As Each Challenges Reality

It was a time of anticipating, questioning and maturing. A year filled with teachings and learnings, spirit and success, determination and drive, beginnings and endings. Most of all, it was a time for challenging and being challenged. We challenged the world, reality, ourselves and the ideas of the older generations. We were challenged by the achievements of previous generations, our peers, and the future.

We strived to overcome many of these challenges. Through understanding, learning, and working together, we were able to accept new concepts and ideas. The phrase, "we shall overcome," became, "we have overcome."

Sponsors Receive Dedication

Over the years, students and faculty members have come and gone leaving their contributions to Glenvar High School. It is to two such devoted and fabulous teachers that we dedicate the 1970 Crusader.

She taught us that democracy was supreme, but not perfect. She taught us to respect our own opinions. Most important, she taught us to think. Who else but the cowardly lion would forget a nightgown on her honeymoon.

The other recipient of this honor has played a key role in the growth and development of our school. She has built our library to what it is today. She has endless patience and is always ready to help you find a book called "Wait Until Marriage," or to spell a word. She is sometimes referred to as a party girl and loves to tell jokes.

It is with love and respect that we dedicate the 1970 Crusader to our sponsors, Mrs. Carolyn Newell and Mrs. Kathryn Grizzard.

ADMINISTRATION

70

Mr. Verner Crush (B.A., Roanoke College; M.Ed. and Adm., V.P.I.) glances at a copy of the school paper.

The administration capably handles the problems which face GHS each day. Not only does it possess genuine interest in the education and well-being of the entire student body, but it works to supply the needs of the individual.

Mr. Crush provides the domineering hand over the faculty and students. His firmness in making quick decisions and his understanding with difficult problems have earned him the respect of fellow colleagues and students.

Mr. Killinger and Mr. Campbell performed endless duties to make each day run effectively. Mr. Killinger efficiently supervised clubs, administered parking permits, and directed activities, along with his everyday activities. Mr. Campbell, a new assistant, performed the duties concerning attendance. Together they worked to help broaden communications between students, faculty and administration.

Administration Aids Students

Mr. Crush pauses momentarily from his numerous duties as principal.

Mr. Bates Killinger (B.S. Hampden-Sydney; M.Ed., U.Va.) stops briefly on his way to the office to begin another busy day.

Mr. Killinger dismisses assembly, telling students to return to first period class.

Mr. Lewis Campbell (B.S., Milligan College) permits early dismissal to student during fifth period.

The secretaries saw little change from last year. They were busy from 7:30-4:30 every week-day and never had a spare minute. Their jobs were always completed quickly and accurately. Since they were always helping the administration, teachers, custodians, cafeteria workers and students, they can never be thanked enough for their patience and understanding.

Mrs. Thomas rests only for an instant after counting lunch money.

Secretaries Work Long Hours

Mrs. Fielder poses while typing an announcement to be sent home by every student.

Mr. Crush comments briefly during the induction service of the National Junior Honor Society.

Mrs. Hatcher waits as Mr. Campbell attempts to solve a problem created in the classroom.

Math teachers: seated—Don Pack (B.A., Lincoln Memorial University), Dreama Dudley (B.S., M.A., Radford College, U. Va., Glee Club sponsor), Carol Altizer (B.S., Radford College, F.T.A. sponsor), Joel McCubbin (B.A., Western Kentucky University, Math Honor Society), Standing—Wilkie Chaffin (B.A., M.S., Old Dominion, Radford College), Sally Barile (B.S., Radford College), Linda Ankrom (B.S., Radford), Julian Brown (B.A., Carson-Newman)

Advanced Subjects Are Offered

Mr. Chaffin expresses disgust through facial expression.

In order for the students to obtain a satisfactory understanding of Math, Glenvar is privileged to have a well equipped Math department.

Students who chose a college preparatory course were given a lasting background in Algebra, Geometry, and Trigonometry that will help them in their future college plans. Other students, taking basic math courses, were given help and understanding in reaching their goals. All students, no matter what type of course they took, obtained expert training in order to be better prepared for whatever life holds for them.

Becky Bush finds mastering geometry takes excessive study and willpower.

Miss Dudley finds explaining theorems in an understanding manner somewhat difficult.

In Mathematics

Seventh graders find Math gets progressively harder as subject area increases.

Dear Norma,
 You are a pleasure, and I'm glad I had the chance to have you in English class. I know you'll make an excellent librarian.
 Have fun on the camping trip.
 Mrs. Follmar

Row 1: Mrs. Edna Follmar, B.A., Roanoke College; Mrs. Anna Johnson, A.B., Va. State College, Keyette sponsor; Miss Melba Calaway, B.A., Roanoke College, Radford College; Mrs. Judith Pitts, B.S., Radford College, cheerleading sponsor; Miss Bohart, B.A., Emory & Henry College, forensic sponsor; Mr. Oliver Cromer, B.A., University of Va.; Row 2: Mrs. Mary Rash, B.A., Wittenburg, Roanoke College; Mrs. Kay McSurdy, B.A. & M.S., Radford College, Needlework club; Mrs. Mary Hannah, A.B., Catawba College, Roanoke College, Jr. Y-teens; Mrs. Barbara Williams, B.A., M.Ed., American University; Miss Barbara Tabor, B.S., Madison College, Bagpipe sponsor; Mrs. Toni Perry, B.S., Radford College, Thespian sponsor, Thistle sponsor.

With the continued guidance of the English department, students strove to meet the challenges of modern grammar and interpretive literature. Whether it were to extend the knowledge of his vocabulary or to ponder over Beowulf, each student gave his utmost.

Mrs. Johnson headed the department. Each instructor made his or her class a challenge to every student. Faltering through oral reports, creating compositions, or just doing parallel reading, everyone did his part in making this year a success.

English Broadens Learning

Mr. Cromer, debate coach, National Honor Society sponsor, gives a talk on the weekly reading cards.

Mrs. Anna Johnson pauses from her busy schedule.

Social Studies Creates

The Social Studies Department of Glenvar High School stressed the importance of learning from society's past accomplishments and mistakes. Through new courses such as Economics, Psychology, Sociology, and Comparative Government the student was able to receive a better understanding of the changing world. Current Events and Newsweek kept students up to date and aware of today's problems. Visual aids, field trips, and recordings added variety to the text of the social studies courses.

With the leadership of department head, Mrs. Glenda Seymour, the social studies department had one of its finest years.

Miss Nancy Robinson, B.S. Radford College, F.T.A. sponsor; Mrs. Barbara Williams, B.A., M.Ed. American University; Mrs. Elizabeth Driscoll, B.S. Radford College; Mrs. Emma Hatcher, B.S. Concord College & Radford College; Mrs. Carolyn Newell, B.S. Radford College, annual sponsor; Mrs. Patricia Hammond, B.A. Lynchburg College; Mrs. Glenda Seymour, A.B., M.A.T. High Point College; Mrs. Phyllis Zorn, B.S. Radford College; (not pictured, Mr. Berkeley Lucas, B.A. Chowan College & Lynchburg College, football coach and J.V. basketball coach)

Awareness Of World

Mrs. Zorn explains new points of interest to her geography class.

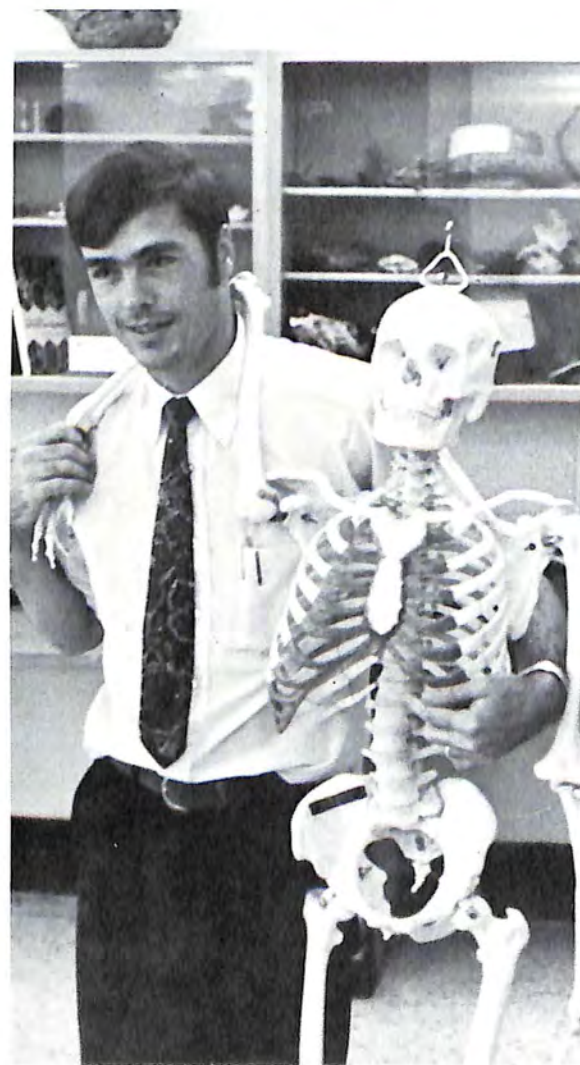

Mr. Lucas lectures on the Dark Ages to his 2nd period class.

