps me earn money to pay for my car." Many of the students enjoy working because their friends come and visit them and they get to learn the importance of responsibility. The students also enjoy earning their own money and not having to constantly ask their parents to borrow money to go out somewhere. Having a job encourages sophomores to take on a role of responsibility as they prepare for the future.

Lending A Hand Around The World

Over the summer there were many students that took a trip to Nicaragua with their church, First Baptist. Many students from the school went on the trip, and of them included the sophomores Meredith Siner, Lauren Reid, and Sarabeth Kerr. Lauren Reid(10) stated, "We went to different villages and gave out food and clothes. We have several different ministries; a watermelon ministry, and a baseball ministry. We share food, candy and clothes along with the Gospel." All three students commented that they went to many different villages while they were in Nicaragua to help the population there. The students all liked going on the trip and found it very heartwarming. "I truly care for the people of Nicaragua. They have so little, but by the joy they have, you would never guess they live in poverty. They need to know how much Christ loves them. I can't wait to go back next summer," said Sarabeth Kerr(10). Sarabeth, Lauren, and Meredith all found the trip to be very successful overall and when asked, they all stated that they would enjoy going back next year. Meredith Siner(10) said, "All the villages were so much fun and it was so rewarding to be able to spend time and share the Gospel with the people in the villages. It was such a blessing." The youth group of First Baptist Church went to Nicaragua and were all able to make a difference in many people's lives. Many of the students that went were changed for the best after taking the trip, and all would like to go back when the chance comes.

Playing With The Big Dogs

Sophomores On Varsity Teams

While most Sophomores are only playing on Junior Varsity athletic teams, a select few have the chance to move up to Varsity. For a long time coaches have been bringing up talented Sophomores from Junior Varsity to Varsity. Brooke Ulrey(10) has been playing basketball since she was little. "I really enjoy being on the Varsity Girls Basketball Team. The harder competition and the team bonding are worth the hard work," said Brooke. The Girls Basketball Team had an unpredictably great season. Aimee Veatch(10) plays Varsity Basketball and throws for the Varsity Track Team. "The hardest part of being on any team is the end of the season when its all over," said Aimee. Sophomore, Rachel Wilkinson, cheers for the Varsity Squad and the Competition Cheer Squad. "The best part of Varsity Cheerleading is making friends with upperclassmen," said Rachel. Being on a Varsity Team is an honor, as well as a lot of hard work and the Sophomores involved in Varsity athletics have done a great job.

A Day In The Life Underclassmen & The Daily Grind

Movies, Then B & N The Weekend Routine

Catey Robbins
Club Staff

Many freshmen students go to the movies each weekend. Where do they go after the movie? Barnes and Noble, has become a very popular hang out for the freshmen class and most of the students go there each weekend. Brittany Herberger(9) said, "While my friends and I are there, we normally hang out, get drinks, or listen to music. We love to go just to have a good time." Other students, however, choose to go to the mall until it closes then walk over to Barnes and Noble. Sharodlee Kinchen(9) stated, "We always go to the mall until it closes and then go to Barnes and Noble to hang out before we have to go home." Most of the students enjoy hanging out at Barnes and Noble because it is where many students from other schools also go. On the other hand, some students go with their parents. Tara Turner(9) quoted, "Sometimes I go with my mom and actually buy a book." All in all, most of the freshmen go to wait for a ride from their parents after a Saturday night movie with friends. "We normally stay for about 30 minutes waiting for our rides" said Deidre Brass(9). In conclusion, for freshmen, Barnes and Noble is the place to be on your typical Saturday night.

Roanoke Stars Europe Trip

The Chance of a Lifetime

Hannah Haythorn
Sports Staff

In July, the 15 and under Roanoke Stars soccer team traveled to Europe to play teams from all over the world. The team included eight freshmen: Meredith Walker, Sara Walton, Marion Whisnant, Melissa Meinhart, Kate Moore, Jennifer Wade, Danielle Cohan, and Elizabeth Wilson. For two weeks, the team played numerous soccer games, toured the country, and formed lasting friendships. The team played at least 20 games. In Denmark the team placed third, and in Sweden the team placed 35th out of 114 teams. While the girls weren't playing they were bonding and spending time together. The team also shopped and toured the countries during the day. "I loved hanging out and being crazy with my friends on the team, it was like a party for two weeks straight," said Sara Walton(9). Sara has been playing on the Stars for four years. The girls also were able to meet new people by staying with host families while they were in Denmark, "It was fun experiencing their culture in their homes," said Jennifer Wade(9). "The best part about the trip was how our team became united and if I had a chance to go again I have no doubt that I would," said Melissa Meinhart(9).

