Respect: to consider worthy of high regard. Although the English definition of respect is simple, people related different qualities that they felt made up individuals that they most admired.

"My husband and dad because each has a mixture of sensitivity, commitment, and intelligence, and a sense of humor," said Mrs. Gail Price.

"I respect anyone who tries to walk through the parking lot in the afternoon with all of the crazy drivers who are out there trying to leave," said Jill Herskovitz.

Shannon Beard stated, "I guess I respect Mrs. Price the most because you can ask her anything and she will give you the answer straight. In other words, she isn't afraid to say what she feels."

"I respect George Jetson because he balances a tough work schedule with a strong family life while having wacky misadventures along the way!" replied Andrew McKnight.

"Rodney Dangerfield because no one else does," added Jonathon Willis.

"I respect John Lennon most because he was not afraid to do or say what he believed in," said Julie Koerner.

"Arnold Schwarzenegger because he is such a famous actor even though he can't talk," said Heather Munro.

"I respect Baryshnikov the most because of his determination," replied Kristen Davenport.

Saab stories

While driving down Chaparral Drive, she heard an awful, clattering noise. Suddenly, steam shot up from the hood of her Honda Prelude and, after ten feet of fierce, jerking jumps, her car stopped dead. Even worse, it stopped right next to the school! What would students do if their car broke down?

"I'd pray that my dad wouldn't kill me!" said Paula Brown.

"If my car broke down, I'd leave it and hitch a ride with a good looking guy that came by," replied Suzanne Barbour.

Stacey Kesler said, "I would put a for sale sign on it and then go home and go back to bed."

"If my car broke down I'd be so embarrassed I'd just hide in my car," said Tiffany Smith.

"I'd cry," stated Melissa Click.

"I'd flag down the cutest guy that drove by for help," said Sheri Jones.

"If my car broke down, I'd put in a good tape and go to sleep," said Julie Rutherford.

Fan-tastic

Just as Pepsi and Coke were known by almost everyone, the names Tom Cruise and Christie Brinkley were recognizable in most households, even though neither had ever visited there. Where would you take Tom Cruise or Christie Brinkley if they came to Roanoke?

"If Tom Cruise came to Roanoke, I'd take him to Mill Mountain Zoo," stated Jennifer Morris.

"I'd take him to my house! I love Tom Cruise!!" said Mrs. Marilyn Grubbs.

"I'd take Christie Brinkley to the Bristol Hotel room 515," stated Nelson Carter.

"I'd take Tom Cruise to the wildest party he has ever been to!" said Lee Carol.

"Since there's nothing to do in Roanoke, I'd take him home with me and keep him," added Tammy Weeks.

"Certainly nowhere in Roanoke," commented Andrea McClellan.

"If Christie Brinkley came to Roanoke, we'd cruise Williamson Road in my Nova," said Trenor Williams.

"If Christie Brinkley came to Roanoke, we'd take a drive on the Parkway and run out of gas," said David Weaver.

"I'd take her to the Texas Tavern," replied Paul Zahorchak.

"If Christie Brinkley came to Roanoke, we'd cruise Williamson Road in my Nova," said Trenor Williams.

"I'd take him to La Maison for a romantic dinner," commented Tracy Rothschild.

"I'd take him to eat crackers in my bed," said Amy Mosebach.

Shawn Newman added, "I would take her out someplace nice to eat and then back to my house to watch Top Gun."

During October, Wall Street experienced the biggest drop of the Dow Jones Industrial Average in history. But the 508 point one-day crash didn't affect the prices of market goods immediately.

Happy Meals at McDonald's were still $2.59 and gasoline stabilized at the price of $1.01 per gallon for super-unleaded. Students also found that the prices of the items they were accustomed to didn't change. The school lunch went up to $1.20 for the usual pizza found that a medium size tube of Crest could be bought for $1.59 and spiral notebooks cost 37 cents.

A trip to Tanglewood Mall proved that an average Esprit sweater cost $60 and a pair of Guess jeans cost $48. A leather jacket, the new fad, could be bought for $250.

The popular magazine "Seventeen" cost $1.50. On a Saturday night a trip to the movies cost $4 per person. For those lucky enough to own one, a popular car, the Nissan Pulsar, cost $10,000.

