Jefferson
Hospital.

Dedication

With all aspirations for future progress, there is the reminiscence of the development of the past. If the doors of Jefferson Hospital could speak to us today, they would probably tell us of the early days of 1908 when Doctor Hugh H. Trout first opened the Jefferson Surgical Hospital. They would recall those days when the Hospital had a total of fourteen beds and Miss Hope Ervine was head nurse. Looking back over the many personalities who left their indelible influence on the Jefferson Hospital, the doors would remember Doctor George B. Lawson and his "Visible Drip", used today to regulate all fluids; Doctor John W. Preston, founder of the Out-Patient Department; Miss Harriet Nelson, the first surgical nurse; Mr. William Daniels, the first business Manager; Miss Frances I. Lusby, the first Superintendent of Nurses; Miss Ethel P. Bowen, the first assistant Superintendent of Nurses; Doctor Roger H. DuBose, the founder of the Pediatric Department; Doctor Thomas Redfield, who set the Laboratory on its feet and was the first Administrator; Doctor Harry B. Stone, the first Eye, Ear, Nose, and Throat Specialist; Doctor Hayward Wescott, the Orthopedic surgeon who first put a pin in a fractured hip; Mrs. Airhart, Doctor Hugh H. Trout's first secretary; and Doctor A. P. Jones, who worked with the Hospital staff from the early days of its establishment.

They would recall too, that the School of Nursing was founded in 1914 and the first graduating class consisted of six young ladies, the charter members of the alumnae of Jefferson Hospital School of Nursing. In the fifty-one years since its founding, the School of Nursing has known the experienced teaching skills of many professional nurses and doctors. More recently they remember the founding of a School of Practical Nursing and the training of Laboratory and X-ray Technicians here.

All of us whose lives have been affiliated with Jefferson Hospital in any capacity have experienced nostalgic sentiments as we have watched the preparations for the final closing of the doors which have been open for the past fifty-seven years. Even though we eagerly anticipate the improved facilities of the Community Hospital of Roanoke Valley, we silently hope that the high quality of the Jefferson Hospital nurses and doctors will light the way for the future.

So it is that we the staff of the 1965 Lamplighter wish to dedicate this final publication to the countless men and women who have been the Lamplighters in education, administration and total patient care in what shall always be known as the Jefferson tradition.

The Student Government Association is composed of each student in the Jefferson Hospital School of Nursing and its officers are elected from among its membership. By upholding the highest personal and professional standards; promoting student honor and loyalty; promoting effective communication between the faculty, nursing staff, doctors, and student nurses; enacting and enforcing all legislation within the student's scope of power and which is necessary for professional and social unity; it strives to aid in the development of student nurses as truly democratic citizens by broadening their horizons as individuals as well as members of a group.

The Staff of the 1965 Lamplighter had a very precarious beginning. It was preceded the year before with the stipulation of financial independence and for this reason was not wholeheartedly backed by the student body. Having managed, however, to persuade council to give us a chance, we have worked diligently to pull through this year with what we consider a fine book. Much credit goes to the students in all classes, especially the Freshmen, and to our sponsors. For this we are grateful, and hope that this edition of The Lamplighter will bring as much pleasure to you as it has to us.

"Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path." (Psalm 119:105)

We believe that through the fellowship of God and man, we should develop a harmony of living and a growing sense of love and responsibility towards God and nursing. We believe that through the study of God's will and through devout worship, our souls and ideals will be strengthened to meet the needs of the individual as well as her profession.

Our philosophy has grown out of the experience of years gone by and was formulated upon the realization that religion is not only necessary for the young student nurse in learning to know and understand her patient, but it is vital for the student's understanding of herself. We have worked diligently this year in combination with the Vesper Club of Lewis-Gale Hospital in paving the way for an effective religious organization for the future students of CHR.V.

Pictured here is the chancel of Saint Mark's Luthern Church which has been beloved by the students of the Jefferson Hospital School of Nursing for many years. It is here that we receive our cherished caps; it is here that we find solace and strength through the years of struggle and doubt; and it is here that we finally receive our pin and diploma. It is very fitting and proper that we honor this site.

Glee Club

The Jefferson Hospital Glee Club was first organized in 1943 and has been under the direction of Mrs. Herman Marshall since 1947. Mrs. Helen Robertson accompanies the Glee Club at the piano. We are very grateful for the guidance and interest of each of these talented musicians. This year, the Glee Club consists of twenty-eight members participating in many community activities and events. Each year, we look forward to singing for churches, on television, for the Optimist Club, and caroling in the hospital at Christmas. Providing the music for Capping and Graduation are traditional occasions that are significant to all of us. This year, we have been invited to sing in the annual Spring Concert with the Lewis-Gale Hospital Glee Club, and we look forward to the event with great enthusiasm.