A Fresh Start In A New School

The Freshmen Class had many thoughts and mixed opinions on coming into their first year of high school. Many were unsure of what to expect coming into a new school, while others were excited to start a new chapter in their lives. Many Freshmen were able to experience their first homecoming, and most were in agreement that the dance was exciting, but different from middle school dances. Hannah Hawthorne(9) said, "The dance was so much fun, but the best part was getting ready for it."

Melissa Meinhardt(9) also talked about the differences between middle school and high school. She said, "There is less freedom during school now. In middle school we were able to do a lot more on our own; here I feel like I'm always being baby-sat." Another Freshmen, Sophie Shelton, said, "I was nervous to come to high school. I was mostly worried about getting to class on time. At first, being the youngest in the school I felt outnumbered, but it was interesting. High school is more challenging and competitive than middle school." The Freshmen were both excited and nervous to start their first year of high school. All were affected by the many differences they encountered. They were able to take another step towards adulthood.

Losing Track of Friends In A New Environment

Elizabeth Spar
Academics Staff

As new freshmen come to the high school, many things change from what they have been used to in previous years in middle school. Most students lose track of their friends because of the change in the way schedules are made. A big difference for the freshmen class is the mix of grades during lunches. Students are many times put in different lunches than their friends because of the classes they are taking, but a lot of the freshmen students like the mixed lunches because they are able to meet new people in other grades. Stephanie Coleman(9) stated, "I like being in lunches that are mixed with other grades because it gives us the opportunity to make new friends." Also, freshmen students now have a wider variety of electives to choose from. With this bigger variety of classes, the chances of students being in the same class with their friends are much smaller. Melissa Wray said, "I have lost track of some of my friends because of the mixed lunches and new classes, but over all, the lunch schedules don't effect me a great deal." All in all, the majority of the students agree in saying that although they may lose track of some friends, they have a bigger opportunity to meet new people and make new friends.

All In The Family

Freshmen and Family in Faculty

How would you like to go to school where your mom or brother is a member of the faculty? For two freshmen this is reality. Kim Kufel(9) and Tatum Tyler(9) both have family members as part of the school's faculty. Kim's older brother Andy Kufel is in his first year of teaching Algebra and Geometry in the state of Virginia. He moved back to Virginia from Buffalo New York. Mr. Kufel had a really successful first year and is planning on coming back for the next academic year. "Since I'm a freshmen it's really nice to have someone to talk to besides my friends. Plus, I've forgotten my lunch money several times and he's always there in case I need a few bucks," said Kim about her big brother. Tatum's mom, Sherrie Tyler has been a Special Education teacher at the school since 2000. In addition to Tatum's mom working here, she also has a brother in the senior class. "I don't mind having my mom and brother here, even though they seem to know everything that's going on," said Tatum. While some may think that going to school with family members would be unpleasant, Kim and Tatum have found out that it is not too bad after all.

Mr. Paul Lineburg

Mr. Lineburg started working for Roanoke County Schools in 1995. His first year at Cave Spring High School was the 1995-1996 school year. Mr. Lineburg started as a U.S. History teacher and coached football, and track. He is also in charge of building operations. Some of his other duties include parking lot supervision, transportation, textbooks, lockers, building use, securing substitutes, and teacher evaluations.

Mr. Randy Meck

Mr. Meck is in charge of working on scheduling and coordinating all athletic events, as well as all student activities. If it has anything to do with athletics or clubs, it probably goes through his office. This is his 8th year at Cave Spring High School and 3rd year as A.D.

Mrs. Diane Herchenrider

Mrs. Herchenrider began working at Cave Spring 7 years ago. Our school was the first to have her as an administrator. Some of her duties among many are scheduling students and teachers and being the special education administrator. Her favorite thing about Cave spring is, "The sense of community, the students and teachers are the best."