Labs Stress Science Interests

Mr. Whitley finds a comment of a student amusing.

Mr. Dennis Stultz, B.S. N.C. State K.V.G.; Mr. Gary Whitley, B.A. Texas A & I University K.V.G.; Mr. Eddie G. Jones, B.S. Appalachian State, U.Va., N.C. State, SCA sponsor; Miss Leslie Watkins, B.A. Roanoke College, Science Club sponsor; Mrs. Susan Williams, B.S. Radford College; Mrs. Lynn Mooney, B.A. Winthrop College; Miss Joan Groves, B.A. Emory & Henry College, Jr. Science Club sponsor.

Mr. Richard Myers, B.S. Appalachian State University, wrestling & freshman football coach, concentrates on grading science test papers.

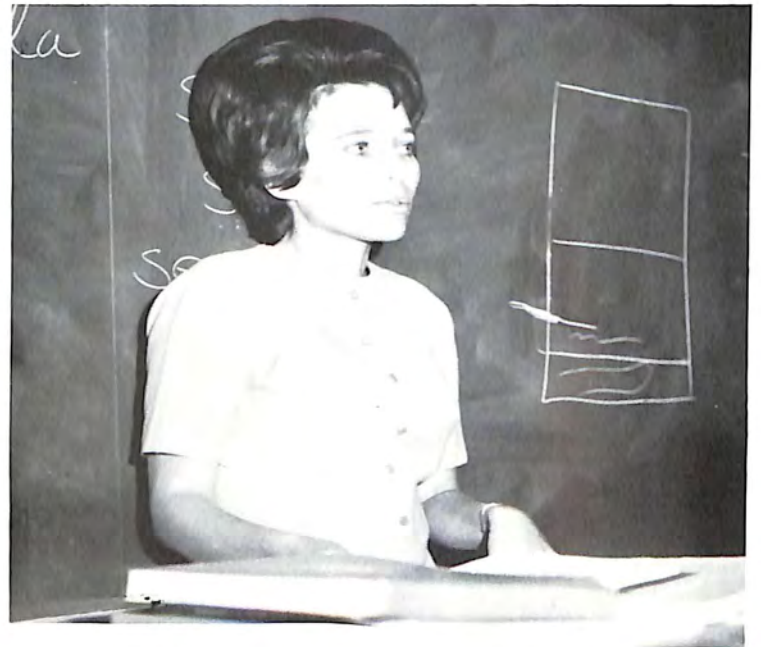

This year's science department opened with new teachers and new ideas. Open labs (one every Wednesday night) made it possible for students to experiment beyond the classroom. A new science, Introductory Physical Science, was offered this year to all ninth grade students. Advanced Physics was again offered to Seniors. Science projects and new techniques were also used to have more knowledge and a better understanding of the sciences.

Business Trains Leaders

Mr. Bolton lectures his Distributive Education class.

Mrs. Huffman instructs her Personal Typing class.

Mrs. Jennings smiles at the antics of her class.

Twenty-five words a minute, learning characters for shorthand or putting in new typewriting ribbons, all made up this year in the business department. New students anticipated their first year in typing, while previous students wondered if they could meet the demands of advanced courses. Students learned about a life outside school that prepared them for their future.

Under the capable supervision of Mr. Bolton, the Distributive Education Department completed its third year. Aptly fulfilling his job of placing D.E. students in positions, Mr. Bolton brought the business world and education closer together. Students learned about a life outside of school that prepared them for their futures.

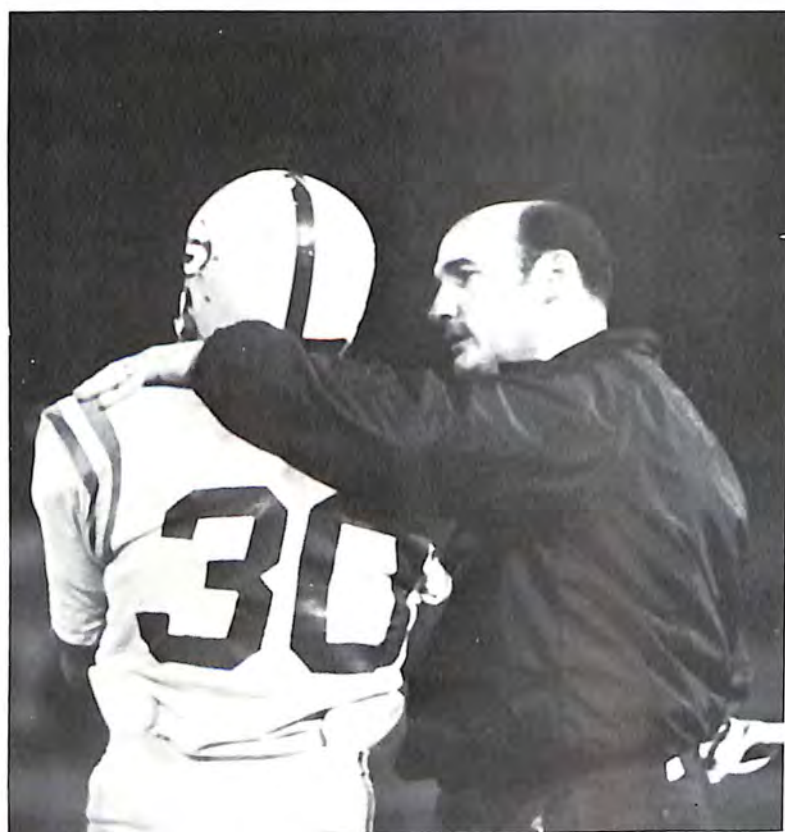

Mrs. Jennings explains some typing to Joy Garrett.

Mrs. Martha Jennings (B.S.), V.P.I.; William F. Bolton (B.S.,M.Ed.), Roanoke College, V.P.I.; Mrs. Carol Huffman (B.S.), Northwest Missouri State.

Mr. Jerry Strong, B.S. Mars Hill, Football Coach, Assistant Track Coach.

Mr. Richard Pitts, B.S., East Tennessee State University, Head Football and Track Coach, Monogram Club.

The Body Is The Dwelling

Mr. Joe Davis, B.S., Richmond Professional Institute, Head Coach Baseball and Basketball.

We shall overcome . . . locker room fragrance, body fatigue, stiff, sore muscles, and jammed fingers. These were the dimmer aspects of physical education as students learned the basic techniques of football, basketball, tennis, volleyball, and tumbling. With the guidance of skilled teachers, students overcame their fears of falling off the horse, climbing the ropes, and doing stunts on the parallel bars. As sophomores, in our final year of physical education, we felt we had overcome.

Place Of The Soul

Mrs. Patricia G. Jennette, B.S. Appalachian State, G.A.A. Sports; Mrs. Jane N. Wright, B.S. Westhampton, G.A.A. Activities; Mrs. Bette K. Seymore, B.S. Madison College, G.A.A.

Art And Drama Enrich School

Miss Diane Watts, B.F.A. University of North Carolina, Sr. Y Teens Sponsor; Mrs. Toni Perry, B.S. Radford College

Cheryl Nelson receives criticism from Miss Watts.

Mrs. Toni Perry and Miss Diane Watts excellently fulfilled their jobs of dramatics and art teachers. Under these teachers' supervision, students were able to illustrate their dramatic and artistic abilities.

Throughout the year Mrs. Perry's students expressed their talent and abilities in class through dramatic and extemporaneous readings. Miss Watts also taught first year students the fundamentals of art, while second and third year students worked with paper maché, oils and pen and ink sketches.