Student Nurse Week

"Miss Student Nurse candidates and judges."

"Miss Student Nurse and President-elect of District VI, Miss Susan Linkous with Joan Merritt outgoing President District VI."

Outside of capping and graduation, Student Nurse Week is one of the most exciting events of the year. Students from all four hospitals in District VI convene to elect officers and Miss Student Nurse for the coming year, have teas, a fashion show, special guest speakers and the culmination of all, a semi-formal dance. Here are a few of the scenes from this year's Student Nurse Week, the theme of which was "We the Foundation of Tomorrow's World." And in case you haven't guessed we had a ball!

"District VI officers for the coming year."

Christmas Party

"But You DIDN'T know it was Color!"

"Our Christmas Tree."

Christmas here brings fun and food at the students annual Christmas Party. Sponsored by the hospital it is the one social event in which everyone participates. And here are some of the scenes from this year. More than you can eat, presents and surprises galore along with the theme of "Holidays Ahead" play a large part in making the first year bearable, the second year a milestone and the third year a bit melancholy.

All in all its a big scene and one we look forward to with great anticipation, 'cause its always great. By the way you can tell whose sponsor of social arrangements--that party gal, Mrs. Charlotte Webb.

"Bet you can't eat ONE."

"Oh Yeah!"

There was a lovely glow the night of December 18 as the Christmas Ball was in full swing. Highlights of the evening were the crowning of the Snow Queen and her court, their dance and entertainment by Floyd Ward dancers. Featured here are some of those scenes and some of the very special people who were there and who still remember the beautiful music by Freddie Lee and his orchestra, how decorative the ballroom of Kazim Temple and just how lovely every lady and how handsome her escort.

Housemothers

"Put out the cat when you come in tonight!"

Extra late leaves are a senior privilege but having a housemother who is happy to wait up for you is too. Mrs. Evelyn B. Dailey is that housemother and is pictured with senior student, Julia Thompson, as she signs out a house key. Just knowing there is someone who is interested in your welfare means a great deal, and Mrs. Dailey has shown this quality consistently with a special touch all her own. We share a very personal feeling toward her.

"Did you dial 9 first?"

Girls everywhere are famous for their lengthy telephone conversations, and certainly student nurses are no exception. Here, Mrs. Neeley, reminds Miss Donna Fouch, a junior student, that she has to dial 9 before she can reach an outside number. Our memories of dorm life would not be complete without scenes such as this and they will always be remembered because of the unceasing efforts of Mrs. Neeley to make us happy. In every sense of the word, she has really been our second "mother"!

"I wish I'd get a letter myself sometime!"

Giving out the mail is just one of the many duties of our housemothers, and here we see Mrs. Bigler with two of the freshmen students, Miss Judy Walker and Miss Terri Bishop. The housemothers help to provide a home-like atmosphere in the nurses' dorm that helps each girl to feel more at home.

Before the doors of Jefferson Hospital close for the final time, the class of 1965 will add its flame to the lamp that will be CHRV. Since the class first assembled on September 3, 1962, with thirty frightened preclinical students, much has been accomplished in the lives of each one of us. Realms never before conquered are now an established part of the personality and character that goes to make us more worthwhile citizens of our modern world. Knowledge, experience, and poise are molded now into potential resource material as each of us enters the responsibility we will eventually hold as registered nurses.

Many memories will never be forgotten in our minds and hearts--trips to Roanoke College--the Halloween Candy--the Cat--the Junior-Senior Dance--Western State--Catawba--Miss Henry--and all the many special occasions that will always remain as the cherished treasures of our student days. Especially, we shall always remember the guidance of our class sponsors, Mrs. Mathews and Dr. Roller. Both of them stood beside us through "thick and thin", "bad and good", and to them will always be a debt of gratitude.

After our lamp passes, the doors of Jefferson Hospital will close; but Jefferson's lamp will always shine. It will shine as long as we, the class of 1965, continue to practice our chosen profession in the tradition that is "Jefferson!"

"But I love my nurse"

... says one little patient to another on the pediatric unit. That nurse happens to be Miss Louise Jenkins, senior student, who apparently knows her subject pretty well, for who would ever expect to see such a beautiful example of rapport.