Academics

With the addition of new teachers, academics were becoming more interesting. New Pre-AP classes were brought to the school for the first time for ninth and tenth graders. Pre-AP classes were introduced in English to prepare freshmen and sophomores for dual and AP classes in the upcoming years. Pre-AP classes started early with reading such novels as Lord of the Flies and The Chosen. New teachers brought new projects into the English classrooms. With the addition of Ms. Mills and Mr. Meale for the English department, the English classes focused on poetry and the renaissance. Each student reads one work from William Shakespeare each year. The plays range from A Midsummer Night's Dream in the ninth grade and to King Lear in the junior class. English classes were full of excitement as students concentrated on classic novels from the past.

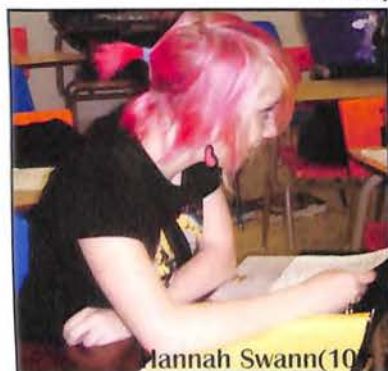

The Math department came on with new projects to allow students to apply math formulas to everyday life. Ms. Johnston helped geometry students construct boxes out of holiday greeting cards, whereas Mr. Powers' precalculus class played jeopardy games to review for upcoming tests and quizzes. The Intro to Calculus class researched mathematicians such as Isaac Newton. Science classes were full of energy, as students completed fun labs. The biology class dissected pigs, while the anatomy class dissected cats. New physics teacher, Dr. Laughner, brought fun Friday into the classroom as the class studied light and color.

The history classes concentrated on the history of the United States and countries around the world. Mr. Pedure's class compared historic events to those in the movies, such as Saving Private Ryan. Mr. Lasig took his students back to the colonial days, as the students wrote a colonial newspaper. The senior government classes turned the class into congress when the students voted on bills introduced by other classmates. Teachers have made the academics not only a learning place but a place where students can have fun with the new material the students have learned.

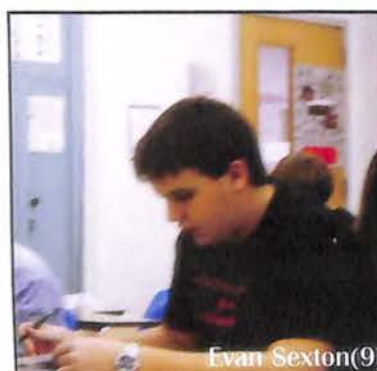

Chelsea Patton(9) listens to Ms. Long. "I really enjoy learning about all the events that have occurred in our past, and hearing about the different cultures in history," Chelsea said.

Clubs

Clubs and organizations sailed into the new year leaving their impression on the student body and the community for everyone to see. Clubs pulled the community into the spirit of homecoming at the beginning of the year by participating in the homecoming parade that took place down Chaparral Drive. The FCLLA continued the spirit of giving during the holiday season by giving presents to the battered womens shelter. The drama club performed for nursing homes around the Roanoke Valley to help the residents have a better holiday.

The SCA planned and volunteered at the annual blood drive that is held in the auxiliary gym. The Science club went around the park way and planted new trees on Earth Day. The Leo club and other club members joined together to work on the school grounds and make the building and grounds more attractive. Clubs and organizations helped students and the community to become one through out the year.

Top FCA and FBLA Activities

1. FCA(Fellowship of Christian Athletes) is a club where Christians can come together to worship with one another. They hand out candy during the mornings, and met once a week before school. FCA also gets together on Sunday afternoons to play sports. "FCA is a place where you can come and feel like you're a part of something. You don't feel alone, excluded, or unwanted. Everyone is always happy to see you, and they always have a smile on their face!" Meredith Siner(10)

2. FBLA(Future Business Leaders of America), works to help the community. During the holiday season, FBLA members went to local shelter to wrap presents. President of FBLA, Sarah Lilly(12) said, "Having a leadership position in FBLA has given me discipline and great leadership skills. It was a great experience."

Top Club Activities:

1. Science Club meets on Thursdays after school. They visited the Mill Mountain Zoo and The Science Museum. First year member Hannah Hawthorne(9) said, "I enjoyed Science Club and getting to spend time with my friends who also have an interest in science. Riding the train at Mill Mountain Zoo was my favorite activity I participated in."