Drama teacher, Mrs. Perry prepares script for the Junior Class play.

Music And Languages Train

Mrs. Rash and Miss Cangiano discuss teaching procedures prior to opening of school.

Querida Zma,
Bueno, adiós español I y ¡hola! español II.
¡Gracias a Dios! Te veré el año próximo.
Srta. Cangiano

The Foreign Language Department of G.H.S. this year encompassed two languages: French and Spanish. Mrs. Mary Rash and Miss Eileen Cangiano were the two competent teachers. With the help of magnetic tapes, flashcards, records, and the proverbial hickory stick, these diligent crusaders pounded new and strange languages into students' thick skulls. Miss Cangiano and Mrs. Rash were also co-sponsors of the Foreign Language League.

The band and choir made up the music program at G.H.S. These were headed by Mr. Wilbur Grant and Miss Dreama Dudley, who were also co-sponsors of the Modern Music Masters Society. Both organizations were divided into two sections: the juniors and seniors.

Students In The Fine Arts

Mr. Grant directs the band at Martinsville.

Buddy Hill was the band's Drum Major and Field Director this year.

Miss Dudley explains to the choir an extremely difficult passage.

Miss Judy Tate, B.S. Radford College, F.H.A.; Mrs. Martha Cobble, B.S. East Tennessee University, Radford College, V.P.I., F.H.A. sponsor.

The Home Economics department offered a valuable experience in home management that was beneficial to all girls. Some girls were given their first chance to prepare meals, and as the year progressed they found that these meals became more palatable. These first year students were also given a firm background in sewing and good grooming that will last them the rest of their lives.

Second year students were given more complicated challenges and advanced training. They cooked more difficult meals and learned intricate stitches.

The highlight of the year of all Home Economics students was the fashion show in which the girls modeled the fashions they had made.

Home Ec Builds Homemakers

Miss Tate helps Diane Kehn with the adjustment on the stove.

Mrs. Cobble demonstrates to her 2nd period class the proper way to use the sewing machine.

Mrs. Clara Sublett, Michigan State, University of Va. Extension; Mr. Steve Hyer, B.S. W. Virginia University, J.V. football, Freshman basketball coach.

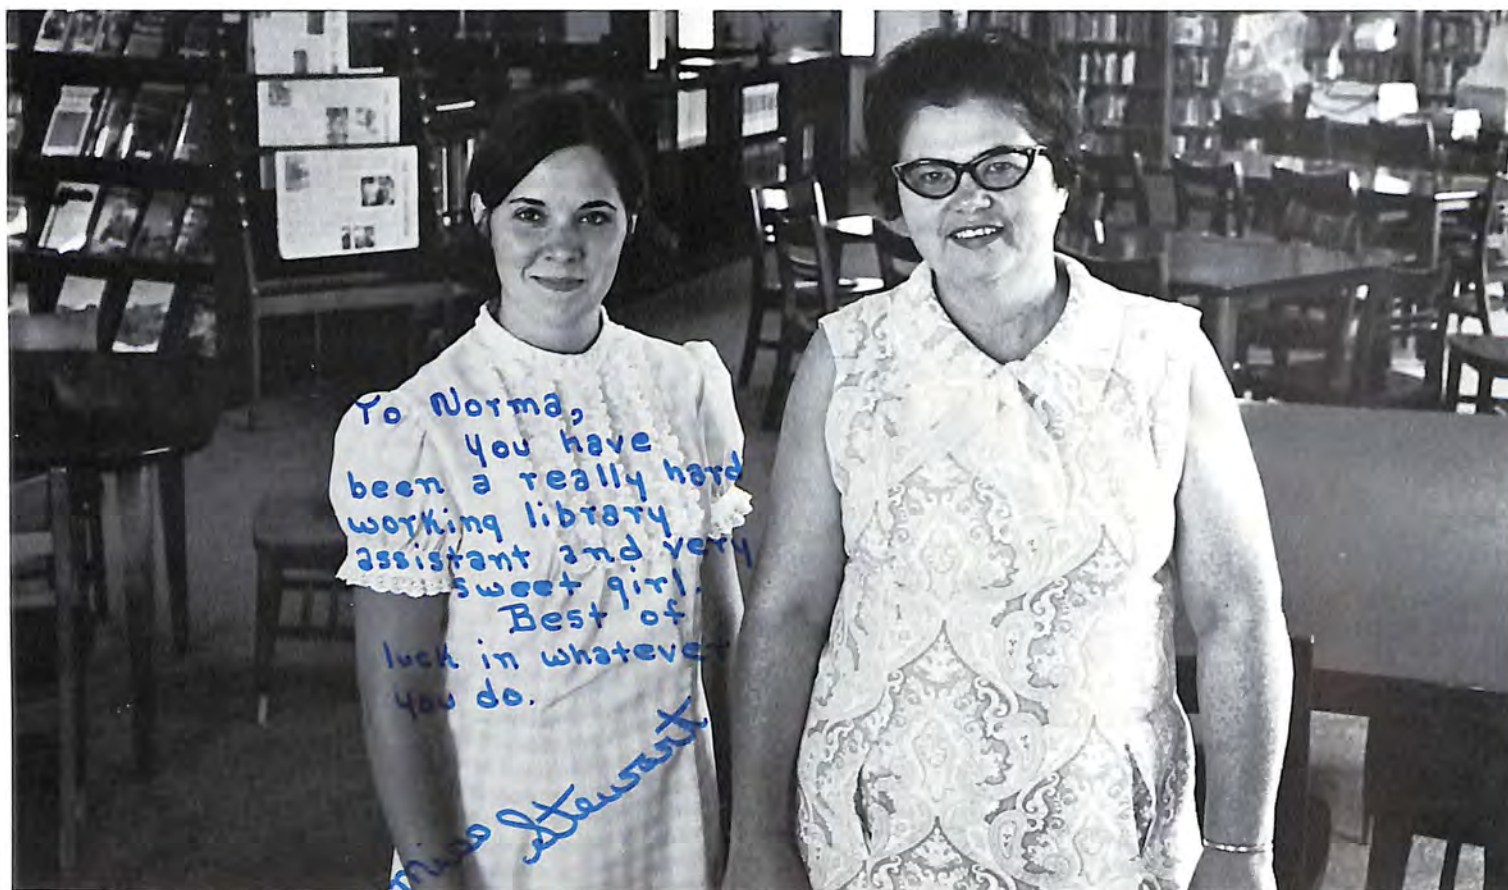

Skills Achieved By Drivers

Mr. Sublett arrives at school to begin a busy day.

Throughout the year the Driver's Education teachers emphasized to all students the need for good driving habits. In a short seven days, each student who took Driver's Education was given a strong background in driving skills that should make them more efficient drivers. These students were taught not only how to handle the car, but what to do in case an emergency should arise.

Through the help of the capable Driver's Education teachers, each student was given personal help in their individual needs.

Our two librarians, Miss Marilyn Stewart, B.A. West Virginia University; and Mrs. Kathryn Grizzard, B.S. Radford College, annual sponsor, keep our library running efficiently.

Library-Keep It Quiet

Supplying audio-visual aids, reference materials, and books, the library was indispensable to the students. Films, which were available, added the extra touch that made the classes more meaningful. The students were able to find information for reports and projects from the many encyclopedias and reference books in the library. Mrs. Grizzard and Miss Stewart gave extra help to the students who needed it.

Whether to read the latest magazine, to check out a book, or to do research work, the whole school benefited greatly from the services of the library.

Drafting-A Valuable Course

Mr. Carpenter, B.E. Eastern Illinois University, is helping his students develop new skills.

Mechanical Drawing or Drafting was an entirely different means of communication in industry; a language that covered both time and distance; a language that made modern technology possible.

In our Mechanical Drawing classes, we hoped to achieve a basic understanding of the fundamentals, techniques, and uses of this means of communication. Sketching, lettering, three view, and pictorial drawing comprised the earlier problems attempted. The latter part of the single year course was used to explore in the area of architectural study, planning and designing.

