STUDENTS of

Booker T. Washington
Junior High School

Roanoke, Virginia

1959

We, the Eighth grade class of 1959, do dedicate the Trojan Yearbook to Mr. J. Clodious Toles, in appreciation of his faithful service and untiring encouragement. To you, Mr. Toles, we say, "Thank you so very much."

The 8th Grade Class of 1959

SCHOOL SONG

Upon a hill at lofty height
Stands Booker T. our strength and light
Deep in our hearts our love for you
Will ever grow so fond and true
Our inspiration you will be
For lasting cherished memory
Forever we will honor thee
All hail to thee, dear Booker T.

Oh, Booker T., Oh, Booker T.
Loyal to thee we'll ever be We'll always keep you in our heart
Our thoughts of you will never part
Though far from you we all may roam
Our love for you will guide us home
Hail proud and free, imbued with thee
We'll sing thy praise, oh, Booker T.

IN APPRECIATION

Quite an interesting phase of administration of our school life is to foster the development of Booker T. Washington Junior High School. Booker T. Washington Junior High School is one of Roanoke's newer units of administration. It is the former Lucy Addison High School, which was built in 1927. When it opened its doors to junior high level students in September 1952, it was named the Booker T. Washington Junior High School. The honor paid to one of America's great educators is a most deserved honor and serves as a constant reminder to all of us in the profession, and students as well, of the fact that no monument of fame can be nobler than lasting memory in the minds of people.

This attractive Junior High School Annual is the product of many alert minds and hands. It is the cooperative efforts of both teachers and students of Booker T. Washington under the direction of Mr. J. Clodious Toles, the Sponsor of the Student Participation Association and the director of the project. Especially, do I want to commend very highly the Sponsor, the Annual Staff, and the S. P. A. President for their excellent effort in making our Annual a reality. I also express our heartfelt appreciation to the class reporters and teachers for their splendid cooperation.

The many activities shown in pictures, written reports, art cartoons, etc., depicting the real life of our school are the unique combination of skill and talents of our students. May every one who secures one of these annuals have pleasant memories of the interesting and exciting life at Booker T.