2. Film Club gets together once a week with Mr. Sauls to rate and review movies. They had a Halloween showing of The Sixth Sense, a psychological thriller that the club members loved. Recently they attended a showing of the documentary "Down In The Old Belt-Voices From The Tobacco South", which was a smash hit at the Grandin Theater. Film Club plans most activities for Friday nights so the movies can work with everyone's busy schedule.

Top Prom Committee and Class Officer activities:

1. Class Officers work together to help make their classmates voices heard. All the students opinions are expressed in meetings by the presidents and they work on making dreams a reality. Senior class officers are in charge of planning senior day and picking out apparel for graduation so students will always remember "when they were young." The underclassmen are in charge of arranging homecoming hallways and floats. Class officers are the ones who make the Knights voices really count so we can have memories for the rest of our lives.
2. Prom committee members meet every Thursday to talk about how to make prom a success. After a theme is chosen, members must design the room, place tables around the dance floor, plan the menu and collect decorations. The day of prom, committee members meet at The Hotel Roanoke to arrange decorations and put on the finishing touches for a fairy tale night.

Sports

With the start of a new year, the sports teams came out full force. Starting in August, the eight person golf team began their season. With help from strong junior golfers, the golf team placed third in the district tournament. Moving on to the Regional Tournament, Michael Doughty(11) and Gray Patterson(10) finished with high marks in the top twenty. The football team came out strong with a new coach, Mr. Tim Fulton. Weightlifting throughout the year and starting their practice in the summer the football team truly shined. With a nine and one record, the football team marched on to district and regionals. Defeating Brookville in the district finals, the football team progressed to play Liberty in the regional title game. After a tough fight, the football team ended their season against Liberty. With the womens placing third and the men placing second, the Cross Country team was stronger than ever. Both men and womens teams moved on to states both finishing within the top ten. However, none were more successful than the volleyball team. Returning strong once again, the volleyball team won match after match, Smashing Hidden Valley in the district title and Brookville in Regionals. No game was as exciting as the state title game against Sherando, winning all three games. The fall teams were a true success and had a season no one will forget.

With the help of Mid Knight Madness, the enthusiasm for winter sports was beyond belief. With the new boys swimming coach, Mr. Huray, the swim team dove into the pool with full force. Both teams advanced to states placing in the top ten. Senior Julie Sablick won two more career titles. The indoor track team ran through the winter come rain, cold, or snow. Placing third in the Fork Union Military Academy race, the indoor track team had an excellent season. Practicing everyday after school, the wrestling team built on their skills and agility. The boys and girls basketball team entered the winter season with winning scores. The girls basketball team beat Blacksburg for the first time in many years, while the boys team beat Salem in the Holiday Hoopla. The Cheerleading team finished its competition season placing second in districts. Before we knew it, the spring season was here as the soccer, baseball, softball, track, and tennis teams were in full bloom. The sports teams have always been a success and the winter and spring season was no exception.

Community

In the dictionary, community is defined as a social group of any size whose members reside in a specific locality, share a government and have a common cultural and historical heritage. People in the community of Roanoke County seem to be held together by the history of Cave Spring. Always depending on help from one another, parents and teachers gather to make things better for the students. Parents that support their children and their academics or sports, keep the pride and historical culture of the school going. Teachers that keep pushing students to do their best and never give up, instill a sense of responsibility and commitment. Whether it is a fund raiser like Project 50 or a health related activity such as the blood drive, people in Roanoke County are always willing to lend a helping hand. Community and community leaders and members lend their support to clubs and organizations to benefit the success of the school.

1. Caitlyn Long(12) won a DVD player from a raffle drawing at Midnight Madness. Caitlyn said, "I was really excited to win a new DVD player. Midnight Madness is one of the best things during the year because it starts off the basketball season."
2. Cece Currie, a member of the PTSA and mother of Doug Currie(10), helped out at the Project 50 event. Rudy Ruettiger was the guest speaker. Due to the space, the event was held at Northside Middle School.
3. The band starts off the night by playing the Cave Spring fight song. The drumline was present at Midnight Madness which made the night more lively.