Mrs. Edna Follmar, B.A. Roanoke College; Mr. Jerry C. Dupree, B.S., V.P.I., M.E.D., U.Va., Am.U.; Mrs. Anna W. Johnson, A.B. Va. State College, Keyette sponsor

Guidance Offers Help

Guidance in planning high school curricula and education after high school was essential to most students. For every student, a schedule of studies was made up each year. This schedule took into account both the students' needs and abilities and his future plans. Such schedules were correlated to the three high school curricula offered; thus, each student was able to meet the requirements for a college preparatory, commercial, or general diploma.

Guidance counselors often recommended courses that pertained to a student's special interests. Taking such courses enabled one to formulate a picture of his vocational possibilities. Specific courses might help an indecisive student to choose a career. In addition, free vocational aptitude tests were often made available to seniors.

There was further assistance available for college-bound students. Educational development and college board tests indicated one's general areas of weakness and ability. Counselors helped a student to select the college or colleges which fitted his needs and whose requirements he met, to apply for admission, and to seek the necessary grants, aids, or scholarships.

Mrs. Follmar makes a telephone call during a busy day.

Mr. Dupree, as senior guidance counselor, sorts student information sheets for his files.

Mrs. Johnson offers valuable advice to anyone seeking counseling.

Service Staffs Appreciated

Our cafeteria workers are: Mrs. Margaret Moran (manager); Mrs. Doris Blankenship; Mrs. Bernice McDaniel; Mrs. Freda Blankenship; Mrs. Kathleen Lawson.

Mike Glass works hard as a cafeteria assistant.

Probably the hardest working people at Glenvar were the maintenance staffers. In the cafeteria, the ladies prepared hot meals to build strong bodies. The custodial staff kept the building heated and clean, and they also managed to keep the shrubs and the lawns in order. To our cafeteria and custodial staffs, Glenvar would like to say "thank you."

Mr. Irving Thomas, head of the custodial staff, poses from his numerous duties.

The services of our maid, Mrs. Edith Miller, make her indispensable to the students here at GHS.

I am a Senior . . . no, I guess that now I should say I was a Senior. But where has all the time gone? It went by so fast. Those first few days were days of adaptation. When an announcement was made to Seniors—that meant me! Lower classmen were made to respect us—stand up—here we are . . . Seniors. Who were the biggest idiots in the cafeteria? US! Almighty seniors.

But what did it all really mean? This was our year for final recognition. Homecoming Queen and King, Snow Court, Sweetheart Court, and all the other formalities. Plans for colleges had to be definite—no more wild dreams. All the dances, football games, basketball—I watched for the last time as a student. So many activities—which in reality were trivial—but to us they were the greatest ever!

And now, after the prom . . . what?

Graduation. So sad—so solemn—so sentimental. It's time to go, gang! We're leaving our dear Alma Mater. With us we'll take a treasury of memories that will never stray from our minds . . .

"In coming years to the Highlands we'll return,
Our loyalty will grow and ever burn."

Juniors Carolyn Wells and Sharon Glass laugh at the antics of Dave Cole.

Nearing the end of my secondary education and encouraged by past experiences, I began to realize the importance of my last two years of high school. I set out to make this year one of the best.

I survived my first tries at college boards and began to think seriously about applying to colleges.

The class of '71 met the problems that have faced past classes as they worked on Junior Projects. To meet the financial obligations, there were the doughnut sales, Junior class play, "Miss Groovy Teen" contest, and other money making projects.

The highlight of the '69-'70 school year was the Junior-Senior Prom. I was host to the Seniors. The prom was beautiful and a great success.

The coming of the rings in May symbolized the approach of my Senior year.

I look back on my Sophomore year as the most spirited year I have spent. I took part in making posters and signs to boost spirit at games, and I realized that there was greater participation of the students.

I was a part of another worthwhile project. My class had student directories published; and the students appreciated this because it gave them a chance to "get-to-know" one another better.

With a second year of a foreign language, biology, and geometry behind me, I heaved a sigh of relief.

I felt as if I had climbed a mountain this year. There was so much I had done, yet so much left to do! With my Junior year approaching, bringing the tedious task of giving a prom, and my senior year bringing plans of college, I could not slack up. I looked upon my next two years with determination, hope, and anticipation.

This was my eighth grade year! As I walked into GHS that early September morning, many questions ran through my mind. Was I really in high school? Was that great big boy a senior? Would I be able to meet the challenges of high school?

Then I became so busy I did not have time to doubt my ability. There were ball games and pep rallies which I attended and cheered. There were club meetings to attend and evaluation committee meetings after school. Then there were my studies. It took a lot of time and much concentrated studying, but I managed to pass everything.

As I look back now, I realize that I have grown with GHS. It was a year of fun and hard work. But I know it has been a year I'll always remember.

Class Of '75

Class Of '75 Experiences

This year was the year of "firsts" for me. It was the first year of attending a high school. It all seemed so hard at first, but finally I was able to adjust. Even the race against the clock between classes became easier after a while. For the first time I could attend athletic events and become a member of the high school crowd. I found that the games became more meaningful to me. I was able to join clubs and participate in them. I had a different teacher for every class this year which was really a change. I got to yell and cheer in Pep Rallies for the first time. It was a real thrill. I felt "bigger" now that I was in high school.

CONQUEST! This was the cry echoed by senior cheerleaders at pep rally.

Cheered In The Rain, And

Mrs. Pitts, the cheerleader sponsor, helps the girls root for G.H.S.

"They cheered in the sunshine . . . They laughed every day . . ." This song symbolizes our cheerleaders who have cheered through victories and many defeats. Under the guidance of their sponsor Mrs. Judith Pitts, the cheerleaders have practiced every week, cheered at every sport, marched in parades, supported the monogram club, sponsored the Homecoming Dance and have done their best to raise school spirit.

We were very proud of our squad when they received the Blue Ridge District Cheerleading Trophy last spring for the most outstanding squad during tournaments. They also brought back a blue ribbon and a second place trophy for final competition at National Cheerleading Camp last summer. With unflinching enthusiasm, the GHS cheerleading squad confirmed the motto, "We shall overcome," in every competitive sport.

Junior Varsity Team

Always smiling and enthusiastic, the Junior Varsity cheerleaders capably supported their JV teams and all other athletic events. Their year started by going to camp at Ferrum Junior College. Under the capable leadership of Paula Webster, their head, they placed in each competition. Then came the afternoons of practice until 5:00 and the tedious hours of practice at home. But all the work paid off, when they stood in front of the stands and led the students in cheers for the JV teams. There were also pep rallies to practice for and varsity games to support. As the year ended, they could see their work and effort resulted in their aim of a school united and abundant in school spirit.

For the first time the boys who participated in football attended a camp. They spent a week at Smith Mountain Educational Center and gained much valuable experience.

In gaining this experience the boys lost something else. When they returned from camp, none of the players had any hair. In a spirited moment, the entire team had voluntarily had their heads shaved. These haircuts carried the boys throughout the entire season.

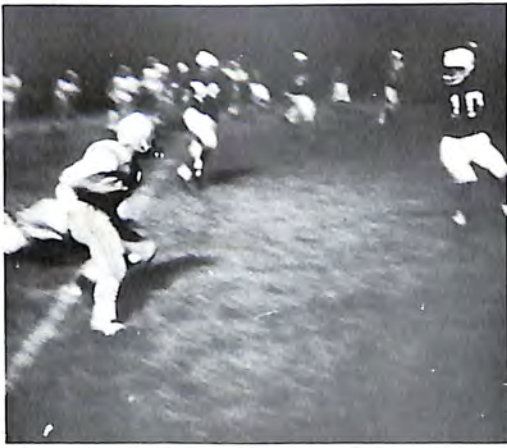

Head coach, Mr. Richard Pitts, and assistants, Mr. Berkley Lucas, Mr. Jerry Strong, and Mr. Steve Hyer worked with the boys and guided them through the season. The captains this year were Steve Hash and Benny Helmandollar.

The Highlanders had a very rigid schedule and played well. There was always a great team effort and much spirit during the 1969-70 football season.

The highlight of the season was an outstanding victory over James River for our very first Homecoming game.

The Highlanders ended the season with a 3-7-0 record.