"He's putting me on"

... says senior nurse Miss Linda Edwards of the Wizard pharmacist Mr. Phillip Gibb. "Who ever heard of Candid-Combids?" Maybe if I had understood the class-but no that is all still Greek to me. (and most likely to thee!)

"It looks like a mess to me"

Down in the dark rooms of X-ray is one known as the office of Dr. Charles Peterson. Seen here is such a place with the master himself teaching senior student Carol Smith and X-ray student Sandy Shannon the wherefores and how-comes of an upper G.I. series.

"Woe is me"

... says little boy blue. Here in the dispensary is senior nurse Miss Doris Rich attending a child under the supervision of Mrs. Marjorie Pybass, R.N. This phase of nursing includes emergencies and clinic work and offers the most varied of experiences seen in hospital duty. It is here that one puts into practice the knowledge of all the many separate fields she has studied, including the drying up of little tears.

As the doors of Jefferson Hospital draw closed for the final time, the class of 1966 will collect all the treasured memories of the many months since the day we began our nursing education. Adding the light from the lamp of Jefferson Hospital, the class of 1966 will strive to make the lamp of CHRV glow bright to lighten the path for those who will come in future years.

Despite separation by rotation schedules, affiliations, and vacations, our loyalty to each other and to our school have remained strong. We have gained in adaptability and maturity as we experienced the constant changes necessary for the organization of CHRV.

Our projects have been both successful and satisfying for we have not only supplemented our class income with dues, bake sales, candy and doughnut sales, but have also made stuffed toys for the pediatric ward, made "soap-fish" and Christmas caroled for the patients of a local nursing home.

Active in community, school, and district, our members have been honored by appearing on television programs by being asked to speak to Red Cross, Future Nurses Clubs, and by holding District VI, SNAV, offices and school offices.

These and other memories will remain in our hearts long after material things have been destroyed and will leave an indelible influence on our lives. We strive to demonstrate our highest standards and developed skills in the tradition that is "Jefferson". In this way, we will add our light to the lamp that is CHRV.

"Oooh! Will it break?"

Miss Reba Phipps is pictured here in one of the happiest places in the hospital! Amid the many sick patients found on the medical-surgical wards, we often forget that life has a wonderful beginning - as well as an inevitable ending. The Nursery reminds us of this as we view the rows upon rows of newborn infants.

"This gown is a wee bit small, I think!"

Miss Nancy Chewning is pictured here as she dons the familiar apparel typical of the Operating Room personnel. She reminds us of the wondrous miracles performed by the skilled hands of the numerous surgeons who come here each day. It is during this service that we realize more fully the great advancements in the medical world of today, and vividly understand the wealth of knowledge remaining yet to be gained.

"Are you sure that's what an enema tray looks like?"

Miss Diane Hatcher is pictured here as she secures a familiar item - the enema tray! None of us could function very well unless we could depend on the efficiency of the personnel working in Central Supply. Their cheerfulness and cooperative attitude seems to make even the largest errand appear less of a chore. Often we do not have the time to stop and say how much their service means to us as nurses, but we all realize the importance their job holds to the welfare of the patient.

"You say that I'm supposed to climb over the edge of it?"

Miss Rita Hedrick stands among the pleasant surroundings of Physical Therapy. Certainly we cannot underestimate the important role of physical therapy in the rehabilitation programs planned for the restoration of maximum normal function to the convalescing patient. Often we forget the importance of this service in teaching the patient to live as normal a life as possible under the limitations of his disease or deformity. Modern equipment helps bring maximum effect to the patient.

As the doors of Jefferson Hospital School of Nursing close for the final time, the class of 1967 is just beginning its education and is adding its flame to the lamp that is CHRV. The noteworthy traditions of Jefferson Hospital have left their influence on the personal philosophies and individual objectives of each member of the class of 1967, and certainly none of us will ever forget the institution of nursing education wherein we first assembled on September 7, 1964.

Entering unknown waters is always difficult and so it has been for the eighteen members of our freshmen class. As the months passed by, we gathered light from the brightly burning lamp established and kept burning by those before us. We learned more about nursing and the contributions expected of us.

We'll always remember our First Day - initiation by the juniors and seniors - the needy family project - the Christmas Party - selling annual ads - Big Sisters - and all the difficult, insecure days when we felt we could not possibly go on another day.

We will remember it all as just a step we had to make to progress up our chosen ladder of education - to reach our final goal of registered nurse in 1967. May we carry flames from the lamp of Jefferson Hospital to the young lamp of CHRV.