Project Fun!

- 1.) Terri Langford, Booster Club President, helps get ready by setting up an information table about Rudy Ruettiger.
- 2.) Assistant basketball coach, Bob Hicks prepares to pull the sword out of the stone at the end of the Midnight Madness.
- 3.) A Cave Spring supporter cuts meat before a home football game. Before each home football game, CS bootsters, supporters, and area restaurants provided a meal for all interested.
- 4.) Joe Langford(12), Jordan Leet(12) and Josh Leamnson(12) prepare to participate in a the volleyball game against the Varsity players during half time of Midnight Madness.

Working Hard to help out their community

Communities often pitch in to help their local schools with projects. The project that the community in Roanoke County has been most involved with is Project 50. In order for Project 50 to be a success, students, parents, alumni, and other Cave Spring supporters, have been donating their money, time, and energy. Another large event that the community comes out to support is Midnight Madness. This activity gives the basketball teams an opportunity to showcase their talent before the season and to have a little fun. During the night, the JV and Varsity teams are introduced to the students and the community. During half time, students participate in games such as raffles, the senior scrimmage and basketball shooting contests. Overall, if the community stays strong, these events will continue to be the things that bind the community together.

Keepin' the tradition goin' Fans have the spirit

Red and Black, Knights, and Honor; just a few things that come to mind when you think about Cave Spring. Students and parents that come out to the games and the events keep the legend of the school going. Sports are a large part of the community because it can bring everyone together. Students pack the stands during games, home or away, which keeps the teams going during their games. Parents lend support to the community by volunteering at the school, help out with fundraising and simply come to see the things students participate in. Overall, the tradition we have gotten from the past graduates have helped us keep up the great support and pride for the Knights.

Some Impressions

Never Fade

Class of 2006

Colophon

Yearbook In and Outs

Carrie- It has been a long 3 years with you. I was dreading this year because I thought we would fight all of the time but surprisingly we got closer than ever and never fought once. I am going to be really sad with out you next year, so please come back and visit! You will do amazing things because you are so dedicated and driven. With dance and school you never give up.

Logan- Even though you were never here, we knew you were here in spirit. But, when you were here you worked so hard and put your heart into us and the book to get things done. Thanks for taking over when I was gone that week. I appreciate all your help...and who would have thought we would have gotten along! I know that you are forever indebted to Alex for finding you the PERFECT prom dress. Good luck next year!

Megan- You are such a hard worker! I know that we will be missing you next year! You have pulled us together so much; without you there would be no student life section. Along with working hard, you always make us laugh, especially when you stuck the camera in our face. Thanks for not complaining when we made you transfer to another computer or do extra work for us!

Alex- You got NAEP'd! That was by far your favorite spread ever... even though Carrie hated it. We will miss you when you go to Emory and Henry, but you will do amazing things! You always knew what you were doing when it came to computer problems. You have such a strong personality and attitude, that sometimes was a lot to handle but it made the years lively. We can't thank you enough for your help with the index...but... we still expect that puppy chow!

Andrea- You were such a driving force in getting the sports section finished. Even though you sit by your computer and look at your bank account, you always got your work done on time, in your own way. Next year will be really different with out you, but you'll do great at JMU... go visit Maggie for me!

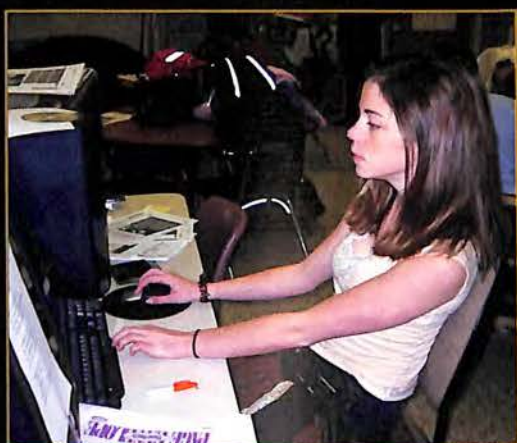

Laurinann- Oh Laurinann, you are so crazy, but in a good way! You can always make us laugh about anything and you are such a sweetheart. We can always ask you to do anything to help us out! You were our only sophomore this year but you were the best! Next year you'll be assistant editor, You'd better be excited!