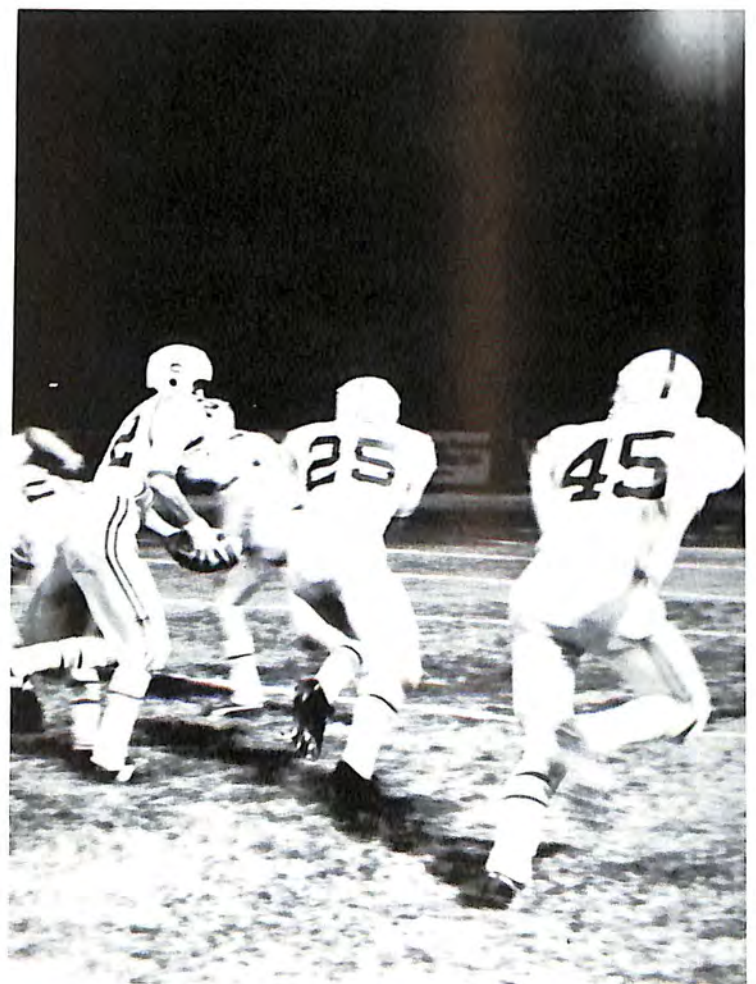

Coaches Lucas and Pitts confer with team members during half-time activities.

Captains Benny Helmandollar and Steve Hash hope to win the toss to receive the kickoff.

The Jay Vee Football Team

With the leadership of head coach Mr. Steve Hyer, the Junior Varsity football team was able to work together and gain much valuable experience in football. Although they did not have a winning season, the boys practiced hard and made a fine showing.

By using different captains for every game, the boys on the team had a chance to lead the team in their effort and hard work. This training in J.V. football will help the players when they go into Varsity football.

At the close of the season, the J.V.'s had a record of 1-5-0.

Through many scrimmages and practices, the Freshman football team ended with an equal record of three wins and three losses. Under the guidance of their coach, Mr. Richard Myers, the boys practiced determinedly each afternoon for several hours with the hopes of a victory for the coming game. It did not always end that way, but they gained more experience and knowledge of their sport. Mr. Myers says of his team, "They are real fighters!"

Their experience will prove most valuable when the boys move up the ladder to play Junior Varsity Basketball. The boys had a commendable 9-4 record to show for their hard work. Although little recognition went to the Baby Highlanders, perhaps they will know the fruits of victory as Varsity players in the coming years.

The top wrestler of the team was Russ Amrhein at 155 pounds, who suffered only one defeat. Many underclassmen, who promise a great potential for the team, also had fine seasons.

Mr. Jones, sponsor of the S.C.A., reads over the constitution.

The SCA began its year by welcoming new students to the halls of Glenvar High. A tea was given to the faculty and administration during teacher's pre-school work days. Homeroom representatives were elected and the long year began. During October the SCA sponsored the annual Magazine sale, making a profit of seven hundred dollars. Through the Roanoke Valley High School Relations Council, the SCA participated in Student Exchange Day. In December, the SCA float was entered in the Salem and Roanoke parades.

"The Grinch That Stole Christmas" won first prize in the Salem parade. In February, the SCA appeared on Classroom Kwiz, represented by Benny Helmandollar, Suzanne Jobe, and Kevin Whitlock. Also in February, the SCA sponsored the Sweetheart Dance. The Sweetheart Court, elected by the student body, was presented at the dance. In March, the SCA helped the administration with a most important project, the Evaluation. In the early spring, new SCA officers were elected. The new officers attended the State Annual SCA Convention in Richmond. Throughout the year the SCA took several surveys on such issues as the Activities Schedule and the use of Drugs.

The SCA's goals were to unite the student body in every possible aspect, to promote good will among all concerned, and most important, to make the students aware and encourage participation in their Student Government.

F. T. A. -- A First At G. H. S.

The basic purpose of the Future Teacher's of America was to assist students in examining career opportunities in participation and exploratory activities in the field of education, and in studying and being involved in educational issues.

This year the F.T.A. was under the supervision of Miss Carol Altizer and Miss Nancy Robison.

This being the club's first year, the F.T.A. accomplished many things. In the fall, a tea was given for the teachers. Then, for National Education Week, the F.T.A. sponsored an assembly.

One of the main projects that the club sponsored was a teacher aide program. The students in F.T.A. spent their study halls at the elementary school or at the high school helping out teachers. They did different jobs such as grading papers, running errands, and eventually taking over classes.

The Future Teachers of America were represented in Richmond in December. The representatives were Debbie Foley, Karen Dame, and Ann Richardson. They attended the National Education Association convention.

The F.T.A. is one of the firsts in the 1969-1970 season.

This year's Glenvar Highlander Band was the best ever. Under the continuing direction of Wilbur E. Our band placed one member in All State Band (Sarah Miller) and members in All County Band (David Pugh, Lee Hale, Gerald Toby, Suzanne Jobe, Patricia Forelines, Danny Mullins, Robert Downey, Jim Merideth, David Cox, Butch Hilton, Katrina Bateman, and Larry Yates). Advanced Choir

Phyllis Coleman, President of choir, welcomes students to assembly.

Presents Play

The Advanced Chorus is a knowledgeable and versatile group of upper classmen who have had experience as performers or students of private musical instruction. Each member is required to pass a rigorous entrance examination which encompasses all areas of vocal performance. Each student should be able to sing well independently and in parts.

We take pride in the Advanced Choir because this is the highest goal a vocal student at GHS can attain. Dressed in our own green and gold we do what we do better than any other group of its kind at Glenvar. Our activities include a cappella and accompanied performers for all seasons, assemblies and community service projects.

It is the aim of the music faculty and music students at Glenvar High School to promote the performances of good music to entertain ourselves and our friends and to encourage a cooperation among students by singing and playing musical instruments. During our performances, we represent Glenvar High School and recognize that a good performance is indicative of our knowledge and understanding of music literature, the Music department consists of two choruses and two bands which meet every day and smaller groups who rehearse after school and on extracurricular.

Needlework Club -- New Addition

This is the first year for the Needlework Club at Glenvar High. Membership is open to all who are interested. The club is very informal, the emphasis being placed on getting together and exchanging ideas, information, and skills concerning the various types of needlework.

Most girls have knitted. Several have made knitted bedroom shoes, and some have worked on hats and scarves. Two have completed knitted ponchos with fringe. A few girls have learned to crochet and are working on hats. The girls themselves feel that the club has been a great success.

Music Department Expands

The Junior Chorus was organized in September, 1969. The class consisted of eight boys and forty five girls. This class acted as a "feeder" group for the advanced chorus. Students of the Junior Chorus studied the foundations of music theory, harmony, and history. They also performed and were responsible for knowing and practicing performance etiquette. The Junior Chorus participated in the Christmas Assembly and presented a program for Glenvar Elementary School.

Deadlines -- Chaotic & Hectic

The yearbook staff worked many hours to prepare the 69-70 Crusader. At times it seemed impossible to be missing so many pictures in a layout. It was also hard to believe that any more ads could be sold, after being turned down so many times. But with the help, encouragement, and a little push from the editor, Debbie McGuire, business manager Cathy Martin, and our two sponsors, Mrs. Newell and Mrs. Grizzard, the pages were finished. The pictures and ads appeared before the nerve-racking deadlines.

With a deadline behind and another before them, the staff looked eagerly at a calendar for a holiday. There had to be some historical event worth a party!

Editor Debbie McGuire and Paragon representative, Cal Gibson, discuss additional pages for the annual.