B lushing

After frantically searching for his classroom on the first day of school a sophomore rushed and tripped into the room he thought was his. When, after what seemed an eternity of laughter, he got up his courage and lifted his head. To his horror, he found a room full of seniors.

"The most embarrassing thing I've ever done was when I was playing JH volleyball, playing against our archrivals, and I thought the play was dead, I turned to hug my teammate, and the ball came back over and landed where I was supposed to be standing," said Emily Umberger.

"I asked a girl out but called her by the wrong name," stated Jamie Maraccini.

Jay Gentry commented, "At a basketball game one time, I had to use the bathroom and when I came back into the stands after walking around for awhile I realized my fly was down!"

"The most embarrassing thing I did was when my brother and I were at a store, I knocked over a huge stack of cans," said David Schultz.

"I fell out of my chair in the lunch room," stated Wes Spruill.

Rob Sparks commented, "I sat in the wrong foreign language class for 15 minutes."

"I tried to get into the wrong hotel room ... there were people in it," said Bonnie Moorhead.

Part of the fantasy of movies was imagining oneself playing the part of the hero or heroine. If students could be in any movie — what would they be in?

Karen de Almeida said, "I'd be in 'The Outsiders' because they have the best looking cast I have ever seen in my life!"

"I'd be in 'St. Elmo's Fire' because it has really hot guys in it, and it's cool how the whole group stays good friends," commented Monica Suarez.

"I'd be in 'Bachelor Party' because of the major party in it," replied Glenn Verity.

Mike Caudill stated, 'Breakfast Club' because it ruled."

"'Old Yeller' because I like a movie with a happy ending," said Mike Schlanger.

"'Pee Wee's Big Adventure' because they made a song about it, he dances good, and he's a cool dude," added Greg Bly.

"'About Last Night,' and you know why," replied Joey Mason.

The movie Tracey Proctor would like to be in is, "The Big Chill" because the music is great and all of your friends would get to be in it."

"'Dirty Dancing' because the movie is great, and I love dancing," replied Ron Willard.

Patrick Swayze," said Betsy Willcox.

Benji Tull said the movie he would like to be in was, "The Untouchables' because I like Al Capone."

"'Raiders of the Lost Ark' — I like adventure and would like to be a hero," stated Stuart Noell.

"'Deep Throat' — I like the action, plus it would be a challenging acting debut," said Mike Richardson.

The movie Amy Burns would like to be in was "The Princess Bride" — I would definitely be the Princess."

"In 'Head' because it's the Monkees' movie," said Chrissy Hall.

"'Trick or Treat', it's all rock and roll," added Drake Anderson.

"'First Blood' — I'd like to get tough like Rambo," stated Mike Christley.

Shipwrecked

"Two thousand doctors were polled to see what pain-reliever they would choose if stranded on an island, and nine out of ten doctors chose Bayer as their preferred pain-reliever," read the television commercial for Bayer Aspirin. If stranded on an island, what would you do?

"I'd look for doctors to find out how many of them prefer Bayer over regular aspirin," said Chris Brown.

"Take a vacation for a while. Then I'd build a boat or throw coconuts in the air so people could see me," added Heather Lange.

"Take up sand castle building," said Lee Thomason.

"I'd eventually try to get help but I'd wait till I had a savage tan," replied Amy Salmons.

"We'd send a message in a bottle, and then, meanwhile, listen to Bob Marley and play with coconuts," said Jen Younger and Elee Beaver.

"I'd learn to swim real quick!" replied Jennifer Hale.

"Praise God," added

Juliana Hauer

"I'd strive for a savage tan," said Jennifer Pack.

Leigh Bain.

"I'd chill with the natives," commented Eddie Dooley.

"Shun the structures of society and go nude for the rest of my life," said Adam Sweet.

"Learn to communicate — it's easier without interruption," commented Gerlinda Grimes.

"I'd strive for the savage tan," said Jennifer Pack.

"I'd ask for Bayer," replied Shannon Agee.

"If I was stranded on a deserted island I'd panic," said Kris Bowling.

Mitzi Griffith stated, "I'd try to find a way to get off."

"I'd bury myself in the sand naked," added Jeff Blackwell.

Opposition

Running for state senate, Jim Young criticizes incumbent Steve Agee's lack of support for a new toxic waste program. The two candidates attacked each others policies while students watched the debate.