Ms. Gotschal- Thanks so much for all of your dedication and hard work to us! We would be lost without all of your helpful advice and amazing support. Year after year you keep us going strong and are there for us when we need you. You start our day by being a great teacher and a strong leader. I know we really enjoyed spending Saturdays and our afternoons with you and Josh. You have become more like our second mom than our first period teacher. See you next year!

Mr. Cleveland- We had a great trip to North Carolina with you! Visiting the plant was one of our highlights of the year and it was a great opportunity to learn how our book is made! It wasn't quite what we expected but we had a good time. Thanks for coming in early in the morning and visiting us after school with all of your goodies. You were always there answering our questions and helping us with whatever problems we had that day. Congratulations on the new addition to the Cleveland family and we look forward to seeing you next year...if we haven't scared you off this year.

"Some Impressions Never Fade" is the 50th volume of the Cave Spring High School Accolade. The book was printed by Jostens, Inc. in Winston- Salem, NC. 600 copies were printed. The theme of the book was developed by the entire Accolade class as a whole. Headlines were written in AYT^{Lauren} and AYT^{Josh} while the captions and body copy were written in AYT^{David}. There are 219 pages in the book, not including the supplement. The Cave Spring High School enrollment is 982. The yearbook staff used Adobe Pagemaker 6.5, 7.0 and Adobe InDesign CS2 to create the spreads on the Macintosh G4's and the Dell Pentium 4's.

Lauren- I know yearbook was stressful for you, but thanks for sticking it out! Your sneaky snack runs made our mornings great along with your funny jokes! There's no wrong way to eat a Reeses'. Im sorry that you hate the pictures of you in the yearbook, but we love them! You are full of goofiness but we love every bit of it.

Hannah- Our little baby! We are glad that we got to bond with you and break you out of your shell. Your phrase to Carrie was "I don't understand you." Hannah Banana, you are so cozy and fun and can always make us laugh on a bad day. Thanks for letting us use your sharpie everyday! Way to not bring Carrie a secret Santa present!

Rachel- We are so glad that you have gotten to know people by working on yearbook this year. Being a new student isn't easy but you fit right in! You always came in with adorable shoes and cute clothes. You are so fun and sweet and we are happy you came to us from Salem! We are so thankful for your second period study hall so you could take care of our proofs!

Lauren- Way to go, making Lauren do your dirty work and sending her to the drink machine every day! We are still waiting on you to do a dance for us, it's a good thing we got you to sign that contract! You always had the best attitude about yearbook which made things go so much more smooth.

Melissa- We are so glad we had your "Death Stick" to take us through the year. You are a really hard worker and we appreciate all of the time you have put into the book. Doing extra spreads isn't easy but you kept going! We are glad you were so willing to learn and help us out all of the time.

Liz- You have opened up with all of us so much and we are so glad that we have gotten to know you so well this year! You and Hannah were always attached at the hip, but the two of you always kept us laughing. You worked hard but you did it all in your own, the laid back way.

Kayla- Your previous yearbook experience has been a great help to us this year. Thanks so much for helping out with the club pictures and names, without you, we would have never finished doing it! Your positive attitude was such an asset to our group.

Kristel- OUR Miss Roanoke Valley! Thanks for your dedication and opening up to all of us this year. Stop yelling at Alex because she didn't try out for Rizzol! Even though we all know it was the perfect part for her. We could always count on your input on things that really helped us out. Good luck at college!!

Reed- We could always count on you for computer help and grammar questions! Thanks for helping us look over proofs to make sure we caught all of our mistakes! It was really a great help. Thanks for always helping us out and taking pictures for all of us when we were behind!

Love you all! Carrie

From our little princess to the Homecoming Queen,

From t-ball, soccer, basketball, track and dance

Through competitive gymnastics to your commitment to excellence in volleyball,

We have been so proud of you and the person you have become and all that you have achieved.

You set a goal for yourself and worked hard to achieve it with confidence and courage.

Realizing that in order to guarantee your success you have to act as if it were impossible to fail.

You realized early that champions aren't made in the gym or on the field but, from something deep inside them.

A desire, a dream and a vision. You took all three and ran with them!

You are a wonderful daughter and a terrific sister.

We love you very much and wish you the best in everything you do.