Phyllis Tingler, Robin Richardson, Cathy Martin-business manager, Pat Huffman, and Gayle Spraker send out statements for ads.

Connie Hickson, Connie Frith, Dana Jones, Debbie McGuire, and Sharon Glass look at new ideas for layouts.

Steve Leftwich, Debbie Hatcher, Ellen Richardson, Robin Richardson, Jan Mills, Debbie Foley, and Robin Key compose the sports staff.

Sponsors Mrs. Newell and Mrs. Grizzard check accuracy for the Crusader.

Jan Mills, Patty Rhodes, Marsha Shelor, and Robin Key add finishing touches to copy.

The newspaper staff, under the supervision of their sponsor, Mrs. Perry, worked many hard hours to put "The Thistle" to press. The editor, Mike Connor, added the important stamina and encouragement which was necessary for the publishment of the G.H.S. school newspaper.

This year the Thistle staff worked in the activities room during 4th period to write articles, compose editorials, and decide which complaints and "letters to the editor" would be published. A new column this year was "Coming Attractions", which featured sarcastic quips concerning the school and social happenings.

But all was not hard work: Christmas parties with a surprise visit from Santa Claus (none other than the editor, Mike Conner) and Joan Pace helping other staff members with Trigonometry.

The Bagpipe is the literary-art magazine written, illustrated, and published entirely by the students of Glenvar High School. Like the musical instrument, the Bagpipe strives to emit new and different sounds of creativity.

Material for the magazine came from English and art classrooms or was submitted to the staff by students of Glenvar High. Poems short stories, and essays came together to constitute the literary part of the magazine.

This year our staff completed their fourth annual magazine and sent a representative to the SIPA convention in Athens, Georgia for the third consecutive year. Our representative was Vickie Lambert. The Bagpipe staff also sponsored a hop in January.

Membership in the Foreign Language League was limited to students studying a foreign language or those who had completed the foreign language requirement. Several guest speakers entertained the club members and informed them in greater depth about the respective countries that were being studied. A Christmas party was held at which the members decorated the halls with posters of Christmas customs from different countries all over the world. The F.L.L. tried to familiarize its members with the importance of foreign language as a means of communication and the differences between our North American culture and those cultures of other countries.

President Paula Price talks about future plans.

Before the meeting begins, Honor Society members talk with friends.

The Senior Honor Society plays an important part in the academic and extra-curricular activities here at Glenvar. It is a national society, composed of juniors and seniors who excel in scholarship, leadership, service, and character.

In September, in a special assembly, the senior members inducted forty juniors and seniors for membership in the organization. As a Christmas project, the Honor Society adopted a welfare family. Toys, food, and clothing were taken to this family to give them a perfect Christmas. A dance was given in March by the Senior and Junior Honor Societies. At graduation, the senior members were given honor cords to distinguish them as a member of the National Senior Honor Society.

The International Thespian Society had its beginning points by acting, working on props, lighting, and ning at G.H.S. this year after earning enough points by acting, working on props, lighting and make-up to become members, nearly twenty-five students were installed last fall.

The Thespians had several projects during the year, including a skit opening the assembly for the annual S. C. A. magazine drive. The first large project of the year was a three-act play, Night of January 16th, a murder story by Ayn Rand. They jointly sponsored a musical, L'il Abner, with the choir. To end a successful year, the Thespians presented a one-act play at the S. C. A. carnival.

The Monogram Club consists of students who have worked hard and have the honor of wearing the Glenvar Varsity "G". Among this chosen group are the "tuff" members of our athletic teams who have put forth the most effort, outstanding band members, and even the spirited, hardworking group known as the cheerleaders. The Monogram Club carries out several athletic activities. The main money making project is during the athletic season of basketball. Members of the Monogram Club are frequently seen selling concession at these games. The proceeds and results from the majority of their activities and hard work go for the purchasing of new letter jackets and other athletic equipment.

The Fellowship of Christian Athletes is an organization of boys who concern themselves with the promotion of Christian ideals within the school and community. The Future Homemakers of America began the year with a meeting in the fall. Under the guidance of sponsors, Miss Tate and Mrs. Cobble, the girls planned debates, speakers, and parties. The highlight of the year was a visit by a bridal consultant from Smartwear Irving Saks. She brought bridal gowns and accessories to show the girls. Mr. Davis, a marriage counselor, spoke on early marriages. There was a reporter from Roanoke World-News who did an article on the girls who were engaged. In class, the students learned how to sew, cook, and care for a child. In the advanced classes, the students learned to tailor suits and capes. The Home Ec. III students also gave a Christmas tea for the entire faculty. We commend our Future Homemakers for a very successful year.

Debating Boosts Scholarships

The Debating Team, in its second year of existence, offered Glenvar students challenging, intellectual, and speaking opportunities in inter-scholastic debate.

A GHS debater must first be a speaker. He must present his facts, attempting to persuade his audience to accept his point of view.

He must also be a fighter. He must acquire the ability to withstand heavy criticism of defeat, and then, to recover and rebuild his argument under pressure.

In debating, winning is not the sole objective. A debater derives his satisfaction from knowing that he is an expert in his field, and that he possesses the ability to argue his convictions with skill and force.

The Glenvar High School Interact Club is a service club and a division of the Rotary Club of America.

The officers for the year 69-70 were Charlie Webster, president; Steve Hash, vice-president; and David Cox, secretary-treasurer. To strengthen the service relationship of the community, they met with the Rotary Club of Salem and the Interact Club of Andrew Lewis for dinner. In the spring, the members sponsored a road rally, which was a great success.