"Someday, I'll torture you like you've tortured me!"

Our fully equipped laboratory is a very important part of the hospital. The diagnostic tests carried out here are important tools preliminary to the treatment of the condition of a specific patient. Here we see Mr. Cantrell about to obtain a blood sample by venipuncture from Miss Brenda Williams.

"I know potatoes are fattening-but . . .!"

We are like any normal American girls and enjoy meal time tremendously. Our cafeteria is pictured here as Miss Kathy Nash and Miss Janet Delp pass through the line and are served. In our studies, we learn the important role nutrition plays in the healing of the body and it has caused us to better appreciate the activities of our dietary staff.

"Could I have it in nickels and dimes please?"

As Miss Margaret George cashes her check at the Business Office, we are reminded of the many activities carried on here. All of the money transactions are either initiated or terminated here and we certainly cannot overlook the importance that money and its management holds in our lives.

"I think my mother's maiden name was Jones!"

Here we see Miss Bertha Carroll at the Admitting Office where all hospitalizations have their beginning. It is the site of constant activity as Mrs. Terry tries to find a bed to suit each patient, and tries to meet the demands of an ever increasing number of patients.

School of Practical Nursing

July 1964 marked the beginning of the School of Practical Nursing at Jefferson Hospital, and it will be yet another landmark in the history of nursing education in the future of CHRV. Students who are rising seniors in the Roanoke County High Schools are eligible for admission, and they begin their preclinical work during their senior year. Upon satisfactory completion of the preclinical phase, the student receives two credits toward her high school diploma, and she enters the hospital for eight months of clinical education. Satisfactorily completing this phase of the program and passing the State Board Examination, she becomes a Licensed Practical Nurse, fully qualified to participate in many fields of nursing.

"They fix it."

Mr. Kelly and Mr. Prillaman are chief handymen around the place. They're seen here as they often are working in the shop. It's an endless task and often a thankless one. But they are surely two of our favorite people. So thanks a lot.

"He just keeps rolling along."

Big John-- is one of the people frequently seen caring for patients in a winning way. He's one of our topnotch orderlies and he's known and liked by all. Thanks to you too John.

We don't know. But our maids, Virginia, Lillian and Shelia, are certainly a boon to us all and they, too, deserve much thanks. If they didn't keep our rooms straight we would all have demerits.

"What would we do without them?"

Likewise without our aides and house-keeping people we just couldn't go on. A very special thanks goes out to them for their constant effort to keep old Jefferson moving smoothly.

"They keep things going."

Florence Nightingale Pledge

I solemnly pledge myself before God and in the presence of this assembly, to pass my life in purity and to practice my profession faithfully. I will abstain from whatever is deleterious and mischievous, and will not take or knowingly administer any harmful drug. I will do all in my power to maintain and elevate the standards of my profession and will hold in confidence all personal matters committed to my keeping and all family affairs coming to my knowledge in the practice of my profession. With loyalty will I endeavor to aid the physician in his work, and devote myself to the welfare of those committed to my care.

Alumnae

Jefferson Hospital Nurses' Alumnae Association was organized very shortly after the first class graduated in 1917. The Association endeavors to provide its membership with both entertaining and educational programs at monthly meetings where plans are formulated to support community projects and services. Supporting student activities and providing a loan fund are additional endeavors of the Association. Each year, the graduating seniors are honored at an annual banquet. The Marion Crissman Welsh award is presented each year to the graduating senior with the highest scholastic average throughout the three years. It is given in honor of the Director of Nurses, Mrs. Marion Crissman Welsh.

The Golden Anniversary celebration in September 1964 assembled two hundred graduate nurses in Roanoke. Here we have captured one of the most thrilling moments of the event, the presentation of a mink stole by Mrs. Phyllis Hatter, President, to Mrs. Marion Welsh, Director of Nurses, as Dr. Hugh Trout, Jr. representing the Medical Staff looks on.

An Average Capitalist Discusses FREE ENTERPRISE

"I'VE THE RIGHT TO PLAN MY OWN LIFE, TO EARN A LIVING AS I SEE FIT."

" . . . I'm limited, of course, by my ability and determination. But, overall, I call the shots. I'll be paid according to what I contribute, too. If I'm valuable, I'll earn more; if lazy, less. But there's always the thought of working up. That's because I live in a Free Enterprise economy where I have freedom of choice and opportunity."

Our management employees and stockholders are united with this student under the Free Enterprise flag. We chose this business because we like it. But like other businesses, we must give the best possible service at the lowest possible cost.