Science Club Divides

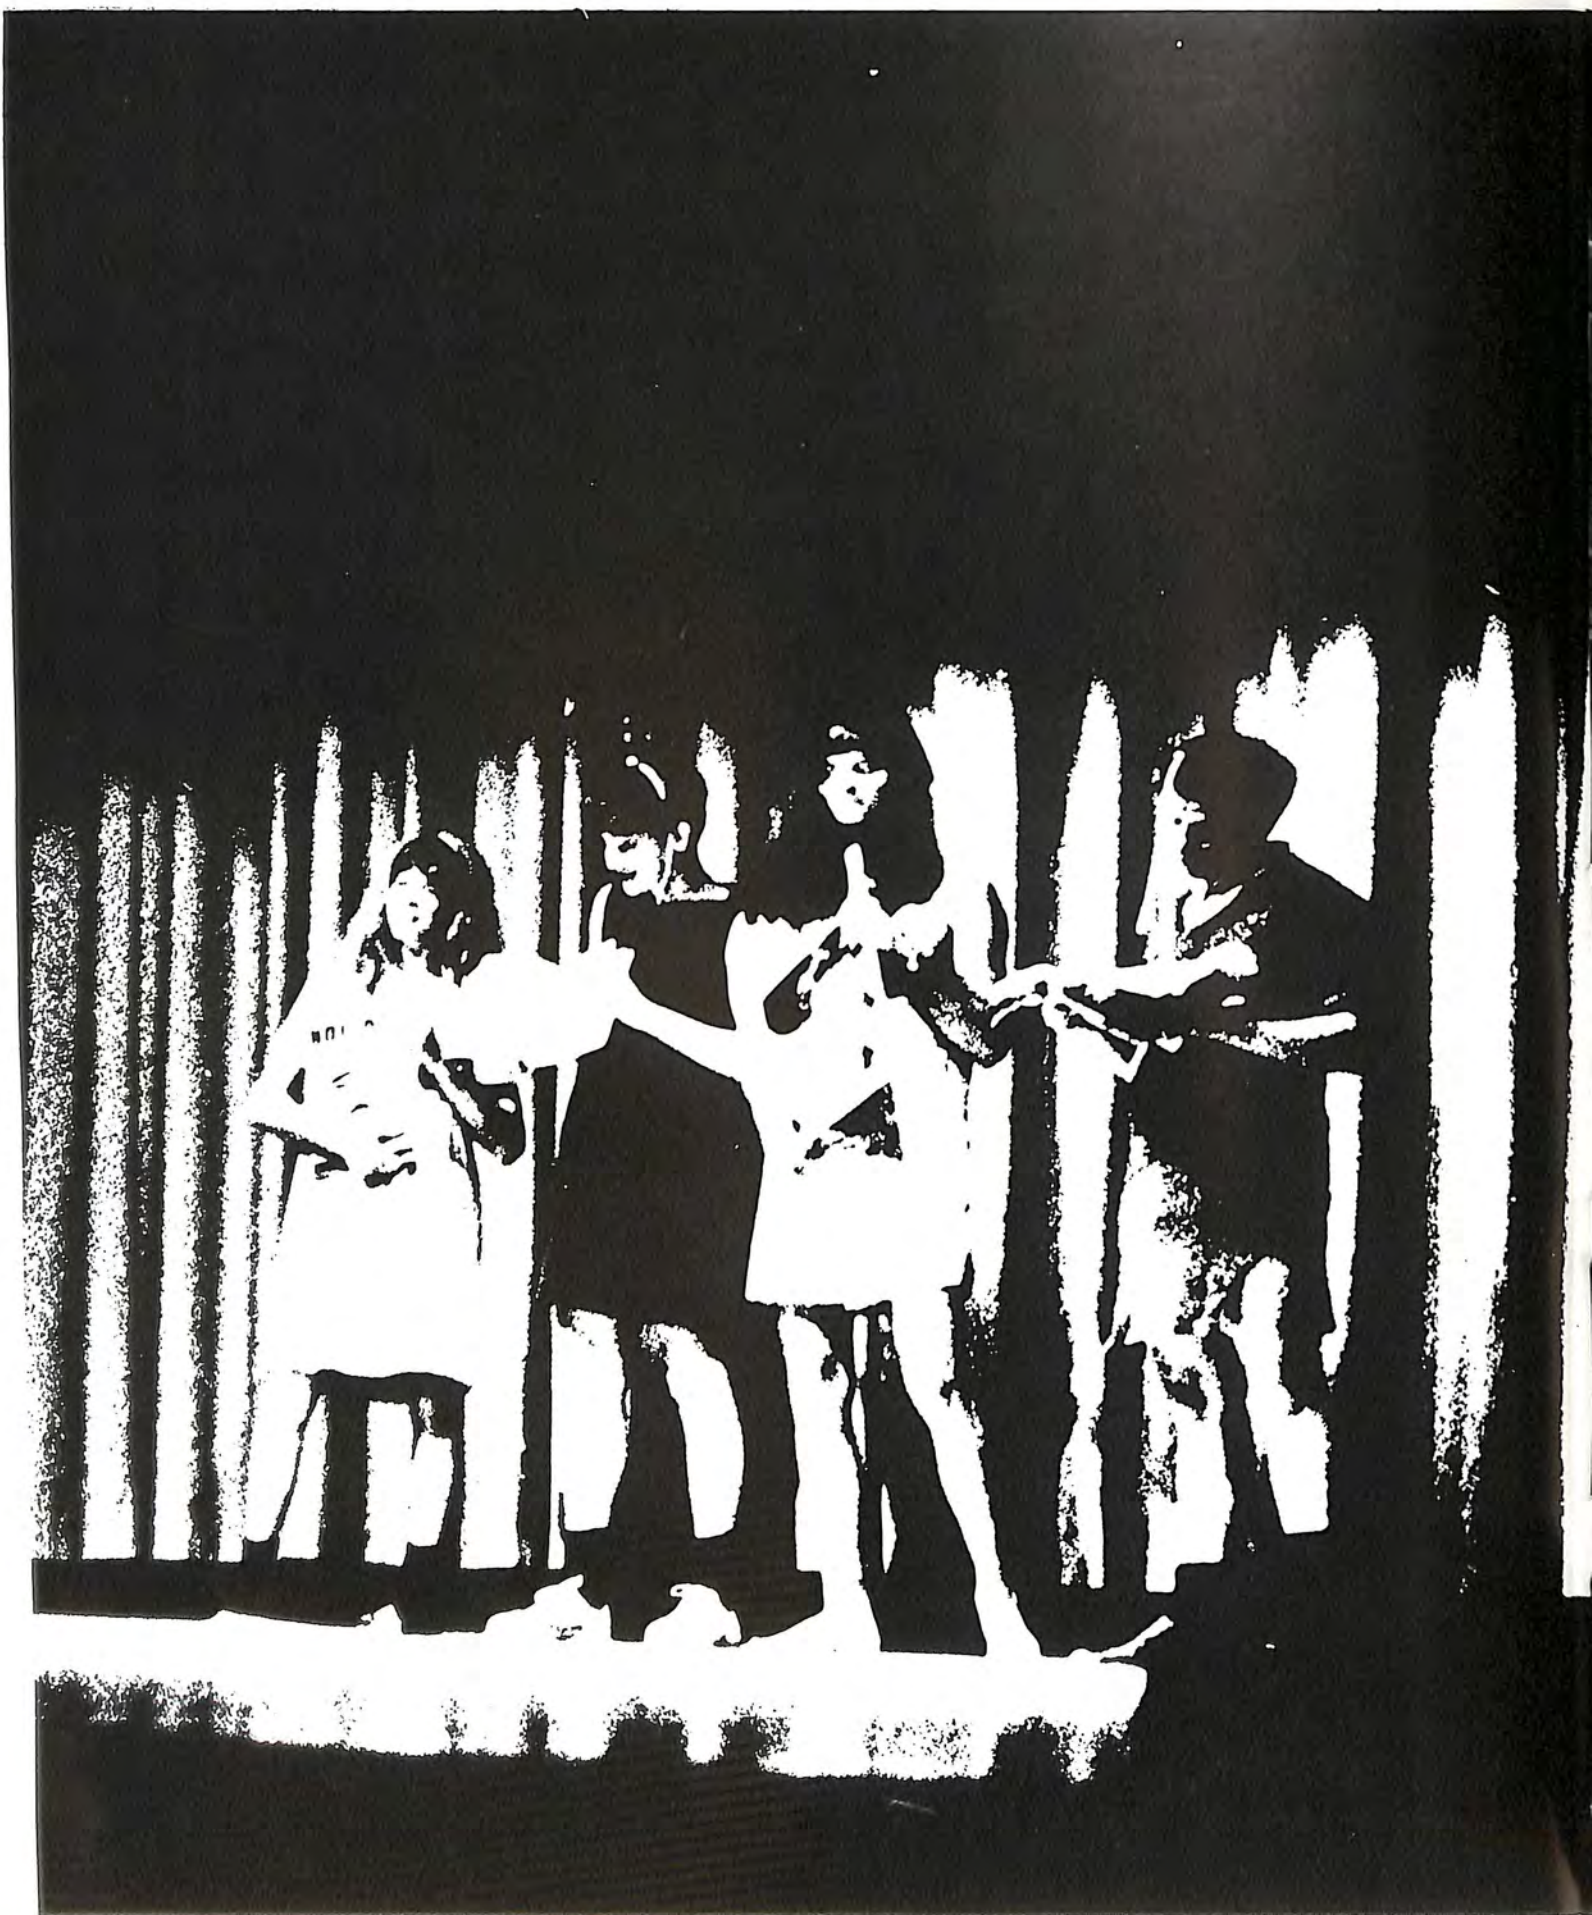

The Glenvar High School Science Club has continued to grow since its organization in the fall of 1964 as the oldest club in Glenvar. This year, due to the increased membership, it became necessary to divide the club into a junior and senior division. The club makes every effort to increase the knowledge, skills, and understanding of science to all interested students through open lab nights, field trips, school science fair, guest speakers, visiting scientists, and participation in county, state, and national activities dealing with scientific experimentation. The club is affiliated with the Virginia Junior Academy of Science and the Future Scientists of America, the national youth organization sponsored by the National Science Teachers Association.

October 31, 1969 marked the last of the "firsts" for our school. We were honored with our very first homecoming. The members of the court were chosen by the Senior class and the student body selected the Queen and Maid of Honor. The court was introduced and the Queen was crowned during halftime of our homecoming game. The victory over James River made the night an even greater success for the members of the court. The following evening the court and the alumni were honored at our homecoming dance. Both nights together made final history for the beginning years of Glenvar High School.

As The Year Ends Students

Leave With Many Memories

Memories Of ...

With An Undying Spirit Of Victory -- We Have Overcome.

It seems incredible to believe that 180 school days, which mark another completed year, have flown by us so fast. With an undying spirit of victory, we trudged through rain, sun, sleet, and snow to our dear old green and gold on the hill.

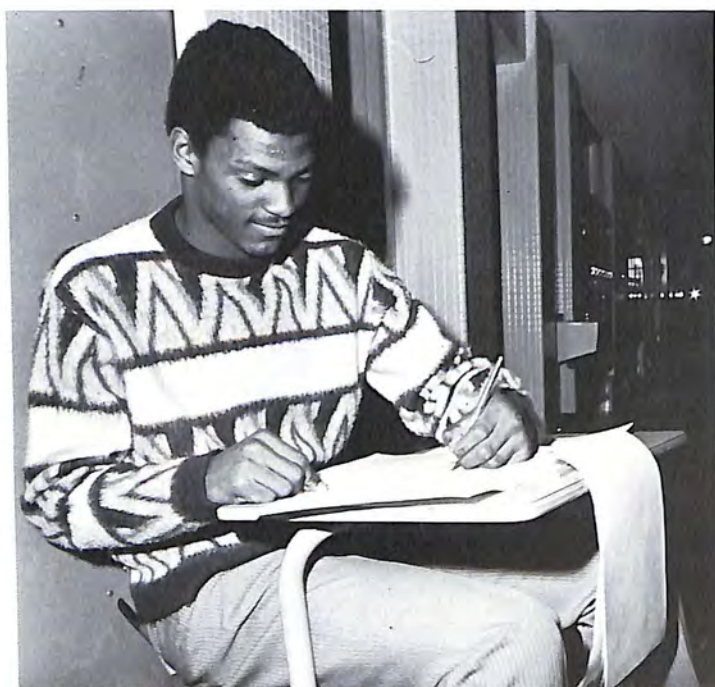

And what a year it was! The thrill of our first homecoming was great. The football games, the dances, the formation of new clubs, the breaking in of student teachers, talent shows, annual parties, the crisis of the student parking lot, evaluation, the wrestling tournament, and all the other things—we came through smiling! Why? Because we had that certain something way down deep that constantly reminded us, "We shall overcome."

And we did.

The majority of students are to return for another year at Glenvar. This is not true for some however, for they are being graduated from the first major success in life to the first major responsibility—their future.

So now, at the close of this 69-70 year, Highlanders will all unite and remember, "We shall overcome" as our motto for not only this past year, but for all years to come.

Another hectic year is over. The Crusader staff would like to thank the following people without whom the 1969-1970 Crusader could never have been published: Mr. Art Cournoyer of Gentry Studios, Roanoke Photo Finish, the Crusader Sponsors, Mrs. Carolyn Newell and Mrs. Kathryn Grizzard, the Administration, especially Mr. Cal Gibson, and most important—the student body.

LA FIN!

'70 CRUSADER SUPPLEMENT

Glenvar High School
Salem, Virginia

Spring came to Glenvar in a variety of emotions and with numerous activities. Students participated and attended the S.C.A. carnival, the Senior Talent Show, Spring sports, the musical production of L'il Abner, and the annual awards Assembly. There was the arrival of the '71 class rings, measurements for caps and gowns, SAT testing, and the presentation of the annual. There were memories of the Junior-Senior Prom, which was the highlight of the year. With all of this behind, the Seniors were now ready for graduation. It was a time for excited voices, a time for cries, and a time for good-byes. The year was over.

Mrs. Hash, secretary, writes receipts for Senior caps and gowns.

Don Barnett and Danny Gearheart keep busy in drafting class.

David Carrol works in the machine shop.

RCEC Offers

Libby Briggs is busy operating the key-punch machine.

The Roanoke County Educational Center offered various courses to prepare the students for future occupations. Nursing, cosmetology, masonry, data processing, and drafting were only a few of the many courses that were offered to the students. No matter what field they entered, all the students learned trades so that they were able to successfully enter the world of business as skilled laborers.

"Days of Wine and Roses" -

The Kallabash, from North Carolina, furnished the music for "Days of Wine and Roses".

Theme Of 1970 Jr.-Sr. Prom

"Welcome everyone to the 1970 Jr.-Sr. Prom! As we are here tonight, we look back on all the memories we have had of our Seniors. We think of all the disappointments, honors, and joys they have brought to Glenvar. And so, with these thoughts in mind, we dedicate the 1970 Prom to our Seniors, hoping that they will always remember those 'Days of Wine and Roses'."

With this, the second GHS Junior-Senior Prom started. Music was provided by the Kallabash Corporation from North Carolina. The figure, consisting of Senior and Junior class officers, had the first dance. The second dance was dedicated to the Seniors. The evening was very successful.

The romantic atmosphere of the prom influences Peggy Mullins and Randy Wright.

Track Team Gets New Name:

The 1970 Track team brought much honor, publicity, and pride to GHS. After winning the Blue Ridge District championship, the team became champions at the State 1-B track meet held in Blacksburg. Eight first place awards were won at this meet and four new records were set by the team.

The first indoor track team this year also set many records. They won the Southern High School indoor track championship and the 440 relay team placed third against the top teams in Eastern United States.

Benny Helmandollar and Danny Gearheart, the most outstanding trackmen on the team, were selected by the local sports writers as Best Sprinter and Best Field Event Man in Times-land. This was the first time both of these awards had been given to the same school.

Benny Helmandollar demonstrates the form of a State Champion runner.

"I-B State Champions-1970"

Andy Gladden prepares to take off.

Nick Perez stays ahead in the mile race.

Tennis team: Bobby Martin, Buddy Hill, Roger Booker, Mike Gilmer, Danny Long, Lynn Rushing, Jackie Kanode, Reg Black, Danny Harris.

Young Tennis Team Improves

Coach John Allen, Buddy Hill, and Reg Black contentedly watch home match.

Under the leadership of Coach John Allen, the tennis team made many improvements this year over their previous records. The completion of the new tennis courts provided a home court for the team. A new member, Jackie Kanode, was the number one man. He and Reggie Black were chosen Most Valuable Players of the team.

Golf-New Sport At GHS

This year Glenvar was represented in another sport with its first golf team. This sport, coached by Mr. Eddie Jones, was very successful, with the team completing a 5-5 season. In May, the team went to the state tournament at New Market. Bill Gibbs defeated over a hundred other players, and brought back the state championship trophy as the No. 1 man in the State.

Ray Watson was awarded Most Valuable Golfer of the 1970 team.

State Champion, Bill Gibbs

Baseball Team: back row—Coach Davis, Jerry Conner, Melvin Poff, Danny Guard, Richard Crotts, Richard Reese, Reggie Poff, Ross Hale, Kenny Richardson, Coach Hyer. front row—Manager Chuck Hodges, Wayne Dillman, Jimmy Dodd, Sandy Hill, Jimmy Malone, Joe Williams, Mert Humphries, Roy Westmoreland, Alan Mitzdaffer, Mike Lucado, manager James Slate.

The baseball team was another one of the many firsts at Glenvar. Though the team was young, it showed great promise for future events. Co-captains Richard Reese and Ross Hale created the spirit and drive that often led the team to victory. Ross Hale was the leading hitter, and Roy Westmoreland was chosen as the most valuable player. The team ended its season with a 5-11 record.

Baseball Team Successful

Mert Humphries plays third base for GHS team.

Abner discusses the Sadie Hawkins' Day Race with his buddies.

L'il Abner-Spring Musical

Mammy tells Daisy, Marrin' Sam, and Earthquake McGoon about her dream.

L'il Abner, Glenvar's first spring musical, was presented by the Thespian Society and the Choir. All of the characters worked hard for every performance both in learning lines and making costumes. The main characters were portrayed by Debbie Furrow, Jimmy Jones, Connie Watkins, Curtis Tuttle, Buddy Keith, and Butch Hilton. On May 16, the Town of Salem declared a Sadie Hawkins' Day in honor of the play. L'il Abner was a success.

Earthquake McGoon brags to Marrin' Sam about his wrestling ability.

Anxious Seniors

Valedictorian Joan Pace receives diploma.

Senior Sponsors, Mrs. Perry and Miss Robison, give last minute instructions at Baccalaureate Service.

Eagerly Await Graduation

Senior class President, Maria Spangler.

Lynn Rushing, organist for graduation activities, waits as Mr. Crush calls for the Seniors during rehearsal.

June 5th, 1970 marked the end of high school for the class of '70. The graduation ceremony was held in the gym and Baccalaureate at First United Methodist Church in Salem. To all it meant the ending of an old life and the beginning of a new one. To some it meant higher education; to others, a job, and making it on their own.

Seniors move their tassels to the left as a symbol of being high school graduates.
